

GLADSTONIANS ARE BEAMING.

They are Complacent in the Belief That the Battle is Practically Over.

SOME HAVE VIEWS ON THE SITUATION.

The Fight a Culmination of Long-Growing Disaffection—Removal of the Scene of Action to Ireland.

Copyright, 1890 by James Gordon Bennett. LONDON, Dec. 7.—[New York Herald Cable-Special to THE BEE.]—I have today conversed with several of my parliamentary colleagues among the Irish party in both camps. Their views help much to explain the present situation. A close friend of Parnell's said:

"All this has been coming on for some time. Parnell is not really popular in the party, though we tried to keep up appearances. You must have noticed how overbearing he was in his manners. Then he opposed the plan of campaign and sneered at Dillon and O'Brien. The divorce court was only the spark that touched the train already laid."

"What do you propose to do?" "Go on as if nothing had happened. Parnell will take the lead in the house of commons and others will be bound to follow him. He will manage so that they cannot disobey him without ruining themselves. They have lost their ablest debaters. I admit one of our strongest men in that line is John Redmond, but if Parnell takes one view, or Sexton or Healy goes to jump in the house and say, 'You are not the leader!' and the Irish people everywhere will see that in resisting Gladstone's dictation Parnell was loyal to the country."

"You think that the O'Shea business had nothing much to do with these events?" "Except to precipitate the inevitable crisis. Look at what Justin McCarthy said at Dublin after the trial. He ridiculed the divorce proceedings. If, he said, Parnell had gone morally wrong, was that the least reason to excuse him from doing his duty to the people whom he was leading to victory? They all know that they could not do without him. Their duty was first, secondly and lastly to raise their country." He added, "There might be some who would fall away from Parnell, but there would not be one honest man among them."

I wonder what he thinks of that now? "It is true that Parnell struck McCarthy's hand starkly. There is no word of trust in it. He merely snatched the paper. Of course everybody was very excited and we had not got our house-of-commons etiquette with us."

"Why is McCarthy so bitter?" "Because he's entirely under the thumb of old Gladstone. The old man will play them a pretty trick yet. Healy is savage at the O'Shea business. He does not like MacLennan calling him a swine." My friend laughed and shrugged his shoulders.

The anti-Parnellites do not seem disposed to talk much, but one or two of my personal friends have unhesitatingly said, though I am forbidden to give names. A secret friend of Parnell lingers with them still. "What can he do?" one of them asked me. "He overrules his popularity in Ireland. Dillon and O'Brien are just as popular. If they were free to come back we should swap locks. Do you think Balfour would let them?"

"How could he?" I replied. "Is not the law and he is bound to see the sentence carried out?" "Well, it would be a good stroke of folly on his part to cancel the sentence. But see Parnell's position. He does not like MacLennan against him and all the best men of his old party. Look at the set he has got around him—Blaine, Byrne, Mahoney, Corbett—men without any parliamentary standing or ability. Parnell himself will not work hard any more. He seldom came near us except to snub and insult us, or else he would cooly get up in the house and repudiate all Dillon or Sexton had been saying and bring for weeks before us. We shall get on better without him now."

"I doubt whether you will be able to get rid of him so easy as you imagine." "We mean to do it and it will take a good deal to beat us. I admit that he fights like a tiger; I admire him for that."

English Gladstonians are beaming today, thinking the battle practically over. Conservatism are not sure how matters will end, but believe that whatever happens, their party will get the oyster and the other side the shells. Both sections of the Irish intend to make a bee line for home early this week, Ireland being now the seat of war.

A MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT.

The Whole Family Murdered.

WICHITA, Kan., Dec. 7.—In a ravine in the hills of Greenwood county a party of hunters discovered yesterday the bodies of an unknown man, woman and child. On the forehead of the man was an ugly bruise, beneath which the skull was found to be crushed. The bodies were poorly clad. In the pockets of the dead man was found two letters. One was from Palmer, Ill., addressed to Thomas Potter, Englewood, Kan., and the second from some one in Englewood signing the name "Abe" and in all directions, the movers encountered some of the horse thieves who make their home in these regions and that in resisting attempt to steal his wagon the husband received his death blow.

