THE BOARD OF WOMEN FAIR MANAGERS.

The Couzins Unpleasantness Still Unsettled and Interfering with Business Work on the Grant Monument.

CHICAGO OFFICE OF THE REE |

Cincado, April 18. The heroism of two Omaha men at the as sault on Prior's swell haberdashery on Michigan boulevard a week ago tonight, has just come to light. When the myrmidons of the Studebakers througed through a bole in the wall into the basement these two young men approached Richard Papineau, the receiver half of the state. in charge of the establishment, and asked ene cause of the strange commotion. They were informed as to the situation and imme diately swore fealty to the cause of Papincau By the use of a little strategy they made their way through the ranks of the beseigers and tion and matchless in resources, with presently returned. One had secreted on his person a pearl handled 38-cabibre revolver. and the other had a "bull dog" which emitted a ball of 48-calibre. They helped to capture and hold the prisoners, eleven of Studebaker's men, and when the firing opened from the basement they promptly leveled their weapons through the door opening on the stairway and began firing. The basement was immediately cleared, and with the revolvers and a thousand rounds of ammunition they held the fort until the arrival of the patrol wagon with half a dozen officers and the arrest of a number of the gaug, whom the Studebakers had employed to terminate a lease with which they were dissatisfied.

I am not permitted to give the names of the men, but one is a son of an Omaha millionaire, and the other is at present in charge of the storekceper's department at one of the western forts.

THE WOMEN PAIR MANAGERS,

We have under consid-cration a number of things which will be taken up as soon as the controversy over the secretaryship has been settled. Among them is the equipment of a club room for all women who zafe in any way connected with the fair, a children's temple for which children through-out the country will be asked to contribute a hotel, over a route decorated with the Ameri-can colors and thronged with people. Lunch-eon was served, after which there was speechmaking, followed by a public recep-tion. While these exercises were in progress at the hotel a committee of indies boarded the train and decorated the president's car with flowers, transforming it into a perfect bower of beauty. out the country will be asked to contribute a penny each, and a cooking department for the exhibition of various mysterics of the culinary art."

THE SECRETARY WILL NOT INTERFERE.

A Washington dispatch says a telegram from Miss Couzl.s, late secretary of the board of lady managers, asking for federal interference in her controversy which was directed to the secretary in person, was laid before Mr. Foster. It was stated this morning that the secretary would take no action whatever regarding the quarrel. The only contingency that could arise in which he would act officially would be in case of a contest for the salary of the office.

Their Strong Showing at the Geestemunde Election.

[Copyright 1891 by New York Associated Pres .] BERLIN, April 18 .- Prince Bismarck has tacitly consented to stand for a reballot in Geestemunde, but also consents to become a candidate in the Lehe district, where he is certain of return. With the exception of the socialists, who are radiant over the poll in favor of their man, no party is without its share in the sense of humiliation resulting from the election. Reports state that the progressits on a reballot will vote for Bismarck or abstain from voting. The half-repentant expressions from the opponents of Bismarck are accompanied in several papers with the suggestion that now that he has got a lesson to tone his pride, the electorate ought to recognize his services to the nation by giving him an overwhelming majority, 'The satisfaction in court circles over the check of the prince has been allayed by the revelation of the strength of the socialists. It is known that state officials actively interfered in the contest, especially in the rural parts of the constituency, using the severest pressure against Bismarck. If this had not been done Geestemunde would not have been dishonored by an event which is regratted throughout the country.

The emperor is credited with the Intention of discussing the reichstag should Bismarck succeed in forming a conservative-national-liberal coalition against the government. As a general election, however, would certainly imperil the seats of a number of Bis-marchians and greatly reinforce the social-istic part of the house, the emperor may

