Some of the citizens of the western part of the city have taken THE BEE to task for alluding to the new school house on the Coch ran tract as the Streetsville school. They state that the building is not in Streetsville at all, and that if it were they would not want it to be called by that name, because they do not like it. They prefer the name which has been given to the building by the school board, viz., the Second avenue building.

John Gaston, a brakeman on the North-western road, met with an accident Wednes-day night while entering the city. He was running over a flat car which was loaded with coal, when his foot slipped and he was thrown headlong to the ground, striking on his head. He was picked up unconscious and taken to the Woman's Christian association hospital, where he is now being cared for. Beyond some severe bruises about the head his case is not considered serious.

George Wilson was on trial in police court vesterday morning on a charge of disturbing the peace. Martin Hughes was the prose-cuting witness. Mr. Hughes stated that cuting witness. Mr. Hughes stated that Wilson came to his house on Wednesday and wanted to get something to eat. He was told to go around to the back door and his request would be complied with. The servant pre-pared a meal for him, and put it on the kitchen table, telling him to help himself. The idea of being invited to eat in the kitchen was too much for Mr. Wilson, and he indignantly refused. He was told to move on if he was not satisfied with the way things were done at that hotel. He refused to move on, and said he was going to eat in the dining room whether or no. Mr. Hughes said he was mistaken. In the dispute that followed Mr. Wilson was ejected from the premises. Work of a Fire Bug. Yesterday morning the fire department was called out again by an alarm from the same building, at the corner of Avenue I and and Twenty-second street, where the fire occurred on Wednesday afternoon. The fire originated in a closet, and was communicated to the late and joists in such a way that a large piece of the wall of the building had to be torn away in order to allow the firemen to get at the flames. They were finally extinguished before the whole building was destroyed, but the damage from the flames and the tearing out of the wall together will not fall far short of $100. It is thought that it was the work of an incendiary, as since the fire of Wednesday the house had been unoc-cupied, and there had been no fire on the

MARCUS' LOSS AND HIS INSURANCE.

Several Thousand Dollars Gone Up-Mary Macanley's Broken Arm-Steadman Contradicts Snyder-Other Matters.

J. C. Greenawalt was arrested yesterday afternoon by Officer Murphy, on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretences. It was stated in these columns some time ago that a man had been soliciting subscriptions of cash and clothing for the poor, claiming that he was working for Mrs. C. A. Hammer and Mrs. A. C. Davis, who have done considerable work in the charity line during the past winter. Greenawalt was the man referred to. At that time he was warned that if he did not turn over a new leaf he would be arrested, but he told a straight story, Salming that he had the permission of Mrs. Hammer, and was allowed to go free. A few days ago he was found doing the charity act again. Mrs. Hammer was asked whether she had given anyone authority to solicit slothing in her name, and she replied that she had not; if any one pretended that she had, they were mistaken. The police therefore kept watch for Greenawalt and he was arrested yesterday.

When told what was wanted of him he stoutly protested his innocence of anything wrong, and told again of a conversation he had had with Mrs. Hammer, in which she had told him to go and get all the clothing he could and give them to the poor. He claimed that all the stuff he had obtained in this way had gone to families that were really destitute, and gave the names of some of the parties that had thus been bene-

The police claim that they have evidence that will show that Greenawalt traded some of the clothing that was given him, estensibly for the poor, to a man for some chickens. The chickens, it is alleged, did not go to feed the poor, but were used satisfying Mr. Greenawalt's own appetite for fowls. This act, the police state, will be brought out when Greenawalt has his preliminary examination, which will probably take place today.

AFTER THE FIRE.

Appearance of the Marcus Block and Its Contents Yesterday.

The Marcus block presented a desolate ooking appearance yesterday morning. The outside of the building was smoke-begrimed, and the plate glass windows were broken in almost innumerable places. Inside the scene was still worse. What the fire had spared had been ruined by the water, and the consequence was that there was hardly anything n the building that was left in a saleable condition.

The agents for the companies in which the stock and building had been insured were among the first to be on the ground. They went all over the room and after making a thorough investigation came to the conclusion that the theory of incendiarism was out of the question, or at least if anyone had been in the room at the time the fire was started he must be in there yet, as the back doors were found securely locked and bolted from the inside when they opened the place yesterday morning, and the front doors had been locked as soon as the firemen were had been locked as soon as the firemen were through their work. As near as could be ascertained, the fire originated from the electric light wire connected with the arc light. The wire was found lying across a pile of clothing, and it is thought that it caused the conflagration.

