In superior court yesterday morning the case of E. E. Hart vs L. A. Gray was tried and submitted to the court. A continuance was agreed upon in the case of Kennedy vs Smith.

There will be a meeting of the married ladies at St. Bernard hospital Thursday afternoon, March 5, at 3 o'clock, to arrange for work in the interest of the fair. All are invited.

All the employes in the county clerk's office yesterday were put at work fixing up papers for pensioners. During the day over two hundred and fifty of these papers were thus filled out.

Rev. D. M. Helmick, who is now located at Wichita, is in the city for a brief stay. He has been conducting a series of revival meetings at his church and they have been attended with wonderful success, there having been 140 conversions.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Greene are rejoicing over the arrival of their first born, a bright boy, who came on election day to gladden their home and to give Mr. Greene a greater incentive to push the interests of the Council Bluffs paint and oil company.

Three cases of diphtheria are now at the Rickabaugh residence, 1107 South Eighth street. On Monday Claude and Catharine, aged ten and twelve years, were taken down, and yesterday another case was reported, Maggie, aged four years, being the victim.

The city treasurer completed his report yesterday, showing the financial business of the city during the month of February. According to his report, the total receipts have been $70,830.57 and the overdrafts $5,830.73, leaving a total balance on hand of $34,999.84.

At the annual meeting of the Council Bluffs Building, Loan and Savings association the following officers were elected for the coming year: Secretary, D. W. Otis; treasurer, John Bennett; counsellor, D. C. Bloomer; board of directors, J. T. Oliver, John Brown and A. S. Hazelton. The board of directors have elected C. B. Waite president and William Arnd vice president.

During the last few days a number of young men, or rather boys, found out that a small room on the west side of the court house was a cosy place to loaf and play cards while the wintry winds were blowing outside. They were unmolested for several days, but finally one of the officials discovered their snap, and they were fired out bodily yesterday by the janitor. They left the deuce of spades and a large pool of tobacco juice to mark the spot where they had been.

M. Jameson was arrested yesterday by Officer Beswick at the Northwestern depot for drunkenness. When he arrived at the police station and was was searched, a quantity of stuff which would almost fill a bushel basket was taken from his pockets. Among other things, four brushes, two razors, three combs, a razor strop and a lot of shaving soap were found on him. It was the opinion of the officers that Jameson had burglarized a barber shop and that he had not succeeded in getting rid of the booty.

Ernest Barbeau and several other small boys have been in the habit of committing petty depredations in the western part of the city lately. Yesterday Barbeau was arrested by Constable Austin on information filed by Samuel Haas, charging him with malicious destruction of property, in breaking a number of lights in the canning factory. The officer then started out with the boy to catch the other boys who are implicated in the affair. The men who are interested in the canning factory say they are bound to put a stop to such proceedings if it is among the possibilities.

At the last meeting of the Union depot company, which took place Tuesday evening, the board of directors elected last year was re-elected for another year, with Leonard Everett in the place of his father, the late Horace Everett. In the course of the discussion of the advisability of pushing the depot project at once, a letter from General G. M. Dodge was read, advising the company to wait until the railroads were better able to stand the expense. He further stated that he would be in the city within the next two weeks, and would consult with the members of the company at that time.

The Boartz Case.

In the district court yesterday the Boartz murder trial continued to be the drawing attraction. A large crowd was in attendance, and the greatest interest was manifested, although there was hardly anything that could be called new or sensational in the way of evidence. The state rested its case shortly after the opening of the afternoon session, and the remainder of the day was taken up with the testimony for the defense. At the close of the afternoon session, just after court had been adjourned by the bailiff, Mrs. Boartz, the wife of the prisoner, who has been present during the whole trial, was overcome by her feelings and broke into an uncontrollable fit of weeping. She was surrounded by several of her women friends, who tried to console her as best they could. It was a very affecting scene.

In all probability the last of the evidence on the side of the defense will be in before noon today.

THE NEWS IN THE BLUFFS.

The Council Meets for the Last Time With Its Present Personnel.

A PUGNACIOUS FIREMAN IN TROUBLE.

