The land on which the depot building "The land on which the depot building stands belongs to the Union Pacific and was deeded to it by the city in such a way that if the company needs it to another company the city may step in and claim the land. One of the conditions in the bond proposition voted on by the people was that the Union Pacific should be allowed to deed the land to the depot company. The injunction covers this and restrains the city consenting to the deed being given, hence the depot company has no right or title to the land and would not be justified in continuing the erection of the depot building as long as affairs remain in their present condition."

It is probable that a meeting of the direc-tors of the union depot company will be held soon and some plan of action determined on. Gessier's Magic Headache Wafers, Cures all headaches in 20 minutes. At all druggists

Condition of the Men Hurt at Recent Fires.

John McGreal of the No. 1 hose company, who was severely injured at the Bohn sash and blind factory fire, has been granted a thirty days leave of absence and will visit his old home at Terre Haute, Ind.

At the time of the fire he had been on duty but two days, having just left the hospital where he had been sick for a month and the injuries received at the fire and the attendant exposure placed him in a very critical condition. The chances are that he will never be fit for fire duty again.

The inhabitants of Edgar have been greatly stirred up of late by rumors to the effect that the B. & M. intended to transfer the division headquarters from that point to Superior. thereby cutting off quite a revenue from the business men of the former city. These rumors probably had their origin in the removal of two or three train crews which usually stopped in Edgar. When the order of retrenchment was promulgated these grews were taken off entirely and other re-fluctions in force made in that vicinity. The officials at headquarters in this city say there is no intention of removing the division headquarters from Edgar, so that the good titizens of that flourishing town were un-

In order to be sure of the appearance of proscenting witness Frank was also placed under lock and key. The bank was notified not to pay out the money, and the $125 is still there, but the $20 has not been found. Of course, the defendants deny all knowledge of the theft.

N. B. FALCONER'S OPENING.

Beautiful and Attractive Display of Spring Goods at His Establishment.

WHAT LAST NIGHT'S CROWD WITNESSED.

Greatest Show of the Season in All That Delights the Female Heart, or Heightens Woman's Beauty.

The great N. B. Falconer dry goods store had a grand opening last night. About 7:30 p. m. the crowds began to arrive. Ladies of course were the principal visitors, though most of them were accompanied by gentleman escorts, and for these there were plenty of attractions. A BEE reporter happened around that way and noticing the crowd wandered into the spacious, well managed

On the first floor and on turning to the left was found the dress goods department. All the latest novelties in camels hair, polka dots, embroidered robes, Cleopatra cloths and the new Bengaline cloths were found there neatly displayed upon the counters. Silk and wool plaids and all the new weaves had a place. Also the newest goods from foreign markets.

In silks, grenadiers are very stylish, polka dots are very stylish and flower designs and stripes are considered novelties. China and India silks in dots and brocades were lavishly displayed. Some popular effects in China silks are with the black back ground with colored figures. A novelty in China silk is introduced; it is a blue cloth with a true lover's knot in white.

The display of jet, silk and tinsel trim-mings were elaborate.

All ladies are fond of fine linen. Fal-coner is selling the finest goods produced by John S. Brown and William Liddell & Co., the Belfast linen dealers. One noticeable set was a beautiful table cover called the Masonic cloth. All the Masonic designs were woven in the linen and were exceedingly hand-This is the first time these cloths have been shown in Omaha.

Some of the new styles in linens are the French sprig, arum lily and the Gloxina. French tissue cloths for ladies' morning gowns in all the popular shades

Umbrellas and parasols in new designs are shown. The Dresden China knob is popular just now. Ginghams and India muslins are displayed in large quantities and in taking patterns. In gents' wear department there is a full line of silk underwear in all the new shades and plenty of neckties in colors which will be popular.

The ladies' hosiory and underwear department attracted considerable atten-tion. Gray is to be the popular shade in underwear this season, though lavender, flesh color and black will still be favored

A benutiful line of handkerchiefs is hown; also the new Boston bag, made of soft leather, lined with silk and finished with silk cord handles.

The laces and embroidery departments show a fine lot of laces, from the cheapest to the very best in the country. On the second floor in the black goods dress department is found a full line of Henriettas, French serges, nuns' veilings and India cloths. Eider down pillows and comforts are also displayed

Flannels are in great abundance. French flannels in wide stripes and decided colors are to be popular this year. The ladies' underwear department displays a large number of silk garments, quite handsome in pattern and design. The art department has everything new in drapes both painted and embroidered. New cloaks are shown in great variety. The Bavarian and mili-tary cloak are the popular styles. Gloria silk ulsters for traveling will no doubt be much sought for by the ladies this

The third floor contains the ladies' parlor. This room is handsomely furnished with a new style brass bedstead, rugs, new style draperies and onyx tables. A heavy rope curtain in a leep plush border hangs at the entrance to this room. The bonnets, well the ladies will have to pay a visit to the millinery department themselves to judge of the many new shapes and styles. Everything in the headgear line runs to gay colors and trimmings. The shapes are generally at the statement of t erally flat but trimmed high in the back.

Flowers run to the natural effects. Curtains fit for a palace were displayed. Real lace curtains made in Switzerland and imported by Falconer attracted considerable attention. The newest styles were in the Egyptian silk stripe curtains. Damask, chenille, Swiss, China silk drapes and curtains were tastefully displayed. Altogether it was a great opening, and the large number of people present seemed to appreciate the exceedingly fine display.

CLOSED THE CASE.

Evidence and Arguments in the Catley Court Martial.

"I would rather be killed by the Indians than suffer the disgrace of a court martial," said Captain Catley in opening his argument for his defense before the court martial yesterday morning.

"Any true soldier," he continued, "would rather die in the face of the enemy and leave his family the pittance of a pension than be court martialed and leave the service disgraced, though a millionaire."

The captain reviewed the testimony of the prosecution and pointed out the discrepancies and the contradictions. He said he had not attempted to go to the front at Pine Ridge because he knew he could not perform the duty required of him. He had Dr. Spencer's cer-tificate that he was unfit for the service his company would probably have to perform. "If sickness can be construed to mean cowardice," said the captain, "I am guilty, and ardice, 'said the captain, 'I am guilty, and no officer or soldier has any protection from such a charge."

Judge Advocate Ray, announcing that he would discuss the case unprejudiced and without sentiment, reviewed the case in de-without sentiment, reviewed the case in detail. He dwelt upon the gravity of Captain Catley's offense in refusing to go out with his company to repel an expected assault at Pine Ridge after the battle at Wounded Knee. "The camp was in danger, the Ninth cavairy was rushing to the rescue of the Seventh and an attack was expected at any moment," said the judge advocate, "and the company of the accused was ordered out Where was he? He says he was at oreakfast. He had a certificate of disability, although he had made the march from Rushville and had made no complaint until the danger was imminent.

"He has not denied," continued the judge advocate, "that he was able to make short marches, and yet when a short march in face of danger was ordered he weakened. A man of danger was ordered he weakened. A man who turns back before he meets a bullet or falls from exhaustion is as guilty of cowardice as the man who flees before an enemy. It is too bad that brave Captain Wallace did not get a certificate of disability instead of going into the Wounded Knee fight, if no discredit attaches to such action."

Reviewing the record of the accused the

This closed the argument and the court took the case under advisement.

The finding of the court martial, when it is reached, will be forwarded to Washington for the approval or rejection of President Harrison. This will require several week? time, and the result of the inquiry will not be ansaureed until the messident renders his be announced until the president renders his decision on the court's action.