An explosion was was plainly heard by some men on the street just before the fire started, the result of which was that the top of the coal stove was blown off. It is supposed that this in some way severed the wire from its fastenings and allowed it to fa'l upon the pile of inflamables where it was

All of these com-panies are represented by the firm of Lutz & Shepherd with the exception of the last two, which are represented by J. F. Lange. Mr. H. L. Shepherd, of the firm of Lutz & Shepherd, stated that there would not be any contest made over the payment of the insurance by any of his companies. The damage to the building is estimated at $1,000, and the insurance on the building amounts to $10,000. Mr. Marcus states that the insurance money will be devoted in the first place to the pay ment of his creditors.

His liabilities will not amount to more than $5,000 at the outside. He intends to reopen his store just as soon as he can have the re-pairs on his building made and get the other natters satisfactorily adjusted.

Three divorce suits were begun in district court yesterday. The first was that of Effic Swan vs Frank Swan. The plaintiff alleges she was married to her present husband March 20, 1888, but that she was compelled to leave him after they had lived together two years on account of his cruel and inhuman treatment. She asks that she be restored to her maiden name, Effie Hall. In the second suit Johanna Stromer states that she was married to the defendant, Hans Stromer, March 9, 1884, and lived with him until February 9, 1887, when she left nim be-cause of his cruel and inhuman treatment. She asks for a divorce and the custody of their child, Mary Stromer, aged six years. Alston B. Woodard is the plaintiff in the hird case. He seeks a divorce from his wife and the custody of their two minor children, Aldera May, aged ten years and Richard, aged eight. The Cost of a Eroken Arm. Mary McCauley commenced suit yesterday n the district court against the Chicago & Northwestern railway company for $1,995 damages. She alleges that on January I 1890, she was crossing Broadway at the corner of Twelfth street, and had her attention called to a train that was coming towards her. At that place, she claims, the railroad company has neglected to build the sidewalks between its tracks which it is compelled by law to build. As she was watching the com-ing train to avoid being struck and knocked over, she hit her foot against one of the rails and was thrown down, falling in such a way as to break her arm and cause other injuries She claims that she was kept from her work on account of the accident and was compelled to pay large bills to doctors and nurses. James and His Two Wives. The case of the state vs. R. T. Bryant was completed in dirtrict court yesterday afternoon, the attorneys finishing their arguments at about half past 4 o'clock in the afternoon The jury retired to their room at about 5, and at 11 o'clock last night they were still out. The case to see put upon trial this morning is that of the state vs. L. T. James on the charge of bigamy. This case is the result of a somewhat sensational occurrence which took place several moaths ago. James secured a divorce from his wife, which was subsequently set aside on the ground that the wife had not been notified that the case was pending, and also upon the ground that the allegations upon which the divorce had been granted were un true. Immediately after the granting of the divorce James married another wife, and the result was that a few months later, when the first Mrs. James learned of the transaction, James found himself with one more wife than he knew what to do with. The wife from whom he had been divorced at once had him arrested upon the charge of bigamy, and the case is now to be tried.

WHEN CHOYNSKI FELL.

Grim Slaughter in Which Joe Method leally Battered Joe.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 19.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—Mail advices per steamship Mariposa today give a graphic description of a prize fight which took place at Sydney February 10 between Joe Choynski of San Francisco and Joe Goddard, the Australian. Commenting on the fight, the Sydney Referce says: "It was a grim slaughter, terrible fight, all journey and the better man won. Choynski was whipped, but he proved a man of whom America may well feel proud. He gave way, and it was that which proud. He gave way, and it was that which licked him. This fight should teach the Sydney public that they have under-rated game, clever Mick Dooley, the man who twice met and fought Joe Goddard to a standstill. and against men of his own weight he is. Sam Fitzpatrick, the well known pugilist, who arrived on the Mariposa, said it was doubtful if Goddard would come to America at all, while Choynski would not come until after his battle with Dooley in May.

Joe McAuliffe Loses.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 19.- The much talked of prize fight between Joe McAuliffe of New York and Jim Daly of Philadelphia took place in the vicinity of this city tonight, nearly three hundred persons witnessing the mill. The terms of the fight were that Daly should stay six rounds for a purse of $1,000. This he managed to do, and although receiving a lot of punishment, was almost as fresh as his burley opponent at the finish. It is only fair to McAuliffe, how-ever, to state that he broke the first knuckle of his left hand in the fourth round, and was incapacitated from hitting the Quaker City man as hard as he might otherwise have done. McAuliffe weighed 210 pounds and Daly 162. Two ounce gloves were used. Neither of the men showed much signs of punishment, although some hot blows were exchanged. Daly was knocked down three or four times, and McAuliffedrew first blood from his nose in he second round.

