The Angry Mob Repulsed by the Sheriff and Guards.

HAUSTENINE WILLING TO BE HANGED.

Perfectly Indifferent to His Fate—The Governor Petitioned to Allow the Law to Take Its Course.

BROOKS BOW, Neb., April 17.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—Hundreds of people assembled here today to witness the execution of Haustenine, but they were disappointed, as Sheriff Jones received a message from Governor Boyd at 10 o'clock this morning granting a reprieve to Haustenine for thirty days. Jones at once wired Sheriff McElroy of Lancaster county to see if the message was genuine.

In reply to the sheriff's telegram a message came saying the governor had reprieved the condemned man until May 23.

The jury which had been hearing evidence as to Haustenine's sanity, agreed at 1 o'clock this morning that he was sane, and every preparation had been made for the execution.

When it became known that Governor Boyd had granted a respite of thirty days, considerable excitement prevailed. Crowds thronged the court yard and the halls of the court house all afternoon. About 4 o'clock, when it became apparent that Boyd would not recall the respite and that the execution would not take place, several hundred excited men assembled in front of the court house, but before they became organized Judge Hamer addressed them and asked them to have patience and wait for the law. This pacified the crowd for a while, but shortly afterwards, armed with crowbars and led by a brother and other relatives of the murdered man, they made a rush into the court house, but were stopped by Sheriff Jones.

They were again addressed by Judge Hamer, James Whitehead, Sheriffs Jones and Penn, all of whom advised them to wait until the thirty days had expired. They were thus again pacified, but they still remained in the vicinity of the court house, although no further disturbance was made.

Haustenine was in the court room this morning when the jury rendered the verdict of sanity, and while this decision removed his last chance of life he had no apparent effect upon him. He told Sheriff Jones that there were times when he was not right but that most of his actions had been felled. He then requested that Father Haley of the Catholic church be sent for, which was complied with, and the minister has been with him all day.

The prisoner told the guards this afternoon that he might as well let the mob have his way, for to think that they would get him anyway. His conduct all day has been such as to convince any one of his perfect sanity. Much indignation was felt towards H. M. Sullivan for taking such an active part in the murderer's defense, and he was called out of the court room this afternoon to address the crowd and promise not to make any further effort in that direction. He made a neat talk and promised that until he had evidence of the prisoner's sanity he should use all honorable means to save his life.

The people felt hard towards the attorney as Haustenine, without any provocation, murdered two peaceable citizens. He lived two and a half years since the murder, had his case passed upon by two different juries and the supreme court, and they thought he should have been executed today according to law and without further delay. They cannot understand it.

The crowd selected a committee, headed by Judge Hamer, to go to Lincoln tomorrow and ask Governor Boyd to take no further steps in the matter or interfere with the course of the law.

The scaffold is erected on the south side of the court house and will probably remain in position until the case is disposed of.

Haustenine is the man who killed two school directors near Broken Bow. He had stolen a clock from the school house, and when the directors traced the stolen article for the thief he shot them.

GOVERNOR BOYD'S ACTION. LINCOLN, Neb., April 17.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—At 9:45 this morning Governor Boyd signed the official document that granted a respite to Albert E. Haustenine, who had been sentenced to be hung between 10 a. m. and 3 p. m. today for the murder of J. Roten and George Ashley, two neighbors of his on October 4, 1888. The news of the respite was immediately telegraphed to Broken Bow. The respite was granted on the recommendation of Dr. Knapp of the insane asylum and Dr. Carter of this city, who after a careful examination of Haustenine yesterday decided that he was mentally unbalanced. Last evening these gentlemen made this report to Governor Boyd, and he immediately telegraphed to the Lincoln board of directors that he was mentally unbalanced. MAGGIE WAS HEARTLESS.

Story of Her Cruelty Toward Her Maid Fully Corroborated.

BURLINGTON, Ia., April 17.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—Miss Maggie Mitchell having denied the story printed in THE BEE on Monday concerning her alleged cruelty to and desertion in Burlington of her German maid, Miss Krampa, an interview was obtained with Dr. Nixon, a leading Burlington physician, who was called to attend the maid during her sickness here. The doctor corroborates Miss Krampa's story concerning Miss Mitchell's unkind treatment. He says Miss Mitchell charged the girl with shamming illness. He considered the maid too ill to fulfill her duties, and told Miss Mitchell so. That lady was very vindictive, and discharged the girl as an impostor. She promised, however, to pay her way to Chicago. This the actress failed to do, but went off, leaving the invalid sick, helpless and penniless here. Kind railroad officials sent her to Chicago.

COUPLE OF HUMAN FIENDS.

A Horrible Story of Brutality and Assault in the City of Superior.

JUST MURMURINGS OF VENGEANCE.

Death of a Boy in a Rain Storm—Developments in the Kearney Perjury Cases—Poisoned by Eating Candy.

