Interesting Story of the Life and Death of a Cheyenne Couple.

THE ROMANCE OF A NEWSPAPER MAN.

Pueblo Excited Over a Clandestine Marriage-The Guilty Man Escapes-The Women Did It-Northwestern News.

For a number of years the superintendent of the government supply department, Cheyenne, was Major Harry White. Mcs. White was an extremely pretty woman, quite dashing in her style, and always extremely well dressed. Mr. and Mrs. White left here about five years ago. White subsequently died and Mrs. White, with her sister, Mrs. Newberry, have lately between them been in charge of the annex of the St. James hotel in Denver. Colonel Jake Hardin brings the news of the very remantic death of Mrs. White. She had not been in good health for a long time. Some time ago a young man reached Denver from New York. He was in poor health, and it was in the hope of recruiting it that he had come west. His name was Raum, and

White and her sister. From the moment he saw her first he seemed to become completely infatuated with Mrs. White. His health did not improve very rapidly, and fearing the contingency of his death, he made a will, in which he left all his property, which included some valuable real estate in New York, to Mrs. White. A short time ago a little party of them went to Idaho Springs, their physicians believing that a change of air would be beneficial to both Mrs. White and Mr. Raum.

Last Thursday a week Mrs. White took her breakfast in bed. She was not feeling well enough to get up. While at the meal the doctor was announced and was admitted to the room. He told Mrs. White rather abruptly that he was perfectly satisfied in his own mind that there was no earthly hope for Raum. Without a word Mrs. White up-turned the tray, with all the disnes on the floor, and fell back on the bed. She gasped once or twice, clutched wildly at her heart, and was dead

Raum soon learned of the death of Mrs. White and although feeble insisted upon going to her room. He apparently could not realize that she was gone. He took her hand and found it cold and pulseless. Then the a wful truth flashed upon him and with a cry he fell over on the floor in a dead faint. He was borne to his room and placed in bed. Fifteen minutes later he too, was a corpse. The body of Raum was embalmed and shipped to New York for interment. Mrs. White's body was placed in a receiving vault at Denver last Sunday. It will be decided later whether the final interment will be had in Denver or Chicago. ment will be had in Denver or Chicago.

Manager Lawrence of the St. James' annex was seen last night in reference to the tragic

"It is substantially true," he stated, "but Mr. Raum did not expire for some hours after the death of Mrs. White. The deceased lady is a relative of Justice of the Peace Inman, and has a number of relatives and friends in the city. She was buried yesterday at Riverside cemetery. Mr. Raum's step-father is living today in New York and is a well known Wall street banker. Mrs. White never managed the St. James annex, but lived here some times. Mrs. Newberry is still living in the city. The whole story is a

A Newspaper Man's Romance, John H. Murphy, one of Pueblo's popular young men, city circulator for the press, and Miss Edythe V. Eldridge of Binghampton, N. Y., were married at the Stout street cathedral in Denver. Their marriage has set the young folks here wild with excitement, it has since developed that the young people had been married clandestinely last fall. The story is quite romantic. Last summer the young lady, who is not yet seventeen

Young Murphy, however, was soon evithe favorite, but such a favorite as their friends never dreamed of. True love sprang simultaneously within both their young hearts, but found utterance in words and in private and not in public. Neither were of age, and on September 20 last they slipped away to Denver and were clandes-tinely married in the Christian church of that place. They returned and continued as before. Shortly thereafter the mother and daughter left for home, the mother never dreaming that she left a son-in-law behind her. Not until three weeks ago did the little wife have the courage to tell her parents of her marriage. Then there was a storm. The stern parent was relent less. He would not be moved by the tears and supplications of his beautiful daughter. His only thought and utterances were that

Last Sunday father and daughter arrived at the Grand hotel in Denver, and the former Immediately began making inquiries about his sop-in-law. He was happily disappointed in his investigations, and consented to the union, only that the ceremony be performed over again by a priest, he being a Catholic. This the young folks gladly acceded to. The trial of John C. Jennings for the murder of Ross Hutchins, near that city last summer, was finally begun at Boise City last Tuesday, a jury having been completed after a five days struggle, in which three panels were exhausted. The principal witness for the prosecution, Henry Horn, an eye wit-ness, detailed the circumstances of the tragedy. The trouble between the two men grew out of Jennings jump-ing Hutchins' pre-emption claim. The defense will make the plea that the deceased had made threats against the life of Jennings. Jennings sent his wife to call Hutchins to his house, and after quarreling with him took his shot gun and shot him in the face and breast. Hutchins turned and ran away, when Jennings emptied the other barrel in his back. Hutchins dropped and the murderer never noticing the body, he returned to his house, where he was subsequently arrested. There were over one hundred shot wounds found in Hutchins body. Orlando Robbins, who was sheriff at the time, related the confession of the prisoner made to him after his arrest. The case

