

THE POWER OF TWO SENATORS

They May Hasten Legislation and Checkmate the Railroads if They Will.

PRESENT DISCOURAGING PROSPECTS.

Resolutions Denouncing the Force Bill Passed in the House—Tuesday's Proceedings in the Legislature—Notes.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Bee.)—“Why doesn't the senate do something?” is a common query.

There is very little the senate can do. Forty-one bills have been introduced and twenty-three have gone as far as the committee. Only six have reached the general session, where they may be discussed in committee of the whole and prepared for passage.

The fault, if there is a fault, may be chargeable to the committees. Only three have been reported, and they have turned in about a dozen bills, half of them with a recommendation for indefinite postponement.

The public looks for results and forgets or is ignorant of the great amount of routine in making a new law. People who measure the value of a legislature by the number of bills it passes may have to wait several weeks yet before finding any great merit in the present body.

The reform bill and the appropriation bill for legislative salaries will be rushed through, but most other measures will take their natural order. The senate may pass a few of its bills this week, but when they go over to the house they will have a long way to go.

The preliminary work is likely to consume so much time that very few bills will have gone to the governor before the date (February 17) fixed for the election contests. How long they will last no man can tell.

It is evident, therefore, that unless heroic methods are adopted very little legislation can be enacted before March. Important measures like railroad regulation and the Australian ballot system will elude the legislature, which may delay final action until far into March or defeat the desired legislation.

The railroads are showing their hand and are encouraging all delays, with a view to postponing action on bills for the reduction of freight rates. They are looking for the end of their line through both houses. The school lobby and other monopolistic interests are likely to join in this movement.

There is no longer any real contests. If the legislature were rid of them there would be ample time to pass needed laws. The independents begin to realize the situation, and there is considerable talk of dropping the contests and leaving Governor Boyd's title to be settled by the quo warranto suit now pending in the supreme court.

The senate is not yet out of the contest, and it is just possible that the concurrent resolution naming the date for hearing the bill of contest will be defeated. Most of the independent senators will vote in favor of dropping the contests and leaving Governor Boyd's title to be settled by the quo warranto suit.

The house has recognized Boyd. Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 27.—(Special Telegram to The Bee.)—Tomorrow a resolution will be introduced in the house for the appointment of a committee to confer with Governor Boyd relative to the delivery of his message.

The president acted by the senate. It is believed that the resolution will be adopted by the house. The democrats, twenty-five in number, the republicans numbering twenty-one, will certainly vote in favor of the resolution.

The message, however, will not be delivered before Thursday, next. The senate. Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Bee.)—The senate committee on federal relations recommended the passage of the memorial to congress asking for an appropriation of $1,000,000.

The committee has announced its list of bills on the theory that it will stand a better show of passage without a session. In the particular district, and has increased the number of members of the committee to 300,000.

Senator Kepler introduced a resolution directing the Nebraska delegation in congress to use its influence to defeat the force bill. Senator Moore also introduced a resolution under the rules bill tomorrow.

A SUBSTITUTE FOR SENATOR PADDOCK. Plans Submitted for Another Structure at the Foot of Farnam Street—The Indian Delegation Claims.

WASHINGTON BUREAU THE OMAHA BEE. SENATOR PADDOCK'S SUBSTITUTE FOR ANOTHER BRIDGE AT THE FOOT OF FARNAM STREET—THE INDIAN DELEGATION CLAIMS.

Senator Paddock has submitted his substitute to the interstate low bridge bill and it has been accepted by Senator Anderson and the Representative Council. Late this afternoon the bill was reported to the house by Senator Paddock.

The Paddock bill will then be introduced in the senate and the house will then agree without a plaver. There is no doubt now that the bill will become a law at this session. The Paddock substitute simply clinches the details regarding the structure to be authorized.

As soon as the original interstate low bridge bill was passed by the house it was transmitted to the senate, where it goes to the committee on commerce. Senator Anderson and Senator Paddock have accepted Senator Paddock's substitute, that measure will be reported to the senate as a substitute for the bill which passed the house today and the bill introduced by Senator Anderson.
