THE BOSTON POSTMASTERSHIP

Trouble Brewing at the Hub Between Regular Republicans and Mugwumps.

A QUESTION OF CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

A Rather Delicate Matter Which the Administration Will Be Called Upon to Decide-Miscellaneous Matters.

WASHINGTON BUREAU THE OMAHA BEE,

513 FOURTEENTH STREET, WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 29, There is going to be a struggle pretty soon between the regular republicans and the mugwumps of Boston that will give the administration an opportunity to define its position on civil service reform and the tenure of office of competent officials. General John M. Corse, formerly of Chicago, the hero of the battle of Altoons, the man who held the fort and gave P. P. Bliss an opportunity to write a stirring song, a man whose military record was quite as conspicuous as any one of his rank, is postmister at Boston. He was appointed by President Cleveland as a democrat, although he has never had any active participation in politics, either before or since his nomination. He has managed his office as the Boston office has never been managed before, and the satisfaction of the business men with his administration is so general that all of the commercial organi-, zations and business men generally, together with hundreds of prominent citizens, have united in a petition to the president for his reappointment. Strange to say, Senator Hoar and Representative Lodge endorse the petition favorably and Mr. Hoar has presented the case to the president. On the other hand, the other republican members of congress from Boston and vicinity and the political organizations of the city, including the republican committees and campaign workers, have united in a petition for the appointment of Henry A. Johnson, a republican, who has been superintendent of mails in the Boston postoffice for many years. They claim that his promotion will be quite as much in the line of civil service reform as the reappointment of General Corse, as his service has been efficient and and his conduct above reproach. That is the question the president will have to decide.

THE FARNAM STREET BRIDGE BILL. Senator Manderson says he is in favor of favorable action upon the Farnam stree bridge bill for the Twin City street railway company if it can be gotten through. Mr Connell has introduced it in the house and enator Manderson says he will introduce it in the senate.

CONSOLIDATING THE ALLIANCES.

A telegram was received today by the farmers alliance officials here from Grand Lecturer Benjamin Terrill, stating that he had perfected arrangements by which the northwestern branches of the farmers' alli-ance would go into the scheme of consolidating the alliance, Knights of Labor, colored alliance and various other organizations. The northwestern alliances are non-secret and have had little to do with the regular body. They have been in existence for nearly seventeen years in Nebraska, Iowa and some other states. According to Mr. Terrill's telegram all of these northwestern bodies will in in holding a convention with the Knights of Labor and the regular farmers' alliance for the purpose of adopting a plan of political MRS. HARRISON BETTER.

Mrs. Harrison is quite a good deal better now, having almost completely recovered from her late attack of diphtheritic sore throat. Mrs. McKee, however, is now ill with a severe case of tonsilitis, which seems to be quite prevalent throughout the city just at present. There is nothing serious about her ailment. The house physician, Dr. Gardiner, after examining the premises carefully, has decided that much of the late sickness at the white nouse comes from the al-most continuous presence of the large ferns and plants used in decorating the rooms on the occasion of dinners and receptions. The boxes in which they grow contain a large quantity of earth, which exhales odors that are not beneficial and th plants accumulate an unhealthy amount of dampness. Dr. Gardiner thinks that it is a good thing to have small potted plants in a room, as they have a revivifying effect on the atmosphere, but he draws the line at the plants and ferns, small trees, in fact It was but a week or so ago that the decorations were allowed to remain in the house for four days until the air in the east room became as heavy and oppressive as that in a green house, and the windows recked with DEMOCRATS OPPOSE THE REAPPORTIONMENT BILL There was a solid democratic vote in the senate today against the adoption of the reapportionment bill, but it was passed just as it came from the house, raising the number of members of the lower house of congress from 330 to 340. The action of the democrats in opposing the bill on party lines was a surprise. It is true that their amendments in creasing the representation of Arkansas, Missouri and New York, democratic states, were voted down by the republicans, but on the other hand the amendments offered by republicans to increase the apportionment of Minnesota and other republican states were defeated, and yet the republicans voted solidly for the measure except Messrs. Davis and Washburn of Minne-sota, who believed they were instructed by their constituents to vote against the bill on account of the out-come of the population fight between Minneapolis and St. Paul and the refusal to give the state another congressman. The bill, as it will become a law, gives the republicans an advantage of about seven members of congress, according to the present political status of the various states. The bill does not take effect until 1893. CONSTITUTIONS FORTHCOMING.