SCOTTSDALE, Neb., April 17.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—At a late hour last night Alfred Craik and wife were arrested and locked up on the charge of making a criminal assault upon Martha Larson, a girl thirteen years of age, who has been staying with them the past few days. The facts are substantially as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Craik are a young married couple with a very unsavory reputation who have been living for some time past in a dilapidated but near the mill race. The girl, Martha Larson, is of Norwegian descent and her parents live near Rubens, Kan., and an older sister is at work here in one of the hotels. Last Sunday Craik went down to Rubens, and by telling the girl's parents that he could secure her a place to board, brought her and a still younger sister here. Wednesday night, assisted by his own wife, he brutally assaulted the little girl, but nothing was known of it until last night, when her little sister escaped and told her oldest sister at the hotel. She went down at once and informed the city marshal, who, in company with Judge Kelly, went down and arrested the woman. Craik, however, made a partial confession, telling the officer that he and his wife had taken a shot and were in the way of going to bed. Craik was there was any danger of arrest. The officers at once procured a hack and driving out to the bridge secured Craik and arrested him without difficulty, and both the culprits were soon behind the bars of the city jail.

The charge of criminal assault was preferred against the man and woman by a prosecutor before and after the fact against the woman.

Today, before the preliminary examination was had on the above charge, it was developed that this villain had been engaged in his devilish work with other young girls of this city. On April 11, he arrested Little Roby, aged twelve years, and a younger sister, aged about nine years, to his hut and committed an assault on each of them. The poor girls, while protected with all their youthful vigor, were powerless in the hands of this fiend. His wife, Edna Craik, procured a rag and tried to stuffy Little. When she saw that this did not work she woman used force in assisting her husband in his work, and she was arrested. Craik put her hand over the girl's mouth and stifled her screams. After accomplishing their vile purpose the two fiends fled to their home, where they were arrested. Craik's wife was arrested by the police.

In Justice Barge's court, Cassa Shaffer began proceedings against Craik and his wife. Craik was in the court and his wife was in the street. Craik was in the court and his wife was in the street. Craik was in the court and his wife was in the street.

DISASTROUS WIND STORM.

Heavy Damages Sustained by Property at Falls City.

FALLS CITY, Neb., April 17.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—This evening at about 7:30 o'clock the most disastrous wind and electric storm visited this city that has been known here for years. The wind blew a hurricane and the heavens were almost continuous blaze of lightning. The storm began gathering in the northwest early in the afternoon and at 6 o'clock the sky had a very ominous appearance, and at 7:30 the storm broke loose in all its fury.

Mr. Davidson, a prominent merchant here, had started home and when within a couple of blocks of his residence was picked up by a large section of lightning and carried to the hotel near by. The lightning struck the hotel near by. The lightning struck the hotel near by.

GLADYS WANTS A HUSBAND.

Miss Evelyn's Lovable Efforts are Discouraged by Mr. Harlbert.

LANGTRY'S NEW THEATRICAL SCHEME.

The Lily Backed in Another Venture by Ample and Numerous Admirers—The Triple Alliance Unleashed.

LONDON, April 17.—[New York Herald Cable—Special to THE BEE.]—Lord Rothschild was advertised as the star card in the Harlbert breach of promise case today. The court was besieged by a big crowd early this morning, but the noble lord's testimony was disappointing, as he only testified that Harlbert was at his house in Piccadilly on the day.

Mysterious Wilfred Murray, whom the defendant says used his name and fame, is still absent and his whereabouts are unknown. Phoebe Burton, one of Harlbert's servants, testified that a man named Eddy or Eolland often called on Harlbert, but he did not answer the description of Murray. Several lodging house keepers swore that Miss Gladys Evelyn, the plaintiff, lived at their houses with a man named Jackson as his wife after the alleged Harlbert affair.

Harlbert was called to the stand and questioned about the incident. He testified that he found his apartment in St. James place in 1888. He said they belonged to an American friend of his who died and who had access to his rooms and deposited many articles there. Harlbert was unmarried then. The attorney general, summing for the defendant, pleaded the clearest conspiracy, and the hearing was then again adjourned.

Mrs. Langtry's New Backer. LONDON, April 17.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—Lord Abington, notorious under the name of Mr. Baird, the sporting man, and famous for his connections with the Pall Mall club, again comes to the front with a new scheme. He undertakes to float Mrs. Langtry for the coming season. For this purpose he has subscribed £30,000. Associated with him are so-called society men, who contribute each £100 a week to the fund with which the theatrical season is to be boomed for the lady. Everything is to be done in a grand style, and the season will be a grand success. Mrs. Langtry being spared the trouble of a fall and of managing. She does not desire to undertake it. Her will, however, still remains law, and it is doubtful whether she can be induced in any way to relinquish the personal management of the company brought upon the stage to assist her.

Although Mrs. Langtry's last season was no pecuniary success—in fact large sums of money were lost on the production of "Cleopatra"—she has ample means and is living in a luxury in the west end. She maintains her good looks and fine spirits and has high hopes for the future. Her admirers are more numerous and more devoted than ever. Her new arrangement that has been made for her the Lily has earned the sobriquet of "Lady of the Syndicate."

