Don't Feel Well,

And yet you are not sick enough to consult a doctor, or you refrain from so doing for fear you will alarm yourself and friends—we will tell you just what you need. It is Hood's Sarsaparilla, which will lift you out of that uncertain, uncomfortable, dangerous condi-tion, into a state of good health, confidence and cheerfufiness. You've no idea how potent this peculiar medicine is in cases like yours.

Mr. J. W. Sweet of Oneida Co., N. Y. is in the city. This being his first visit to the mecropolis, he was agreeably surprised to find in Omaha a city of such magnificent proportions and metropoli-tan splendor. Mr. Sweet is more than his name implies. He is the general agent of the Oneida Co., N. Y., Fruit Vinegar company, and is here with the view of establishing a western agency for his goods. This is another evidence of Omaha's great attraction as a commer-cial center. There is no doubt but Mr. Sweet will succeed in placing his popular goods with one of the enterprising business men.

HE DIED BY HIS OWN HAND,

David E. Kimball, the Well Known Ticket Agent, Commiss Suicide.

FIRED A BULLET THROUGH HIS BRAIN.

No Cause Assigned for the Tragic Ending of a Busy Life-Mr. Kimball's Career-The Coroner's Verdict.

Expressions of surprise and regret are heard upon every side yesterday because of the sudden and unexpected death of David E. Kimball, the city ticket agent of the Chicago & Northwestern railway company.

Mr. Kimball died by his own hand, and to hundreds of friends the shock came with

To the many acquaintances who had been brought in daily business contact with him he had given no intimation that he contemhe had given no intimation that he contemplated such a thing, and it was only with those whom he had been most intimately associated in his office who had even noticed for some time past that he hardly seemed himself. Even these had not the faintest suspicion that his slight derangument would lead to his death, supposing that it would gradually wear away. None were prepared to hear of the sad affair, and all were dazed and bewildered by it.

Mr. Kimball entered the Turkish bath rooms under Boyd's opera house a few min-rooms under Boyd's opera house a few min-ntes before so clock yesterday morning, and told the night tassistant, A. Johnson, thathe wanted to lie down for a little while. He was shown into a side room, but complained hat it was too light, and was shown to another room.

Johnson turned away, and had just picked Johnson turned way, and had just picked up an armful of blankets when he heard the sharp report of a pistol coming from the direction of room No. 9, where he had just left Mr. Kimball. Smoke was pouring out, and he rushed through the partly open door to find Mr. Kimball's lifeless body on the floor. In the obscure light it was impossible to tell just what had taken place, and after hastily summoning a physician a light was secured. Then the full trath dawned upon the attendants.

Mr. Kimball was dead, and powder burns and splashes of blood upon his left hand bore silent testimony to the fact that he had fired the shot with suicidal intent.

the shot with suicidal intent.

The weapon used was a 3s-caliber Coit's, and the heavy ball had passed through the head of the deceased, chipped a piece of plastering from the wall and fallen back upon the cot underneath which it was found.

Mr. Kimball had apparently removed his overcoat and at once raised the revolver to his left temple and fired while in a standing position.

Death must have been instantaneous. The body fell upon the edge of the cot and then to the floor, where it remained until Coroner Harrigan ordered its removal to Burket's undertaking rooms, where an inquest was

The jury returned a verdict of suicidal shooting.

The deceased was born in Racine, Wis., May 26, 1846. While yet a youth he entered the employ of the Chicago & Northwestern railway company at his native place as a telegraph operator, but left that position to enter the union army, in which he served during the war. At its close he again entered upon a railroad career and for two years was agent of the Union and for two years was agent of the Unic Pacific at McPherson, now Maxwell, Ne He left there to enter the employ of the Northwestern, and had been connected with that company continuously since 1869, both in Council Bluffs and Omaha. He was ticket agent on the east bank of the Missouri when the road ran down to the river's edge, and after the completion of the Union Pacific bridge was stationed at the transfer. He was later ticket agent at the Council Bluffs Broadway depot under Joe Arthur, and was transferred from there to this side of the river in 1873. For a number of years he was connected with the Iowa pool and was in the tripartite office in this

When the pool was dissolved he again became sotely identified with the Northwestern and was made city ticket agent for that com-pany in 1875, since which time he had held that position.

The deceased was in his forty-sixth year, and was one of the oldest ticket agents in the city. He was of a quiet and somewhat reserved disposition, but was withal a popular and very thorough railroad man. He had a coterie of very intimate friends by whom his friendship was valued and appreciated. The deceased resided at 312 South Eighteenth street, and leaves a wife and one daughter, Maud. He was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic and also join the Masons some years ago, but had not affiliated with the order in this city. The arrangements for the funeral are not

April Weather Predictions.

If a peck of March dust is worth a ransom, and April showers bring forth May flowers, is it not right to pre dict that every day in every month the dectric-lighted, steam-heated, vestibuled limited trains of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway will continue to run on the short line between Omaha and Chicago. #### WANT TO RAISE IT.

Mr. O'Keeffe's Scheme for Enlarging the Court House. Chairman O'Reeffe of the board of county commissioners has a scheme. He has held a session with Contractor Coots and has about come to the conclusion that the court house must be enlarged. In speaking of this matter he said:

"Together with Mr. Coots I have made a thorough examination of the building and have concluded that some important improvements are necessary. Looking to the accomplishment of this end, at some future meeting of the board I shall ask for plans and details for putting two stories under the preserve. talls for putting two stories under the present "My idea is this. I would in the first place, bring the court house block to grade, after which I would take out the present basement and in its prace put in two full stories and a sub basement. This would re-tain the present symmetry of the building and tain the present symmetry of the building and give us plenty of room for years to come.

"Regarding the disposition of rooms, I would use the floor now occupied for office purposes as court rooms and put the county offices on the two floors below. The stairways could all be taken out as elevators would be used in their stead. Where to put these has always been a vexed question, but that is now solved, as it is not necessary to run them up through the center of the court. An examithrough the center of the court. An examnation shows that a better plan would be to remove the closets and use the space for an elevator chute.

"The cost has been considered and I am pretty confident that it would not take more than $150,000 to make all the improvements ot which I have spoken. "It is true that we have not got the money now to go on with the work, but bonds can be voted and as we have got to do this sconer

or later, I am in favor of going shead as soon

ACCUSED OF ARSON.

Insurance Company's Charge Against E. A. Ayerst-"Court Notes. The somewhat sensational case of Edward A. Ayerst against the Sun Fire insurance company was called before Judge Ferguson esterday morning. In this case Ayerst is suing to recover the sum of $3,000 from the insurance company. The defense alleges that the plaintiff has seen an insurance wrecker for a number of years; that three years ago he went to Sioux Falls, S. D., where he organized the Great Eastern insurance company, which went into the hands of a receiver. Ayerst left the town soon after, but was indicted for em-bezzling the funds of the company. January bezzling the funds of the company. January 12, 1889, he shipped his goods to Omaha, insured them in the Sun Fire and placed them in a barn at 2119 Binney street, in Kountze place. The goods were removed to the barn during the foremoon, and the same morning while Ayerst was down town playing cards the barn caught fire and burned to the ground.

Ayerst brought suit to recover, and the company sets up the defense that the barn was fired in order to get the insurance.
