Got a Suit Cheap.

A trunk was stolen out of William Lewis stable last Friday night. It belonged to W-H. Senate, the head cook at the Ogden house. Senate had given up his job and was about to leave for the new Hotel Dellone in Omaha. He had put his trunk in charge of Lewis to be taken to the depot, and he, in accordance with his usual custom, had put it in his barn until morning. At about 10 o'clock, during the absence of the stable hands, some one broke into the office, leaded the trunk upon a wheelbarrow that was standing near and took it away. Yesterday morning the wheelbarrow was tracked by Officer Beswick to a vacant lot near the canning factory, and there the trunk was found lying on the ground with the con tents scattered about in all directions. Senate was notified of the finding of his trunk, and after an examination stated that a suit of clothes and a few small articles, in all worth about $15, were all that were missing.

An Old Case Revived.

Judge Thornell has before him a case which is exciting considerable interest, especially among the people residing in the country near Walnut, inasmuch as the decision which will be made may change the ownership of a quarter section of fine farming land near that village. In 1882 Andrew Martin, a man livng near Rock Island, Ill., borrowed $6,000 of George H. Maish, and gave him to secure the payment thereof, a mortgage on the farm on which he lived. The farm was not worth nearly that much, but in order to come out even he paid three appraisers $50 apiece to estimate it far above its true value He then purchased the Walnut farm before referred to and soon after sold it to a man named Crangle, a resident of Gage county,

About this time the mortgage on Martin's Rock Island farm became due and Maisl foreclosed. It was then that he found out the swindle that had been practiced upon him. He only realized in the neighborhood of $3,300. Finding that Martin had up to short time before been the owner of a near Wainut and that he had sold it to Crangle, as he had himself admitted, for the purpose of defrauding Maish, the latter levied an attachment upon the property to recover the balance of the $6,000. The case was tried before Judge Carson about four and a judgment was rendered in favor of Maish, whereupon Crangle appealed to the supreme court, which affirmed Carson's decision. For the last three years nothing has been done in the case, but now Crangle come: into court again through his attorney, Fre-mont Benjamin, and asks for a new trial, stating that new material evidence has been discovered which will cause some of the most important witnesses for the plaintiff to change their stories. Judge Thornell has the matter under advisement, and it still re-mains to be seen whether Crangle will have

In Fine Quarters. The final finishing touches have been placed upon the new police headquarters, and Chief Carey and his men have the satisfaction of knowing that they have finer apartments in all respects than the police force of any other city in the west can boast of. The arrangement of the rooms is the re sult of good judgment and the furnishing of refined taste. The wall decorations are in keeping with all other features of the apartments, rich, substantial and elegant. Onehalf of the entire floor is devoted to the use of the patrolmen as a muster room and a lounging place when not on duty Each patrolican is provided with a locker for the reception of his private uniform and pri vate belongings, and he carries the only 'key that fits the lock that protects it. It is a large room, well lighted, carpeted and comfortably heated, with plenty of chairs and tables where the men can rest and read and write. Adjoining this large hall is the toilet room, and the remainder of the building is taken up with the offices of the heads of departments, and the chief's private room, where secret conferences can take place without fear of prying eyes or listening ears. The offices of the captains and sergeants and the chief's public apart-ments occupy the front end of the building, the chief having a revolving chair in the cir-cular bay window where he can note all that takes place on several of the busy streets and in the market place if he feels so inclined The sergeants' room is pretty well filled with the electric apparatus and telephones used by the patrolmen in making their hourly reports from all parts of the city. All of these offices are cov-ered with the best quality of body Bryssels carpets, and all the desks, chairs and tables are heavy substantial oak.

The headquarters, taken altogether, are the pride of the members of the lorce, and they feel confident that there are no other police offices in any city within 500 miles of here where greater comfort, elegance and convenience can be found. This is the universal opinion of representatives from other departments who visit the city, and with the personal knowledge that many of the men possess they are satisfied that it is so, and consequently take great pride in shewing visitors through the offices. Outside of the pare walls the city has not

Outside of the pare walls the city has not been asked to contribute a cent toward the expense entailed by the elegant quarters. The details of the affair were not only pleasing to the little ones and the doling parents and relatives who accompanied them as guardians, but were indeed elegant. The menu consisted of several courses, simple foods and fruits, daintily served. The carpets were strewn with all sorts of playthings for the amusement of the guests. One very amusing feature was a fish pond, from which tiny hands drew forth such prizes as doils and trumpets. Miss Keeline was remembered by numerous appropriate gifts and she showed her appreciation of the occasion with due grace for one of her years.