A Suit to Collect a Church Subscription—Preparations for the Opening of the New Hotel—A New Directory.

Last evening the last council meeting took place that will be held with the council constituted as it now is. The mayor and all the aldermen were present, and the object of the meeting was to put the finishing touches on the work of the year.

The report of the finance committee was read and placed on file.

On motion it was decided to place a fire hydrant at the corner of Fourteenth avenue and Seventeenth street.

In regard to the sewage tax which is now in controversy, it was decided to accept 75 cents per lot from the property owners in full payment for all sewage, instead of making any sewer refund.

The city engineer reported that no bids had been received for the construction of the bridge on Mynster street.

After discussion it was decided not to seek for bids.

On motion of Alderman Wood it was decided not to require the city weighmaster to pay into the city treasury the 20 per cent of his receipts which it had been specified that the city should receive. It was stipulated, however, that the weighmaster should keep the scales in proper condition.

The ordinance accepting the plat of Babbitt place was read the second time. Among the was made to place it upon its third reading, and was carried, Aldermen Kiepher and Mikesell voting no. The ordinance was then passed, with the same opposition. The city engineer was authorized to read his tabulated statement of the bids for the filling of Babbitt place. On motion the contract was let to the lowest bidder, who was Contractor Sorenson.

On motion it was decided to lay over the bill for sewerage on Second avenue, which was sent in by J. B. Smith & Co., in order that the work might be completed before the allowing of the bill.

An ordinance for the grading of avenue A from Sixteenth street to Twenty-sixth street was read, passed to its second and third readings and adopted.

A petition of property owners for the grading of First and Second avenues between Thirteenth and Sixteenth streets. Third avenue be Fourteenth and Sixteenth streets, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh avenues between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets, and Fifteenth street from Broadway to Eighth avenue was read. D. G. Morgan appeared before the council and spoke in behalf of the petitioners for its adoption.

The ordinance was passed, Aldermen Casper and Wood voting no.

The subject of bills was then taken up. The first on the list was the police bill, for $1,483.52. Everyone expected to see some fun when it showed its fact, from the warm reception it received when it was brought up Monday night, but beyond a cynical smile on Smith's face, and a hearty "no!" when he registered his vote, there was nothing to indicate that any thing particular had happened.

The bill for special policemen for election at $2.50 apiece was allowed, also the bills for election registrars, clerks and judges. The latter bills, however, were cut down considerably before they were allowed.

Officer Holder presented a bill for $10 for special services while working as a detective. Alderman Smith called Holder to account for the $10. Holder would not say what he had spent it for and he became somewhat wrathy when Smith insinuated that he had spent it for drinks. The bill was finally referred to the police commissioner pending investigation.

Alderman Casper moved that the chief of police be allowed a salary of $100 a month for the ensuing year. A death-like silence followed this motion, which was broken at last by Alderman Smith.

"Well, I'd like to know what he's getting now. You just allowed his bill for $100 for last month. What do you want to make such a motion as that for?"

"Oh, to keep you from kicking," said Casper.

"I shan't vote for it until you get another man for chief," said Smith.

Everett thought the motion would better be postponed until the new council should meet. Wood said no; the present council raised the chief's salary when it was new and now Smith kicked and said it was illegal. It wouldn't do to have another experience like that next year.

Then Smith took a turn. He thought the police department was costing twice as much as it ought to; the taxes were too heavy already.

"Now, Mr. Chairman," said Casper, drawing his massive form up to its full height, "I wonder if the gentleman thought of that when he was rushing around getting this new fire engine house put in. He ran the city way into debt then, and now he comes around with his little, pleayunish, 10 cent schemes for saving money."

Here Mr. Casper's indignation got the better of his speaking capacity, and his ebullition was brought to an untimely end.

"That's out of order, Mr. Chairman," remarked Smith, and Casper sat down, everybody laughed and the motion to raise the chief's salary went through with a rush, Smith alone voting no.

Routine business occupied the rest of the evening, after which Aldermen Everett, Knepher and Mikesell bade a long farewell to the council chamber, which they will visit no more as aldermen, for the present. The votes cast last Monday will be formally counted this afternoon by the mayor and city clerk as the law provides, and at the next meeting Aldermen Pace, Van Brunt, Brown and Graves will take their seats.