The reichstag continued the debate on the trades regulation bill. Minister Von Berlepsch opposed the socialist motion fixing the maximum day for women at ten hours. Finally the bill was amended by securing for women prolonged rest hours during the working day and a shorter day for adult males. Progressive and socialist organs, however, vigorously denounce the amendment that vigorously denounce the innerdment that workmen breaking contracts by leaving work without due notice must pay an indemnity based on the ratio of their malary. There is no reciprocal clause providing for the pro-tection of workmen against unfair treatment by employers. Papers say this accentutates the antagonism between capital and labor. The em-percr handed over the colors to the various livisions. The men afterward massed in he success of the event to Mr. Finlay Lyon, front of the emperor and he expressed con-fidence that the honor of the German fing would always be upheld, securing the safety of the fatherland and the glory of the army, After marching past, the troops returned to their quarters, the emperor riding at the head of the cuirassiers. In the evening a banquet was given, at which both the emperor and empress were present, together with a number of generals and Chancellor Von Caprivi and Count Von Moltke. The emperor, in proposing a toast to the army, re-minded his heavers that it was the annivers-ary of Martin Luther's historic declaration in the diet of Worms. It was through the Protestant reformation that Prussia had become strong. The date was important in Prussia's history and was therefore selected for presenting the colors which he trusted would always be carried to victory, adding to the strength of the fatherland and the renown of the army. According to Vienna advices the old scheme of a European zollverein, having among its leading aims retaliation upon the American, French and Russian tariffs, will shortly be the subject of a conference at Vienna, to which Germany, Italy, Austria, Hungary, Switzer-land and Belgium will send delegates. Officials here deny all knowledge of any such negotia-tions, and it is stated that the Frankfort treaty, which secures to France any tariff conceded to Austria, Belgium or Switzer-land, blocks Germany from entering such a Emperor William interfered in the quarrel between Prince Henry of Reuss, German ambassador to Austria, and M. Fortunately for him, the procurer with whom he is alleged to to have been associated in the traffic with young girls has disappeared. But one of the girls is here to give evidence, and offered very damaging testimouy today. She had no hesitation in identifying Verney as the man who attempted the commission of crime under the name of Wilson. Her character was never impugned, and if her evidence remains unshaken it will go hard with Varney in parliament. As for the other fugitive, Decobain, I repeat he will never dare show his face in this country again. About his guilt there can be no doubt. very strong feeling exists on the conservative side of the house of commons that active steps should be taken to clear the party of all suspicion and endeavor to speed him from justice. In a word we are all, liberals or conservatives, anxious to have a formal vote of expulsion passed against this scoundrel. A member can be expelled for any criminal offense of which he is found guilty upon proof of conviction being laid be fore the house, but a member who has flee from justice can also be expelled without a trial. Decobain was invited to resign his seat some time ago, when his misdeeds first became a matter of common report which he was unable to disprove. He refused, and now we must wipe out the stigma which his remaining a member will inflict upon us all. Steps will be taken towards this end tomorrow evening, and it is hoped Mr. Smith will act with accision and promptness.

attention, and opinions are greatly divided upon it. I find scarcely anybody who believes the woman's story. Her impure life, her indecent entreaties in her own diary, her numerous lies and deceptions, deprives her of all claim to credence. The general belief is that she has made a living by this sort of business for many years past. On the other hand, Hulbert's narrative of the ubiquitous and invisible private secretary was his altar ego and is regarded with equa doubt and sus picion, no person having been produced who ever saw Wilfred Murray, although he is alleged to have been frequently in Hulbert's home. Mrs. Hulbert might at least have testified to his existence or sworn that the incriminating letters were not in her husband's writing, but she was not called.

Parliament is very much to the front. The laces of five members are vacant through leath, and preparations to fill them are in full blast. Then Captain Varney is under bail on a horrible charge; Decoblan, its member for East Belfast, is under even a worse cloud, and today Storey was arrested for perjury said to have been committed on a hearing of the charge of assault preferred by him against Superintendent Burrell during the Saxworth colliery strike, Parnell is gradually falling into the back-ground.

It was the custom for these two trains to pass at Kipton, the Toledo express taking the side track for the fast mail, which usually went through without slackening. The express was a few minutes late this evening and had just come to a stop at the switch when the fast mail came in sight. The engineer of the fast mail applied the air brakes when he saw that a collision was inevitable, but the speed of the train was not checked materially. The engine of the Toledo express was knocked squarely across the track and that of the fast mail reared in the air, resting on the top of the other. The first and second mail cars were telescoped and smashed to kindling wood and the third crashed into the first two and rolled over on the station platform. The two baggage cars of the Toledo express were knocked from the track, but did not turn over.

The passengers were thrown to the floors and badly shaken, but none were seriously injured.

IOWA MINERS UNEASY.

A Reduction in Wages May Lead to a General Strike.

OTTUMWA, Ia., April 18.- Special Telegram to THE BEE.]-There is much uneasitess in mining circles in this vicinity which promises to develope into a general strike. At the Avery and Chrisholm mines the men are out because of a reduction of wages. They have stoutly maintained their inability to work for 65 cents a ton but have offered to resume at 70 cents, which offer has been rejected and it is now a case of lockout. These mines are practically under the control of the Whitebreast company, which takes the output at a contracted price. At Flaglers the miners are compelled to work at 65 cents and at Cedar they are receiving 70 cents. Over on the Rock Island at Bea con, where the same great corporation takes the output of the Seevers & Gibbs new mine, the old price of 75 cents has been un-changed and the men are working every day in the week. This unequal state of affairs convinces the men that if the Whitebreast company can dictate a 75 cent price at Bea con it can also at Flaglers and at Avery and at Cedar as well. It is a lockout at Avery, and the men are asking only enough wages which, with steady work, will afford them a living during the summer season. They are unable to secure even this. The situation in lowa coal mines unable to secure toony is not bright or prospective of good.