AMERICAN PORK.

A Subject Much Discussed by the French Tariff Committee.

AARIS, Jan. 17 .- American pork has been a subject of much discussion in the tariff committee. It seems to be generally understood that the committee will recommend the abrogation of the decree prohibiting the importation of American pork. If this is adopted American pork will be placed on the sam footing as the product of other countries. In fixing the new duties on pork to be recommended by the committee there was considerable variety of opinion on the part of various members. M. Vigers, reporter of the committee, said today that three members of the committee had advocated making a single tariff rate for all forms of pork of 20 francs per 100 kilograms. This plan, however, did not find favor with the committee. After much deliberation it was decided to make two classes of pork products with different rates for each class. In the first class are placed ham, bacon and salted pork and the duty proposed on these is from 15 to 20 francs per 100 kilograms, according to quality. In the second class are included all form of pork products known as char-cutric fabrevuce and the duty proposed is from 18 to 25 francs per 100 kilograms. M. Claseret, deputy from the department of war, has taken a leading part in the efforts to settle this question. In conversation with the correspondent today M. Cluseret sald: "I have been doing everything in my power to get my colleagues to understand the principle and workings of the new American tariff so far as it affects French interests. have had numerous conversations with my fellow members, in which I have endeavered to explain this matter to them. At the same time I have urged that the decree prohibiting the importation of Ame ican pork ought to be re-scinded. I have sought to convince them of what I consider an undoubted fact, that the proposition was in its origin only a sop to Germany. I think this clear because we never shut out German pork." Mr. Cluseret expressed the opinion that the question would be settled as already outlined. The report submitted by Vigers, he said, presup-posed that the decree against American pork would be abrogated. Manyof his colleagues, he knew, believed that the proposed duties would afford ample protection to French in-

M. Monchicoure, the liquidator of the Panama canal company, in an interview in regard to the proposal that the United States government should guarantee the interest on fore the Nicaragua canal was completed. added: "I am doing everything possible to hand over the affairs to the new company. I once hoped that the United States government would assist in the work of completing the Panama canal. I was instrumental in having the cabinet at Washington and the American legation in this city sounded upon the subject, but I am sorry to say without effect. I proposed that the Panama railroad company, to say without effect. I proposed that the Panama railroad company, practically an American concern, should enlarge its capital stock so as to embrace in its board of directors representatives of the Pana ama canal company. Here again, I am sorry to add, the Panama railroad company's board of directors kindly but positively declined to entertain any of the propositions I made to them. There is no possible doubt that the government of the United States and the gov? ernment of France ought to promptly assu charge of the Panama canal and make secessary arrangements to complete the work. I am certain that if the French government felt that it would not suffer a humiliating rebuff from the government of the United too willing to make propositions to the United States which might lead to a mutual and satisfactory understanding by which the Panama canal can be completed. Americans will readily admit that it is much more practical for the congress of the United States to spend money on a canal which is nearly half completed than to spend money upon a proect which is scarcely started."

The Council's Investigation of the Books of the Plumbing Inspector.

THE SCHOOL BOARD INVESTIGATION.

Arrival of the Remains of the Late Colonel Eddy-Visiting Railway Officials-Clubs Vote to Consolidate.

The council committee consisting of Messrs. Morearty, Donnelly and Tuttle, met yesterday morning to begin the investigation of the management and mismanagement of the business of the plumbing inspector's office, and every assertion made by THE BEE was verified by sworn statements.

The investigation drew Major Dennis, an arm load of books, and half a dozen wit-Clippings from THE BEE were introduced as a base from which to start and the queshaving matters therein set forth explained by the plumbing inspectors.