A Rattling Bantam Weight Fight. LEONORE, Ill., March 19.-Link Pope of Streator, Ill., and Martin Flaherty of Providence, R. I., bantam weights, fought for nearly two hours this morning for a purse of $500 and a side bet of $300. The struggle was a fierce one throughout. The Rhode Island man had considerably the best of it from the start and was declared winner at the the twenty-sixth round. From the tieth to the twenty-sixty Flaherty hit his pponent at will, and in one round knocked im down four times. Billy Meyers was one of the seconds for Pope.

Thurman Resigns. Columbus, O., March 19 .- Al Thurman, president of the National baseball board of control, has tendered his resignation as a member of that board. Thurman says his resignation was caused by the necessity of his giving his entire attention to private business affairs. Two Branches of Science Enthusiastically Tackled by the Doctors Last Night.

OCCASIONS TO WHICH THEY ALL AROSE.

Doctors Who Can Talk Science and Eat at the Same Time-What They Said and Did.

The doctors met last night, and, of course, they disagreed; but it wasn't much of a disagreement-just a mild case of prefessional difference, that's all.

It was a regular medical love feast, combined with one of those other feasts that frequently break out at the Paxton. The annual neeting of the Missouri Valley Medical society occasioned the first part of the programme, and the desire of the physicians of Omaha to suitably entertain their visiting brothren occasioned the appendix. The attendance was the largest that has attended any of the meetings of the society during the three years of its existence. Among the doctors registered were:

C. F. Clark, Dunlap, Ia.; B. M. Webster,

Omaha; H. B. Day, Avoca, Ia.; S. R. Millen, Clarinda, Ia.; F. E. Coulter, Omaha; M. V. B. Johnson, Sloux City; S. Stewart, Council Bluffs; J. H. Cleaver, Council Bluffs; C. P. Harrington, Omaha; J. Dr. Hal Foster of Kansas City read a paper on "Intubation of the Larynx," and quoted twenty cases. The doctor held that it is not an unusually dangerous or unsafe operation, and that it is a particularly valuable opera-tion in saving cases of diphtheria, He stated that he had saved several cases that would otherwise have terminated fatally. Even if the case had a fatal termination, the opera-tion cannot fail to relieve the patient of the most horrible form of death from strangula-tion. The doctor thought the operation was so simple that it ought certainly to be tried in cases of threatened strangulation from membraneous formations in the throat.

The paper excited considerable discussion.
Dr. Richards quoted Dr. O'Dwyer, the father of intubation, who claimed that a physician could not perform the operation well and sat-sfactorily until he had performed fifty oprations, and some times more were re-Dr. Thomas of Council Bluffs said he had which it had been successful. Dr. S. G. Grant of Kansas City was rather conservative, but was in favor of intubation. A paper on "Euclogy and Treatment of Pneumonia," was read by Dr. Rebecca Hanna of Red Oak, Ia. The doctor thought the disease was oftener caused by exposure to sudden changes of temperature when the system was not in condition to withstand them than by bacteria. She used acounte in small doses, or substituted digitalis if the action of the heart was weak, and continued for four days and then gave al-coholic stimulants. She favored keeping the patient in a cotton bathing jacket, which should not be removed until a lighter one was substituted. She was an ardent advo-

hear something regarding the infectious na-ture of pneumonia, and called for Dr. Somers Dr. Somers stated that he believed that pneumonia was infectious, and had seen a mortality of 25 or 30 per cent, while he did not think that in Omaha it was more than 10 per cent. He thought that in case room was

Dr. Gapen said he always gave ten to fifteen grains of quinine, anti-pyrine or some-thing similar.

Dr. Kelso had found the use of quinine attended with pleasing results. He was not friendly to anti-pyrine, on account of its de-pressing influence. He had not given it in a case of continued fever in eighteen months.

Dr. White of Council Bluffs said he had more pneumonia in Indiana in nine years than in fifteen years in Iowa. He didn't know but he was too much of an old fogy to talk about pneumonia, but he didn't believe in dispensing with the use of calomel, and was as much in favor of the good, old fash-

He believed in the generous use of quinine in large doses in the generous use of quintern large doses in the early stages, as small doses only added fuel to the flames. He used alcoholic stimulants with caution and care. Its stimulation was only temporary. He thought digitalls, strychumes and carbonate of ammonia the treatment in the lower types of presuments.

