They Give Up the Fight. Several liquor injunction suits were dismissed in district court last week at the request of Jacob Sims, the prosecuting attorney. It had been whispered on the sly that Messrs, Sims & Saunders were becoming tired of the business in which they had peen engaged in so long, and some curiosity was felt as to whether the meaning of this dismissal was that as far as Messrs. Sims & Saunders were concerned, the saloonkeepers of Council Bluffs would be allowed to keep open with even more freedom than before.

Mr. Saunders is the authority for the statement that it is the intention of himself and partner to get rid of all that kind of business that they now have on the string, and when that is done, they do not intend to do any-thing more in that line. He gives as his rea-son for this step that the public sentiment of the city is too great against the prosecution of such cases to allow them to be effective.

Broke His Leg.

Mr. Crow, who lives on Lower Broadway, met with an accident night before last which will be apt to lay him up for some time. He attempted to alight from an eastbound motor as it was passing Thirty-fourth street. The train was in motion, though slowly, and under ordinary circumstances he would have been able to reach the ground in safety. The ice and snew, however, caused him to alip and fall, breaking a leg. He managed to get to his home, where a doctor was called and the limb was properly cared for.

THE NEWS IN THE BLUFFS.

An East Pierce Street Attorney Has an Unwelcome Visitor.

A DELIGHTFUL EVENT IN SOCIETY.

The Organized Fight Against the Saloons is Stopped for the Present-An Unfortunate West-Ender.

S. B. Snyder, the attorney, had a visitor last Monday night at his residence on East Pierce street. The visitor called while the man of the house was away. He used no ceremony whatever about getting in, and his call was hardly appreciated, judging from later developments. Mrs. Snyder had retired early, being in poor health. She was awakened at about 9:30 o'clock by a loud hammering at a door. Before could let the visitor in the blows proved to be too strong for the door and it flew open, admitting two men. One of them entered Mrs. Snyder's bed room, picked up a lamp from the table and went out with it announcing at the same time that he was an officer. He then went up stairs to a room that was occupied by a young lady, and demanded some papers that she had received from the Singer sewing machine company in connection with a business transaction which she had made with the company a few days before, threatening to arrest her if she did not comply with his demand at once. The young lady was very much frightened and at once gave up the when Mr. Snyder returned home and learned what had happened he was somewhat wrathy. He reported the affair to the police, and as soon as morning came set out on his own hook to find the trespasser. He at last came to the conclusion that a man named Hook, an employe of the Singer sewing machine company, was the guilty party, and an information was issued for his arrest in Justice Cones' court charging him with impersonat-Cones' court charging him with impersonating an officer.

Anniversary Sale at the Boston Store,
Just two years ago Saturday since the Boston Store, Courcil Bluffs, opened its doors to the public. The proprietors, Fotheringham, Whitelaw & Co., take this opportunity of thanking their thousands of patrons in Council Bluffs and surrounding country for their very liberal support and patronage.
Their aim at all times has been to give the very best value in everything they carry, having only one price and doing a strictly cash business, thereby doing away

COLORADO CORRUPTION.

It Will Be Investigated by a Grand Jury. DENVER, Feb. 3 .- The house this afternoon received the report of the bribery investigaion committee. The majority were of the opinion the house had been assailed by as corrupt a lobby as ever attempted to manipulate a legislature. They stated, among specific charges, that Otto Mears offered Representative Bowman $500 and Representative Hanna, on another occasion, offered him the chairmanship of a committee, on the condition, in each case, that he would support Speaker Hanna. It was also charged that Dr. Milton attempted to intimidate Bowman and Representative Mitchell was twice approached by parties, whom he refused to name, with $500 and $1,000 to support Hanna. Several other representatives had been apother representatives had been approached and the committee recommended that the testimony be submitted to a grand jury. A minority report, signed by Coombs, was to the effect that he would not endorse the majority report as Mitchell, Thornton and Chapman refused to name the persons offering them the bribes. They should be chapman refused to hame the bersiss should be compelled to do this or be expelled. Bow-man, the only man who named bribers, had, he said, been fiatly contradicted at every point. The majority report was adopted. The Connecticut Canvas.

LETTER CARRIERS DANCE. Fourth Annual Ball of the Omaha

Association.
The fourth annual ball of the Omaha Letter Carriers' association was given at the Collseum last night. It was a great success in every sense of the word.

Early in the evening the happy dancers began to arrive, and at 9 o'clock when the grand march was called, 200 couples danced to the strains of a musical union orchestra. The entire management of the dance was controlled by the carriers, who performed their duties as perfectly as though raised in The men in charge of the affair were as fol-

Tobin's Death Was Accidental. An inquest to determine the cause of death of Daniel Tobin, the Missouri Pacific switchman who fell off a freight train Sunday, was held yesterday. The engineer, fireman and train crew were examined, but their evidence brought out nothing of importance.

Phillip Barney, an employe in a lumber yard near the scene of the accident, testified that he saw Tobin standing on the rear end of the rear car of the train, facing towards the engine. Tobin was stamping his feet as though he was cold, and in doing this he made a misstep, falling from the car and striking on his head.

Owen Connolly, a boy who was in the lumber yard, testified that he saw Tobin standing on the rear end of the train, as described by Bareey, but did not see him fall.