The New Carriage Trust.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 7.—The wagon and carriage wood stock manufacturers have completed their organization, which they named "the wagon and carriage wood stock manufacturers' association." The following officers were elected: President, J. H. Smith, Muncie; secretary and treasurer, B. F. Von Behren, Evansville. It was agreed to raise prices to 10 per cent. The new scale of prices will go into effect January 1, 1891. The association will meet in this city again January 8.

Shot the Assassin.

CITY OF MEXICO (via Galveston), Dec. 7.—An attempt has just been made to assassinate Colonel Carrasosa, governor of the state of Chiapas in San Cristobal. The governor, instead of being killed himself, shot the would-be assassin.

Health authorities at Vera Cruz will give out very few reports to the press about yellow fever in that city. However, popular rumor has it the disease is epidemic there.

Suicided Wife a Shot Gun.

FAYETTE, Mo., Dec. 7.—Early last spring a stranger applied at the farm of Mrs. Elizabeth Fulton, six miles east of Fayette, and was

THE STOCKYARDS QUESTION.

It is Still as Complicated as When First Spoken Of.

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—No definite decision has been reached in regard to the stockyards question, though several significant meetings of the parties interested have been held. Some time ago the representatives of the group of packers known as the "big four," announced with great emphasis that they had purchased a site at Tolleston and were prepared to move their interests to that point. It is now rumored that the stockyards company is making a desperate effort to keep them where they are. The statement is made that the stockyards management has offered to purchase the "big four" yards, but that the packers have refused the offer. Another conference between representatives of the "big four" and the smaller packing firms has also been held. It is believed that the question of removal of the packing interests from Paokington was first raised. The meeting of the representatives of the "big four" and the Stockyards enterprise has brought the movements of the company before the people. The question discussed at this meeting was the possibility of the purchase of the yards of the 500 acre tract in the center of the Stockyard transfer yard. A great many outsiders are still skeptical about the Stockyard enterprise, but believe that the transfer yard will be a success.

INGALLS MEN ARE HOPEFUL.

They Claim a Majority of the Votes in the Kansas Legislature.

TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 7.—The republicans have revealed their figures in the coming fight for United States senator. The legislative stands, according to corrected returns: republicans, twenty-eight; democrats, two; unionists, eight; alliance men, nine; democrats, twenty-seven republicans. The republicans claim that but fifty-eight alliance members are instructed. Of the un-instructed eighteen have agreed to accept as their instructions the petitions of a respectable number of their constituents.

His Ways Were Sweet.

A Philadelphia Drummer Takes a New York Man's Wife.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Harvey Brown of Philadelphia, accompanied by a woman whom he introduced as his wife, came up to Clarkestown, in this county, yesterday, and stopped for two or three days at the house of an acquaintance in the upper part of the town. Later in the day another man appeared in the town to try to get the woman.

Miss Tovell's Injuries Fatal.

Death of the St. Louis School Teacher Who Was Crushed on a Wheel.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 7.—Miss Augusta Tovell, the young normal school teacher who was so brutally dragged last Tuesday, died in the city hospital today, never having recovered consciousness from the day of the terrible affair. It will be remembered that Miss Tovell while out for a walk on the boulevard was knocked down by a horse driven by two workmen, who, as they were passing her, lashed the great animal into a gallop. The unfortunate woman's clothes became entangled in the wheels, and she was dragged ten blocks by the floods, who apparently did not seem to know of the victim till she was broken up.

Marital Misery.

A Brooklyn Pastor's Wife Suing for a Divorce.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—The divorce suit of Mrs. Maria C. Maguire against Rev. H. M. Maguire of the Episcopal church of Our Savior, on Clinton and Luquer streets, Brooklyn, was before Judge Van Wyck of the city court yesterday, on a motion for alimony and counsel fee. Mrs. Maria C. Maguire says that while her husband was pastor of a church at Wakefield, Canada, he beat her. He also ill-treated her, she says, at his wife's home in 1882, and on October 15 last, at 82 Woodland street, Brooklyn, when he threw her across the room and threatened to put her in an asylum for the insane, telling her that if she did not leave him she would be put in a hospital. Her lawyer asserted that the defendant received $1,500 a year, owned real estate and had a bank account.

