Milwaukee Cpens the Western Association Championship Games Here Tomorrow.

LAST SEASON'S SCORE TO BE SETTLED.

Fointers on the Team-Yesterday's American Games-The Tennessee Derby Won by Vallera-Sporting Notes.

Tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock the voice of Umpire Knight will mingle with that of the dickey birds, as he commands the Omahas and Milwaukees to play ball. It will be the opening championship game of '91, and, owing to the fact of the intense feeling existing between these two teams by reason of the Brewers' disgusting familiarity with the Omahas last season, it is doubtful if such another conflict will take place at McCormick park during the entire season.

The day will be celebrated by an open ail concert at the park previous to the game, the programme beginning at 2 and ending at 3 o'clock. It was the intention to have agrand parade through the streets, but some of the boys are superstitious. They foar a parade will hoodoo them, and Manager Shannon has decided on a concert instead.

There never was more animated interest manifest in the local team than that which exists today, and the prospects for tomerrow are extremely bright. Every seat in both grandstand and bleachers should be occupied, for if Omaha basebali patrons wish to see good ball they should encourage both management and players by their attendance. Big crowds enhance the enjoyment of a game an hundred fold, and often have the effect of metamorphosing what would otherwise have been a poor contest into a brilliant one. Omaha has today probably the finest aggregation of ball players that has ever represented her, and nothing will aid them so materially in achieving great things as the plaudits of the public. In addition to the ex-traordinary playing strength of the team, it the sector is a such always, on or off the field. Manager Shannon is a shin-ing example for his men. Bright and intelligent in a high degree, a good talker, well dressed, courtaous and affable, and with an irrepressible pride in the individual standard of his men. He is a strict disciplinarian, a perspicacious man-ager and a man who will get the very best kind of work out of the team. The best of feeling now prevails within the ranks, and if it continues will prove a most before it continues, will prove a most potent factor in their success. Each man is ambitions to excel, which is another good sign, and as Manager Shaunon said last night, if they are so unlucky as to lose the opening game with Milwaukee, it will cut no figure in their work of the day following. They will only fird up their loins the tighter, and go in ngain more determined than ever, and will maintain this aggressive spirit until victory perches upon their banner.

There is one notable feature about the Omaha team. It is composed of about as cool and collected a lot of players as could have been well gotten together. Nothing seems to perturb them, as was clearly dem-onstrated in the opening game with Lincoln. In the second inning, after the Farmers had sed six runs across the plate, they were as undisturbed and nonchalant as if they had themselves done the chasing. "That don't count," remarked "Old Cy"

Sutcliffe, without as much as a wrinkle of the face, "we'll beat 'em yet; watch us in the next inning." And, sure enough, in the next inning the Lambs came in with gore in their eyes, and before Mr. Roach could realize what had hap-pened they had knocked out an even half dozen runs and were once more in the lead.

And yet the Lincoins won the game, but the boys didn't seem to worry a bit, only looked upon it as a scratch, as their three straight subsequent victories justified. The fact that they have what is generally regarded as the stoutest team in the Western association for their adversaries in the initial championship contest has not raffied the spirits of the Lambs in the slightest degree. But it is acting rather as a stimulant. They are all eager and anxious for the fray to be on, and had they the power to name who their opponents should be, it

Spalding Retires.

Chicago, April 14 .- At the annual meeting of the Chicago ball club today A. G. Spald ing declined re-election to the presidency and James A. Hart was selected to succeed him. Hart has had wide experience in baseball, and is thoroughly conversant with Spali-ing's methods, so it is unlikely there will be any change in the club. Mr. Stalding in a letter to Secretary Young says he was com-pelled to retire or neglect his private busi-DOSS. In the course of his letter he says the natural tendency of any professional came is downward, and without strong, fearless co trol of an organization acting with other as ociations under an equitable national agree it is impossible to long retain the conment, it is impossible succeed.

Whist Congress Opens.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 14 .- The first American whist congress opened here this afternoon with delegates from all parts of the country present. The games of the ournament will begin tomorrow.