Dr. E. Holoetschiner of Omaha was ar advocate of caffeine and liquid ammonia. Before the discussion was fairly over, the knowledge spread that the elegant menu down stairs was reftling tired and spoiling for the fray, and it was really surprising to see how much common, ordinary, every-day human nature there was in the staid, digni-fied physicians after all. If anybody tells you that a doctor would rather talk medical cience than eat when he's hungry, don't yo

The way they galloped down those stairs when the signal was given would have made Ward McAllister throw up his hands in despair. It was only a temporary suspension of hostilities, however, for no sooner were they seated than Bright's disease, human wishbones, la grippe and kindred subjects were again boosted to the front and discussed with keen relish and impartiality.

New York counts, chicken salad, amputa tion, consomme, typhoid fever, crackers and cheese, trepans, sutures and false joints of beof or genus home were all swallowed and digested before you could say Jack Rotin-son. The devotees of science elaborated to their neighbors on "beautiful operations," which they illustrated by sundry deft cuts and slashes of uncomplaining quait. A bit of toast was made to do duty for an operating

The Toasts. Dr. R. C. Moore of Omaha invited atten tion to the post-prandial exercises as follows:
"Gentlemen and Ladies—It becomes my duty and pleasure as chairman of the committee of arrangements elected at the last meeting of the society in Kansas City to wel-come you to our city of Omaha. The profession is a unit here. There are no doctor fights in Omaha. We always extend the right band of fellowship to the newcomer who comes here to practice. Whatever of pleasure you derive from this meeting. I hope you will give the credit to the medical profession of this city, for there are no cliques here, and as one man we welcome

It was well on toward midnight when the first toast of the evening, "Our Guests of the Missouri Valley Medical Society," was announced and Dr. Richmond, president of the society, was requested to respond. He said that since his election to the office he held he had found it necessary to do some work. He knew that the society was one of well known standing, and was composed of some of the most intelligent members of the profession. He had one suggestion to make, and that was that fewer meetings should be held. He felt sure that two meetings a year would redound more to the good of the society than three. He was gird to see such a large attendance, especially so many mem-bers from a distance. He did not think favorably of the invitation to meet with the Mississippi Valley medical association at St. Louis, as it would compel many of the mem-bers who attended to stay away from one of the meetings of their own organization, but be thought some action should be taken in acknowledgment. Without casting any disparagement, he said he was giad he was it Omaha and not in Kansas City.

Omana and not in Kansas City.

Dr. B. F. Crammer of Omaha, responded to the toast, "The Practitioners of the West."
He spoke of the eminent stars in the medical constellation that the western states have furnished. He was proud of the west, and criticized the action of an Omaha paper that recently classed Chicago as a part of the profession had much to be proud of in the way of proposed reforms, among which was the classing of the display advertising doctors with the quacks and charlatans.

Dr. W. H. Loeb of St. Louis was called upon to restond to "Our Brethern of the Mississippi Valley Medical Society."

Said Dr. Loeb: "The Mississippi valley—a very great subject for a rather small man, the same provided to the sa

It is a great country—1.500 miles long, north and south, and 2,000 miles east and west, and 2,000,000 acres in area. Its population is more than double that of all the rest of the United States. The Mississippi Valley Medical society is just as large, but let me tell you, brethern of the Missouri Valley Medical so ciety, that the Missouri valley is much more ancient and substantial than the Mississippi valley. For thousands of years ago the Missouri river emptied into the Gulf of Mexico, and the Mississippi was under the sea. The great Mississippi valley is really the Missouri valley, and is only called so by virtue of the courtesy and kindness of modern geographers.' The doctor repeated the invitation con

tion, and not legislation by doctors for doc-Dr. Inges was called for when "Women as Medical Practitioners" was proposed. Said the doctor: "I most earnestly protest that I have been taken by surprise. There has been too much said about this grandiose oc-ension—MississippiValley—MissouriValley— we are the people—we are the doctors. I will say about the ladies that I know this—my practice wouldn't amount to much without hem, but somebody else ought to tack about them. We need wit here tonight, and I haven't got it."

The doctor lamented that this was thus, The doctor lamented that this was thus, but there was no help for it.
"Municipal boards of health—the city's safeguards," was the toast responded to by City Physician Gapen. "The practice of medicine had its birth in philanthropy," declared the doctor, "and that feeling still dominates it. In my official capacity I have physicians come to me every day and property." physicians come to me every day and report cases where sanitary interference is needed, although such interference will interfere with their income. Ignorant people must be pro-tected against themselves. An intelligent body of men and women must stand between gnorance and the consequences of ignorance heal.h to protect the people from the off-securings of the medical profession. It is their duty to stand alike between the people and the quack and between the people and patent medicine men."

