No tears were shed over the affair however, as Young has not a very savor reputation, and it is said that the only that prevented his being convicted of high way robbery was a certain legal complication that made it advisable to change the charge from highway robbery to larceny.

AN INTERESTING MAP OF THE CITY.

An Unwelcome Midnight Guest-The Inmates of St. Bernards-Rosa Will Have Her Way-Minor Mention.

Chief of Police Carey has been out of the city for several days, and his absence has caused a good deal of anxiety to the reporters, which was not relieved by any of the studiously non-committal answers of the captains and sergeants left behind to look after the city's welfare. The riddle was solved yesterday by the announcement that a telegram had been received from the chief, dated San Antonio, Tex., conveying the intelligence that he was suffering the rigors of that wintry clime, but enjoying the satisfaction of having in his custody the person of a much wanted man. The individual is the well known Dan Maginnis, the commercial traveler who ha made a great reputation as a very successful candy man, and has represented on the road all of the leading candy manufacturers of this city and Omaha. For a year or more past he has been traveling for Vogelar & Flemming of Omaha. About the time he completed his holiday sales he severed his cennection with the firm without notifying them. After two weeks had clapsed they realized that something serious had happened. A man was sent over his territory and the fact was discovered that he was a heavy de-faulter; that he had collected several thousand Representatives of the firm spent several days in this city in consultation with the police, endeavoring to find some trace of the unfaithful servant, but failed. Maginuis formerly owned a nice little home here, but this was broken up some time ago by his wife procuring a divorce. The police cave een working on the case, and last week to cated Maginnis in Texas, where he had flown after leaving here.

Pleased with the Result. The sisters of St. Bernard's hospital are greatly pleased with the results of their first week's experience with insane patients. Very little trouble has been had with even the most fractious, while, as a rule, they have been no harder to take care of than so many sane persons.

There are now twenty-four patients in the hospital, of whom twelve are men. These have quarters on the first floor. A long corridor runs along the building, with the bed rooms opening off from each side. When a BEE reporter called yesterday the patients were taking their after-dinner stroll back and forth through the corridor. Each one has his peculiar fancy; one had been an auctioneer, and the endless chattering which had formerly earned him his daily bread has become so much a part of him that he sits with his face in his hands all day long and mutters his "going, going, gone," with indescribable velocity. Another had conceived the idea of traveling around the world. Others are comface in of confused in their conversation and eem to change their ideas every few seconds.
The women, who live on the second floor, have their queer ideas like the men. Among them is Anna Fairman, who, it is said, used to be city librarian and a frequent contributor to the city papers. Mary Hughes is one of the private patients. She is occasionally seized with a mania for undressing people and at such times her hands have to be strapped behind her to keep her from stripping the clothing off herself and the other In the main, however, all the patients are easily managed. When left to themselves they fall into their delusions, but a touch or a word from one of the sisters is all that is necessary to bring them back temporarily to their senses.

There are eleven sisters now in the hospital, but it is the intention to increase the number in a short time to twenty, and that number will not be any too large for the present will not be any too large for the present needs. If the other counties in this vicinity send their patients here for treatment, as it is hoped they will, the whole building as it now stands will be devoted to hospital use, while a piece of ground a short distance from the city will be procured and a new building erected there for the exclusive use of the in sane. This idea is not the result of objections of the neighbors. On the contrary, it is said that even those who were the fiercest in their opposition to the location of the insane hospital where it now is, have ad-mitted that the patients cause no disturbance

The Church Architects. F. M. Ellis, the architect, feels that an inustice is done him by the comments of the Broadway Methodist church folks concerning his relations with the preparation of plans for their new structure. He refers to the contractors and others conversant with the details in proof of the fact that the work was satisfactory so far as it progressed under his management. The church folks desired to employ Cooke as architect, as Cooke had subscribed $500 to the enterprise, and it would be an accommodation to both the subscriber and the church to have the subscription paid for in architectural services. Hence the change was made, and not because of any dissatisfaction with Mr. Ellis. Mr. Ellis says it is absurd to intimate that there is any collusion between himself and Mr. Cooke Since they dissolved partnership he has had no relations with him, and in fact, until sundry differences are settled between them there is no possibility of any understanding Mr. Ellis says the plans provided by him have been subjected to such changes and alterations as to justify him in demanding the originals, as the plans belong to the church only for the purpose of guidance in erecting this building, and that in view of all the circumstances he believes he ought to have his plans returned to his possession.

An O'd Map.

Several copies of a very old map of Council Bluffs have recently come to light, and are regarded with a good deal of interest since the East Omaha boundary line question has come up. The map shows the city as it was in 1855. It shows nearly all of Kane township, and consequently gives the location of the river at that time as well as the government survey defining the boundary line beween Iowa and Nebraska. The corporation limits show the city to have been only then about aif the size it is now, and the principal points of interest were the Pacific house, the public square (now Hayliss park) and the several steamroat landings and ferries. In the thirty-five years that have intervened since the publication of the map there have been great topographical changes. The Missouri river then ran near where the Milwaukee city passenger depot is now, and the principal steamboat landing was at the foot of Main street. The map shows all the territory adjoining Council Bluffs and at the foot of Main street. The map shows air the territory adjoining Council Bluffs and outside the limits. The portion now known as East Omaha then laid a good long distance cast of the river and almost wholly within the present limits of the city. Indian creek then emptied into a pond in the northwestern part of town.