Preparations for a Banquet.

For several months past there has been talk of a banquet to be given at the time of the opening of the Grand hotel, as a means of calling the attention of the general public to the fact that Council Bluffs has at last something in the way of a hotel that will compare with any in the land. Whether this would prove to be anything but talk was a question which was asked by many, from the fact that the arrangements had been left in the hands of the board of trade, an organization which has occasionally let things go by default. The board is now showing signs of redeeming itself, however, and at present the prospects of having a banquet are very good. The first start which has been made by the board is the appointing of the following committees, which are to have the entire supervision of the preparations for the evening:

Arrangements—T. J. Evans, E. W. Hart, S. P. MacConnell, L. Wells and J. F. Kimball.

Invitations—W. H. M. Pusey, G. F. Wright, E. L. Shugart, T. Bowman and Spencer Smith.

Reception—D. Macrae, John Schoentgen, William Moore, F. H. Hill, John Beno, L. Everett, J. L. Stewart, F. Wies and H. H. Van Brunt.

Toastmaster—John N. Baldwin.

The banquet will be given as near as possible to April 1, which is the time set for the opening of the hotel. The most elaborate arrangements are to be made by the citizens who are working it up. Invitations will be sent to the governors of Iowa and Nebraska and to many of the leading citizens of this city and of Omaha. The first part of the evening will be devoted to speeches on the lower floor of the building. Among other things, an account will be given by one of the members of the board of trade of the hotel project from the time the first propositions were made by the originators of the scheme until the present.

One banquet will be served in the ordinary arrangements being made to seat fifty at a time. The large dining room on the top floor will be used for dancing. It has been decided to place the price of tickets for the entertainment at 5 per couple.

Further than above stated the details for the banquet have not been made, but the different committees are busily at work, and it is certain that no such advertisement of the city has ever been made as will be made in the coming opening of the hotel.

Once Too Often.

A fight took place at a late hour Tuesday night in the Manhattan, between "Reddy" Dysinger and Charles Nicholson, the latter a member of the fire department. Dysinger was playing billiards in the rear room when Nicholson came in with a large enough jag on board to make him feel like warming someone up. Nicholson stepped up behind Dysinger, who was just in the act of striking a ball, and said, "If that — — — — strikes that ball I'll knock his head off and if he don't hit it I'll knock him anyway." Dysinger went on to play, but he had no sooner done so than Nicholson struck him a sounding blow over the head with a billiard cue which he had picked up. Dysinger was almost stunned, but he had enough of his senses left to strike at Nicholson in return. Several bystanders rushed in and caught the aggressive fireman before he could do any further damage and threw him out of the back door. In a few minutes he reappeared at the front door and that part of the programme was repeated. Nicholson's face was badly scratched in the melee, but further than that he was unhurt. Dysinger was not so fortunate. A great welt was raised over the temple, where the cue had struck him. After Nicholson had been put out the second time he left for home, and has not been seen since.

Chief Levin of the fire department made an investigation of the affair yesterday afternoon and found that Nicholson had been the one to blame, and that his attack was wholly unprovoked. Nicholson has been the aggressor in a number of similar cases, and the council has several times threatened to expel him from the department if he did not mend his ways. It was only about a month ago that a thorough investigation was made by the chairman of the fire committee to find out whether certain charges of drunkenness which had been made against Nicholson were true or false. The report of the investigation was that no proof could be obtained to show that any of the firemen were in the habit of becoming intoxicated, and the trouble blew over. Chief Levin stated yesterday afternoon that the present case called for something beside talk, and that Nicholson would be removed from the department. He said that Nicholson had not been at the hose house since Tuesday, but as soon as he returned his walking papers would be served on him.

A Suit by a Church.