The major admitted that he was running his office in a rather irregular and unsystematic way, as he sometimes collected fees when plans were submitted and sometimes not until the bailding was completed. The cases previously reported where money was paid for inspection and no entry made of it were taken up one by one, and several of the parties who had paid the money were

The inspector said that he wanted to ex-plain the red ink entries in his book, and did so by stating that after THE BEE opened the way for an investigation he went over his books and straightened themout, and all entries made in so doing were in red ink.

There was an abundance of red ink distributed over the pages.

John Bolan, the ex-deputy whom Dennis charges with being at the bottom of the investigation, testified that be knew that fees were paid to the inspector and no returns made to the comptroller. He also knew that the major looked over his books hast Saturday and sent out official receipts for money that was paid in last June or at other times longer ago. "Do you know of any other items of short-other than those mentioned in THE Beet' asked Morearty.

"George Schuler, at Thirteenth and Pa-cific, paid me $2.50 last November. I colected this money and turned it over to Major Dennis. I don't think the amount is accounted for on the books of the office." The books were examined and it was found that no such amount appeared.

"You were discharged by Major Dennis, were you not?" asked Mr. Donnelly. "You are not very friendly with Mr. Den-

I have no ill feeling against him." Major Dennis was put upon the stand again and asked, "What do you know about the George Schuler case!" "I don't remember this man, but if he did have an inspection made my books ought to

to be resumed next Thursday morning. SCHOOL BOARD INVESTIGATION Alleged Partiality Shown to Applicants for Teachers' Certificates. At the last meeting of the board of education Mr. Rees made the charge that the examining board, appointed to examine appheants for certificates to teach in the Omaha schools, had shown great partiality in its report of the last examination held December 30, 31 and January 2. He also charged that the original percentages had been changed in some cases by members of the examining board after the report had been made to the board of education.

Here the investigation closed for the day,

The matter caused considerable surprise and was referred to the committee on teachers and examinations, consisting of Messrs. Points, Rees, Babcock, Poppleton and Gibbs. The members of the examining board are Prof. Homer R. Lewis, principal of the high school; Mrs. W. W. Keysor and Dr. L. A.

A meeting of the committee on teachers and examinations was held yesterday after-noon at the board rooms, commencing at 4 clock and continuing about two hours. All the members of the committee were present and the papers of the last examina ion were gone over very carefully. It was the unanimous opinion of the com-mittee that the questions asked the appliants for certificates were entirely too were on the subjects of geography, history, physics, physiology and the usual common school branches. They were of such a nature, for the most part, as to require the knowledge of a specialist in each particular branch in order to answer them properly. As very few of the applicants for certificates to teach in the primary grades of the city schools are specialists, the questions were mswered in a way which was anything but Notwithstanding the fact that some of the applicants answered the questions in a most ridiculous manner, they were given a percentage high enough to bring them above the werage of 75 per cent required in each study. In each study there were ten questions and correct answer entitled the applicant to a of ten on each question, or a total of 00 indicating perfection. In one instance a young lady only attempted to answer six of the ten questions, but she received a grade of 5, just enough to pass.

Many of the papers showed beyond a fount that the markings had been changed. Mr. Babcock stated to the committee that of one case in which a young lady had failed to pass, having fallen below 75 per cent in one study. She went to one of the members of the examining board and that nember went with her to the rooms of the poard of education and changed her grade, raising her percentage high enough to entitle ner to a certificate. He also related another instance in which a young lady who had failed to pass in one study had gone to a member of the examin-ing board and had been given a private examination on which she passed triumphant. Dr. Gibbs related an instance simila one spoken of by Mr. Babcock in which the grade had been changed after the report had been made to the board of education.

Mr. Rees stated that he had been approached by a number of teachers who had been employed in the lower grades of the city for several years and who had taken this las examination for the purpose of getting a cer-tificate for a higher grade. They pronounced the examination unfair and unreasonable and charged that gross favoritism had been shown in marking the papers.

The question of the technicality of the ex-amination was not discussed, but the matter of marking the papers, and especially the evi-dence on the face of the papers that fraud had been practiced in marking, was warmly discussed, all the members of the committee being unanimous on these points.

After this discussion had been indulged in for some time Mr. Babcock moved that the committee recommend to the board that the entire examination be thrown out and all certificates, issued on the returns of the examining board, be recalled. This caused another discussion and the motion was finally adopted, all the members voting in the affirmative except Mr. Points, who held that the board had no right to repudiate the action of its examining committee in issuing certificates to teach. He was in favor of allowing the certificates to stand, and then the board might decline to eject those who held them. The other members argued that great in justice had been done those who were re ported as having failed, and that certificates and been issued on false grounds.

