French Conversation. The intelligent members of Prof. Etienne Lambert's French class fully realize the wide difference between merely studying French and acquiring it, between pouring helplessly and end-lessly over books that are of no practical use, and being able to wield a variety of sentences at will and expressing their thoughts in corrrect French daily increasing their colloquial power. To enable all who desire to learn to speak French by a common sense method, the following classes will be commenced tomorrow at room 717 N. Y. Life building. Elementary at 10 a. m., 3:30 and 7 p. m., advance at 11 a. m. All interested should be present at opening lessons as above.

Don't fail to see the German play. Miss Ida Cordt as the "Lieutenant."

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The Eden Musee this week presents in the curio hall Mons. Lewonda, known as the modern Hercules, owing to his wonderful strength. Lewonda lifts with his teeth a eask containing fifty-two gallons of water, astride of which three men sit , making a combined weight of 1,300 pounds. He does many other feats of strength, but they are naugh compared with this feat. In the theater the famous Rinehart family again appear in their musical comedy, "A Doll's Dance," Iamous Rinchart lamily again appear in their musical comedy. "A Doll's Dance." Madame Rinchart and her beautiful daughters are well known throughout the country and need no introduction to an Omaha avdience, for they are favorites here. The comedy is one series of beautiful songs and dainty, graceful dances. The dancing and singing of Beatrice Rinchart is of exceptional merit and she will rehart is of exceptional merit and she will re-ceive a royal wescome on her return. In addition to these attractions Sevicle, the noted Irish commiss, has been engaged, as also has Austin, the great musical master who plays on a score of different instruments. Dives Royal marionettes, music actors on a mimic stage, is another pleasing feature and will help all to pass an hour profitably and dress box D 30, Bee.

KOCH'S LYMPH.

A Bottle of it in Possession of Dr. Grossman of This City. Dr. P. Grossman of this city has received a bottle of Koch,s famous lymph, which was procured for him by his brother, Julius Grossman, who is librarian for the Emperor William. The precious fluid was sent through the mails securely packed in a box made of a block of soft wood in which a hole had been bored and the bottle inserted in the cavity. The bottle contained four scruples of lymph, which is a dark brown liquid of about the consistency of simple syrup. Accompanying the lymph was a circular issued by Dr. Libbertz, Dr. Koch's assistant, giving full directions for making solutions of the lymph and the manner in which the remedy should be administered. It was stated in this circular that the lymph would keep for a long time in its original form, but the solutions were likely to spoil and, therefore, should be made fresh each time.

According to this circular one or two drops of a 1 per cent solution of the lymph consti-tutes a dose. This solution should be made of 1 per cent of the lymph and 99 per cent of carbolized water.

The circular further stated that experience has demonstrated that the best place to in-ject the lymph was under the skin between the shoulder blades or in the lumbar region. Some time before receiving the lymph Dr. Grossman received two the hypodermic syringes devised by Prof. Koch for injecting the lymph. These syringes have no piston, the fluid being injected by means of air pres-

Dr. Grossman is an enthusiastic admirer of Prof. Kuch and has great faith in the efficacy of the remedy. He will treat the first case of lupus which presents itself and will invite members of the medical fraternity and representatives of the press to witness the experiment. He states that Prof. Koch never intended that the head when the red. tended that the lymph should be used in advanced stages of tuberculosis as it would produce death in such cases. It was intended to be used in the incipient stages of tuber-culosis to arrest the progress of the disease.

The Grand Army fair which comes off at the Coliseum on March 4, 5 and 6 will undoubtedly be a grand success.

The business men of Omaha are helping this affair by donating costly and handsome presents. A number of city lots, a fine piano, sets of furniture, silver sets and hundreds of elegant presents have already been donated.

The funds raised by the fair are to be devoted to the relief of the suffering comrades in the state and are to be in the hands of a finance and relief association composed of prominent members of the Grand Army of the Public and Women's Relief Corps, who will see that the money is expended in the proper way.

SCHOOL BOARD INVESTIGATION. The Committee Completes Its Labors

and is Ready to Report. The long promised investigation of the examining board that grants certificates to the teachers of the Omaha schools has been concluded and the committee, consisting of Euclid Martin, C. J. Smythe and F. R. Mc-Connell, will report the findings to the board of education tomorrow night. The final meeting was held last night with Dr. Merriam, Prof. Lewis and Charles Connoyer on the

The doctor, who was in charge of the examinations in geography and physiology, admitted that at the last examination he had raised the standing of some of the teachers in order that they might pass. He had looked the paper over and concluded that his questions were too hard.

Mr. Martin, the chairman of the committee, could not understand the doctor's system of marking.

Miss ----, in bounding Douglas county, had answered that it is bounded on the north by Nemaha county and on the coast by Iowa, failing to say anything beyond this. On this answer she was marked 70 out of a possible 100. The doctor thought the lady showed a general knowledge of the subject. Mr. Smythe thought she knew nothing about it.

Another lady was marked 100 by answering that the state of California is bounded on the east by the Guif of California, on the north by Oregon and on the west by the Pacific ocean. The doctor explained by stating be wanted to be liberal. Another young lady was marked 80 for stating that Virginia, West Virginia and Alabama are the three principal cotton producing states. The doctor insisted that the marking on this answer was liberal, while Mr. Martin insisted that the answer was dead Another young lady was marked 100 for giving the correct boundaries of the state of Nebraska, though she failed to name the rivers of the state or the capital, though this was a part of the question. Again the doctor argued that it is necessary to be liberal.

There were two teachers who had been asked to name eight rivers flowing into the gulf of Mexico. One of them mentioned five and the other four rivers. The one who named five was marked 100, while the other got but 69. The doctor could not explain why this was so.

The doctor informed the committee that he had always attempted to be fair and had never been influenced by any person. Prof. Lewis of the examining board was called to explain his system of wording. It was satisfactory to the committee. After this he stated that in no case had he raised the standing of any applicant who was before him. Mr. Lewis thought it would be a good plan for all of the members of the examining board to meet and make up the results. At the December examination this was not done, as the other members of the committee did not call upon him. "Mr. Lewis, do you know," said Mr. Mc-Connell, 'that the examiners who had geog-raphy and physiology raised eight of the ten applicants who passed and were granted pri-mary certificates?" 'I did not know that," resumed Mr. Lewis, "but I hardly see how it could have been done fairly, as some of them, it would seem, should have been marked down rather than "Mr. Lewis, I want to suppose a case," said Mr. Martin. "If you asked a teacher to bound Douglas county and give its size, and she should say it is bounded on the north by Nemaha county and is 140 miles long, saving nothing more about, what would you say such an answer would entitle the applicant "Well," laughed Mr. Smythe, "one examiner gave an applicant 70 on this answer."

"I think," added Mr. Lewis, "that this committee should go further than simply examining these papers. Charges have been made that members of the examining committee have been guilty of selling certificates As far as I am concerned I care nothing for this, as I am innocent, but it would be well to investigate and find out if such is the Secretary Connoyer was called before the committee and stated that all of the papers had been kept under lock and key since they were placed on file. He was sure that nonof them had been copied by any person for any purpose. He was also positive that none of the papers had been taken from the office

shoe stock with W. R. Bennett & Co. Mr. Ackerman was exceedingly popular with his fellow clerks, and after business hours last night they gave him a very pleasant banquet at Maurer's cafe. An excellent menu was discussed, after which speeches were made by members of the party. All of the remarks were similar in one respect, every speaker expressed his regret at Mr. Ackerman's separation from them, and each wished him great success in his new yenture.