Yesterday the case of M. T. Shiffmacher vs R. Carroll was to be tried in the superior court. Just before it came to trial, the plaintiff's attorney announced that the defendant had settled the full amount of the claim, and the case was therefore dismissed. The suit was of some interest from its novelty. Carroll, a wealthy farmer of Neola, was presented with a subscription list several years ago, with a request that he sign something to help in the erection of a Catholic church in Neola. Carroll accordingly signed $200. When it came time to pay up he refused to settle, and suit was thereupon begun to collect the amount due. It dragged along until yesterday, when Carroll paid Shiffmacher, the agent of the church, $200, and the war was declared off.

A New Directory.

Council Bluffs has the promise of a new directory a—real directory—one that will contain a complete and accurate list of the residents and business houses. In addition there is to be a complete list of all the farmers of this county, with location and the post-office address. J. P. Bushnell is the compiler. He has added fifteen years experience in this line since he first attempted such a work for this city, and as a local company has undertaken the publication, there is every assurance that the work will be in fact, as in name, a directory. The work is already in course of preparation.

Thought He Knew It All.

He was a smart young man and he thought he knew it all, says the Chicago Tribune.

"I'm going to feel that barber," he said to a friend as they started for a shave. "I'm in for the hole program today and I'm going to fool him."

"How?" queried the friend.

"How? Just by forestalling him. When I go in for a shave he says 'Hair cut?' If I take that it's 'Little oil, sir?' and so on. I'm going to fool him if it costs me $1.50. Watch me!"

He settled himself in the chair with great deliberation. Then he said:

"I want a shave and a hair-cut. I also want a shampoo——"

"Yes, sir; dry or regular?" broke in the barber.

He was a trifle disconcerted, but he didn't give up.

"Dry," he said. "I don't care for any oil on my hair and I wish it parted on the left side. You may wax my mustache a little, but don't curl it too much on the ends. I don't care for any sea foam, but you may use a little bay rum. After you are through with me I will have a shine and have my coat brushed off. Then I'll tip the porter. By the way, I want my hair cut short in the back and brushed up a little on the sides."

"Yes, sir;" said the accommodating barber betraying not the least surprise. "Have your hair singed, too? It'll do it good."

And the smart young man looked painfully embarrassed.

Will Vote for Streeter.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 4.—The senatorial contest will probably reach a crisis tomorrow. The republican state central committee, and the republican steering committee had a conference tonight and a formal meeting of both bodies will be held again tomorrow, when all members of the state committee be present to take decisive action. So far as the conference indicated tonight, the state central committee will, with the possible exception of Chott and Evans, decide unanimously in favor of exerting every influence to throw the full party vote to Streeter.

SAYS HE WAS ROBBED.

Police Raid a Gambling House on John Anderson's Complaint.

At 1 o'clock last night John Anderson appeared at the police station and complained that he had been robbed at a gambling table over Hornberger's saloon, at 1321 Douglas street. Detective Vaughn with a squad of patrolmen sallied forth to pull the gambling place complained of. When the officers reached the foot of the stairs leading to the rooms over Hornberger's saloon, someone—supposed to have been Henry Hornberger—in the room below pulled a bell cord, giving the men in the rooms above a warning. Then there was a sound of shuffling of feet, a hurrying to and fro. The door at the head of the stairs was closed against the officers and they had to wait a few moments before it was opened. When the officers walked in they found fifteen men in the room. No one was engaged in gambling, so the officers could not make an arrest. They took possession of the devices, which consisted of two roulette wheels and a poker table with a quantity of chips.

Anderson was held as the complaining witness and was the only man who can give any reasonable explanation of the affair.

GERMANY WILL BE THERE.

Merchants Decide to Make An Exhibit at the World's Fair.

BERLIN, March 4.—[Special Cablegram to THE BEE.]—A committee of merchants, appointed to consider the question, today decided in favor of making an exhibit at the world's fair to be held in Chicago. The committee also decided to request Baron Von Berlepsch, minister of commerce and industry, to nominate an imperial commissioner for the world's fair, whose duty it shall be to obtain all the facilities possible for a proper exhibit, and to arrange for the conveyance to Chicago of the goods the German merchants send for exhibition purposes, and to make the other arrangements necessary for the successful carrying out of the German merchants' part of the exhibition.

London's Inefficient Police.

