AMBITION'S ITCH FOR POWER.

The Santee Normal Training School's Nice Little Warfare.

YEARS OF SMOULDERING COALS KINDLED.

Dr. A. L. Riggs, Principal, and J. H. Steer, Treasurer, Called to New York to Explain—Methods of the Institution.

NIOBRARA, Neb., Dec. 9.—[Special to THE BEE.]—Rev. Alfred L. Riggs, D. D., founder of the Santee normal training school for the education of Indians, located at Santee agency, this county, and Joseph H. Steer, treasurer, have been called to New York to adjust some differences of opinion as to the management of that institution. The school, one of the largest of the kind it the United States, and in results surpassing all others, is fostered by the American Missionary association.

From an infant institution established in 1871 it has grown to be one of great proportions and has increased expenses in comparison to its growth. Most of the buildings have been erected from money donated by wealthy philanthropists in the east expressly for the purpose, and then made the property of the American Missionary association without drawing upon the general fund of that board. As a rule Dr. Riggs has figured to get as much house for the money he could and built as far as immediate funds would warrant, depending on future appropriations to complete the upper stories and inside work. By this method he has built at Santee agency buildings aggregating $60,000, all of which have been thoroughly and economically completed.

The differences arising between Dr. Riggs and Mr. Steer are due to the former's apparent right to execute and the latter's obligation to pay. The matter of funds is in the hands of Mr. Steer, as treasurer, with instructions to use all dilligence and economy in their expenditure. The executive office is under the control of Dr. Riggs and a private secretary. All the clerical work and management of the institution have been under the eye of the principal, the growth of the institution has been due to his untiring energy and farseeing sagacity, and being the recognized power he has held his ground as master.

During the past summer Dr. Riggs made a requisitive for funds with which to complete the inside work of one of the new buildings, and, if any money was left, to use it for other needed work for the mission, which he did not like to ask for separately. Mr. Steer went around quietly and secured figures for the completion of this building, unmindful of the other work planned by Dr. Riggs, and underbid the doctor's estimate several hundred dollars. With this array of facts he at once reported them to the missionary association and was allowed to take the matter from the doctor's control, saving quite a sum out of the appropriation and allowing the other improvements to go undone.

Out of this "hole in the wall" came a demand, through the association in New York, for Dr. Riggs to turn over all books and papers of his executive office to Mr. Steer. This Dr. Riggs point blank refused to do and held the fort until the home office has seen fit to bring the two factors in person before them for full explanations from each other's standpoint.

THE BEE correspondent was waited on late in the autumn by a Boston delegate to the annual meeting of the American Missionary association prior to its convening at Minneapolis, and in conversation on this point of authority at the normal school, the delegate was surprised and remarked, "Why, we don't know Mr. Steer in this institution—Dr. Riggs is the head and is recognized as such. Without him the normal school at Santee would be like a ship without a rudder. There may be some few technical irregularities as to the disposition of funds, but from what I can learn they are for the good of the institution's success and not used for Dr. Rigg's private ends."

The Santee normal school was first under the control of the American board of foreign missions, but in 1883 was transferred to the present management, as was the case with all home missions of a foreign nature. Mr. Steer first came to Santee agency in 1869 as blacksmith under the dispensation of the Friends, which position he held until the administration of Isaiah Lightner, now of Genoa, this state, as agent, when he was promoted to the superintendency. His wife was matron of the government school at the same time, and a controversy between the agent and matron took place in 1882 that resulted in the discharge of both and an order to leave the agency. Mrs. Steer was formerly a lady missionary at the normal school and Dr. Riggs gave them shelter as against the agent's irate mandate. This resulted in employment for Mr. Steer, and in the transfer from one missionary association to the other in 1883 Dr. Riggs' affairs were turned over to Mr. Steer.

THE BEE correspondent was told by the highest authority that during this dark hour the temporary power, pending Dr. Riggs' exhonoration and return to the head of his pet institution, was used for all it was worth, yet the forgiving nature of "bearing and forebearing" was allowed to reach higher than the petty triumph of ambition's smouldering itching for power.

The outcome is looked forward to with much interest by all interested parties.

Count Herbert Denounces Newspapers.

BERLIN, Dec. 9.—[Special Cablegram to THE BEE.]—In an interview Count Herbert Bismarck, who has just returned to Berlin from London and Paris, denounced the obstinacy of those newspapers which persist in seeking to discover the political object in his trip, which, he declared, was taken solely for pleasure. He spoke enthusiastically of the promenades, theaters and stores of Paris.

