Answers were filed in the district court yesterday morning by the defendants in some of the cases which were commenced by L. M. Turner to enjoin the sale of intoxicating liquors. The answers were filed by S. W. Clark, Pralor et al., George Furguson, Barghausen et al., L. Subert, J. Rounneau and F. Carroll. The defendants claim that the cases are not begun in good faith, but that Turner has conspired and compised with other parties when the and connived with other parties, whom the defendants have no means of knowing, for the purpose of extorting money. They also allege that he is a non-resident of the county, and that the only interest he has in the suits is the fact that he has been employed to prosecute the saloonkeepers by other parties. Justice Patton's .R signation Still a Subject of Public Discussion.

WHO SHALL RECEIVE IT THE QUESTION.

Township Officers Hunt Up the Law on the Subject-He'll Have to Resign Once

In connection with the resignation of Jusica Patton and the agitation of the subject of a successor, the point is raised by certain attorneys that there is in reality no vacancy at all at present and therefore the township trustees will be relieved of the trouble of filling one. It is claimed that Patton was never elected to the office in the first place, on account of the provisions of the law that regulates the election of justices. This law fixes the number of justices in any township at two, but any township that includes in its limits an incorporated town or city may elect not to exceed two others, provided the trustees post notices at three of the most prominent places in the township. The ground for the claim that Patton was not elected is that the notices were not posted according to law, by the trustees. If this view of the case is the correct one it follows that at the last election Hammer and Cones were elected, but Patton was not, the vote being as follows Hammer, 2,106; Cones,

1,945; Patton, 1,872. J. F. Lutz, clerk of the township, was asked yesterday what the facts were as to this matter of the posting of the notices. He said that the notices were properly posted, one in front of the government building, another at the corner of Main and Broadway, and a third in the country. He said that the legality of Patton's election was beyond

While the question was undecided it made quite a flurry of excitement among the attorneys. Some of them saw where there was an opportunity of throwing a large job-lot of cases out of court entirely, which had been decided adversely to them by a justice who had never properly been the owner of his had never properly been the owner of his title. Their joy was short lived, however, for those who looked up the matter to any great extent discovered that the last legislature had passed a law to fit just such cases. In a number of townships throughout the state the extra justices have been elected without going to the trouble of posting notices, ex-cept for the first election after the increase had been made in the number. The law which was passed by the legislature pro-vided that all the acts of justices who had been thus elected should be legal as though the notices had been posted. This settles the question of the legality of Patton's official question of the legality of Patton's official acts, but does not decide whether or not he was really a justice of the peace. This question, together with the one whether there is a vacancy to be filled, will be settled by the trustees at some time in the future.

After Patton had handed in his resignation to the township trustees, it was found that the statutes were a trille ambiguous on the subject of whether the resignation should the subject of whether the resignation should go to the trustees or to the board of superisors. There was no desire to have any hitch in the proceedings on account of any uncertainty, and so it was decided to request Patton to make out another resignation for the board. This was done, and yesterday afternoon the second resignation was handed in, and the thing was clinched.

Brief Reference to the Gibson Case in the President's Report.

Pronta, Ill., April 15.—The annual meeting of the whisky trust, legally known as the distilling and cattle feeding company," was held in this city today. Somewhat contrary to expectation the meeting did not altogether ignore the reports of a plot by the trust's secretary, Gibson, to blow up the big anti-trust Shufeldt distillery with dynamite. In the annual report of the president of the trust, as laid before the meeting, the concluding paragraph has the following regarding the pecultar circumstances now being investigated by the federal grand jury at Chicago: "In conclusion I wish to say that inasmuch as the papers have been teeming with what is commonly called the 'Gibson case,' the stockholders of this company would naturally expect from the board some reference to the matter. Gibson declares to us his innocence, and after an investigation of the matter as far as lies in our power we have no reason to doubt his statement nor to change our views as expressed through the press heretofore, and further, that as long as we are connected with the affairs of this company we propose that it shall be run as straight and upright as has characterized our business from the be-

Two Murders and a Suicide.

SHAWANO, Wis., April 15.-People living in the town of Washington, this county, were greatly excited over the discovery of two strocious murders and a suicide. A few days ago a man named Bahr, after quarreling with his wife, suicided by hanging, but before doing so told his children that their mother had poisoned Zeli, father of his first wife, a year ago. The children notified the authori-ties and they arrested the woman, who made a full confession. Bahr was of a morose and ugly disposition. Not long after Zell's death Bahr pounded one of his children, so that, it fied. He was never prosecuted for the child's murder.

