NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Police-men's Salaries Finally Fixed by Passage of an Ordinance.

WHAT THE COUNCIL THINKS IS RIGHT.

Smith's Amendments Squeezed—Discussion of Slippery Saloonist—Death of Colonel Swan.

The city council met last evening with all members present. In the absence of the mayor President Wind occupied the chair. The fourth street sewer matter was the first thing to be taken up. The resolution was read, which was passed by the council at a previous meeting, providing for the change in the manner of paying the sewer tax. It was decided to have whatever property had been sold on account of failure to pay this tax, redeemed by the city, and that all tax which had been paid should be refunded to the property owners. The fifth avenue sewer tax matter was then discussed. This is a difficult question, arising from a change in the assessment which was made on account of a kick on the part of the property owners, who claimed that it was too high. The tax was reduced, but before the council had a chance to vote on it, the city treasurer stated that the case had been settled in court by the decision of Judge McGee to the effect that a tender to the county treasurer of five cents per lineal foot for the sewers should release the property owners from any further responsibility in the matter. It was decided to refer the matter to the judicial committee.

A fine program will be given at the St. Bernard's hospital tomorrow evening. Admission 25 cents. A good girl can find a situation to do general housework by applying to Mrs. P. M. Pryor, 616 Bluff street.

The Manhattan sporting headquarters, N. O'Brien. No credit at Stein's. John J. Ridd was arrested yesterday morning by Officer Murphy on a charge of larceny which was preferred against him by Jacob Stein, who keeps a feed store on Broadway opposite the government building. Stein claims that Ridd came to his place and wanted to buy a horse, and that he had just left when he asked the merchant to put it on the scale. Stein replied that everything was cash down. They stood debating the matter a few minutes, and then Stein's chaser called, and while Stein was waiting on him Ridd got into his wagon and drove off. As soon as Stein could go so he started in pursuit, but he had to give up, as he was entering his yard on Avenue B. He took away the hay and the oats and left them at a neighboring house, but when he went to get them again he found them left there with refused to give them up. Stein was therefore very much exasperated in his mind over the question, and he finally went to the property. He finally secured an information against Ridd charging him with larceny and the arrest was made as above stated.

Dr. Seaman's Domicile Troubles. Several months ago Dr. N. A. Seaman and his wife had some trouble over the attentions given Mrs. Seaman by a fellow boarder named William Shaffer, whom the doctor charged with very serious misdeeds. A scandal resulted, and Seaman and his wife separated. The wife filed a suit for absolute divorce, and the doctor was ordered to file his answer and a cross bill denying all the allegations of his wife, and praying the court to restore to him the custody of his children. In his cross bill he asks for divorce and the custody of their child, who is now in the care of his mother. He alleges that the mother is an unfit person to have charge of the child.

Outline of carpets and parlor furniture will be inspected. We claim the largest stock in the city. Mandel & Klein.

He is Identified. The man who was killed by the Burlington train at Island Park has been identified by his brother, who lives in Omaha. He stated that the name of the dead man was Peter Stass, and that he had started for Chicago to hunt work. He has no money, and is a fare, so he decided to beat his way. The brother, who lives at 1216 South Twelfth street, in Omaha, took the remains to the bridge of the river, where they will be buried.

Discussing Cut-Off Island. Something of a breeze has been created by the answer of the attorney general in the Cut-Off Island case, the substance of which was published in THE SUNDAY BEE. Some are satisfied with the answer, and some are not. It is believed that the attorney general will be promptly ruled out of court, as soon as he attempts to bring his case before it. Said one of the latter class yesterday, who, by the way, is one of Council Bluffs' best lawyers, and has in addition made a considerable study of both sides of the case.

The doctrine of accretions that the attorney general in his answer is trying to shy clear of, in my opinion, is the very thing we want to stick to. It will give us the best part of the Cut-Off Island, and the only part that is worth taking. It has been added to the Bluffs territory by accretions, and will undoubtedly fall to our lot when the case is decided. In fact, the Nebraska people have conceded that much to us.

The young ladies of all Saints guild of the Episcopal church will give a sociable in the Royal Arcanum parlors Thursday evening, April 2. Tickets $1.00. A general public invitation is extended.

Death of Colonel Swan. Colonel Charles Swan died at his residence on Stutman street shortly after 6 o'clock last evening, aged eighty-one years.

Colonel Swan was one of the best known men in western Iowa and was one of the pioneers of Council Bluffs. He lived in the state in its territorial days, and since 1859 he has been a citizen of this city. During his life here he was an active and prominent business man. For many years he was the proprietor of a large packing establishment, and Swan's packing house is still one of the old landmarks of the city. For the last few years he had been confined to his bed and death was the result of old age and exhaustion. He leaves a wife and a large family of children, four boys and five girls, all of whom are living. Nearly all of the children were at his bedside when he died. One of the sons, J. S. Swan, accompanied by his wife, arrived last evening from Denver, Springs, Colo., yesterday in answer to a telegram announcing the dangerous illness of his father. Arrangements for the funeral have not been completed and will be announced later.

Slippery Snow-dri. Frank Snowdri, the Missouri Valley saloonkeeper, was found guilty in the federal court last week for violating the United States revenue law in selling liquor without a government license. Deputy Sheriff S. S. Etheridge and the prisoner fled from the train at Avoca to escape, but were captured by the police at Council Bluffs. They were taken to the rear platform of the train. When they got on board Snowdri had vanished, and one of the passengers informed Etheridge that he had seen some one come up the platform and slide down on the other side about a minute before. Etheridge returned to Council Bluffs and saw that Snowdri was in the Valley to see whether he could get any information as to Snowdri's whereabouts. He learned that Snowdri had been there as late as 11 o'clock Saturday night.

After Snowdri leaped from the flying train he went to a farm house near by and stole a horse which he rode to Council Bluffs as far as Crescent City, where he turned the horse loose and took the train for home. Mr. Etheridge states that he has been in his great position for six years, and that this is the first time he ever had a prisoner get away from him. He says he will have Snowdri back again if he stays anywhere within the United States.
