TAKEN BACK TO BE HANGED.

Murderer Holstein Will be Executed at Broken Bow April 1.

A costly railroad wreck at Lincoln.

An aged woman found in a starving condition—Doings in District Court—Thrown from His Horse—Odds and Ends.

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 14.—[Special to THE BEE.]—Holstein, who murdered two school directors near Broken Bow, Gustav county, was taken from the penitentiary this afternoon and this evening was taken by Sheriff Jones to Broken Bow, where he will be hung April 1.

As it will be remembered, the cause of the murder was a trifling quarrel over a clock.

A mass meeting was held at the residence of the late Mrs. J. W. G. near A street, was the scene of a very disastrous wreck last night. Train No. 78, drawn by engine No. 242, came from the west at a high rate of speed, and near the Salt creek bridge crashed into switch engine No. 216, which had just pulled to that end of the yard to throw some cars onto the iron works switch. Dan Green was the engineer in charge. The two engines met with a terrible crash, both going over the embankment and eight or ten cars following. Creedan was slightly hurt about the leg, and T. C. Swineford, a brakeman, seriously injured, although not dangerously so. The cars were filled with horses, cattle, hogs, etc. The scene of the wreck was witnessed this morning by hundreds of people and was well worth a visit. The fields on either side of the track are strewn with the carcasses of animals, some crushed to death, others dismembered, and one fine horse was lying face downward across a barb wire fence while on his back lay a cow. The engine was badly smashed. This morning while the big wrecking derrick, placed on the track was attempting to draw up a tender, it became unbalanced and went down the embankment with a crash. Traffic was temporarily stopped as the track was not cleared until afternoon. The passenger trains transferred their loads. The wreck will cost the company about $25,000.

A BAD STORY.

Two pretty young girls, apparently about sixteen years of age, called at police headquarters last evening to secure the assistance of officers in finding the mother of one of them. One of the young women told Captain Gardner that she had been living for some six or seven years with her grandparents in Des Moines, and during that time had not seen or heard from her mother. A few weeks ago she learned that her mother had been cooking in a restaurant in Omaha, and with her young friend she started to that city to find her. They were informed that the mother was in Lincoln. They came down yesterday, but could find no trace of the woman, and were finally directed to police headquarters. As soon as Mr. Gardner learned the mother's name and the daughter's description of her, he recognized her as the keeper of a notorious house of ill-fame near Eleventh and L streets. After consultation with Captain Miller the news was broken to the girl, who was greatly affected on hearing of her mother's fate. She utterly declined, however, to have anything to do with her mother, and said she would as soon as possible return to her Des Moines home. As neither had any money they were taken to the Women's Christian association home on South Eleventh street.

AN AGED WOMAN FOUND STARVING.

Mrs. Anderson, living at 1001 South Sixth street, reported to the police last evening that an elderly lady who was apparently crazy was making a disturbance there. The matter was referred to the county authorities and Deputy Sheriff Howe found the old lady in an unoccupied house at 717 H street in a very bad condition, with little clothing and nothing to eat. She was taken charge of. She

Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. George Pritchett entertained a number of friends at high five in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman of Salt Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Munroe and his mother, Mrs. Munroe, his aunt, Mrs. Wilson, of Bedford, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Beebe of Kansas City, are making the California tour in Mr. Munroe's private car.

"The Prodigal Son," a pantomime, which Mrs. Richardson saw in Paris last summer is to be given in Omaha during the Easter holidays for the benefit of one of the charities. Mrs. Richardson will superintend the production.

Four weddings are to take place in April, and society will have lots to think about in consequence. Dr. Bridges and Miss McGraw; Mr. Riley and Miss Nichols; Mr. Newman, New York and Miss Luna Dundy; Mr. Cannon and Miss New York and Miss Campbell.

Miss Nellie Hughes, who has been in attendance at the college for the past few years, has been compelled on account of sickness to give up her college work. She hopes, however, to make up her studies and go back to college in the fall. Her father, Mr. Duryea, came on Sunday and returned with her home.

A joyous coasting party monopolized the hill on St. Mary's avenue Wednesday evening. The participants were Mrs. D. H. Wheeler, Jr., Mrs. Baum, Mrs. Will Hedrick, Miss Thomas, Miss Knapp, Miss Babcock, Messrs. Wheeler, Baum, Hedrick, Scip Dundy, Will Duryea and Mrs. Philip H. Gray, Art Galloway, Ed Sherwood and Will Doane.

It was a rather remarkable sight to see Dr. Duryea officiate in the capacity of pastor and organist at the First Congregational church last Sunday. Mr. W. E. Jones, the organist, was ill and the doctor was compelled to read a hymn and then sit down and play it. There are a number of new curies in the country who can play so intelligently as Dr. Duryea. The doctor is a handy man to have around on occasions like last Sunday.

