A marriage license was issued yesterday to Columbus S. Bond and Etta Barkish, both of this county.

Property owners are beginning to complain over the condition of the sidewalk at the corner of Vine and North Second streets, which is pronounced in a dangerous condition.

Hess E., two year old son of D. E. Willford, died Monday of croup. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon at the family residence in Washington township.

The ladies of the Women's Relief Corp will give a reception Friday, April 17, from 2 until 4 p. m. in the parlors of the Grand Army Republic hall, Grand street. Friends of the Grand Army of the Republic are cordially invited.

Leonard Everett has commenced suit in the superior court against the Omaha and Council Bluffs railway and bridge company, for $250.00 for paying between the tracks on Broadway and Pearl street in front of the Everett block.

C. R. Allen was presented Monday night by a fine silver cup and saucer by the members of his class in the Trinity Methodist Sunday school. He expects to leave for Ottumwa with his family in a short time and will make his future home there.

A stipulation was made in the superior court yesterday afternoon between the plaintiff and the attorneys for the defendants in the case of Herman Rosenberg against the Milwaukee for damages, by which the case was dismissed by the plaintiff at his own costs.

Constable J. L. Foreman handed in his resignation to the township trustees, yesterday afternoon, as constable, in order to accept the office of overseer of the poor. The trustees will elect a successor at the meeting which will probably be held next week to elect a successor to Justice Patton.

Judge McCreedy heard the arguments of the attorneys in the case of Deere, Wells & Co. against the city. The point which was raised by the city attorneys relative to the jurisdiction of the justice court which rendered the judgment against the city was demurred to and the attorneys occupied the entire morning with their arguments. The case was taken under advisement.

Grand Master J. Biederman left last evening for Col. Ia., for the purpose of instituting a new lodge of Oddfellows. This will make the nineteenth Druggist of Rebekah lodge instituted by him in the last six months, besides nineteen subordinate lodges, making a total membership of 25,500 in subordinate lodges and 15,000 Rebekah members, constituting a grand total of 40,000 members under his control.

The hardware store of Shugart & Co., was robbed of four revolvers Saturday afternoon, by some one who went behind the counter while the attention of the clerks was occupied in other matters. The store has been visited in the same manner during the last year and a half, and the proprietors were accordingly somewhat reticent about the affair. It failed to become known until yesterday.

William Smith was arrested yesterday morning on an information which was filed in Justice Hamner's court charging him with committing an assault and battery on Maggie Heighman, the daughter of one of his neighbors, Henry Heighman, who lives near the corner of High and Tenth streets. Heighman and Smith had a quarrel a couple of weeks ago, and amused themselves by having one another arrested. This time it is a continuation of the neighborhood row.

Gone to Portland.
The creditors of Augustus Schuler have made an investigation and have found that the missing one bought tickets to Portland, Ore., where he left here. The correct name of the woman who went with him was Mrs. P. B. Shontz. They will make an effort to have Schuler indicted by the grand jury for selling mortgaged property, before he has time to reach his destination. If the jury meets this morning, as is the intention at present, there is a possibility that an indictment can be returned in time so that a warrant can be issued for his arrest and he can be taken to the authorities at Portland to arrest him when he gets there. The jury may not meet, however, and if it does meet it may not see fit to return an indictment.

The men who worked for Schluter on the grading of Lincoln avenue were considerably pleased over a discovery which was made yesterday afternoon. It was found that none of the money that had been due him from the city had been paid. The city attorney was instructed by the city council to find out, if possible, some way in which the money might be paid over to the workmen who had earned it instead of waiting for the creditors of the missing contractor.

Dan Carriag, who leveled the writ of attachment which was issued against the released half of the stock yesterday, in order that the other creditors might come in for a share of the benefit. He kept six horses which he thought would be enough to protect him from loss.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.
Colonel D. B. Bailey has accepted an invitation to deliver a memorial day address at Harlan.

Mrs. Bue, who lives a short distance east of the city, starts this morning for Dayton, O., where she will visit relatives.

Miss Jessie Farnsworth leaves this morning for Hot Springs, Ark., where she will meet her father, who has been staying there for some weeks past.

Stole His Horse Number.
Yesterday's list named the public to beware of a gang of picture agents who were working the city, and claiming to represent the "Superior Art Co." and purporting to be located at No. 1805 West Broadway, which is a vacant lot.