Attention having been called in these dis-patches to the fact that there is not a copy of the constitution of the United States to be found in Washington for public distribution, while the government is distributing large numbers of copies of the constitutions of the South and Central American republics in the interest of commercial reciprocity, the house committee will tomorrow report a resolution providing for the printing of 30,000 copies of our constitution, to be distributed free through the members of congress. The enate will probably take a similar step and here will soon be copies of the constitution of the United States in profusion every-MISCELLANEOUS.

Mr. Dorsey will introduce a bill in the house allowing Owsley Wilson of Burwell, Garfield county, to homestead a quarter of section 9, township 21 north, range 16 west, section 9, township 21 north, range 16 west, Garfield county, Nebraska. Wilson seeks redress for a wrong which he claimed to have suffered in 1882, when he was a settler and was ordered off the Fort Hartsuff mili-tary reservation by direction of the secre-tary of war. It appears that at that time there were a number of squatters on the Fort Hartsuff reservation and that Wilson was the only one who obeyed the order to vacate. Subsequently an order was made throwing the reservation open to settlement and those who were upon the reservation at the time it was opened were allowed to retain their en-tries, and Wilson claims that by obeying the order he was discriminated against Blaine Authorizes a Denial. WASHINGTON, Jan. 29. — Representative Baker of New York today addressed a letter to Secretary Biaine regarding the reports of negotiations going on between this country and Great Britain with a view to partial reciprocity with Canada, and asking the facts. Secretary Blaine replied, authorizing Baker to contradict the rumors. No negotiations whatever are on foot for reciprocity with Canada, and no scheme for reciprocity with the Dominion confined to natural products will be entertained.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 .- The Indian commissioner has received a report from Agent Cole on the recent excitement among the Okanogan Indians in Washington, saying that no further trouble is looked for. He adds that unless whisky selling to the Indians is suppressed it will cause trouble before long. There are no less than twenty whisky sellers around the reservation who make a living by selling whisky to the Indians.

THE SALES SYSTEM. It Was the Cause of the Baseball

Revolution in 1880. CHICAGO, Jan. 29.- Special Telegram to THE BEE. ]-According to John M. Ward it was the sales system that caused the big baseball revolution of 1889 and 1890. The revolution failed, the revolutionists were conquered, and the National league now stands complete master of the field, and yet the sales system is to go. This, at least, is the programme, and if it is not carried out it presidents of the National league not desire it. President Reliason the Cleveland chib was the will not be because the best managers and the Cleveland club was the league magnate to object to it. Now President Spalding has written Mr. Robinson a lengthy etter on the subject, in the course of which "I heartily endorse the scheme and the Chicago club is prepared to enter into an agreement with all the other clubs agreeing not to pay 1 cent for the release of any league player nor to accept any money bonus from any league club for the release of any of its players. Speaking only from a selfish stand-point, I think the Chicagos would, perhaps, be the greatest loser, for we have more play-ers under contractand reserve than any other club in the league, but, if all the other clubs will enter into the plan, we are perfectly willing to do it, for I really believe, in the end, it will prove a good thing all around."

A. J. Reach of Philadelphia is in the city.
He said that the new idea would meet with hearty co-operation from every league club. His own experience with the sales system was such as to discourage clubs against it. The Philadelphia club had lost thousands of doilars through its operation.

GOSCHEN'S PLANS.