The Clouds Had Not R died By. Robert Parker was arrested by Deputy Marshals Doyle and Cleveland at 9 o'clock last Tuesday at Salt Lake on the charge of unlawful cohabitation. The prisoner was indicted some two years ago and has been in hiding ever since that time. There were two charges pending, and one of them is so seri-ous in its nature that the United States government will in all probability take some very radical steps in the case. He is alleged to have made false returns as postmaster at a little town in Washington county, and at the time arrested by a deputy from whom he escaped. He went to England and came back, but the officers got on his trail and he again crossed the pend. Thinking that the charge would be forgotten he came back and was discovered while coming out of the con-ference at the tabernacle. His arrest followed, and after lying all night. in the pen he was taken before Commissioner Morrell and gave bonds in the sum of $1,000 to anand gave bonds in the sum of $1,000 to an-swer at the next term of court, at which he will be tried

The Guilty Man Escapes. Jacob Isham, a merchant of Clinton, Wash., who has been hunting his wife's paramour and his daughter for sixteen months, was rewarded on night last week at Salt Lake rewarded on night last week at Salt Lake City, when he was brought face to face with them in the office of a detective agency. He had followed them through various regions with the determination of an injured husband and father to bring them to bay, and landed here a few weeks since, where he succeeded in locating them definitely. A detective was brought into the case, and spotting the figitives, he kept an eye on them. Saturday, a week ago, at Springville, the old man, broken hearted and depleted by his long search, was willing to depleted by his long search, was willing to extend sunesty, and after a long conference in which he took part, a reconciliation was effected, the father, his wife and daughter going in one direction, while the betrayer went in another. The woman is forty years old, while her paramour, George Ericksen, is only twenty-six.

Bywater Holds the Fort.

Fourteen years ago Charles M. Bywater took up seventy acres of land, which is now worth $1,000,000. Two years after W. L. Hill discovered some flaw in Bywater's manner of taking up the land and filed Porterfied scrip upon it. Since then litigation has been in progress, and though Hill has $3,000,0000 behind him and Bywater was poor, the latter is still on the land. Bywater has been frequently asked to give up and has been told that the struggle was hopeless, as Hill had all the money. Now the tables are turned and the fight is an equal one. In 1861 Mrs. Bywater was Miss Nelson In 1861 Mrs. Bywater was Miss Nelson and lived with her family, the Nelsons, in Arkansas. The furtune of war broke up the family and scattered them, one brother, James H. Nelson, coming west and engaged in prospecting. The family lost trace of him. It was twenty-eight years before he made a strike, but finally it came out. He struck a mine in Montana that made him a millionaire. Then he began hunting for his folks. aire. Manager Wade and Chief Engineer Perris of the Southern California railroad have just been over the country between here and Temecula, seeking a route other than the Temecula canyon. They were well pleased with the country and found a route up the San Luis Reyriver, thence by Fallbrook valley to Temecula, which is nearer and with a better grade than through the flooded yet picturesque Temecula canyon, and not subject to a yearly washout. Wade and Perris have decided to report to the direc-tors, who meet at Boston in May, against the rebuilding of the road down, the Temecula canyon, which cannot be done at a cost of less than $250,000, and will recommend a route through the interior of the country, tapping the rich Julian mines and running through the most fertile and best timbered portion of the county, as well as gaining control of the Warner pass, and thus shutting out any other road.

The Butte Workingmen's Election. The semi-annual election of officers of the Butte Workingmen's union was held at Miner's Union hall from 2 to 8 p. m. About seven hundred and twenty-five votes were cast, resulting in the election of the following officers: President, W. E. Deeney; vice president, J. W. Shelden; recording secretary, James Brown; financial secretary, Frank L. Rebur; treasurer, P. J. Hickey; warden, J. D. Sullivan; conductor, Arthur Peters; finance committee, E. J. Chappell, A. T. Longren, P. J. Gilligan; delegates to trades and labor assembly, James Brown, John Porter, F. L. Rebur, P. J. Hickey, W. W. Walsworth, P. J. Gilligan and Ed O'Toole. The reports of the officers showed the union to be in a most flattering condition. P. J. Boland, who has been president of the union since its organization, declined a re-

Roseate Prospects for Cattlemen. Senator Warren of Wyoming, who is a large stock owner, expressed a belief that a bright day for cattlemen is dawning.
"It is an undeniable fact," said the senator, "that for the last five years cattle have been decreasing on the ranges throughout the entire northwest. Prices, I think, must go up, for the reason that the supply is so short, while the demand for beef is increasing. It will take money to buy cattle from this on, and it is hard to tell where the prices will go in the near future. The cattle nen have waited a long time for this, and the fact that their hopes are about to be re-alized makes good feeling among this class. The upper tendency of the cattle market will help Wyoming out just at a time when this better feeling will count in all lines of pusi-