A Phat That Wasn't Shaken Out.

In THE BEE news room last night, just before "time" was called, a pleasant little episode occurred. Mr. J. Polian, chairman of the chapel, recently married, was presented with a bank book calling for a snug sum which had quietly and generously been contributed to by his fraternals. The address was made by G. L. Judson in a feeling and eloquent manner and the recipient looked the gratitude his tongue could not express.

GOULD CAUGHT AT LAST.

A Smooth Young Man Serves a Summons on the Wizard.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—[Special Telegram to to THE BEE.]—Jay Gould went to bed last night in an unhappy frame of mind. The sanctity of his home had been invaded, the conference with the other magnates of the "street" had been interfered with and he had been served with papers in a damage suit, the service of which he had long avoided. Process serving is ordinarily an easy thing for a lawyer's clerk. The men who are to be served anticipate the service and are ready for it. Sometimes, however, they do not desire to receive the papers and then expert service is called in. Among those who have a reputation for this sort of work is J. Frank Anborn, a young man whose rosy cheeks and juvenile air fit him for his unusual calling. He is of a size, shape and appearance to don almost any disguise effectively, and he has the courage necessary to perform his duties. Being denied admittance to the Gould residence, he bribed a messenger to loan him his coat and hat. Thus arrayed he appeared again, but without success. He then attired himself in other clothes and entered the palatial home of the wizard, and in the disguise of a messenger from the elevated railway company's office obtained an audience with Gould. When the process server entered the house he was ushered to a back parlor, where he was met by Jay Gould and his son George. The latter assumed a rather belligerent attitude and seemed to be about to resent the intrusion, but Mr. Gould interfered and said:

"My boy, what can I do for you?"

Mr. Gould was answered: "I have a paper here I wish you would read."

Mr. Anborn then handed him a letter and also a summons in the damage suit. Mr. Gould was caught and caged, and after receiving a lecture from the wizard the unterrified messenger retired, having fulfilled his mission.

"Out of the nettle danger, we pluck this flower safety." How, if you please?" "Why, we took a dose of Dr. Bull's cough syrup."

If you go out early in the morning, you may catch rheumatism; therefore keep Salvation oil in the house. It is a sure remedy.

MURDERED AT SEA.

A Young Scotch Captain Killed on His Wedding Anniversary.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—The four-masted steel British ship Buckingham came into port yesterday with one of her heterogeneous crew of black barbarians from Mauritius, named Grose, tied to a stanchion on the main deck forward, with his face turned to the northerly, snow-laden blast, and a stocky savage of a Lascar, Chugwan Abaas, manacled in the iron deck house. The ensign of the stately ship was at half-mast for her dead commander, Captain Peter Lyall, a young Scotchman, whose body lies many fathoms deep off the bleak and rugged Shetland islands. The Lascar murdered him on October 11, the first anniversary of the captain's marriage in Brooklyn to a comely young Scotch woman, who began the voyage to Calcutta with him in their honeymoon and came back on the ship a widow.

Two members of the produce exchange, Captain Lawrence Garrick and John N. Burr, friends of the couple, went down the bay on the tug Mutual, in the snow storm to meet the great ship, prepared to congratulate the happiest pair of voyagers that ever crossed a wintry sea. The ensign at half-mast gave them warning, and Mrs. Lyall, who was standing in the cabin door, greeted them with tears. They shortly learned of the brutal murder of the captain and his subsequent burial in the ocean off the Shetland islands.

Died in the Pulpit.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Dec. 9.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—While preaching to a large congregation at the East Millstone Reformed church, Sunday night, the pastor, Rev. D. R. Strong, said: "A man might fall as easy as a star from heaven." The next instant his face turned ashy pale, he clutched wildly at the pulpit for support, and then dropped on the floor in a fit of apoplexy. The horrified congregation was spell-bound for a moment, then the cooler ones rushed to the prostrate pastor and raised him from the floor. He was taken home and died yesterday morning. He was sixty years of age.

COLD-WAVE SIGNALS.

How They are Hereafter to be Regulated in this Country.

With a view to lessening the number of "cold-wave" warnings and confining them to the more pronounced cases, thus giving the displays of signals greater prominence, General A. W. Greely, chief of the weather bureau, has issued a bulletin of instructions outlining the plan to be pursued in the future in issuing warnings of the approach of cold-waves and in issuing forecasts of anticipated sharp falls in temperature, which may not be of sufficient severity to warrant the display of the "cold-wave signal."