It is possible that the map may be of some interest to Iowa attorneys in fighting the boundary case in the United States supreme

A Crazy Caller. Lewis Smith and A. F. Clatterbuck came into the city early yesterday morning, bringing with them a man who was suffering from a severe attack of something, but whether it was insanity or delirium tremens, it was hard to tell. Smith, who lives a few miles east of the city, was awakened during the night by the sound some one trying to get in at the kitchen door. He at once went down stairs and asked who was there. Receiving no reply he pulled a gun and threatened to blow him full of buckshot if he didn't leave. The stranger couldn't see the gun through the door, but something seemed to tell him he'd better go, for he went. When daylight came Smith went for Clatterbuck, his neighbor, and together they went to hunt the intruder. He was found near Parks' mill, on the Rock Island track making a bee line for the Bluffs. After a decided resistance, which rendered the application of Smith's fist nec-essary, the stranger was quieted and was finally landed in the county jail. It was at first thought that he was insane, and an information charging him with insanity was filed against him. Later on, however, Sheriff O'Neill came to the con-clusion that the man had drank too much and had been merely "seeing snakes."

Itself Diplomatically.
[Coveright 1891 by the New York Associated Press.] Rosse, Jan. 27.-The vatican has been advised that the Italian government is occupying itself diplomatically regarding a successor to Pope Leo in order to prevent the election of a pope unfavorable to official Italy and favorable to France. Premier Crispi will endeavor to demonstrate the triple alliance that in view of the hostile spirit which exists in high quarters it is to the interest of the allied cabinets to prepare for the coming conclave. Every one at the vatican, however, appears serene, partly because the pope still enjoys perfect health and again because the sacred college can, in case of necessity, meet elsewhere than Rome.

In conversation a highly placed personage said the times had passed when the cardinals accept the vote of monarchies. Absolute liberty will henceforth be the principle on which conclaves work. The personage in question said it was difficult to determine the probabilities of the next conclave. Various probabilities of the next conclave. candidates have been mentioned, but none have been decided upon. Under the extraordinary conditions, if the conclave is held abroad, and in the midst of European complications, it is to be presumed that the complications, it is to be presumed that the cardinals would choose a neutral foreign pope—for instance, Manning of England, Gibbons of America or Malinci. It is to be borne in mind, he said, that foreign cardinals ere long will form a majority in the sacred college. With the development of Christianity the church needs more cardinals in America, Australia, Canada, China and Africa, and this will modify essentially the conditions of the papacy. Further, the world becoming Romanized, it is necessary that the papacy should become universal. From this it is evident that it can no longer be exclusively Italian.

The Bicycle Race,

Notwithstanding the damp and disagree able weather of last evening, there was another fine attendance at the Coliseum to witness the great bicycle race now in progress there. This is undoubtedly proving the most interesting of all the many races that have taken place in the building, and by Saturday night the enthusiasm will be worked up to the highest possible altitude. Schill, owing to the injuries he received in his fall with Martin on the opening evening, did not start last night, which left but four racers on the track, Reading, Martin, Gerwing and inger. They are all working with a will and a determination, however, that counterbatances the lack of numbers, and the excitement maintained by their almost superhuman efforts is something wonderful. Manager Mardis is sparing no pains or expense to make the event a successful one and perfectly satisfactory to the patrons of the Coliseum. ### SEAVEY'S ANNUAL.

The Work of the Police Force During the Past Year.

Chief of Police Seavey fied his report for the year ending December 31, 1890, with the board of fire and police commissioners last The document, which consists of forty pages of type-written manuscript, is, in substance, as follows: At the beginning of the year the police force numbered ninety-four men. It was increased to 104 during the month of May, but has since decreased and at present has ninetytwo names on the payroll, as follows: One chief, 1 clerk, 2 captains, 1 chief detective, 4 sergeants, 5 detectives, 2 jailors, 1 court officer, 2 patrol drivers, 2 patrol conductors, 2 turnkeys, 4 mounted men, 1 hostler

city has been more orderly during the past year than any year since I have had com-mand of the police department, which may be accounted for by the peaceful inclination of our citizens and the vigilance of the police. The detective force has accomplished more this year than ever before. They have ar-rested 726 oriminals, many of whom were the most prominent and dengerous crooks in the most prominent and dangerous crooks in the United States, and have recovered and returned to owners stolen property of the value of $7,762.65. The pairry sum of $21.75 has been paid by the city this year for deective services.

A large number of burglaries and house robberies have been reported during the year, the police arresting nearly all of the criminals, but not having sufficient evidence, very few of them were convicted of the crime charged. Many of these burglars and house robbers, however, were convicted of vagrancy and after serving their time in the county fail were run out of the city. Of the $33,798.60 worth of property reported stolen during the year, $15,5-5.14 has been recovered, which is a larger percentage than ever before.