The Social Home club was entertained last Thursday evening by Mrs. and Mrs. J. H. Thompson. Mrs. M. Jones was the lady of the hour and Mr. Monroe the gentleman of the hour. The following were present: Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. M. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Driscoll, Mr. and Mrs. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Moore, Dr. and Mrs. Paul, Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Traynor, Mrs. Seymour and Mrs. Hubbard.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones will entertain the club next Wednesday evening.

Notwithstanding that the Lenten season has thrown somewhat of a pall over society, the Peerless club gave another of its most enjoyable parties Thursday evening. Thirty-five couples were present to dance a very nicely arranged programme of eighteen numbers. This club is fast coming to the front in society and it is due to the untiring efforts of Messrs. Stockham and Carpenter, president and treasurer respectively.

Owing to the crowded condition of last Sunday's society page the Peerless neglected to make a note of the interesting meeting of "The Club" held Monday evening, February 2, at the Lingerer art gallery, at which time Mr. E. C. Snyder, the editor of "The Bee," read a paper on "The English Drama," incidentally discussing the question whether the people have not outgrown Shakespeare. Although the meeting was a stormy upwards of thirty gentlemen were present to listen to Mr. Snyder's paper.

A cooking class, which really suggests a Dutch treat, had its initial meeting at the residence of Mrs. J. H. McConeil Friday afternoon. Each lady brought a dish which she had previously prepared. The hostess furnished the room and the service, and then the ladies enjoyed a luncheon that would have been a feast fit for the gods. Among the members are Mrs. McConeil, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Joe Barber, Mrs. Igo, Miss Lee, Miss Isaacs, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Richardson and Miss Bishop.

The next regular meeting of "The Club" will be on Monday, February 22, at the Lingerer art gallery, at 5 o'clock sharp. There will be no paper read at this meeting, but instead the club will debate the question, "Should our Government have the control of Railroads and Telegraphs by Purchase?" Mr. E. H. Scott will lead the affirmative and Mr. F. L. Haller the negative side. All members of the club are expected to participate in the debate. A full attendance is desired.

THE WOLFE CONFIDENCE GAME.

The Arrest of Three Men Leads to Interesting Developments.

Another interesting chapter was added to the C. E. Wolfe confidence game story yesterday afternoon by the arrest of Patrick Keyes, the man who drew Wolfe's money from the bank, Jim Norton, recently employed as watchman by the Swift packing company and formerly superintendent of the street sweeping gang, and J. A. Ennis, a private detective who has been about Omaha for some time.

The men were found at the Dram saloon, and Keyes and Ennis were considerably intoxicated. When brought face to face at the police station and questioned about the affair, Keyes told the whole story. He said that Ennis came to him and said that he was working for Chief Seavey and wanted to get hold of Wolfe's money to give to Mrs. Wolfe. He said Wolfe had defrauded his wife, and they wanted to get the money away from him so that they could give it to Mrs. Wolfe and then send Wolfe out of the country. Keyes said that Ennis offered him $25 if he would help do the job. He accepted the offer, believing all the time that the money was to be turned over to Mrs. Wolfe. He left the Dram saloon and went to Wolfe's boarding place just as Angel was sending the team stunts at Oliver Palmer's barn, and everybody about the house was excited over the discovery of the confidence game. Norton decided that it would not be safe to meddle further with the affair, so he went back down town and had a good time with the $10 that Ennis had given him.

Ennis was to drink yesterday afternoon very much about the case, but while Keyes was telling the story Ennis called him a liar several times, so it is quite evident that he will give another version of the case.

The sheriff from Ashland came up yesterday with a warrant for the arrest of Wolfe upon the grounds of adultery. From what he said it appears that the authorities at Ashland wanted to get Wolfe back after with his money in his pockets. They would have then had an opportunity to get it away from him for the benefit of the wife he deserted. It seems that Ennis was ostensibly working with that in view, but he changed the deal before the Ashland people had time to get a hand in the pot. Ennis had the superintendency to telegraph Mrs. Wolfe Friday afternoon after he and Keyes had turned the money in their pockets, that she must send them a check for $50 to help pay expenses, or he would be obliged to drop the case before the money was gotten away from Wolfe.

Wolfe was arrested last evening and will be held as a witness.

Keyes and Ennis were released upon bond but Keyes is still in jail. The arrears were made by Detectives Savage and Arze.

Board of Public Works.

The board of public works held a meeting of five minutes' duration yesterday afternoon. The final estimate of John Condon, amounting to $1,801.18, for grading Twenty-seventh street from Poppleton avenue to Hickory street, was allowed and a warrant will be drawn for the amount, providing it pays Hans Jensen, one of his men, the sum of $46.65.

ing to find out their friends and others trying not to be found out.

At 10 o'clock the grand march commenced, the gentlemen in one line and the ladies in another. As the lines passed through the folding doors each took a dainty souvenir from a box held aloft by two ladies, one for each line. Those whose souvenirs matched became partners for supper. The young people then divested themselves of their "costly sheets" and dominoes, and much merriment was created at the discoveries made. After the refreshments were served some very good music was listened to with appreciation.
