The Story Behind a Mother's Complaint of Her Daughter's Elopement. Delivered by Carrier in any part of the City.

FILLING VACANT TOWNSHIP OFFICES.

Assignment of Cases for Trial at the District Court-Death of Caarles Baughn-Arrested for Forgery.

A complaint was made at the police headquarters shortly after midnight yesterday morning by Mrs. Annie Moore to the effect that a young man named Don Williams had run off with her daughter Jennie the night before, and had succeeded in accomplishing her ruin. She accompanied her complaint with wild howls that could be heard for sev erat blocks. Mrs. Moore keeps a house on Pierce street, and the fact that a woman with a reputation like she has should enter any such complaint gave rise to a suspicion that there was a story connected with the affair. A visit to the house of Mrs. Moore failed to throw any light on the subject, as the lady was away from home, but a few doors away the girl herself has a house, and she was found at home, though not disposed to talk very freely about the matter. She stated that Williams who has been paying some attentions to her of late, took her out walking in the evening, and they were out until about 11 o'clock. This was done without the knowledge of the old lady, and she assigns that as the reason for the complaint. She says that "Williams was all right," and if the old lady had been allowed to have a finger in the pie she would have been willing that the girl should associate with him. But the fact that she had one off and captured the young man with out any maternal aid was galling to her mother's finer sensibilities; hence the trouble.

Williams lives on Park avenue and works for J. C. Bixby, the plumber. He was out of the city last evening and it was said that he had gone in order to get away from the officers in case an attempt should be made to

Filling the Vacancies. There will be a meeting this afternoon of he township trustees to elect a justice of the peace and constable as successors to W. F. Patton and J. L. Foreman. The place of the meeting has not been made public, as J. F. Lutz, township clerk, says he doesn't care to have his office filled with a crowd of loafers and hangers-on, as it certainly will be if there is any suspiction that that is to be the place of meeting, but at all events the meeting is to be held, and the hearts of several men will be either sadder or gladder before twenty-four hours have rolled around. There are quite a number of applicants for the positions. It is numoev of applicants for the post-time stated that A. T. Whittlesey, L. Swearingen, J. M. Shea, N. Schurz and C. Wesley are willing to lay down their constitutional opposition to office-holding and accept the position of justice of the peace. D. K. Dodson is also a ca., didate for the office and as he is a member of the board of trustees he has something of an advantage over the other candidates, but it is said he will not use his advantage unless he thinks he cannot be elected who held the office last year, is also a candidate, but the fact that he is a republican while all the members of the board are demo-crats detracts considerably from his chances, although the trustees are all personal friends of his. A. L. Hendricks is mentioned as a possible candidate, but he will not say any-thing as to his aspirations. He refuses to tell his friends either that he is a candidate or that he is not. His friends are working for him, however. There is not so much of a rush for the office There is not so much of a rush for the once of constable, as there is neither the money nor the glory connected with it that is with the other. C. Wesley, C. C. Despaine, Charles Nicholson and Frank Covait are in the field, however, and it is said that there are other applicants, whose names will be submitted to the board this afternoon.

Two young Frenchmen, brothers, Grum-Grjimallo by name, habe just returned from the ancient kingdom of Lob, in eastern Turki-stan. They bring home with them some wild horses, which are not the descendants of domesticated specimens, like the wild horses of the South American Pampas, but the real primitive wild type and the progenitor of the domesticated breed. Three of those were shot in the Dzungarian desert, just north of Guchen, after a long and difficult chase.

A queer specimen is exhibited at the San Francisco mining bureau. It is known as the man-faced crab and has a body not quite an inch long. There are immense numbers of these crawling imps in the inland sea of Japan. I heard a story the other day about the former assistant rector of one of the largest Episcopal churches in the city, says a writer in Brooklyn Life. He was a jolly good fellow when he lived in a boarding house here and in his off hours was accustomed to join in with the other good fellows of the house in a

The sight was too much for them, but they managed to suppress their laughter and ask in a tone of amazement what the matter was,

C. J. Jones of Garden City, Kan., known as 'Buffalo Jones' because he owns a buffalo ranch in Kansas, is at the Casey hotel. Mr. Jones will remain in Omaha a few days until the attachment suit over the possession of six head of buffalo, now in Sheriff Boyd's possession is settled. Speaking of the difficulty last night. Mr. Jones said to a reporter for THE BEE: "This fellow Glassman, at Garfield Beach, Utah, had no right whatever to sell those buffalo. He had not paid for them, and in fact we never sold them to him; but the arrangement was a sort of partnership business in which we were to run a summer resort attraction with the buffalo and start a breeding ranch. These animals were shipped to him from our ranch in Kansas and we never intended that they should be sold to anybody. I think I will get the buffalo back and if I do I think I shall take them to Cutbertson, Neb., and open a buffalo ranch.

"I have been at Columbus for some time constructing an irrigation ditch. We shall open it pretty soon with a great blow-out. That is a great ditch. It will water about one hundred thousand acres of land, and will be ready for use this Speaking of buffalo breeding, Mr. Jones "The buffalo is not a difficult animal to handle. They eat hay freely and can live very comfortably on it through the winter time. I have made some very intertime. I have made some very interesting experiments with the buffalo. I have about half a dozen new and distinct breeds of cattle all coming from crossing the buffalo with the Galloway

the Durham, the Poled Angus and the Texas, cattle. The breed that I get from a cross between the Galloway and the buffalo is a splendid animal. I have Galloway-buffalo calves only one year old that weigh 900 pounds. The half-breed has a much more even coat of hair and the skins make splendid rugs and robes. For beef they are excellent. In crossing the falo with the Texas cattle the half-breed has long slim horns, almost transparent and very beautiful."