At tonight's session of the whist congress twenty-six Milwaukee teams played against a like number of visiting clubs, representing nearly all the whist glubs of the country, and won by a score of 1,551 to 1,520. There were more players engaged in this match than in any contest ever held in this country.

A Forfeit Pulled Down.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 14 .- Joe Harris, late manager of Jim Hali, the Australian middleweight, today withdrew the $2,500 which he posted here recently to bind a match be-tween Hall and Bob Fitzsimmons for a purse of $17,000 offered by the Astoria, Ore., athof this action and this evening President Grant of the club wired Harris that the club's offer was closed unless through him.

Public discussion of the conditions affecting agricultural and business prosperity cannot but be helpful. If it is conducted on broad lines and is hospitable to differences of opin-ion. The extraordinary developments of the products of agriculture which have taken place in a recent period in this country by reason of the rapidly increasing area of till-age, under the favoring hand laws of the United States, have very naturally called at-tention to the value and, indeed, necessity for larger markets. I am one of those who believe the home market necessarily the best market for the producer, as it measurably emancipates him in pronorthose who believe the home market mecessarily the best market for the producer, as it mensurably emanciplates him in propor-tion to its mearness from the exactions from transportation companies. If the former could deliver his surplus produce to the consumer out of his wagon, his independence and his profits would be larger and surre. It seems to market for our farm products without impair-ing the home market by opening the man-ufacturing trades to competition in which for-eign producers, paying a lower scale of wigos, would have the advantage. A policy that would nechanical pursuits, or diminish their ability to purchase food products, by reducing wages, cannot be heipful to those now en-gaged in agriculture. Farmors insist that the prices of farm products have been too low— below the point of fair living and far profits. I think so too. But I venture to remind them that the plen they make involves the conces-sion that other things may be too cheap. A coat may be too cheap as well as corn. The farmer who claims a good living and profits for his work should concede the same to every other man and woman who tolls. man and woman who toils. The president continues by saying that he looks with great confidence to the develop ment of reciprocal trade with Central and South America, and the removal of European restrictions on our wheat and cattle. No effort and none of the powers vested in the executive would be left unused to secure the end which is so desirable.

In regard to the silver question he said :

In regard to the silver question he said: I have always believed and do now more than ever believe in binetalism, and favor the fullest use of silver in connaction with our currency that is compatible with the main-tenance of the parity of the gold and silver dollar to their commercial use. that while he recognized the hardships of the present situation in the west, he did not be ieve any except individual action was neces sary for a remedy. With the very general popular idea that the government is the grand paternal do all to protect every one and everything and provide remedies for every ill that the body politic is subject to, Mr Adams does not sympathise. "On the contrary," says he, "I am so antiquated in opinion as to think that the world is governed altogether too much and that rarely has been governed so much so badly as it has been in this country within the last twenty-five years. If the people are left alone they will work out their salvation a great deal quicker and more satisfactorily than while the government incessantly encumbers them with its well-meant but ill advised assistance." Mr. Adams did not be lieve there was any general business and agricultural depression except that due to natural and temporary causes; that he did not believe any legislation required. He thinks improved transportation by land and water would provide for itself under th laws of supply and demand if the govern does not continually meddle with ment it. Western products would find market soon enough if the government would leave the matter severelp alone. The great troubl with the currency is the excessive tinkering, and if the government would leave it along the internal currency of the country regulate itself just as perfectly as the international currency does. The manufacturing interests of the country always have been successfully promoted by individuals when the government had left it alone, and every interference of the government from the be-ginning to the McKinley bill has been detrinental to the public interest. The irrigation of and lauds is settling itself in Idaho and Colorado and other states, whose governments leave it alone. The fewer commercial laws we have the better, and if there were no commercial laws better, and if there were no commercial laws the community would be far more prosperous than it is. The interference of the govern-ment with irrigation has been uniformly mischleyous. Business combinations and he work. trusts were dangerous to those inside of them, and if left alone by the government would work nothing but good unless perverted to some purpose opposed to the law of trade, in which case they inevitably sooner or later, bring about the ruin of those concerned in them.