The plan, as given, is as follows: "Warnings of cold waves and other temperature falls are issued from the signal office at Washington when it is expected that they will be so sudden and sharp as to materially interfere with the comfort of the community or cause damage to material interests. A cold wave, in general terms, is defined to be a fall in temperature, over an extensive area, of 20° in twenty-four, or 28° in forty-eight hours, and to the freezing point or below. Warnings of cold waves are issued when it is expected that the area affected will exceed 100,000 square miles in extent, and in well-defined cases for a lesser area. In the past ten years there have been 621 instances in which temperature falls of 20° in 24 hours have occurred over areas exceeding 50,000 square miles in extent, and 150 cases in which the area was between 50,000 and 100,000 square miles. The areas of temperature falls of 20° or over are often of very great extent, sometimes exceeding 1,000,000 square miles. The average extent of these areas, including all above 50,000 square miles in extent, is 287,000 square miles. The average are of 20° falls, including only such cold waves as exceed 100,000 squre miles in extent, is 355,000 square miles.

"When the temperature is 32° or lower, falls of 14°, 12°, or even 10° are sometimes highly important. When temperature falls of this kind are expected a forecast will be made giving the anticipated minimum temperatures, and the places where expected.

"From October 1 to April 1, if a fall of 20° or more is expected, and the minimum temperature or extent of territory covered by the fall will hardly be such as to justify a display of cold-wave signals, a warning, setting forth the anticipated fall of temperature and the localities, will be inserted in the regular forecasts, and sent by special message to the signal service stations therein specified.

"In the state of Florida, and in a strip of country 100 miles wide from the gulf coast, in the states of Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas, and along the Pacific coast, sudden changes of temperature will be announced in the general forecasts, and cold-wave warnings will be replaced by frost warnings, and the flag (white with a black square in the center) will be known as the frost warning flag, and will be displayed whenever it is anticipated a damaging frost will occur. By a damaging frost is meant one that would be injurious to the principal crops or other material interests in the vicinity where the flag is displayed. This will vary in different sections. The same degree of cold, for instance, which might be disastrous to tobacco in Kentucky might cause no damage whatever to growing crops in another section.

At signal service stations outside of what is designated as the frost warning district (Florida, the gulf coast, and the Pacific coast) the cold wave flag will be displayed as frost warning flag in the early autumn and late spring when the occurrence of a damaging frost is anticipated."

The correctness of the maxim "nothing succeeds like success" is well exemplified in Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The most successful combination of alteratives and tonics, it always succeeds in curing diseases of the blood, and hence its wonderful popularity.

VAGRANT CHILDREN.

Colonel Hogeland's Efforts to Care For and Reform Them.

Twenty-two ladies and gentlemen met with Colonel Hogeland Monday night in the parlors of the Y. M. C. A. building to talk over plans for active and practical work in behalf of the vagrant boys and girls of Omaha.

The colonel addressed the gathering at some length, explaining the object of the meeting and relating his experience in eastern cities in the work of securing homes for unfortunate children.

It was decided to organize a branch of the state association at once in Douglas county, and the election of officers proceeded.

Mr. W. M. Lorimer was elected president and Rev. Mr. Lipe recording secretary. Mrs. Hodges was elected corresponding secretary, and Rev. Mr. Savidge chosen treasurer. The five vice-presidents elected were Dr. Leisenring, L. A. Harmon, M. M. Marshall, M. G. Thompson and A. P. Hopkins.

A committee of three, consisting of Mr. Lorimer, Rev. Mr. Lipe and Rev. Savidge, was appointed to map out immediate plans of action and report at a meeting to be held next Monday evening at the same place.

A state organization has been effected with headquarters at Lincoln as a branch of the National boys' and girls' home at Washington, and the organization completed last night is intended to co-operate with other county organizations in securing the passage of laws for the protection and assistance of vagrant boys and girls and to look after these unfortunates in Omaha.

Disappeared.

G. T. Clark, an employe in the sheet iron department at the Union Pacific shops, has mysteriously disappeared.

He heard a rumor about the shops last Friday afternoon to the effect that he was to be discharged Saturday night, and at once went up town to drown his sorrows in the flowing bowl. He went to a bank where he had several hundred dollars on deposit and drew out the entire amount. With this he started out to discolor the town, and his friends have not seen anything of him since. The rumor about his discharge proved unfounded.
