HOMER, Ill., March 29.—Hon. C. B. Smith, Judge of Appellate Court, Ottawa, Ill.—Dear Sir: I take the liberty of calling your attention to the enclosed cuttings, giving a synopsis of decisions of Judges Tuley of Chicago and Snyder of Belleville against the American live stock commission company, and in can live stock commission company, and in which the position seems to be taken that the company is unlawful in its undertakings, and has no rights in court because, by its co-operative features it may become so popular among the stock raisers as in interfere with the present condition of trade.

If you can do so consistent with your sense of coloring duty, I would be pleased to have an expression on these matters, as they are of vital interest to our farmers. If, by our

If, by our efforts to establish co-operative business among us in live stock, grain, and other mat-ters of trade, we are wrong doers and forfeit our rights to ask our courts for redress of grievances, we should know it, and the peo-ple are interested in the views of their judges who interpret and apply their laws, as the positions of judges on these great questions which are pressing upon the minds questions which are pressing upon the minds of all classes for solution, are of supreme importance at this time.

I remain, yours respectfully,

M. D. COFFEEN, Commissioner.

Champaign, Ill., March 29.—M. E. Coffeen, esq., Trade Commissioner, Homer, Ill.—My Dear Sir: Your favor enclosing me a printed synopsis of two opinions recently announced by two of the circuit judges of this state adversely to the American live stock commisby two of the circuit judges of this state adversely to the American live stock commission company, and requesting my views of the question involved, is just received, and I hasten to comply with your request. Although your letter is a purely private one, I find the questions involved in the litigation are of such great public importance that I feel justified in asking your premission to make my great public importance that I feel justified in asking your permission to make my answer public. It seems from the synopsis of these decisions you enclose me, that the American Live Stock Commission company was held to have no standing in a court of equity in the courts of Chicago and East St. Louis in a suit with the Chicago Live Stock exchange. The American Live Stock company is a corporation organized by stock pany is a corporation organized by stock raisers, with a view to selling their own stock in the markets through its own agents. at the least possible expense to themselves and with a view of dividing the profit among its patrons—the stock rais rs—and with a direct purpose of avoiding the extor-tion of the Chicago Stock Yards company and other like corporations. It appears from the decision that the stock raisers and farmers of Illinois who have formed co-operative associations through which to seil their own stock and grain through their own agents at less expense than heretofore, cannot be heard in a court of equity against the Chicago Stocks Yards company, who seek to exclude them from the market because, as the court held, "they do not come into the court with clean hands," and "because they are themselves wrong doers and monopolists."

These opinions randered against the American Live Stock assertions.

These opinions randered against the American Live Stock association, organized to enable stock ruisers to sell their own stock by their own-agents, and thus save the great expense heretofore attending such sales through others, presents questions of no ordinary importance to stock raisers and farmers in the west.

dinary importance to stock raisers and farmers in the west.

While I cannot with propriety, discuss the particular decision you enclose me, I have no besitancy in expressing my opinion upon the rights of the people upon the great public questions involved in that kind of litigation, because they reach far beyond mere private judicial questions, and become questions of public and private right, vital to the interests of the great producing classes of our citizens.
I confess my hability to understand why the I confess my inability to understand why the stock raisers and farmers of Illinois and the agricultural regions of the west, may not form any kind of lawful co-operative associa-tions for the purpose of facilitating and cheapening the sale of their cattle and corn, and save to themselves the enormous profits realized by the trust monopolies and stock yards corporations, which have robbed the people so long of their rightful profits on their

The rights of every man, or set of men, to sell their own produce by themselves or agents, in any market in the world without the intervention of commission or third person, it seems to me is self-evident, and it must be equally true, that it is the duty of the state and the courts to protect the citizens in that right. The refusal to protect these men in their plain and undeniable rights on the pretext that they are monopolists, is in my judgment, a manifest error, neither consistent with reason, justice or public policy.

Too long already have the stock raisers and producers submitted to robbery and plunder without relief from the extraordinary extortions and unjust tribute levied against them by the greedy horde who stand between them and the consumer. If there is no law to protect the people against these cormorants, then it is time there should be one framed. But the people are not without law nor adequate remedy in the courts to protect them in their lawful right to sell their own stock and grain through their own agency and upon such terms as they may determine, that they themselves may share the profits. The people found a way through the courts to put a stop to railroad extortion and the road is equally plain and clear for them to be protected against all forms of monopolies and trust combinations which seek to fatten themselves upon the labor and hard earnings of the common people of this country.

The great reforms now demanded and pressed by the producing and laboring classes of the people against all manner of extortion and oppression, which deprives labor of its just reward, have now and always have had my earnest sympathy and support, and so far as it has been in my power, as a judge or private citizen, to promote and protect the common people against extertion and injuscommon people against extortion and injus-tice I have done so, and shall continue to do so, so long as I shall have any power or voice to make myself feit in that direction. Nor, on the contrary, would I deprive the rich of a penny of their honest money, nor dony them a single right conferred by law.

And so, answering your question, I believe there is ample and full power in the courts to protect the people and the American live stock company in their right to sell their stock and grain in the markets without hindrance from others, and in that right they should be heard and protected, if need be, by the courts by any appropriate remedy. Very respectfully yours, C. B. SMITH. Very respectfully yours

April Weather Predictions.

