No recent emphatic and universal endorsement. Earnest appeals to support this bill have been sent to Mr. Paldeck as mult well as business Mr. Paddock as well as other members from the business men, bankers and city officials of Omaha South Omaha, from the governors all the state officers of Nebraska and Iowa, and from a very large number of private individuals. These must have convinced him beyond question that the bill is regarded by all classes as an advantage to Omaha and Nebraska. His present attitude, therefore, in attempting to block the wheels of a public enterprise that will prove of incalculable benefit to so large a number of people, is directly contrary to that which those people had a right to expect.1

Sad Straits to Which "O'd Hutch" Has Been Brought

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.-[Special Telegram to to THE BEE. |- The fact that B. P. Hutchinson, the veteran board of trade man, familiarly known as "Old Hutch," had suddenly withdrawn from speculation has been a matter of comment among brokers for weeks, but it was not until today that the cause of his retirement became known. Mr. Hutchinson's family is dissatisfied with his peculiar trades, and his son, Charles L. Hutchinson, after consultation with his attorney and close personal friends, had a talk with his father and told him that, unless he closed up his deals quietly and gave up all speculative business, the matter would be taken into the courts and a conservator applied for. Hutchinson, sr., was very angry for a time, but finally consented to the terms and at once evened up his trades and closed the books. It is rumored that Hutchinsen has lost about $19,000,000 within twenty years. In 1870 he was reported to have a fortune of $20,000,000. Ten years ago, his son says, this had dwin-died to $10,000,000 and now there is but $1,000,000 left. It was to save this from fol-lowing the rest of his money that the family insisted upon his retirement. It is said that Mr. Hutchinson's treatment of his wife in money matters also had some-thing to do with the threat of putting a conservator in charge of property. As the story goes, Hutchinson, when abroad about a Mrs Hutchinson, when abroad about a year ago needed some funds and made a draft on her husband for $1,000. Mr. Hutchinson, however, refused to honor the draft and de clined to make an explanation. The matter was overlooked and Mrs. Hutchinson, when on a visit in the east for a few weeks, again drew on him for money. This draft he also refused, so it is said, and it was paid by his son. When Mrs. Hutchinson returned home she notified her husband that she did not propose to stand that kind of treatment and O'Neil told Purcell that he had two tramps in a box car whose description answered that of some men whom the detective was shadowing. When the train stopped at Long Point the two went forward to dislodge the tramps. O'Neil was just about to climb up into the car when one of the tramps discharged the contents of a shotgun at him, blowing the entire top of his head off. The run was also snapped at Pur-cell, but failed to go off. The two tramps jumped from the car and ran. Purcell fired two shots at them and broke the spring of his revolver and they got away. The dead conductor was taken to Belle Plaine and afterwards brought to his home in Boone. He was one of the best conductors on the road and very popular among railroad men. It was learned later that the Northwestern depot at La Grande had been broken into and it was here the tramps had secured the gun with which the murder was committed. An overcost which one of them threw sway in his flight also contained money and other articles stolen from the depot. SMALL FEET.

They Are an Illustration of the Tendency of the Times toward Little Waists and Weak Bodies.

Anyone who visits the art museums may be struck with the fact that the feet of all the ancient statues seem very large. They do seems so, but it will be found that for symmetrical perfection these feet could not be better, and yet the feet of the average man or woman to-day are much smaller than in ancientifues. One might naturally ask, Why is this? The answer is not difficult. Modern custom and fushion have contracted feet to their present small proportions; shoes have taken the place of sandals. Indeed, it is only one illustration of many, of what advanced civilization and fashion do. The wahts of women in ancient davs were not so small as in the present age of corsets. The health of women in ancient times was better than in our present day of social demands, household cares and hurried living. Women are weaker than they once were. They feel depressed, blue, weak and languid, where they were once bright, strong and active such undern troubles, require the most ad-vanced treatment and the best physicians, and most scientific authorities of the present day declare that pure stimulants are a neces-

and nost scientific authorities of the present day declare that pure stimulants are a neces-sity in most lives. It is a simileant fact, how-ever, in connection with this statement, that only pure stimulants are ever of value, while impure are an actual harm. The best and purest of all stimulants now known to the public is Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey. It is indeed the only medicinal whiskey known to the professions or the pub-lic. It has been tested by years of use, and is far more popular to day than ever before in its history. It has many initiators and the usual jealonsies which merit always brings, and hence when unscrupulous dealers offer any other article, they should be given to un derstand that only Duffy's can be used.

