THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

Plenty of Money for Business Purposes to Be Had in Omaha on Good Security.

LOOKING AT THE FUTURE OF TRADE.

The Movement of Goods of All Kinds Shows a Decided Improvement and Merchants Generally Very Hopeful.

The most noticeable, and at the same time the most important feature of the past week so far as concerns business and financial circles, is the rapid return of confidence. The feeling of uncertainty and insecurity which took possession of the business world toward the close of 1890 has disappeared from Omaha and all classes of business men are not only looking forward to much better times, but they are commencing to realize that the better times are here already.

Two or three months ago bankers were saying that money was fairly easy but borrowers were hardly able to agree with them. Now, business men report that plenty of money is to be had in Omaha on good paper and that it is no trouble to secure it. A Chicago paper the past week remarked: "It goes without saying that bankers here are disappointed in regard to the demand for are disappointed in regard to the dentant for money by merchants and manufacturers, from which classes of business it is natural to expect a lively call at this time of year. There is considerable surprise at the rapid accumulation of idle funds."

accumulation of idle funds."

The same thing is commencing to be noted in Omaha, and local bankers generally anticipate a still greater accumulation of funds during the next thirty days.

Collections are better, which is a very good indication of an easing up in the money mar-ket. As a rule jobbers report little difficulty in keeping up collections, though there are still some cid accounts, due to the dull win-ter's trade, that will have to be worked out ter's trade, that will have to be worked out gradually.

In the country it is claimed that money is a little close with the banks, but that is bound to be remedied in the course of the next sixty days. As no hostile legislation has been passed, there will be plenty of money forthcoming from the east so soon as the crops are out of the ground. It is not expected that money will be plenty with the farmers until after a crop is harvested, but with good prospects ahead is harvested, but with good prospects ahead they will be able to obtain credit sufficient to keep trade moving. THE FUTURE OF TRADE.

While the present conditions are greatly improved, the outlook is still much brighter. This naturally suggests the fact that business men look in different directions at the differ-ent seasons of the year. At the close of the old year and the commencement of the new the business world looks backward, figures the business world looks backward, figures up the losses and gains and notes the mistakes. With the coming of April the world of business turns its attention to a contemplation of the future and calculations are made and plans formulated having a vital influence upon every department of business enterprise. As spring trade develops and agricultural and building operations get well under way over a large operations get well under way over a large area of country, inferences are drawn and conclusions reached by the representatives of conclusions reached by the representatives of various interests and localities and a consensus of opionion is formed as to the promise of business activity and material well-being. The opportunities for the formation of such a judgment covering a considerable period are peculiarly favorable at this time of year, and the correctness of the conclusions reached is peculiarly important, for the scope of the whole year's work in almost every department of enterprise and industry is influenced to a greater or less degree by the ideas now formed as to what the trade and financial conditions of the coming months are likely to be. As usual, the exmonths are likely to be. As usual, the ex-pressions of opinion are now coming in from many quarters, and forecast is the order of many quarters, and forecast is the order of the day. As a rule a hopeful view is enter-tained, and in most cases good reasons are given for the confidence expressed; the main factors of a presperous spring and summer being generally regarded as quite as well as-sured as can be reasonably expected at the middle of A well.

middle of April. The season is rather late in Nebraska, but the general outlook for crops is regarded as more than ordinarily promising. With an abundant harvest for 1891 the prosperity of the state is assured. The prospect for good prices for farm products is also reassuring. Those best informed on the subject say that wheat will probably reach the highest price in many years, the principal cause of the rise being the failure of foreign crops. The wheat crops of France and Russia are much below the average. The deficiency is estimated at 20,000,000 quarters, as cold winds and frost have almost destroyed the French crops. Germany, Holland and Belgium ail furnish pessimist reports. In Roumania there is a decreased wheat area, and in India there has been a bad wheat season. The only exception is Hungary, where there are better prospects; but it is almost certain that the world's wheat consumption will are that the world's wheat consumption will ex-ceed the production computed. Whatever the magnitude of America's crop may be, it will not be sufficient to cover the European deficit, thus compelling an extensive draft upon the reserves for the third year in suc-

WHOLESALE TRADE. Some improvement was noted in the wholesale trade a week ago, but this improvement has been still more noticeable during the past six days. It is not confined to any one line of business nor to a few favored houses. It is the general declaration of all jobbers that business is better, and the of all jobbers that business is better, and the increased activity to be seen among the employes and the size and number of the orders being filled proves the truth of their assertion. Trade is looking up and is now fully as good as it was a year ago under conditions that in many respects were much more favorable. Some houses even go further than that and affirm that their business is now heavier than it was at the same now heavier than it was at the same time last April. The weak houses among the retailers have gone out of business the retailers have gone out of business and those that were able to go through a period of stringency are in good shape to profit by the improvement in business. More than that, as a jorber observed, the retail trade has learned a good lesson during the past few months and there will be less trusting out of goods to irresponsible parties, and a cutting off of many other unbusiness like methods. A jobber sums up the sytaation in methods. A jobber sums up the situation in this way: "I can't see wherein we could ask for much better trade at this season of the year than we are now getting, and the outlook for the coming fall trade could certainly be no