The Lone Highwayman's Prospects. Henry Miller, stage robber and all-around highwayman, had his examination before United States Commissioner Van Dyke at Los Angeles last Monday. He was held in $5,000 bail and that night was taken to Arizona to stand trial in the United States court for robbing the mail and assaulting the mail carrier. Dr. J. M. Hurley, who was an eye witness to Miller's crime at the time he held up the Casa Grande stage in 1888, in Arizona. was there and testified for the government. He positively identified Miller. He told the same story of the affair as heretofore printed. Miller will not be tried for robbing the Weaverville stage on March 19. If he is convicted in Arizona the law will his punishment shall be imprisonment

Organization of the Smelters.

It is stated that twelve men employed at the Butte & Boston smelter have been affected by a cut of 50 cents, their former wages having been $3.50. The matter has created some agitation among other employes at this smelter and employes of other smelters, who fear this move may be merely a starter in the line of more general reduction. A meeting of the employes of the Butte & Boston, who were affected by the reduction of wages with their fellow employes, was held in Meaderville last Sunday night. The smelter men belong to no union and prelimin ary steps were taken toward joining the Knights of Labor or some other union.

The Women Did It. The school election for a new board of trustees took place at Helena, Mont., one week ago, Saturday. Although there were partisan tickets in the field, party lines were not observed, and a good board was elected. The proposition to issue $100,000 of new sonds for building purposes was carried by a majority of 274. There were nearly two thousand votes cast, many women turning out to use their prerogative of the ballot in this election, which has brought out the strongest vote at school elections for many years. This indicates a strong vote for Mon-day's city election. day's city election Suspected of Murder. A man for whom the police at Cheyenne have been looking a long time was arrested in Cheyenne Tuesday by Officer Wilder on information received by Sheriff Crymble of Chaffee county several weeks ago. A section hand in the employ of the Union Pacific railroad was found dead with half his head blown off. Suspicion pointed to Brandt, the man arrested there last Tuesday. Before he could be apprehended he disappeared. Yes-terday he was recognized at Buena Vista, but left there in the evening. A description of him was sent here and he was arrested. Almost immediately Sheriff Crymble left for Buena Vista with his prisoner.

The Dressmakers' Black List. The lady dressmakers of Pueblo have formed a protective association to bring the deadbeats into line. Said one of them: You have no idea the way we are imposed upon by people who make great pretensions. We employ our help and furnish the trimmings ofttimes to make these dresses and are then beaten out of our pay for the whole. We have organized and propose to have a black list of deadbeats who owe sewing girls and dressmakers, and furnish each dressmaker and sewing girls the control of the control and sewing girl in the city with a list and bring these people to time."

Charles Williams' Great Luck. A tiny, helpless waif, cast to the mercy of the sea of life, found a kindly refuge the other night at Pueble. About 8 o'clock Charles Williams while passing along Third street was startled to hear the cries of an infant. An investigation discovered : the source of the sounds in a covered basket near the fence. In the basket was a bealthy vigorous boy baby about eight days old and an empty milk bottle. As Williams had no child of his own he took it home and will adopt it. There is no clue to its parents.

A Dr-am Kills Him.

James Hughes of Pueblo, aged thirty-five, was in fair health up to Sunday night, the 4th inst. On that night he dreamed that he was dead and saw in his dreams his own funeral cortege. The dream impressed him so that on Monday morning he grew too ill to go to work. Yesterday afternoon he arose and walked about the house and grounds. Last night he died. The doctor who attended him said he died from heart disease, but his family think it was from fright.

Probably Weakened on Becky. Frank Harris and Rebecca Wilson, both of Rye, near Pueblo, were to be married last Sunday night. On Saturday evening the prospective bridegroom left the house of the adv and has since not been heard of, although everything was in readiness for the ceremony at the appointed time. It is feared that Harris has been foully dealt with, as he was devotedly attached to Miss Wilson.

Depressed, But Encouraging. Nothing has occurred to check the upward course of prices for cattle at Pueblo. The sheep market has received a set back. It has declined from 20 to 30 cents, for which unfavorable reaction and the excessive receipts, were accountable. The present depression is regarded as only temporary. The outlook is certainly encouraging. The Celestials on the Decrease. If the enumeration of the Chinese in Cali fornia, says the San Francisco Chronicle, is even approximately correct, then there is a complete refutation of the claim that the Chinese exclusion act has failed to exclude. In 1880 the Chinese population of the state was 75,132; in 1890, according to the census returns, it only foots up 71,681.

Will Have a New Viaduet. The property owners of Pueblo have decided to build a viaduct across the railroad tracks on Main street that will cost $18,060.
