

BRITISH NAVAL SHOW.

It opens on the Chelsea Embankment with a Great Ceremony. THE PRINCE OF WALES PREIDES. Full Sized Model of Nelson's Famous Flagship on Exhibition. INTERESTING COLLECTION OF RELICS. Innumerable Marine Engines and Monster Cannon on All Sides. ANCIENT AND MODERN APPLIANCES. All the Largest Ship Builders and Ship Owners Represented—Flags and Ensigns of All Nations.

LONDON, May 2.—The naval exhibition on Chelsea embankment opened today with great ceremony. The prince of Wales presided. A light flashed from the light house a cannon shot was heard from one of the modern men-of-war in the grounds, the union Jack at the left of the main was raised and the bands played "God Save the Queen." The exhibition is held in the grounds of the old Chelsea hospital, in temporary buildings erected last year for the military exhibition. The hospital and grounds look directly on the river. Chelsea embankment is a fine broad promenade, well planted with trees, separating it from the river. The exhibition and grounds cover over fifteen acres. The grounds are divided into two sections of unequal size, the building quite surrounding them. The smaller section is laid out with elaborate flowers, has a band stand and a miniature cascade and fountain. The larger section has an arena and a road side artificial lake. Between the arena and lake is a grand stand of large seating capacity, and across the arena from the grand stand rises an exact fac-simile of the Eddystone lighthouse. The lighthouse which is lighted up to the extent of 500,000 candle power, is built of a frame work of iron covered with American expanded wire, over which cement is laid, giving it the appearance of solid stone. The lower part of the lighthouse is used for an exhibit of lighthouse and signaling apparatus, while the top, reached by elevators, affords a good observatory. One of the most interesting features of the exhibition is a full sized model of Nelson's famous flagship, the Victory, furnished through the kindness of the admiralty. On the lake it is proposed to give each day a mimic naval battle between miniature iron clad men of war, including torpedo attacks, torpedo practice, submarine mining fireworks, etc. In the arena boards of sailors will illustrate how drill is done aboard ship and gymnastic contests and displays will also be given. In which the names of naval schools will figure. The handling of naval machine guns, such as the gatling, will be shown here by picked parties of blue jackets. The main exhibition building is divided into nine galleries, each named after some celebrated sailor, such as the Nelson, Benbow, Cook, Howe and the like. The Benbow gallery being devoted to some one class of exhibits. There are interesting collections of old naval relics and of the various Arctic expeditions, and the Arctic section contains the finest collection of naval pictures ever brought together. The other galleries are specially intended to account to visitors of all the latest developments of naval invention. There are hundreds of models of old and new warships. Innumerable charts, compasses and instruments of navigation are exhibited, and also some of the best cannon ever made. A 110-ton gun is particularly noticeable, and an account of the turret of the Victoria. All the largest appliances for manipulating the heavy ordnance and machinery of all kinds are on view, as also the various modern torpedoes and shells in their different stages of manufacture. An interesting contrast is made by the escape of the Victoria's crew from the 110-ton gun, weighing 700 pounds, and a bag containing the heaviest charge used during the Crimean war, weighing sixteen pounds. The models are arranged in the exhibition itself, in a building specially provided in the grounds. The galleries are gaily festooned with flags and ensigns of all nations, not forgetting the Stars and Stripes.

WEATHER CROP BULLETIN.

Issued from the United States Signal Office. WASHINGTON, May 2.—Following is the weather crop bulletin issued by the signal office, Washington City, Saturday, May 2, 1891. Temperature.—The past week has been warm in the northern states, east of the Rocky mountains, and in the northern New England, while about the normal temperature has prevailed throughout the southern states and on the Pacific coast. The excess of temperature has been most marked in the northwest, where, over the spring wheat region, the daily temperature ranged from 3 degrees to 10 degrees above the normal for the week. About the same excess of temperature is reported from the middle Atlantic states. The temperature for the season from January 1 to May 1 continues in excess throughout the northern states, and this excess is apparently on the increase in the principal grain growing sections. In the cotton region the thermal conditions for the season about normal, with the average daily temperature in that region differing less than 1° from that of previous years. Precipitation.—The week was dry generally throughout the agricultural districts, the only section reporting an excess of rainfall being Washington and northwest Oregon, portions of the northern New England, Florida. There was a total absence of rain generally throughout the gulf and middle Atlantic states, upper lake region, the central Mississippi valley and California. The showers occurred in New England from the lower lake region, to the westward, and in Minnesota, Iowa and the upper Missouri valley. The rainfall for the season continues in excess over the greater portion of the agricultural regions, notwithstanding the total absence of rain in many sections during the past week. There was a large excess of moisture generally throughout the states west of the Mississippi, and generally from the east Gulf states northward to the St. Lawrence valley. In the central Mississippi valley the rainfall for the season is about normal, exceeds the point of the normal, while in northern Florida and extreme southern portions of Louisiana there was the usual amount. General remarks.—The weather during the past week has been especially favorable for all growing crops throughout the grain

SCENES OF DISORDER.

Renewed Turbulence in the Mining Districts of France and Belgium. ACTUATED BY A DESIRE FOR REVENGE. Many Assaults Made on Non-Union Workmen by Strikers. GENDARMES UNABLE TO PRESERVE PEACE. Authorities of One City Compelled to Declare a State of Siege. A MAGISTRATE TERRIBLY MALTREATED. Two Hundred Persons Jailed at Rome for Riots Conducted on May Day—Domestic Labor News.

LONDON, May 2.—From reports received here it is learned that the turbulence in the mining districts of France and Belgium in resentment for the sentences of two years' imprisonment imposed on the anarchist leaders in the riots which took place in Charleval and St. Quentin, in France, led to renewed scenes of disorder in those places today, while at Liege, in Belgium, determined attempts were made by the strikers to prevent any of the men who refused to join their ranks from working. When the non-striker attempted to commence they were attacked by the strikers, who assailed them with a shower of stones and other missiles. The gendarmes who had been placed on duty at the mines to protect those who were willing to work found that their efforts to repress the disturbance were useless, and they were finally compelled to invoke the aid of the military.

At the Harlowe collieries in St. Nicholas, where the military had been ordered out to preserve the peace, a rifle fire failed to awe the strikers, although some of them fell wounded. The strikers very stubbornly resisted the military and withstood a charge at them with swords, and only dispersed in the face of a cavalry charge. About thirty of the rioters were arrested. During the riot on Friday at Bedes in Hungary a number of enraged peasants made a savage attack on the chief magistrate of the place for prohibiting the people from holding May day demonstration. The magistrate was thrown to the ground and the peasants trampled upon and kicked him in the face. In the rioting in Rome the police were placed in a dangerous position. Upon the military coming to the rescue of the imperiled magistrate a sharp attack took place between them and the desperate peasants. The soldiers charged upon the crowd, and one of the rioters was killed through by bayonets. The rioters were finally forced to retreat, and twenty men were captured and are now under arrest. The fighting caused the greatest excitement in Rome, and the authorities were compelled to declare the place in a state of siege. All the shops have been closed and the latest news says that the people are still wildly excited.