Dr. Morton of St. Joe was called upon to respond to the toast "Medical Journalism." said that medical journalism had pace with secular journalism, had made tremendous strides in and had made tremendous strices in the past fifty years. Improvements in lithographing and other features have rendered it possible to illustrate medical journals in a manner until only recently dreamed of. He was sorry to say that the Kansas City papers have not shown the in-Kansas City papers have not shown the in-terest in the meeting of the medical society that they might have done.

As the hour was late and the society had a big day's work before it, an adjournment was then declared until 9 o'clock this morning.

TWO CRIMES IN ONE.

W. B. Musser Suffers Heavily Through Incendiary Burglars. The alarm of fire about 9 o'clock last evening was caused by the burning of a small one story frame carpenter shop in the rear of 1315 Capitol avenue, and belonging to W. B. Musser, vice president of the Central Labor Union. The fire, as regards damage done to property, does not amount to a great deal beyond the loss of the building and contents. Mr. Musser had a fine lot of carpenter tools in the shop, which were entirely destroyed also a couple of trunks filled with books. which were highly valued by the owner. Bunty, the ex-hat dealer of Omaha, lost a couple of boxes of hats, which were stored in the structure. Mr. and Mrs Musser were both absent.

attending a meeting at church during the fire, and knew nothing of it until their return about 10 o'clock.
Upon entering the house a greater surprise than the fire was in store for them, for they found that the house had been entered and burglarized during their absence.

Upon entering their little sitting room the aged couple found that confusion reigned supreme. Books, papers, articles of wearing apparel silver knives, forks and spoons covered the floor. Upon inspecting the bureau the drawers were found open, and the contents, which had not been dumped upon the floor, were turned upside down. The clothes closets were completely empty, excepting a slightly worn Prince Albert coat, which probably didn't fit the two overcoats, one sack coat, four pairs of pantaloons and several other articles of wearing apparel, besides $7 in cash, were A pair of bracelets, earrings, an amethyst ring, a diamong ring and an uncut diamond were also among the missing. The dis-covery of their double loss completely prostrated Mr. and Mrs. Musser, who can ill afford to stand such depredation. It is surmised that the thieves set fire to the barn in order to better go through the house. An examination is showed that nothing in the barn had been disturbed or taken away, the attention of the thieves having en-tirely been taken up in the house. Miss Musser fortunately were her watch when she started to church, so that alone of her jeweiry was saved.

This is the second time within two years that Mr. Musser has suffered a loss by fire. His tools were valued at about $200 and the door screens and books stored in the shop will run the loss up another hundred or so. All together Mr. Musser fooses about $500 by the night's work of the thieves. No clue !

PARNELUS AGENTS. They Address Their First Meeting it Cooper Union.

New York, March 19 .- O'Kelly, Redmond and Harrison, agents of Parnell, tonight) addressed their first meeting to raise money for the Parnellites. Twenty-five hundred to three thousand persons attended the meeting, which was held in Cooper union and netted $1,200 to $1,500. Michael Breslin presided at the meeting, John, Devoy was also upon the platform. O'Kelley in speech attributed the necessityof appeal for money to the fact of Parnell's dispute with the other faction of the trish party and the consequent tying up of the $200,000 emergency fund in Paris. He adjured his hearers to contribute if they wisbed an independent Irish party and parliament. Referring to Irish party differences, he said: "When the question comes to be settled in Iraland some fauts not known to be settled in Ireland some facts not known by the public will be developed, and I do not fear that the people will reject Parnell and his associates." Redmond and Harrison spoke briefly. The mention of Healy's and Mc-'arthy's names were greated with cries of "Judas" and hisses. Resolutions endorsing Parnell were unanimously adopted.

Branch No. 8 of the Irish national league turned over the $500 in its treasur; Other subscriptions were announced. cets were passed around among the people present, asking them to contribute. A state-ment was subsequently made that the col-lections of the evening were $4,238, of which $1,430 were for admissions. At the first Dillon and O'Brien meeting here last fall the sum of $30,000 was realized. Colored Editors Adjourn. CINCINNATI, O., March 19 .- The national convention of colored editors, having elected officers, adjourned until next year in Phila delphia. A committee was appointed to visit President Harrison and urge him to appoint a colored man on the Columbian exposition commission, also to arge the claims of a col ored man for one of the judges of the nin-udicial districts recently created.

A committee was appointed to organize plan for a colored press association for the dissemination of news. The committee on dissemination of news. The committee on ways and plans reported against any idea of expatriation, but favors emigration from the over-crowded districts of the south to the west and southwest. Regret is expressed at the failure of congress to pass the Biair educational bill and the elections bill. The "in crow cars on southern railways and discrimination in places of public amuse-ment" were denounced as an outrage. The penal system of the south is criticised and the ballot laws of Florida, South Carolina, Tennessee and Mississippi condemned.