An Unfounded Rumor.

CLARINDA, Ia., Jan. 22 .- [Special to THE BEE.]-For some time there have been runors current detrimental to the management of the insane asylum at this place, alleging scandalous conduct on the part of Superintendent Llewellyn in relation to a certain employe and charging cruel treatment of the patients. Colonel Otis of McGregor, a mem-ber of the standing visiting committee. has been here a couple of days making an in-vestigation, and emphatically declares the management is perfect. On being asked with a direct question if there had been any trouble by abuse of patients. Dr. Llewellyn said there was no grounds for any rumors of the kind, and he courted the most thorough investigation. J. H. Dunlap, a trustee, de-ngunces the rumor of a scaadal or contention the institution as without foundation.

For those who were not present last even ing the story may be outlined as follows Don Bamboula, duke of Valencia, is so ugly Don Hamboula, duke of Valencia, is so ugly that his face, as he says himself, with almost unnecessary frequency, gives him pain, and he has therefore been unable to get any girl to marry him. He procures a talisman from the Sea King, which, it is promised, will cause his personal appreciate to improve The Sea King falls in love with Bamboula's nicce and turns out to be the long lost heir to the dukedom. He carries off Bamboula and all the rest of the character to his "lair" for no other reason except that the scene painters have prepared a very gorgeous lair and it is of course.

necessary to utilize it. The tables are, how ever, turned upon the Sea King, and as another gorgeous interior representing a palace in Spain has been prepared, the action is promptly transferred thereto, and all the entanglements of the two provious acts are finally solved, and everyone, except the unfortunate duke, is made happy. The music is very reminiscent of Offen-bach, Audran, Strauss, Milloccker, Genee. but it has been put together with a master hand. Herein lies Mr. Stanl's art. He ex-cels in orchestration, for nothing better has been heard in a very long time than duet in the second act between the flero heard in a very long time than the his sweetheart. The quartette entitled "Memory Belis" is a dainty bit of phrasing and was honored with a double encore. A LIBERAL VICTORY.

It Excites Various Feelings in Vari ous Localities.

Loxbox, Jan. 22 .- [- Special Cablegram o THE BRE.]-The liberals are rejoicing over the election to parliament of Mr. Furness. the Gladstonian candidate from Hartlepool. Mr. Gladstone has telegraphed his personal congratulations to Mr. Furness on his success which takes another seat from the conservaparty. Coming just at the opening of parlia party ment, the victory gives an impulse of en-couragement, which the liberals have badly needed and will make them more aggres needed and will make them more aggres-sive and assertive. The tories who have been discounting defeat for some time cannot conceal their disappointment, foa the result indicates the probable result in other liberal-unionist constituencies, without whose aid the tories cannot keep control of the government. The Times and Standard claim that the Hartlepool election without was decided on the eight-hour and other is sues and that home rule had no part in i sues and that home rule had no part in it. Mr. Gladstone, in telegraphing a reply to a correspondent who had questioned him as to the significance of the Hartlepool election, said: "The Hartlepool election is, from the time and circumstances, by far the most important since 1886. Do Clocks Stop When People Dis? The sentimental and superstitious who ere given to tracing the laws of coincilences will find an interesting subject for their attention in the recent death of a jeweler in Bucyrus, O. For many years it has been the office of a skillful German watchman, named Frank Kehrer, to attend to the town clock. During the past few months the health of Mr. Kehrer has been poor, and the clock, deprived of his careful attention, has been ceeping indifferent time. One Monday norning recently the timepiece struck and a few minutes later it stopped. Early risers who heard the chime a that there was something indescribably weird and peculiar about it. Later risers. noticing the clock hands pointing to 5:05 commented upon the subject and its aged guardian. Later in the day the news spread that Mr. Kehrer's condition had suddenly become worse and that he had died at 5:05 that morning.

When the late state senator B. J. Smith of Hancock county, West Virgina, passed away, his family looked at his watch to see the time. The hands pointed to 12:02, When S. G. Smith, son of the late senator, began housekeeping in Wheeling his father gave him a family clock which he had always attended to himself. After the funeral Mr. Smith returned to Wheeling. As soon as he saw the clock Mr. Smith turned to his mother and sister and asked them if anything in the room had attracted their attention. "The clock," said the sister, and the mother nodded assent. The clock had stopped at 12:02.