The item has caused a good deal of annoyance to a legitimate artist, C. S. DeVoll, who is located on West Broadway. Mr. DeVoll has been here three or four years, and owns the property where he is located, it is known as the "Unique copying house," and its business has been always conducted in a satisfactory manner. The building has been misnamed 1805, when it should be 1805. The gang in adopting this number, has caused Mr. DeVoll much trouble, for when his agents call at a place they are called and the broomstick raised. He is as anxious as are the police to find the fellows who are thus defrauding the public, and will be glad of any information which will aid in their detection and punishment.

NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Some Alterations Made in the Charter for the Chautauqua Motor.

COUNCILMEN TRY TO PROTECT THE CITY.

Safeguards Thrown About the Franchise and Restrictions Placed on the Company—It May or Not Be Accepted.

The city council met as a committee of the whole yesterday afternoon for the purpose of considering the Chautauqua motor project. A revised and improved ordinance had been drawn up which it was supposed would tend to protect the city from the motor company more effectively than the one first considered.

The ordinance, as it was finally decided to pass it into the council at the evening session, bore but little resemblance to the one which was presented to the council a week ago.

That part of the ordinance which granted the right of way along McPherson avenue to the city limits, and along Hubbard street from Canning street to the city limits, was scratched out. A clause was inserted compelling the company to place suitable street crossings at intervals of 400 feet. All the section relating to the regulation of fare was scratched out, excepting part fixing the fare from point to point within the city limits at five cents. The ordinance also provides that the tracks should be laid at the establishment of the tracks, and the expense of bringing the road to the established grade should be paid by the company. The paving between the tracks and one foot on each side was to be paid for by the company, and where the track should be laid on streets already paved, the price of the paving should be paid to the property owners before the tracks were laid.

After these changes had been made, and a clause had been attached stipulating that the company should file its written assurance of the conditions, and that it should build and operate its road on or before July 1, 1891, there was hardly enough of the original ordinance left to recognize it by.

Manager Hazleton stated that he had his doubts as to whether the motor company would be willing to build under such conditions. There were so many things in it that had not been in the minds of the directors when the original ordinance had been drafted that it would be like beginning the work all over again. The company will have a meeting some day this week, at which time the proposition made to it by the city will be acted upon, and it will be decided once for all whether or not the motor will be laid to the Chautauqua grounds this year.

The Ordinance Passed.
The council met last evening, all being present. The main object was the disposal of the ordinance granting the right of way to the Omaha & Council Bluffs bridge company to build a railway to the Chautauqua grounds. After it had been read, Alderman Casper rose and moved that an additional section, under the ordinance, be adopted, to the effect that the company make at least three trips daily the year round over that part of the road lying within the city limits. This was adopted unanimously.

The ordinance was then passed, Wm. Wood, Van Brunt, Smith and Pace voting aye, Casper and Graves no and Brown passing. Before the city begins the work of widening the tracks, the motor company will be required to file a guarantee that it will build the road and grade the streets as required by the ordinance.

The Globe and Nonpareil were declared the official papers of the city, Alderman Casper voting aye, and the Globe and Nonpareil voting no.

A resolution compelling the property owners on the east side of Pearl street from Broadway to First avenue to lay a sidewalk of limestone was passed.

The bridge across Indian creek on Sixth street was reported in bad condition, and a resolution was passed to have it repaired.

W. Woodward, presented the claims of the various property owners on Ridge and Canning streets who had been damaged by the widening of those streets. He said that the property owners had gotten together and decided that it would suit them best for the damages. They had selected D. W. West as their arbitrator, and would like to have the council select another who should meet West and assess the damages at whatever figure they should see fit. He then read a list of names of the property owners, with the amount of damages claimed by each.

As the reading of the list was long, the council adjourned until the next evening. When he had finished, Alderman Wood said that the property owners had to be contented; arbitration was no go.

W. A. Myrander said he thought it would be a good idea for the council to vote a resolution to have the city attorney make a trip to go by the Canning street route. He happened to know that the route out East Broadway was being considered favorably by the members of the company; a subscription list had been circulated among the property owners and a considerably larger sum had been secured than when the company first proposed it.

Besides that, there would only be a 1 per cent grade, against a 3 per cent by the Canning route. As it was largely a matter of dollars and cents with the company he thought the city would very likely adopt the East Broadway route. He was informed that the council had passed a resolution requiring the motor company to guarantee the construction of the road as fixed in the ordinance before condemnation proceedings could be taken.

The bonds of Frank Levin, chief engineer of the fire department; A. E. Avery, street commissioner; and J. L. McEwen, police collector, were approved.

Republican League Convention.
Postmaster L. M. Troyer received a letter yesterday morning from Frank D. Jackson, at Des Moines, announcing his selection as a delegate from this congressional district to the national convention of the national republican league at Cincinnati next week.