He Thinks All Financial Crises Should

Be Met at Home. LONDON, Jan. 29 .- [Special Cablegram to THE BEE. |-Goschen, speaking at Leeds, said that provision should be made to render it unneccessary to seek foreign aid in the event of a repetition of such a crisis as that which had arisen in connection with the recent troubles of the Baring brothers, He added that he was now engaged with the Bank of England in devising a scheme to strengthen the country's permanent resources. He claimed that it was the duty of banking institutions of the country herein. Under certain conditions he to assist therein. would embark in the issue of pound notes. Mr. Goschen declared that the note printing process in financial circles was a danger, not a resource. He would be no party the ex-pulsion of gold from the country by an excessive issue of any fiduciary currency. Mr. Goschen declared emphatically that he preferred a stock of $20,000,000 in gold under central control to $30,000,000 in the pockets of the public. He suggested the issue of sovereign and half sovereign notes against the gold, conditional on the maintenance of a cash reserve considerably larger than required to meet the ordinary exi-gencies of banking. In regard to a plan to secure the latter condition he condinary exi-regard to sidered the American provision, requiring posits in cash, as excessive. He tepially advocated the issue of half sovereign notes against silver. Mr. Goshen also proposed a second gold reserve to be touched only at moments of commercial peril. His whole speech was tentative, being intended to attract opinions from the banking and commercial world.

Burial of Prince Baudouin. BRUSSELS, Jan. 29.—Imposing funeral cerenonies over the remains of Prince Baudouin were held in the cathedral of St. Gudale to lay. The funeral was attended with th usual scenes of pomp and ceremony. There was an air of genuine and universal mourning in every direction. There was not a store open in Brussels and the windows of all the oanks and public buildings were closed by shutters. The whole interior of the cathedral was covered with immense sable hangngs, fringed and ornamented with heavy

The Glass Market Demoral'zed. CHICAGO, Jan. 29 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE. ]-Since the failure of the window glass trust, which went to pieces in this city some weeks ago, prices of glass have gone down until the market is badly demoralized. The smash up of the combine was caused by The smash up of the combine was caused by the refusal of the J. H. Rice company of Chicago, which controls the output of several factories in Ohio and Indians, to go into the trust. A Pittsburg organ of the glass men, in a recent article on the death of the trust, declares that "the Big Chief of the restern manufacturers," angered by the re fusal of the Rice company to come into the trust, has douncd his war paint and is cut-ting prices in revenge. This, of course, has caused the demoralization of the market.

SHEEDY HEARING RESUMED.

The Court Room Crowded and Many Unable to Gain Admission.

SEVERAL WITNESSES GIVE TESTIMONY.

The Opposing Counsel Engage in a War of Words by Way of Diversion-What the Evidence Shows.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 29 .- [Special to THE BEE. |-The Sheedy murder trial is the only topic of conversation. The district court room, one of the largest balls in the city, can contain only the smallest fraction of the crowd that has poured into the court house today. The hearing was resumed at 10 a. m., but as early as 8:30 a. m. the corridors were crowded with people waiting for the doors to open.

When at last the doors swung open the multitude rushed in pell mell, scrambling for good seats. A large number of women were present and held seats in the dress circle. Standing room was at a premium.

Most of the testimony presented today led up to the confession. Evidence was presented to show that no intimidation or undue influence had been used to get the confession out of McFarland,

Mrs. Sheedy and one of her sisters, both attired in black, were imperturbable, Walstrom looked as though he had not slept well last night, his hair being unkempt and his eyes red, while McFarland wore his usual grin, as though this was nothing but a picnic for him. There were numerous tilts between the opposing counsel, Captain Billingsley, who appeared for McFarland and Walstrom, and F. M. Hall of the prosecution having particularly acrimonious debates. McFarand on oyed these more than any one else in