LONDON, March 4.—[Special Cablegram to THE BEE.]—Popular indignation against the police authorities runs very high and the feeling is not confined to the lower classes. Sir Edward Bradford's failure to detect the Whitechapel assassin has had a discouraging influence as to public opinion of his capability. Much was expected from him at the time of his appointment, and the revulsion from the former estimate is serious. The failure of the police also to arrest a man who robbed a bank clerk in broad daylight of nearly £15,000 arouses apprehension in breasts not affected by the Whitechapel murders. It is said there are gangs of men in London who make it a business to become acquainted with the minor workings of every bank and every clerk who is in the habit of handling large amounts in coin or notes. Why are those gangs not broken up! the people are asking, and comparisons are drawn with Paris and New York unfavorable to London.

A BOY'S STRANGE STORY.

Kidnaped When a Child and Now Falls Heir to Thousands.

CHICAGO, March 4.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—Henry J. Ferguson, aged fifteen years, a bell boy in a hotel, told a strange story to the police today. He says he was kidnaped when he was five years old and that he lived until recently with a farmer near Monmouth, Ill. He learned that his people lived in New York state. Finally he escaped and came here. He advertised in a New York paper with good results. He showed a letter from Lawyer Andrews of Canandaigua, N. Y., together with the one signed by the clerk of the surrogate court, Ontario county, New York, which state that he was co-heir to a large fortune left by his aunt, Mrs. Mary Conover of Canandaigua, who died two years ago leaving an estate valued at $150,000, the bulk of which is left to her brother, August J. Ferguson, the father of the young narrator, who, by his father's death becomes heir to $80,000. The lady is now trying to find through the police certain relatives believed to be in Chicago, whose testimony Lawyer Andrews says will be necessary to technically perfect young Ferguson's claim to the estate.

THE SEAL OF WYOMING.

Legislators Object to the Greek Slave Design Upon It.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 4.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—An amusing predicament has resulted in this state over the legislation of the first Wyoming legislature in regard to the state seal. The design adopted by the lower house was a picture of mines and ranches, over which was a platform of equal rights, upon which stood the clothed figure of a woman, from whose arms broken chains were falling, representing the enfranchisement of women in the new state. It is now discovered that someone either in the senate or after the bill passed that body and before it reached the governor, substituted a design which was a copy of the original except the figure of the woman was nude. This design was attached to the bill approved by the governor and is the legal seal. The house members are protesting vigorously against having the seal made and under the circumstances the governor will use the old territorial seal until the next legislature when the figure can be properly clothed.

A Struggle for Office.

GUTHRIE, Okl., March 4.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—In the contest case between the old county officials (republicans) and the newly elected officials (farmers' alliance), Judge Green decided that the old officials should turn over their offices, books and papers to the new.

Miss Cora, Diehl, elected by the farmers' alliance to the office of register of deeds, called with friends upon the county commissioners and demanded her office together with the records, etc. The commissioners on a technicality refused to order the present register to comply with her demand. Miss Diehl's friends became excitedly indignant and one of them called for a rope. All her friends agreed that there might be a hanging if she were kept out of office. The commissioners promised to do what was right and the excitement subsided. There will be trouble if Miss Diehl is not permitted to take the office.

BASEBALL MATTERS.

Proceedings of the National Meeting of the Board—New Contracts.

NEW YORK, March 4.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—The national baseball board today granted the International league protection under the national agreement dating from February 13, the date of application. The International was placed in class "B." The only difference that exists between class "A," composed of the National and Western leagues, and class "B," whose sole member is the International league, is that either member of class "A" can draw upon International clubs for players at the rate of $1,000 for the release of any player. Each club of the International will have to pay $175 for protection under the national agreement. The salary limit will be $2,500 per month for each club, no player to receive more than $200 for that time. Umpires receive $150 a month besides expenses. In regard to Tim O'Rourke of the Syracuse club signing with Minneapolis of the Western association, the board could take no action other than to permit the Minneapolis club to hold him. Mr. Frazer was very outspoken in condemning this action. When he signed the contract to withdraw from the association he gave up all claim on his players, but the association men assured him they would do all they could to let him keep them. The National league and Western association did not agree to anything bearing on the subject, so they had a right to step in and take every Syracuse, Rochester and Toledo player just as soon as those clubs resigned from the National agreement. Toledo has lost none of its players, Rochester has lost one to Milwaukee and Syracuse lost one to Minneapolis.

