THE CITY.

The next term of the county court will begin January 6. The docket was completed yesterday and shows 193 mases for trial.

The temperature yesterday as re ported by the local signal service office was as follows: At 7 a. m., 32°, at 10 s m., 36°, and at 1 p. m., 39°.

The choral society of the First M. E. church will meet Friday night in the Young Men's Christian association rooms instead of at the church as usual.

The children of the Druid Hill Sunday school will indulge in the luxury of a Christmas tree tonight. The festivities will be held at the residence of W. H. Carter, on Spaulding street.

J. E. Cramer, chief clerk of the railway mail service, started on an inspec-tion trip yesterday. He will go over the Union Pacific as far as Grand Island and examine several clerks on the route.

The members of the board of education will meet in special session at 3 o'clock this afternoon to decide whether or not $15,000 of school money shall be transferred from the general to the Paul school site fund.

Attorney Silas Cobb mourns the loss of a new overcoat which he threw across a chair while he took a hand in the examination of witnesses in the guberna-torial contest. He has offered a reward for the return of the garment.

The Y. M. C. A. football team and a team composed of Omaha college boys home on a vacation will play a match at the ball park Thursday morning. The same teams had a skirmish Christmas morning in which the college boys were victorious and the Y. M. C. A. team is thirsting for revenge.

Again the Salvation army has declared war against persons who insist on con-ducting themselves in a disorderly man-ner at their meetings. Captain Hansen of the Danish Post today swore out a warrant for John Christainson, who, he snys, disturbed their meeting at No. 2116 Cuming street Monday night.

The regular quarterly examination of applicants for certificates to teach in the city schools was commenced at the high school yesterday. About twenty-five applicants were on hand to wrestle with the questions presented by the board of examiners. Some of the applicants were high school graduates and others were from the country districts, while a few were from other states. The examination will probably continue through the week.

To Advertisers.

THE BRE'S annual review will be published Thursday morning. Those who wish to advertise in the edition should deliver their copy at THE BEE office before this (Wednesday) noon.

Colds are frequently the result of derange-ment of the stomach and of a low condition of the system generally. As a corrective and strengthening of the alimentary organs, Ayer's pills are invaluable, their use being always attended with marked benefit.

The Gordon Inquest.

An inquest was held yesterday over the remains of John Gordon, the old man who died suddenly in the street Sunday. The only witness examined was Dr. Coulter, who tes-tified that he made a post-mortem examina-tion and found that death resulted from heart failure. A verilict was returned in ac-cordance with these facts. The body re-mains at Heafey & Heafey's awaiting in-structions from friends in Deadwood.

Change Cars? No.

Among the many exigencies of modern travel there is one requirement which is always popular and always in demand, and that is "a through service." Life Life is too short to "change cars" every few hundred miles, and the travelling pubhus have very properly rebelled against all such old-fashioned railroading. The through equipment of the Union Pacific, "the original overland route," provides for a through car service for all points west from the Missouri river.

The Winter of Our Content is the title of a recent charming paper by that brillant writer Charles Dudley Warner, wherein the glories of the Pacific coast, as a winter resort, are most graphically described. The Amer-ican people are beginning to understand that the Puget Sound country is one of our most splendid possessions and that the name of the "Mediterranean of the Pacific" is a happy title not misapplied. In speaking of Mount Tacoma, Senator George F. Edmunds says: "I would be willing to go 500 miles again to see that scene. The continent is yet in ignorance of what will be one of the grandest show places as well is the title of a recent charming paper of the grandest show places as well as sanitariums. If Switzerland is rightly called the playground of Europe, I am satisfied that around the base of Mount Rainier will become a prominent place of resort, not for America only, but for the world be-sides, with thousands of sites for build-ing purposes, that are nowhere excelled for the grandeur of the view that can be obtained from them, with topographical features that would make the most perfect system of drainage both possible and easy, and with a most agreeable and health giving climate."

Thousands of delighted tourists over the Union Pacific the past year bear ample testimony to the beauty and majesty of this new empire of the Pacific northwest.

"Nothing speaks like success' is an old saw," says Loander Richardson, the well known writer, "and is clearly demonstrated by the phenomenal success of the De Wolf Hopper opera bouffo company in 'Castles in the Air." This organization, which is a little over one year old, has in the short period of its existence arrived at the distinction of having played over one hundred nights at the Broadway theater in Now York, and packed the largest theaters in Boston, Philadelphia, Washington and Baltimore on its present tour. It usually takes considerable time and patience to get an opera company into first class working order, but the material of which this concern is composed is of such a high grade that it has already attained a degree of finish and excellence rare."
Mr. Hopper and his merry band of fungakers and vocalists and Byrne & Kerker's parkling comic opera, 'Castles in the Air,'' together with its wealth of superb costumes, elaborate scenery, magnificent and large and discrete present.

Captain William Mills Dies in Camp at Pine Ridge.

The unpleasant news received Monday from Pine Ridge was intensified yesterday with the inteiligence that will cause a great deal of sorrow at the firesides in the military homes at Fort Omaha. It was the announcement of the death of Captain William Mills, Company C, Second infantry, located in this city.

The news was telegraphed by Lieutenant Rowell, who, it is supposed, was acting regi-mental adjutant, during the prob-able incapacity of Licutenant Kin-zie, who, it has been announced, was wounded Monday in the fight with Big Foot's gang on Porcupine Creek. The intelligence occasioned a shock at Fort Omaha, and especially in the home of the de-ceased whore a widow and two children in.

Captain Mills was a brave and capable offi-cer and he looked the soldier as well as he knew how to act as one. He was of a geniul companionable disposition, readily adapted himself to every circumstance and made friends in civil as well as in military life. Of all the gallant officers and men who formed the first detachment of the Second infantry, which was called into the field on that night early in November, Captain Mills looked least like the one who was first to die. Although he had complained shortly before of a slight indisposition, he was the picture of health and his martial bearing at the bead of the column was one of the bicturesque features of that march to the bearing at the head of the column was one of the picturesque features of that march to the train. Death resulted from rheumatism of the heart which was doubtless occa-sioned by exposure. Captain Mills had shortly before his departure for the field been summoned before the examining board at Leavenworth for promotion to which he was entitled by long and arduous service. Captain Mills was born in Michigan, Sep-tember 19, 1836. He was appointed from the army and served successively as private, ser-geant and first sergeant of company C, Fifth infantry from October 28, 1858, to February 23, 1863; he was acting second lieutenant Fifth infantry from October 28, 1858, to February 23, 1863; he was acting second lieutenant Fifth infantry from January 6, 1862 to February 23, 1863; also second lieutenant Sixteenth infan-try and was promoted to the office of captain February 13, 1866. On April 17, 1869, he was transferred to the Second infantry. On account of his gallant and meritorous services during the Atlanta campaign and in the battle at Jonesboro, Ga., he was breveted captain September 1, 1864. During the civil war, he held staff positions as follows: Ald-de-camp of volunteers from October 12, 1865 to February 13, 1866, was regimental quarter-master of the sixteenth infantry. It is not known where he will be buried.