The past week did not develop many new features in the market for country produce and prices changed very little. Eggs dropped in the course of the week ½c owing to some-what heavier arrivals, though receipts are still very light compared with a year ago.
Butter was a scarce article and the tendency of the market was stronger. Anything at all desirable in the way of country butter sold quite readily at 20c and above. The season of the year is now drawing near when it is only reasonable to anticipate an increase in receipts and a corresponding decline in prices. This may be taken by the country trade as a caution not to allow too much accumulation of stocks purchased on the basis of the present high

Some change has been observed in the poultry market. The advent of warmer weather has caused a decrease in the demand for dressed poultry and it will not be many days before it will be unwise to make shipments. The best dressed chickens moved slowly at 10c, but desirable live fewls sold fairly well at $3.75@4.00 per doz. Of other kinds of poultry so little is arriving as to hardly establish quotations. hardly establish quotations.

The hay market keeps up very firm. The arrivals of good hay are small and the best upland sold all the week at $14.50@15.00 per ton. A considerable proportion of the hay offered on the market is of poor quality. SPECULATIVE MARKETS.

The Chlcago grain market has been espec ially interesting during the week past. The long fight between the local bears and the believers in the foreign situation culminated the past week in a decided victory for the bulls. Shorts were forced to cover at a heavy loss. May wheat sold as high as $1.15 and July to $1.10)4. The week closed strong at a moderate decline from the top prices. Trad-ing for the past three days has been of great magnitude and the market at times was very | wild.

Corn and oats have sympathized to a certain extent with wheat and the cash demand continues strong for both cereals.

Provisions have been comparatively dull, with a very strong undertone.

The following table will show the highest and lowest prices paid on each day of the week under review at Chicago and St. Louis, also the opening and closing prices of week:

Wonderful Sky Rocket Performance in Wheat Prices.

SINKING TENDENCY IN CORN VALUES.

Small Advance in Provisions and Little Interest Shown-No Particular Change in Cattle-Hogs Steady.

CHICAGO, April 18.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—On change this morning everything else was eclipsed by the sky roc ket performance in the wheat pit. The great market of the past two days which lifted May wheat from $1.05 to $1.11 in little more than twentyfour hours was remarkable enough to stir the local trade as it has not been for mouths and create a nervous and excited feeling in the wheat market the world over. The action the first hour today was a fitting climax of such an advance. No one will ever know what the market opened at. In less than two minutes sales for May ranged from $1.09% to $1.12% and after a combined effort of profes-sional bears to turn the tide by foreing prices back to about $1.11, the strength found vent in a burst of sensational buying, which carried the price to $1.14%, with scattering sales as high as $1.15, or 10c over the price for the same month forty-eight hours This particular move witnessed the running n of several of the heaviest and shrewdes t operators ever identified with the bear side of the Chicago wheat trade.

The corn market started with a bound of ic to 2c from the opening price, but the high figures of Friday were not reached for a mo-ment. Oats held remarkably firm, but was not unsettled like corn. In provisions the sales early were generally at slight advances, with the exception of a little dip of for at one time in mess pork. As it looked near the close of the session there appeared to have been no adequate cause for the range of 5c or more in the price of May wheat the first hour. News from abroad was not as buillish as on several other days when little advance was made. The cause of the explosion appears to have been a lot of big short sellers who were covered so deep by the advance the past few days that they were outside of the trade. The action of Thursday, followed by a still stronger headway on Friday, was a warning that even millionaire operators dare not ingore when heavily short. It was a notice to them to come in. They got in this morning at a terrible expense. On the floor the talk was that the chiefs in this stampede were Sidney Kent and John Cudahy. It was apparent after the first whirl that their names were given up by brokers who had bought furiously at the opening. Of course many other operators had purchases put down to them. The bulk of it was the covering of short wheat. This was the great force under the market. Bulls generally did not buy, they sold long wheat to brokers as big shorts. There was a determined effort on the part of Roche, Linn and others, who would not cover, to break the market down after the first few minntes; when they only partially succeeded the sec-ond wave of buying caused the climax which landed the price of Mny wheat at $1.15 just for a second. In addition to the buying referred to the market had strength from a Beerbohm message, saying the cargoes on passage were excited and higher. The selling for the day was enormous. Long wheat bought for days and weeks past on the advance was thrown on the market and was quickly absorbed. The market was wild and erratic all day till near the close Correct prices were impossible because prices were somewere impossible because prices were sometimes in apart in different parts of the pit. The range and action may be traced by the following: May, $1.10½ to $1.19½ to $1.11½ to $1.12½ to $1.10½ to $1 Compared with wheat the corn market was quoted at $1.09\footnote{\text{Q}}. I.13\footnote{\text{Y}} and closed nominal at $1.12.