Crime will be committed, no matter how carefully the police guard it, but the efficiency of the police is shown by the celerity and cerainty with which it hunts down and secures My best efforts have been put forth and directed to so organize the force and discipline its members as to make it effective in sudden emergencies as in the every day routine of to prevent crime, to protect persons and property and to detect and bring crim-inals to justice. The members of the force have responded on the whole with prompt-ness and good judgment.

Petty crime is increasing in this city, and tt is my opinion that it will continue to de so until-a work house with a substantial rock pile is established to compel this class of criminals to do hard work. Our well reg-ulated and well filled county jail, that can acommodate 140 prisoners, is considered by he average vag and crook the most delightful of winter resorts.

During the year the police have arrested 8.112 persons, of which number 2,916 were convicted, 184 remanded to the district court and 5,013 dismissed, which makes the per-centage of convictions nearly double that of any previous year.

The members of the force are, with few exceptions, always on the alert, and suspi-cious strangers are closely watched. The dicipline of the force is good. There are, of course, many complaints, but the great ma ority of them are for minor infractions o the police rules and regulations, which is the pest evidence of the vigilance of the superior Sixteen patrolmen have been brought fore your honorable body for violating the rules and regulations who were fined to the amount of $137.91, which sum has been paid into the city treasury to the credit of the po-lief fund.

Officer P. N. Lee was honorably retired from the service September 9, 1899, after several months of serious illness caused by injuries from an assault while attempting to make an arrest. He died December 1, 1890, and was buried with police honors. His wife received $500 from the police relief fund immediately after

2. That the police force be increased to 125 men, and that two sergeants and two more detectives be appointed to go on duty May 1,

3. That an amount of money not to exceed $500 be set aside to be placed at the disposal of the chief of police for detective services, subject to the approval of the mayor and the finance committee of the board of fire and poice commissioners. 4. That an examining board, consisting of the committee on men and discipline and the city physician meet during the month of April in each year and examine every member of the police department as to their men-tal, moral and physical condition and general fitness for police service, and report the result of their investigation to the board of fire and police commissioners.

5. That on the first day of May of each year the board of fire and police commigrade the police force as follows: Officers of the first grade to receive $75 per

Officers of the second grade to receive $70 Officers of the third grade to receive $50 per The expense of operating the police department for the year was as follows:

The report of the city jailors shows that people of almost every known occupation were nauled in during the year. The list goes alphabetically from "agents" to "washerwomen," and includes clergymen, shepherds, grave diggers and home rulers. There was one of the latter class. There were 1,597 drunks, 638 drunks and disorderlies, 16 drunks and reckless driving, making a total of 2,257 arrests due to intoxi-cation. There were 1,006 suspicious charac ters, 1,199 vagrants and 523 arrests for lar REQUESTED TO RESIGN.

Policemen Who Have Outlived Their Offic at Usefulness.

Chief Seavey has recommended to the board of fire and police commissioners that the following officers be requested to resign from the force on account of the fact that tucy are incapacitated and unfit for duty; Peter Matza, Frank Johnson, A. H. Burr, lobert McBride, George Linde and Vance Fields. These officers have been absent from duty during the past year, chiefly on account of sickness, as follows: Matza, 96 days; John-son, 76 days; Burr, 95 days; McBride, 78 days; Linde, 67 days; Fields, 41 days. The chief says that Matza and Johnson are both men of excellent record, but their physical condition is such that they cannot erform the work of a first-class police With regard to Officer Burr the chief has but little to say, excepting that he has been sick a great deal and is at present unable to report for duty.

Officers McBride, Linde and Fields are, in the opinion of the chief, very ordinary policemen, and should resign and find some mployment for which they are better suited The report is in the hands of the commit tee on men and discipline and will probably be acted on at the next regular meeting of Dangerous Use of Strong Purgatives.

Pills and purgatives which act quickly upon the bowels, irritate and destroy the mucous coats of the stomach and bowels. A continued use of such remedies produces chronic inflammation of the stomach and bowels. The use of the genuine imported Carlebad Spradel Salt is therefore, highly recommended be-cause its action is due solely to its solvent and stimulating properties, and it does not irritate the stomach. Obtain the genuine imported article only.

Daniel Matheney, sent up for life from Eureka county for murder, and who had served seventeen years, has been par-doned, says the Virginia (Nevada) Enterprise. He was sentenced in 1873, being nineteen years of age at the time. He comes out bald-headed and gray. He was in all the emeutes and prison breaks that have occurred since his incarceration, and he was always at the front. He was shot through the lungs in the break of 1878, at the same time Captain J. H. Mathewson was shot through the arm, he having hold of the captain at the Since that time he got away from the prison by cutting through an iron cell, the work occupying months of the most careful, pains-taking and patient toil. He was recaptured, and never since has he violated a rule of the instle tution. He forsook his old chums and pursued a straight-forward course unti he gained the confidence of the officers of the prison, and the result is his par-