M. Points did not take that view of the matter, and will present a minority report. The present board of examiners was chosen by the last board of education, and has held ver, as no examiners have been elected by he present board. A new board of examiners will be elected

The Clubs Will Consolidate. The members of the Omaha club held a necting last night to consider the proposition of consolidation with the Union club The committee appointed to confer with the latter club reported favorably, and by a vote it was decided to consolidate at a future date. The two clubs will open subscription books

Until that time the two clubs will occupy their respective quarters and names. When the move is made to the new building both clubs will disband and reorganize under the name of the "Omaha club," all members of both clubs who are in good standing at that time being eligible without paying initiation fees.

Miss May Clark Wins a Very Gratifying Success. The Lininger art gallery, which has been the scene of a number of pleasant recitals this season, was filled last evening by a very friendly audience assembled to witness and participate in the debut of a former resident of Omaha, Miss May Clark.

One could hardly believe that the self-possessed and cultured young woman who occupied the place of honor on the programme was the same person who left the metropolis but a year or so ago to take up the study of elecution in Chicago. There was little of the amateur about her work, and the friends who had come to criticise the efforts of the young lady were quite disarmed from the beginning, brooded from the humerous to the dramatic a voice which is capable of expressing many varied emotions. In addition to these abso-lute requisites of a successful reader, she is an exceedingly pretty brunette, with dark brown eyes that snap and sparkle with the enthusiasm of their owner.

The fair beneficiary had three numbers on he programme, which were increased to six when the encores were done, a very unusual thing, even with an exceedingly friendly audience in front. Miss Clark demonstrated very clearly that she had ability of no uncommon order, and with a few years' more study is destined to be heard from in a much wider field.

Mr. W. C. E. Seeboeck, Chicago's leading panist, came on for the recital and made, as might have been expected, a profound in-pression. In many respects Mr. Seeboeck is a genius. He is unlike any other artist now before the public. In his technique, in his phasing, in his finger movements he is a law

One cannot help but admire the effects he produces, but still the musician longs for a glimpse of the Tausig method, especially in ingering, which is entirely lost sight of Of his programme little need be said; it was very light and very popular. Mr. Seeboeck in its selection displaying diplomatic qualities of no common order. But the absence of a Chopin number, a Rubinstein number, a Liszt number was remarked, Mr. Seeboeck instead playing two or three compositions of his own. One of these, a Barcarolle, is exquisitely written and very prettily elaborated. His arrangement of the "Faust Fantasie"

won an encore, to which he responded with variations upon "Home Sweet Home." This could have easily been emitted. It savored very much of clap trap, and something very unexpected from an artist occupying a promnent position in the musical world. Mrs. Frances Moeller, who is constantly approving in her singing, gave two very charming numbers, "Changeless" by Trotere and Tours' dramatic composition, "The Three Fishers." At the opening Mrs. Meeller was a bit hoarse but the veiling of her voice was nly temporary and her closing number was

AM USEMENTS. Rice's "Evangeline" occupied the boards at Boyd's last evening, the audience in atendance being very large and although the company is composed almost entirely of new people, the performance was as bright, spark ling and catchy as of old. The Evangeline of Miss Lillian Walters was superb. She enacted the part with charming versatility, her singing being particularly good. The role of the dashing countrys wain was attended to by Miss Geraldine McCann with a dash and impressment that broughtdown the house. Mis-Helen Young as Eulelie, the exponent of female suffrage, also acquitted herself with much credit, while Miss Dana, Miss Lanney and Haines came in fortheir full share of appliance. James S. Mofit, as the Lone Fisherman, was even more droll and comica than ever. There are many innovations in the play, and as a whole it pleased the audience immensely. The Acadian quartette made a decided hit, and the Arizona Pets swept everything before them.

FRANK P. HANLON, President. BUFFALO BILL RETURNS.