Compared with wheat the corn market was tame. Compared with a quiet market corn was active and unsettled. The belief that corn has sold as high as conditions warrant is pretty generally held. There will be sharp unturns from time to time because of the buil clique and the absence of any adequate stocks here. On some manipulation prices may even go still higher for an hour or day, but the tendency now appears to be a sinking market. Holders let go quickly and take profits. Shorts run quickly and take small losses. The market opened at lower prices this morning around 72\footnote{\text{s}} c for May and 68\footnote{\text{s}} c for July. With the lift in wheat, prices jumped to 73\footnote{\text{s}} c for may and 68\footnote{\text{s}} c for July. Bortly before the close prices had dragged down very decidedly and rested at 72\footnote{\text{s}} c for July. Hutchinson figured in the market, stopping the decilne at one time, and again selling the trade all they wanted. Corn closed heavy at bottom prices for the session at 72\footnote{\text{s}} c for May and 68\footnote{\text{s}} c for July. This was about \footnote{\text{s}} c under the close yesterday. More distant months ranged as follows: August sold at 68\footnote{\text{s}} c, off to 66\footnote{\text{s}} c. September, 67\footnote{\text{s}} c, off to 66\footnote{\text{c}} c. September, 67\footnote{\text{s}} c, off to 66\footnote{\text{c}} c. September, 67\footnote{\text{s}} c, off to 66\footnote{\text{c}} c. Logan & Co. to Toneray & Bryan—Stimulated by strong and advancing cables the wheat bears concluded "discretion the better part" and we think very generally covered in our market, and as some of the heavy longs were free seliers, being satisfied to take their profits and wait a reaction which would naturally now appear to be due, and as the latest advices from Parls were of improving weather, easier markets, and statements that damages hadbeen overestimated, we look for a set back to transfer their trading into July leaving the smart Alexanders to try with what we are inclined to think from now on will be a fancy commodity, viz: May wheat. Corn advanced on some covering by shorts but exhibited no snap and was easy during the latter part of the session. We think a sale of July on bulges a reasonable proposition. Provisions closed steady on a slight advance, and with a decilne in grains we think they would follow suit to some extent.

W. G. McCormick & Co, to F. C. Swartz & Co.

steady on a slight advance, and with a deciline in grains we think they would follow sult to some extent.

W. G. McCormick & Co. to F. C. Swartz & Co.—Another wild and excited wheat market has wound up the trading for the week. Cables noted a higher market in London, with considerable excitement. Liverpool was a penny higher and Berlin a mark and a half higher for spot wheat. The opening of the market was erratic, everybody seeming desirous of buying at once. Several of our most prominent and agressive bears have covered their lines of shorts and we only know of one prominent local operator who has failed to cover. In spite of the strength abroad there has been a notable zmount of selling for foreign account, presumably by longs, and a number of our local bulls have taken advantage of today's advance to close out their lines. With the principal shorts covered we are inclined to the belief that the market has advanced far enough for the present, but it is so wild predictions as to its course are valueless. Receipts at eleven primary points were 208,200, shipments, 157,800. Corn opened easy, but the tone quickly changed on heavy purchases from a prominent local short. The bulge, however, met free seiling from longs, and the market closed heavy. The very fine weather has a decidedly bearish influence. The cash demand continues brisk and daily receipts are readily taken. Oats opened higher, but closed weak under free realizing. Provisions have been fairly steady in price in spite of free seiling by commission houses having an outside trade. The demand for May stuff from packers continues good and today's market developed quite a little short interest for that month among outside speculators. While a break in corn would weaken provisions somewhat, we see no reason to expect any considerable decline, and still advise ions somewhat, we see no reason to expect any considerable decline, and still advise purchases on all soft spots. The hog market was active and 5 cents higher. Estimated receipts for Monday, 24,000, and 199,000 for next week.

purchases on all soft spots. The hog market was active and 5 cents higher. Estimated receipts for Monday, 24,000, and 190,000 for next week.