This was during the afternoon, eighteen hours after his arrest. He was arrested by Melick and Inlone without a warrant, at his place of business on P street; informed him that he was arrested for the murder of John Sheedy. This was about 8 o'clock Saturday evening. [As Officer Malone appeared to be a night-mare to Attorney Philpott, he was removed from the room at this time.] The mayor asked McFarland to make a statemement, intimating that it would be better for him to make a clean breast of it and turn state's evidence. The mayor and Malone were present during the entire conversation; did not tell him he could have counsel if he wanted it. Did not speak to him again until the next day in regard to this murder. He was left in charge of Officer Kinney for the night; do not remember of any instructions that no one should see him. Next day he was brought to my office. Mrs. Sheedy told me a friend from Buffalo would be here shortly and would like to have me room with him. Met Walstrom at Windsor hotel some time in October. He said he would like to get a room together and left it to me to pick one out. I did so, and secured room 9. Heater block. I carried notes from Mrs Sheedy to Walstrom, and from Walstrom to Mrs Sheedy. Notes were not addressed. Carried about nine or ten. Also carried a basicst of victuals two or three times. Got it at kitchen; Mrs. Sheedy told me to call and get it. It was put up by Mrs. Sheedy; sometimes she was helped by the hired girl. I also took a small satin pouch which Wal-strom used to put his ring in. Carried a bundle from Walstrom to Mrs. Sneedy Saturday after Sheedy was killed. Carried no bundles from Mrs Sheedy to Walstrom. Have known Mrs. Sheedy five years; lived there about four years. Mrs. Sheedy told me she didn't think she would live with Mr. Sheedy long, as he had threatened to strike her, and she was going to get a divorce. I roomed with him all the time he was not out of town since I met him at the Windsor in October. Never knew of Mrs. Sheedy and Walstrom being together. Walstrom had been here once before and went from here to Omaha. He worked at the B. & M. yards as a machinist. Don't know who was boss, but worked about a month and a half after I knew him. He did nothing after that, but knew him. He did nothing after that, but stayed in his room most of the time. He said he came here for his health. I paid $1 and he paid $8 per month for the room. He paid it all and I paid him as I could. Malone and a Chicago detective threatened to put me in jail if I didn't tell all I knew, but I could not tell any more than I have now. Mrs. Carpenter was also called. Her prin-cipal testimony was to the effect that Mrs. Sheedy and Waistrom had met twice at her house.

Miss Norma Hood testified to having been told by Mrs. Sheedy that she and her husband had had trouble and she was going to leave him because he had threatened to kill her. Had seen Mrs. Sheedy and Walstrom at the performance of the U and I company at the opera house. They had been at her house once. Mrs. Sheedy had once referred Walstrom as my sweetheart. treated young men in town.
Officer Kinney was the first witness examined this afternoon. He testified that while Monday McFarland was in the city jail, the negro requested him to come to his cell. He did so. As McFarland first confessed to Kinney, a great objection was made by the attorneys for the defense against any further testimony being admitted. They carried the day and the witness was excused. Mayor Graham was the second witness ex-mined. He testified that he was present when Monday McFarland made his sion. Was invited to come by Marshal Melick. All that McFarland said was taken down by a short hand reporter. Witnercontinued: "I spoke to Mcl'arland first. Witness said: 'I understand that you wish to make a clean breast of matter and I advise you to go ahead and tell me all you know of this matter. Commence at the beginning.' I did not offer any inducement to him to make a confession. He needed no inducement on this occasion, as he was anxious to make it."

The next witness was Marshal Melick. It was understood by the defense that he was to submit the confession of McFarland in testimony and a bitter fight was entered against its admission. Numerous authorities were cited, whereby it was claimed that a confession made in the sweat box was not competent testimony. After a long controversy Judge Houston adjourned court until comorrow to take the matter under advise-

Mr. Leadnetter placed his blue lantern, the signal to every person not to move a car, by the side of the track and then crawled under the cars to inspect them. The audience, puz-zled at this abrupt opening, which had no ap-parent reference to the object of the convenon, remained silent until the senator re and added: "I want your answer before I go any further." At this the farmers in the audience, as by a common impulse, called out loudly, "Close it!" "We want it closed!"

"Oh, you want it closed." answered Sen-ator Koontz. "Now, I will tell you why I asked. I received bushels of letters at Lin coln from my constituents telling me what to do about the usury question. I open the first one and it reads. Fix the law so that in case of usury we may take principal and interest and hang the man who loaned us the money [Laughter, followed by cries of 'No, no.' Then I open another and it says: 'Be careful what you do about the usury law. Be conservative. If you try to be too radical you will crush the life out of the men in this part of the state,' [Loud ap-plause,] So with all the letters they are full plause, J so with all the letters they are full of contradictions. Now, I came here to face my constituents and ask you what you think of these radical measures. I believe we must bring capital and labor together and not drive them further apart. I want to protect the farmer in his rights, but I want to the railroad, the bank and every man and interest in their just rights, too. [Great applause.] We cannot make every man in this country equally prosperous or rich. Why, if I were to give all you men an equal sum of money apiece tonight, by a week from tonight one-third of the men would have two-thirds of the money [Laughter.] You can't make men different by passing laws. All you can do is to give every man equality before the law, and then let the devil take the hindermost. [Laughter and applause.]