He likes his fun also, and takes it. There is a certain music hall in Berlin where the emperor enjoys adventures worthy of the Caliph Haroun Al Raschid. Whether he is recognized or not, I cannot say, as his majesty is an adept in the art of "making up." However, policemen, detectives and others are far too wise to express suspicions in case they have some idea they are in the presence of the lord of Germany. It is confidently said that the other day, in the guise of a Hebrew peddier, his majesty wandered through the haunts of the Jewish community in his capital and discussed with a number of working Israelites the condition of their race in his own dominions and the effect of the harsh measures recently promulgated against them in Russia. On another occasion the emperor is said to have passed many hours of the night wandering among the saloons used by sailors and common soldiers, arguing and inviting criticism on the life of a private in his army or an A. B. seaman in his navy. All these things doubtless assist the young sovereign in his endeavors to act as the father of his people; but, occasionally, the fact that he is a young man bursts upon him, and and he is apt to join in vigorous dancing, and play high jinks generally, as enthusiastically as the latest Jack ashore. Then, in the middle of a cancan or a schoppen, comes the memory, "Ich bin der Kaiser," and his temporary boon companions are surprised to see their new comrade suddenly draw himself up, turn on his heel and leave the place, followed by a couple of, till that moment, supposed-to-be drunken chums. De Witt's Little Early Risers; pest little pills for dyspepsia, sour stomach, bad breath.

Scared the Crow I. "Now gentlemen," said the man with the checked suit on, as he briskly tered the waiting room where more than twenty of us were sitting. "I have no time for foolishness. Life is short and the man who expects to get there must hustle. I don't have much to say, but what I do say is straight up and down and good as the late Thomas Jefferson's affidavit. I have here a riquid compound of my own discovery. It is called 'The Fraud Detector,' and can be relied on every day in the week, Sundays included, One drop placed on a bogus diamond. a filled watch case or a rolled plate pin immediately exposes the cheat and proteets you from imposition. Who takes the first bottl at 25 cents?"

No one spoke, while everyone seemed to hold his breath, and after looking over the crowd the fakir continued: "You've been swindled and imposed upon, and you hesitate to buy a There are at least fifteen watches and half a dozen so-called diamonds in this crowd. Who'll be the first to pass up watch, pin or ring and let me test it?" Not a leaf stirred, and two-thirds of the crowd actually tu ned pale.

"I'm waiting," remarked the man, as

Everybody looked at the opposite wall, and everybody wished that he had that chap out in the woods for about three minutes. "O, well," he continued, "if you are all built that way of course I can't expect to make any sales here. I thought there might be one or two of you with some straight jewelry, but as there isn't, and I don't want to squeeze you too closely. I'll pass on " closely, I'll pass on. It was great relief to everybody when he walked out, and the next five minutes w scerpent in sly glances at each other.

An Astonished Hosier. As we turned into the main highway leading to Indianapolis from a cross road we fell in rear of a funeral procession about half a mile long, which was made up of farmers and villagers. We had gone nearly a mile when we saw a man running across a field, hatless, coatless, estless and barefooted. He was waving his hands and shouting, and the procession at once halted to see what was the matter. He struck for the head of it, and, as he climbed the six rail fence alongside the highway and got his breath, he gasped out: "All of you folks come right over here as quick as you can!"

"Why, Ben, what's the matter?"
asked the preacher in charge, "Come as quick as you can!" urged

"But what is it?"
"It's a mile!" "It's a rabbit-biggest one you ever saw-rabbit in a holler stump-and it won't take over fifteen minutes to chop him out!

"Move on, driver!" commanded the preacher. "But hold on! He's in there, and l plugged the hole, and it won't take me ten minutes to git an axe." The procession moved on and con-tinued to move, and by the time our team got up the farmer's face expressed about eleven different sorts of emo-"What's the trouble?" I asked. "Why-why-gosh hang it! I've got the biggest kind of a rabbit plugged up

A l'ic i Man's Poverly. A story illustrating the recent tight-ness of the money market is told of a millionaire business man who has an office in lower Broadway, says the New York Tribune. He desired to raise the sum of $15,000 on his personal note. sent it to the bank with which he kept his account, with a request that it should be discounted. This the bank officers refused to do. He then sent it to several of his wealthy friends but none of them could accommodate him. Finally he sat down at his desk and, with grim humor, drew a note for $5, pinned to it a $10 bank note issued by his own bank, got saveral of his millionaire friends to endorse the note, and then sent it down to his bank with a courte ously worded message, asking if they would discount that note for him.