Parnell's Latest Manifesto. LONDON, April 17.—Parnell has issued a manifesto addressed to members of the National league of Great Britain, in which he calls for an attempt to secure the election of a national league of Great Britain out of national hands forces men to take a step to thwart them. Parnell says the seceders are resolved to drive him from public life and make an English statesman the arbiter of Ireland's destiny, and calls upon his fellow countrymen to stand by him. The manifesto is a guarantee of their worth and patriotism.

Sexton Condemns Parnell. LONDON, April 17.—In the commons today a resolution was passed to censure Mr. Sexton, who was loudly cheered by the Conservatives and by the liberals during the course of the debate on the Irish land bill, strongly condemned Parnell's attitude last night, when the latter made an attack upon the liberal policy. Sexton said the liberal policy was not changed, but Parnell's attitude was a challenge to the liberal policy. Parnell's object from being attacked, which object was to compel the conservatives to give Ireland local self-government. Morley's amendment was to the effect that the members of the National league of Great Britain should be granted. Morley and Parnell's amendments were rejected.

Venezuela Called to Account. LONDON, April 17.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—It is said that the British government has called Venezuela to account for the murder of a British subject named William Campbell by the Venezuelan police. The killing occurred by the outbreak of the border dispute between Great Britain and Venezuela. Campbell was arrested as a trespasser on Venezuelan soil and was shot because he did not immediately obey the order to leave the territory. The British government has demanded that Venezuela should give an account of the murder of Campbell.

The Triple Alliance Uneasy. LONDON, April 17.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—The growing Philo-Russian attitude of Roumania is causing much uneasiness to the triple alliance. The Roumanian government has ordered a cessation of work for the fortifications adjoining the Russian frontier, and it is even proposed to make the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the accession of King Charles of Roumania strictly a national affair, thereby excluding the participation of Austria and Germany. Roumania as an ally or friend of the Russians could advance without opposition to Bulgaria.

Distrest Prevailing. LONDON, April 17.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—Advises from Buenos Ayres, regarding the Argentine situation, that the Union Africa manifesto opposes the Mitre-Roca policy and has consequently created an unfavorable impression. Fears are entertained that the league of senators and deputies will be organized to save the state banks, and the government is likely to have recourse to forced paper issues. Distrest generally prevails and gold is advancing in price.

President Harrison and Party Royally Received in Tennessee's Metropolis.

SPEECHES BY WANAMAKER AND RUSK.

Pleasing Incident Witnessed Just Before the Departure of the Train—The Capital of Arkansas Visited.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 17.—The presidential party arrived here this morning after an all night run from Birmingham, Ala. The per. Ala. That town was illuminated and nearly 2,500 inhabitants gathered at the station to pay their respects. As most of the presidential party had retired for the night, the people were disappointed at not being able to see them.

The mayor and other municipal officers received the president and party on their arrival here. A large crowd, including the local military, gathered at the station, and the presidential party was escorted to the state house where an address of welcome was made by the mayor. The party was escorted to the state house where an address of welcome was made by the mayor.

Mayor Clapp, in his address of welcome to the president, said: "This is a restored, harmonious and united union, who are dealing with the greatest problem that has ever confronted any people, it is our intention to be just and law-abiding, while at the same time we are endeavoring to get our race, the paramount aim is to guard our social purity, preserve our civilization and maintain Caucasian pre-eminence." In a short speech, he congratulated the people upon the progress made and rejoiced to know that they had turned their thoughts to spinning cotton as well as raising it. He knew no reason why they should export it as raw material rather than as manufactured goods. Closing the speech, which was interrupted many times by the cheering of the people, he invited the people for the warm welcome extended him.

Local crowds were made for Postmaster General Wanamaker, who responded to a reception. After the president's station in his visit with a large number of people the party went to the depot where another reception was held. A number of local citizens were placed on the train by Governor Eagle and commissioners, who arrived this morning, met the party at the depot and will act as the escort at Little Rock.

A pleasing incident was witnessed just before the train left the depot. Esther Mosby, an aged colored woman, who belonged to Harrison's grandfather, John E. Page, and who was a playmate of the president in childhood at Page Brook, Va., was trying to get a glimpse of him from a window of the car. She was not satisfied until she had found him and shaken him cordially by the hand. It is hardly possible to tell who of the party she was, but the president or his old playmate.

At 11:55 the train was taken aboard the local route of the Little Rock and Memphis road on its way to the Arkansas capital.

Arrival at Little Rock. LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 17.—President Harrison and party received a cordial welcome at this point. Governor Eagle and a committee of citizens escorted the party from Memphis. A military salute was fired as the train reached this city, and the president was cheered by the large crowd who welcomed him and the remainder of the party were escorted to the state house where an address of welcome by Governor Eagle was responded to by the president. Postmaster General Wanamaker, after which the president held a public reception. The party left this evening for Texarkana.