For Regulation of Hypnotic Sciences.

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—The meeting last night of the Medical-Legal Society, composed of the leading physicians and medical professors of the Chicago colleges, a resolution was adopted declaring that public sciences of hypnotism, mesmerism and magnetism should be prohibited by law under serious penalty, and that the employment of hypnotism for medical purposes should be confined solely to duly qualified medical men, conditioned upon its being practiced only in the presence of other medical men or unobscured friends of the patient operated upon. Mrs. M. H. Lackerstedt, Archibald Church and J. C. Henry were appointed to present this resolution to the legislature of Illinois.

The Weather Forecast.

For Omaha and vicinity—Fair; stationary, followed by rising temperature. For Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota—Fair; warmer, southerly winds.

A Rich Haul.

LONDON, Dec. 7.—A parcel containing 75,000 francs from an English bank has been stolen between Ostend and Antwerp on its way to Amsterdam.

IT FITS THE BOURBON FOOT.

Desperate Objection to the Elections Bill from the Democratic Side.

Senator Moody Thinks the Farmers are Republican if Intelligent—Hopeful Views—Senator Casey After Information.

TO PINE RIDGE.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

WASHINGTON HERALD THE OMAHA BEE, 515 FOURTEENTH STREET, WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 7. There will be desperation in the final struggle to defeat the adoption of the election bill in the senate, and after it has been passed by that body the death-struggle will be carried over to the house. It is improbable that, since the reconstruction, such a desperate opposition has been offered to any measure as the one now before the senate. After every offensive epithet has been put forward against the measure, threats have been made and may be carried out if the bill is forced to a final vote. There are democratic senators who have threatened to "bring the neck of the presiding officer who attempts to unceremoniously cut off debate and force a final vote." There is to be bulldozing to defeat the bill. If the majority for the measure was as narrow in the house, where the hottest heads are, the scene which would be presented at the closing moments would be a fearful one. It is a remarkable fact that while the democrats in all legislative bodies cannot defeat by reason and majority of votes, they invariably attempt to defeat by brute force and intimidation. Since the enforcement and maintenance of the constitution by any section of the country, simply upon application, and its force can be as easily used to protect democratic as well as republican interests, it is not surprising that almost all of the opposition comes from the solid Bourbon districts, and all from their influence. The shoe appears only to it the democrats, who are in a position to be found who attempt to deny that on its face it is non-partisan.

Why a Boston Official Paid a Check for $60,000 in Silver.

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 7.—Boston bankers are laughing over the way in which the Shrewsbury bank this week withdrew a New York institution in a transaction involving $60,000. A check for this amount had been given the New York Central railroad by the Boston & Albany to settle a balance due the former. The Central deposited it in the Chemical bank in New York. Ordinarily it would have been settled through the clearing house, but some smart official thought he would get the $60,000 in silver bills. Therefore it was given to an express company to collect and bring to the metropolis. It was first presented at the Shrewsbury bank, but refused on the ground that the cashier had called the cashier's attention to it. The latter divided the New Yorker's name, and quick as a flash the silver bills were sent as he sent. To the surprise of the express-man, then, instead of neat packages of bills he was offered sixty canvas bags each containing $1,000 in silver. He had to accept them. So with the help of an extra team he carried the specie, amounting to nearly two tons (3,600 pounds), to exact to the express company. The express man never ever paid out by the sub-treasurer at Boston.

Manufacturers and Farmers Akin.

It appears to be a perfect rush to the millinery to get the tariff bill. It is a remarkable fact that while the democrats in all legislative bodies cannot defeat by reason and majority of votes, they invariably attempt to defeat by brute force and intimidation. Since the enforcement and maintenance of the constitution by any section of the country, simply upon application, and its force can be as easily used to protect democratic as well as republican interests, it is not surprising that almost all of the opposition comes from the solid Bourbon districts, and all from their influence. The shoe appears only to it the democrats, who are in a position to be found who attempt to deny that on its face it is non-partisan.