If a peck of March dust is worth a king's ransom, and April showers bring forth May flowers, is it not right to predict that every day in the month the electric-lighted, steam-heated, vestibuled limited trains of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway will continue to run on the short line between Omaha and Chicago. The electric reading lamp in every berth of their palace sleeping cars is their own patent and cannot be used by any other company. Ticket office, 1501 Farnam street, Omaha.

FIRE FIEND'S CHOICE.

Max Meyer's Building Again Visited by the Element. About 6:30 o'clock last evening Officer Kees discovered smoke issuing from the top story of the Max Mayer building, corner of Eleventh and Farnam.

The fire was in the front room of the Omaha Photograph and Engraving company. Ladders were quickly hoisted, the windows broken in, and two streams of water soon had the blaze extinguished and the building flooded:

The loss to the engraving company will not be heavy. Probably S. Jenasen, a jeweler who occupied the ground floor will be the greatest loser. The water poured down through the floors, doing considerable damage to the stock of musical instruments and jewerry. The stock in the store is worth probably $5,000, and the loss will not be over $2,000. If there had been a salvage corps it could probably have saved $1,000 of the less by covering up the pianos, clocks, etc.

It is understood that there is some insurance on the stock, but just how much could not be ascertained, as Mr. Jonasen could not be found. The Omaha chemical works occupying the basement for storing some chemicals suffered ome loss by water. Three hundred dollars will cover the loss of the engraving company.

The building is fully insured and the loss will be about $250.

This is rather an ill fated building as several disastrous fires have occurred there Haller's barb wire liniment has met with extraordinary favor, and cases pronounced incurable have been treated with success. Every farmer should keep a bottle of this justly celebrated remedy; ready for instant

Last night the doctor gave, among many others, two very amusing acts. In one of these he led a young man to believe that he was the father of a sick baby. The latter was another young man perhaps twenty years of age. He was picked up by the kind father and tended and fondled and nursed as if he were but a dozen months old. A doctor appears on the scene, the baby is announced to have the fits and forthwith falls upon the floor with his father clinging to both of his hands to make him keep quiet, while the audience fairly him keep quiet, while the audience fairly

AN EXTRA SESSION.

Governor Boyd Anxious to Hear from the People Regarding It.

Governor Boyd returned from Lincoln Saturday night and was called on yesterday afternoon by a BEE man at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. E. L. Bierbowers, on Thirty-second avenue.

He was asked if he had yet decided to call a special session of the legislature for the purpose of apportioning the state into representative and senatorial districts.

He said that he had not. The question regarding a special session was whether the people of Douglas county would be content with a joint ballot of twelve votes where they were entitled to eighteen or nineteer when a senator was to be elected. The same was true in a different ratio, however, with Lancaster and other counties, which vere entitled to greater representation han they now enjoyed. There were some counties which were satisfied with the present apportionment, because a new distribution would not afford them any advantage. Thus far he had not heard much from the propole although he had received from the people, although he had received several letters from parties throughout the several letters from parties throughout the state. He supposed before long the people would begin to talk about it and the papers also would discuss it. He had read what THE BEE had said on the subject, and appreciated the view which held that it was incumbent upon him to call a special session, because of the failure of the last legislature to pass an apportionment bill. He had no doubt that the supreme court would hold, because of the failure of the legislature as specified at the last session, which was the first regular one after the cumeration, that a special session of the same members and before the expiraof the same members and before the expiration of their term of office, would be legal.

He was asked what method he proposed to employ and what means he would suggest to ascertain how the people felt upon the sub-ject. He said that he thought it was a matter for the papers to discuss and that THE BEE might be able to get some opinions on the subject.

the subject.

The governor said that the impression had gone abroad that he had declared he would call a special session. But he said he had made no such promise or statement. He had been in the house of representatives the night the apportionment bill had been killed, and when he heard of it said that he regretted it, because he thought it might ne-cessitate the calling of a special session. This expression led to the alleged positive statement that he would call a session. He regretted the failure of the legislature in this respect, but if it entailed expenses upon the people, the independents could blame only themselves.

The governor was asked bow the suprome court could pass upon the legality of the spe-cial session and replied that before calling the representatives and senators together again he would submit the matter to the court for its opinion. If the apportionment could not be made by the present legislature, it could not be done by the next one, and then the matter would have to be deferred until after the next enumeration by the state, and in the meantime a United States senator would have been elected.

The governor was asked if the report which has been in circulation for several days past were true, namely that Dr. G. F. Johnson of Fairmont, in this state had bee appointed to succeed the present incumbent as superintendent of the asylum for the incurable insane at Hastings.
His excellency said that the report was unfounded. He had not, he said, made any ap pointments since that of Mr. Louis Heimrod who had been appointed oil inspector of the

TESTIMONIAL:

EMERSON, Ia., Dec. 19, 1889.

My Dear Mr. Moore.—For many years my wife has been a great sufferer from the very worst kind of sick headache, and has tried a great many so-called remedies, but without any good results. A neighboring minist, who had been greatly benefitted by it himself, advised the use of your Tree of Life. She at once procured a bottle, and now after 6 aronee procured a bottle, and now after 6 months, can conscientiously recommend it as a valuable medicine which according to the nature of the case, will ward off, greatly relive or radically cure sick headache.