He rears no Further Trouble on the Part of the Indians. Colonel William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill) was registered at the Merchants last night, and as he puffed at a fragrant Havana he spoke thus to a BEE reporter : "I left Pine Ridge agency at 8 o'clock last night and have been on the road just thirtyfour hours. When I left everything was quiet and 7,000 or 8,000 hostiles and friendly indians were in camp just outside the soldiers quarters. The hostiles are giving up their guns as rapidly as can be expected, and are complying with every request made by General Miles. Right here I want to say that never saw Indians more submissive and willing to obey orders than those now at Pine Ridge. "I don't think that an attempt will be made to disarm them, for General Miles does not propose to have a repetition of the Wounded Knee disaster. He has patience, and by waiting a short time most of the hos-tiles will deliver up their guns, though no doubt but that some of them will cache their arms in the bad lands and go back after nem when the trouble is entirely over, for if there is anything an Indian loves, it is

"I feel safe in saving that unless some un foreseen accident occurs there will be no more bloodshed. "Things at the agency are comparatively ulet. Captain Spencer, the new agent, has aken charge and matters are shaping themserves for peace.

"Yes terday morning the Northern Chy ennes, under Little Chief, started for Fongue river, and while some of them ob-jected to the move, most of them were willing to go, though they left friends and relatives behind.

"There is a change that ought to be made in conducting the affairs of the agencies. Where two agencies are close together they should both be under the control of one man so that the Indians on each may fare same. When this is done it will give better satisfaction to both the Indians and the department. For the present I think the government has acted wisely in placing th agencies under the war department, after quiet has been restored I can't say policy, for an Indian hates to see soldiers around. "Regarding further trouble next spring, nain as quiet and docile as lambs and wi never go to war again. "One of the best things that was done was the calling out of the state troops and placing them along the border. This quieted the fears of the farmers and settlers and has re sulted in their staying at their homes to care ore their property, though some did become properly handled and fed the Indians will re

"I want you to put it in double pica, black faced type, that not a hostile Indian was in the state of Nebraska, and not a man was killed in the state by Indians. Some crank has sent out a report that the war was in Ne braska, but every word of that report was a "About that stock that was killed. I don't think many cattle belonging to ranchers and herders were disturped, and when the spring will be found.

"Some people have criticized and found fault with the plans of General Miles, but his tactics have proven that he is a great general. When he went into that country he outlined the course he intended to pursue and has followed it to the letter. Had almost will be found. any other man been in command of the forces the war would have been prolonged for a year or two, and during that time thousands of innecent settlers would have been killed and a large portion of the west abandoned. He took in the whole situation at a glance, and but for the Wounded Knee battle the campaign would have been the most wonderful and successful on record. Some people have howled about ing for so many troops, but by doing so he averted a calainity that would surely have fallen upon the country if he had had but a few hundred men to contend with the In-

in every instance acted the part of peace makers.

"I am through with the Indian war. Mor day I shall return to my home at North Platte, where I shall rest until the latter part of March, when I shall sail for Germany, taking with me a large party of Indians. After that I shall make a tour of Europe with my 'Wild West' show,"

Germania hall contained as gay a crowd o merry maskers last night as ever assembled.

The Painters' Mask Ball,

The occasion was the annual mask bull of the Painters' and Decorators' union No. 109 which is composed entirely of Germans. At 9 o'clock George Drembrousdy, the secretary of the union and master of ceremonies, called the grand march and 100 couples responded His arrangement of the "Faust Fantasie" to the call. From that time until mid-was upon a very lofty plane and deservedly night the dance went as merry as

A LAUGHABLE MEETING. The Western Traffic Association Meets and Talks and Adjourns. CHICAGO, Jan. 17.- Special Telegram to THE BEE. |-The general traffic managers of the lines in the new Western Traffic association failed utterly today to decide the very easiest of all problems before the association. They met to decide the boundaries of the territory over which each commissioner should have jurisdiction. They could not agree to leave the boundaries as they are and, least of all, could they agree on any change. Finally, they agreed on the astonishing proposition to let the commissioners themselves decide what territory they should govers and the meeting adjourned. This is the first meeting since the association was born and the traffic managers have made themselves a laughing stock owing to their inability to agree. The question is usked, on all sides, how it will be possible, in view of this neeting to agree on the really important matters which must be decided before the association can get down to business !