Kennett Hopkins & Co. to S. A. McWhorter—Mild weather and no conspicuous strength in cable advices caused an easier feeling on the curb and the opening was about ic under yesterday's close. The weakness, however, was but momentary. The pit was full of buyers without limits and prices rose rapidly. A few large local shorts appear to have held out against the advance until today and it was their buying that caused a very strong market where a comparatively weak one had been looked for. The shortage was chiefly in May, and as current rumors about a possible corner on that option had driven trade to a considerable extent out of it offerings were light and it was necessary to bid the price up sharply to fill the demand. At one time May was more than to over July and it retained most of this premium at the close. It looks as if liquidation has been general in the May deal and there is manifest a disposition to boycott it in the future. As eastern experters are practically short the options they have sold to foreigners and are long in this market as a hedge against such sales it ties up a vast amount of wheat here that is not available for speculative purposes and will not be until foreigners begin to sell out. This they might not do, their activity doubtless depending on the future crop outlook and other influential conditions. Under ordinary circumstances the long wheat bought for eastern account would be for sale on good rallies, thus relieving the ension, but such is not the case now and it is hard to diagnose a market so circumstanced. It leaves little wheat here to speculate on considering our large elevator socks and the covering of one line of shorts simply develops a fresh interest, leaving the market practically oversold over the time. Corn and oats continue to exhibit indications of further realizing and a closing up of short contracts. Bulls seem inclined to let pric to The Bee. |—Gold to the amount of $1,150,000 was ordered for export this morning, making $1,650,000 which goes out today and $3,250,000 for the week. This had a quiescent effect on the opening of the stock market despite the continued favorable domestic crop reports, the cables from Europe reporting higher prices for wheat, and excited grain markets in this country. The general expectation, too, was that the bank statement would show an increase in the surplus reserves. Prices advanced after the opening on the expectation of a favorable bank statement, but instead the reserves showed a decrease of $1,231,100. The banks now hold only $4,319,000 above the legal limit.

The bond market was fairly active and strong. Kansas & Texas 2ds and 4's and Texas first 5's and 2d incomes were the principal features of the trading.

The traders were bound to close the market strong in preparation for the upward movement which they expect next week. Hence stocks advanced in the face of the bank statement, and the market closed active and very strong. Tennessee coal and iron was weak, owing to the dissension among the stockholders regarding the proposed sale of some of the company's property. Chicago gas was a noticeably strong feature.

The interior movement of money is now in favor of this center. The Chronicle computes this week's gain to the banks through the interior movement at $1,41,000. The specie in the banks showed a decrease of $2,382,000, due mainly to last Saturday's gold shipments This was the cause of the, decrease in the reserves.

mainly to last Saturday's gold shipments. This was the cause of the decrease in the reserves.

Kennett, Hopkins & Co. to S. A. McWhorter—The Chronicle's figures showing that the bank had gained during the weel: $571,000 in cash were a surprise for all other sources. The indications were the banks had lost heavily, and the street opinion was that the loss in reserve by today's bank statement would be very heavy. The Chronicle's figures, however, changed the sentlinent of traders and caused them to take the long side from the opening, the result of which was a strong market during the whole two hours' session. The bank statement when published showed a loss in cash of $1,385,000, and a loss in the surplus reserve of $1,285,000. Both these items were smaller than estimated for a number of days, and the statement was regarded as favorable, and after it was published the market was even stronger than before. It closed practically at high prices. Northern Pacific preferred and common have been notably strong. The liquidation which has been going on for some days seems to be over, and both stocks have made a gain for the day of about 1 per cent. Chicago Gas has been exceptionally strong and active, advancing nearly 2 per cent. The general market has not been broad, but indicates a scarcity of sellers. Quotations advancing gradually. Fotal sales, 115,400.

How to Cure a Cold.

It may be a surprise to our readers to learn It may be a surprise to our readers to learn that a severe cold can in many instances be completely cured in one or two days' time. To do this, however, prompt action is necessary. The first symptoms of a cold are a dry, loud cough, a profuse watery discharge from the nose, and a thin, white coating on the tongue. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is taken in double doses every half hour after the first appearance of these symptoms it will counteract the effect of the cold and restore the system to a healthy condition restore the system to a healthy condition within one or two days time, in almost every case, and when the cold is not comevery case, and when the cold is not com-pletely cured in this time its severity will be greatly lessened and a complete cure insured in a very short time. When no action towards curing the cold is taken the dry, loud cough is followed by a profuse watery expectoration, and that by a difficulty of breathing, a peculiar tightness of the chest and a slight expectoration of very tough and tenacions mucus. Few persons pay any attenacious mucus. Few persons pay any at-tention to a cold until in this condition, that is, until the cold has become settled in the system. The first action should be to relieve the lungs. This is best accomplished by the free use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This remedy liquifies the tough and tenacious mucus and causes its expulsion from the air cells of the lungs, produces a free expectoration and opens the secretions. A complete cure soon follows; in some cases, however, several days are required, but the experience of thousands of persons in the use of this remove has been that it will consequence. remedy has been that it will cure a severe cold in less time than any other treatment and that it leaves the system in a natural and healthy condition. The promptness and cer-tainty of its cures of severe colds has given Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the name of