The national board adopted two new forms of contracts. These contracts will go into effect on March 15 and will be used by all clubs that are members of the national agreement. If the first form of contract the provision is made for a seven months' season, with a renewal clause for one or more successive seasons, just as is contained in the old form approved by the league at the meeting in November last. The second form is more comprehensive and provides for a term of years without any renewal clause. The salary under it is to be divided into twelve monthly or twenty semi-monthly payments in each year, but there is a proviso that nothing in the contract shall be construed to require of the player any service whatever between the seasons except obedience to the regulations of the club and of the board relative to the physical training and moral discipline of the players. Both forms will be regular, discretion being allowed clubs and players to execute. Both conform to the national agreement and both provide for their annulment in law when the club or players withdraw from the protection of the national agreement. Among the amendments to the contract is one providing for the insertion of the words: "Club member of the national agreement of professional baseball associations." This identifies the club and is expected to break the contract when the club or association withdraws from the national agreement. Another amendment gives the player a right to appeal to the national board in addition to an appeal to the board of directors of the league in cases of a fine or suspension by such board. Another paragraph provides that if any club or league withdraws from the national agreement all rights shall be forfeited at the option of the players. If the contract with the national agreement shall be assigned all obligations go with the assignment.

At the night session the league agreed to back a league club in Cincinnati.

JOB'S NEWS.

A Sensational Story.

DES MOINES, Ia., March 4.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—There was a sensational story published by a local democratic paper this morning to the effect that trouble exists in the postoffice department of this city, which is likely to end in the decapitation of the official head of Superintendent Christie of the east side and might extend to Postmaster Brandt. Sometime ago Christie discharged a mail carrier, who in revenge, it is said, circulated such damaging reports concerning Christie that an investigation was asked for and is now in progress. Officials of the postoffice department, when seen this evening, denied that there was anything in the charges and said the investigation would disclose only the malice of Mr. Christie's accusers.

The strikers claimed that their cells were not sufficiently warm, and when their demand for better quarters were refused broke all the jail windows. They were finally overpowered.

World's Fair Plans.

CHICAGO, March 4.—The general plan of grounds and buildings for the world's fair were completed today. Jackson park is divided into five parts, of which the one north (ground already improved), is reserved for state and foreign government buildings, with possibly the art palace. The main exposition is to the front, on a lagoon, and to the east will be a curved pier, extending far into Lake Michigan, and made beautiful with buildings and ornamentation designed by Sculptor St. Gauden. The state buildings will be disposed on streets laid out for the purpose, giving each as near as possible a place of equal prominence. The administration building is to be surmounted with a gilded dome, rising to the height of the Auditorium tower.

The contractors having in hand the work at Jackson park announced today that they will advance the wages of laborers to $1.75 per day on April 1.

Electric lights are to be put up and the work continued night and day in eight-hour shifts.

Located the Securities.

WILMINGTON, Del., March 4.—The missing state securities have, presumably, been located. Dr. Henry Ridgley, president of the Farmers' bank of Dover, who ex-Governor Cochrane says took $647,440 of the missing securities to Philadelphia for safe keeping in 1875, tonight said the state's transactions in that year were with the Philadelphia National bank, and it is supposed the securities are now in that institution.

Each Season

Has its own peculiar malady; but with the blood maintained in a state of uniform vigor and purity, by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the system readily adapts itself to changed conditions. Composed of the best alteratives and tonics, and being highly concentrated, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the most effective and economical of all blood medicines.

"For some years, at the return of spring, I had serious trouble with my kidneys. I was unable to sleep nights, and suffered greatly with pains in the small of my back. I was also afflicted with headache, loss of appetite, and indigestion. These symptoms were much worse last spring, especially the trouble with my back. A friend persuaded me to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I began taking it, and my troubles all disappeared."—Mrs. Geneva Belanger, 24 Bridge st., Springfield, Mass.