"Now, I tell you men, my constituents, that I propose hereafter to vote my honest convictions. I am going to do my duty as I see it, regardless of caucus dicta-tion, and let the consequences be what they may. [Loud cheering.] We fought this campaign against injustice, and there has been wild talk about what we would do. It is true the farmers have been imposed upon, and that they have arisen in their might until they can outvote the republicans and democrats both together in the legislature, [Laughter.] We made the fight and won it. Now we are in a position to deal out justice or injustice. Which shall it bell I say, justice to all men alike, without regard to wealth or class. [Cries of "That's right," and long-continued applause]. Why, what nonsense it is to pretend that labor can be made prosperous by putting the knife into banks and bankers.

"Did you know that 90 per cent of all the farmers in this part of the state are in debt for their homes? Did you know that if you have a farm worth $1,500, mortgaged for $500, and if we pass radical usury laws or stay laws to wound capital, capital will strike back at you? What then? Then the man who holds your mortgage will foreclose it and you and your wife and children will be banks and bankers. and you and your wife and children will fugitives on the face of the earth. [Sen tion. I tell you, men, I used to have those wild ideas, but I have been down to Lincoln and met business men and learned sense. I tell you I won't vote for then I will vote for them under protest.

Loud cheers, ]
"When I ran for senator I was an alliance candidate. When I was elected I became the servant of all the people in the whole district.
When I come to vote on these questions I won't vote to ruin every farmer in the west-ern half of the state, neither will all the others. I think the press means to treat us fairly, but it gets its news from leaders that some of us won't follow. You'll find that there are several members that think as I do when we come to vote. We intend to do right, and if that don't suit you we'll take the consequences." [Loud cheering.]
The speech came from the senator's bonest heart and went straight home to his hearers.

In the course of it he predicted that the dem ocrats and republicans would not stand to-gether much longer in the legislature, and that some of the alliance men would stray from the fold. He afterward explained this remark to mean that several democrats and republicans would join alliance members in voting for conservative reforms.
Representative Ruggles from Dundy followed in a somewhat similar strain, but said they proposed to clean out the 3 per centers

Senator Koontz's speech created a profound impression on his audience, and he was overwhelmed with congratulations.

"Shaun Rhue," with Joseph Murphy in the stellar role of Larry Donavan, was produced last evening at the Boyd to a very large audience. For years Mr. Murphy has occupied foremost position among Irish comedians and not without reason. While he may lack the versatility of some of the younger actors who are playing in Irish comedy dramas, there are none who can equal him in his naturalness and his magnetism.

Mr. Murphy is quite capably supported, many of the members of the cast having been seen in Omaha before with the star. Miss Belle Melville was particularly satis-satisfactory in the part of Larry's sister, Kate Donavan, while Miss Ella Baker played the role of the outcast, Tim, remark blayed the role of the outcast, Tim, and ably well.

Mr. W. J. Cooney as Gerald Cavanagh, and Mr. H. N. Wilson as Morris Donovan, aided the star materially in the development of the story, in which virtue at least proves triumphant and villiany gets a very black eye.

The other members of the cast, while not particularly praiseworthy, were satisfactory.
During the action of the play Mr. Murphy sang his very touching song, "A Handful of Earth," which has been for the past twenty years a feature of his performances.

Hits the nail on the head -one of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They do the right thing in the right way. They cleanse and regulate the liver, stomach and bowels -thoroughly and effectively, but mildly and gently. They persuade, rather than force. One tiny, sugarcoated Pellet's a gentle laxative; three to four act as a cathartic. They're the smallest, but the best. There's less to take, but there's more good in it, when it's taken. They're the original Little Liver Pill, and they've never been equaled. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels, are prevented, relieved, and cured,

They're the cheapest pill you can buy, because they're guaranteed to give satisfa 1 in, or your money is returned.

"For several years I was troubled with boils and carbuncies. In casting about for a remedy, it occurred to me that Ayer's Sarsaparilla had been used in my father's family. with excellent success, and I thought that what was good for the father would also be this medicine entirely cured me, and I have not since - in more than two years - had a boil, pimple, or any other cruptive trouble. I can conscientiously speak in the highest terms of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and many years' experience in the drug business en-ables me to speak intelligently." - C. M.