Miles Dislikes the System.

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—General Miles said today: "Generals Huger and Crook have to do all they can to put the small number of available troops in a position to be useful and so far as possible staying the threatened cyclone, yet the end of the Indian troubles is by no means immediately at hand. No other civilized country on the face of the earth would tolerate many thousands of armed savages scattered through different states of the Union. It is a disgrace to the honor of Kansas, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Montana, Wyoming, Utah, eastern Washington, Idaho, Arizona and New Mexico in the eyes of the world that the Indian fire will be still smoldering and liable to break out at other places where least expected under the present system."

Herr Moffat.

Strange Career of the Conjuror Who Died in Idaho, Monday.

MILAN, Dec. 7.—A telegram this morning announced the death of Herr Moffat, the celebrated second-sight reader and conjuror, at Bozeman, Idaho, in the net of swallowing a sword, which severed his jugular vein, and the conjuror died to death in a few minutes. Herr Moffat, or Francis Morell, was a resident of this city, and here his wonderful feats were witnessed by thousands of people and led him before the crowded halls of Europe and Asia, was developed. He was a very peculiar boy in youth, and was considered a crank. He lived alone with his widowed mother, supporting her by working in a stove factory here. His spare moments he spent in the study of magic, and the attic of his humble little home was transformed into a conjuror's shop. When he was seven years old, one day he suddenly burst into an uncontrollable fit of laughter. His mother asked him what pleased him so much. The boy replied that he saw his father (who was then living, but not at home) running rapidly down the mountain side trying to overtake a jug of whisky which he had let fall. The jug rolled part of the way down the declivity and was caught by the old man before it got to the bottom. When the father reached home he confirmed the whole story to the great surprise of all. After this the boy's great much talk in the neighborhood in which he lived. About two years later the Morells were visited by a friend named Robert. With other relatives or acquaintances, with other relatives or acquaintances, he was introduced to the conjuror, who came to test the lad's miraculous power, asked him various questions and finally told him that he was what was then going on at his (Vinton's) home in Philadelphia. The boy described the house, which he had never seen, and that it was built partly of brick and partly of stone; that there was a lake in front of the house, which had recently been visited by a severe rain; the description of the people in the house, and of two persons, a man and a woman, who were sitting on the porch. Vinton reached his home in Philadelphia he inquired who had been at his home at the day and hour he had held the conversation with young Morell. He learned that the persons who were on the porch at the time and that the people who were fishing in the lake had run to the house to escape the rain. The persons who were on the porch at the time and that the people who were fishing in the lake had run to the house to escape the rain. The persons who were on the porch at the time and that the people who were fishing in the lake had run to the house to escape the rain.

Representative Gear and Senators Allison and Brewster.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Representative Gear and Senators Allison and Brewster were today in the city. Gear was in the city to see the bill introduced yesterday by the former giving $10,000 a year salary to the widow of the late Associate Justice Miller.

Public Buildings.

The house committee on rules has not yet filed a programme for the consideration of public building bills, which there are several. The bills are as follows: Beatrice, Neb.; Sioux Falls, S. D.; Fort Dodge, Ia., and Sioux City. It is believed they will all be passed shortly after the holidays.

Dauphin's Resurgence.

A story is published in a local newspaper to the effect that it was Dauphin of the late war, who was seen at the headquarters of General Wainmaker in the money market recently. It was said to be a story of a man who had been seen at the headquarters of General Wainmaker in the money market recently. It was said to be a story of a man who had been seen at the headquarters of General Wainmaker in the money market recently. It was said to be a story of a man who had been seen at the headquarters of General Wainmaker in the money market recently.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9. General Carr, who was stationed in this country when the Indian outbreak broke out, will not doubt be remembered by a majority of the older inhabitants. It is expected that the general will have to go into a winter campaign against the Indians. His command is expected to be made up of about 400 soldiers and 500 horses, passed through here today in three heavily loaded trains. The general is expected to arrive at Fort Meade, S. D., on Tuesday morning, December 9.

General Carr and His Command En Route to the Scene of Trouble.

General Carr and his command are en route to the scene of trouble. The