The representation at the convention is decided upon the basis of representation in congress, and there will therefore be four delegates from this district, probably from the eastern end, but who it will be is not known here. Blaine, Dewey, Spooner, Allison, Alger, Forsaker, Langston, McCreedy and other eminent men will be present and Mr. Troyer will attend if it is found possible to make the necessary arrangements. The convention opens April 23. John M. Thurston of Omaha is president and will make the opening address.

Ways of Transgressors.
In police court yesterday morning Charles Jones was up on a charge of threatening to kill. The prosecuting witness was Bertie Allen, a dusky hued man with whom Jones has been living for some time past at 1126 Broadway, just west of the Northwest-ern tracks. The woman claimed that he had threatened to kill her with a razor that he flourished about. Monday night he secured a razor and then he threatened to kill her with it. She fled to the police station, where she secured the services of Officer O'Connor and had the frozen darkey put behind the bars. Yesterday morning he asked for a continuance until tomorrow morning, which was granted him.

William Libbeka and William Criss were before the court, one on a charge of assault and the other on a charge of disturbing the peace. The two engaged in a fight Monday night at a colored dye on North Main street, and Libbeka told Criss that he would be a subject for the coroner before morning. Criss became alarmed at this threat, and had Libbeka arrested. Later, Criss was released upon an information filed by Libbeka, but was discharged by the court after his story had been told. Libbeka is only nineteen years old, but he is a centenarian in the ways of sin. He will probably be sent to the reform school.

Thomas Mahoney was charged with vagrancy. He was a distinctly looking individual, and he had been trying to work a woman on Damon street for a meal. The woman was a foreigner and she could not understand Mahoney's talk. He became frightened and screamed for help. Colonel E. J. Abbott was making garden at his home near by and hearing the cry rushed gallantly to the rescue. The woman at once claimed him as her husband pro tem, which honor the colonel blushing accepted and marched him away. The woman's husband, who has been a policeman who happened to be not far away. Mr. Mahoney was given a ten days' sentence on the streets.

Lee Foreman was fined $5.00 for drunkenness.

designed his office. This move was not altogether unexpected. His friends had been seeing the people of the other side in a quiet way, for the last day or two, and had been endeavoring to bring about a cessation of hostilities by means of a compromise. The compromise failed to come, but the resignation was handed in without further ado, and Justice Patton retired to private life.

The resignation changes the aspect of affairs so far as the legal proceedings which it has precipitated are concerned. The case was for the purpose of removing him from office will be rendered unnecessary, and the case will be dropped. Whether any criminal proceedings will be commenced cannot be stated definitely.

The township trustees will elect a successor to the office. A number of candidates for the place have already signified their willingness to step into Patton's shoes. These are E. S. Barnett, who ran for office at the last election on the republican ticket. He is a staunch republican and the three republicans are just as staunch democrats. Among the other candidates are L. AMUSEMENTS.
"From Sire to Son," with Milton Nobles in the stellar role, was produced last evening at the Boyd before an audience which appreciated the sterling work of the author-actor.

There is a picturesqueness about the actor's career which appeals to the artistic mind of his audience and raises his efforts above the level of commonplace, which is hardly the distinguishing feature of so many so-called American dramatists.

In the character of Alfred Armistead, who assumes the name of John Oakley for reasons best known to himself, Mr. Nobles has one of the strongest character studies he has given the stage in recent years. It is a consistent, well conceived type of character, whose counterpart may still be found in the newly located mining camps of the west, whose nobility of character and devotion to principle teaches a moral quite refreshing in these days of stage-craft which largely runs to that which is the reverse of noble and heroic.

Mr. Nobles' assumption of the character shows profound study, and is a legitimate portrayal of one of the hardest roles in the domain of the modern drama.

The actor-author, who in the old days was a member of the stock company at the Academy of Music, now the People's theatre, is supported by a very capable company.

Mr. C. F. Howard has an exceedingly strong character study in "Peter Grimes" postmaster and express agent at Yuba, and he makes the most of the opportunity afforded him. It is deservedly one of the ear- nest, powerful plays of the stage and too much cannot be said in favor of its excellent delineation.

Mr. L. J. Loring plays Dr. Mandrake very acceptably, as does Mr. Burt G. Clarke the role of Job Caswallader, sheriff of Yuba county.

A small part, that of Abe Isaacs, is played very creditably by John H. Brady, who, while his opportunity is limited, makes the best of the lines he has.

Dolce Nobles is charming in the dual character of Mable Armitage and Mable the daughter. Throughout she is the conscientious actress who makes the most of her opportunities.

The rest of the cast are acceptable, giving a finished performance of a distinctly American melodrama.
