Fruit Growers and Gardeners Hold a Very Important Meeting.

THEY MAY REVIVE THE COUNTY FAIR.

Home Show Held to Be Better Than the Blue Grass Palace Display-Business of the Meeting.

A meeting of the Fruit Growers' and Cardeners' association was held yesterday afternoon in the county court house. The necting was characterized mainly by the argo amount of new farmer blood that was instilled in it. In addition to Captain D. B. Clark, O. W. Gordon, H. M. Prouty and all other standbys, there were Farmers T. J. Evans of the motor company, W. J. Davenport of the Burlington, J. J. Steadman, and a, number of others who have not ordinarily been recognized as such men. John T. Stewart and Colonel D. B. Dalley were there also but they were not there as farmers. The main object of the meeting was to talk over the advisability of joining the Blue Grass eague, and this subject was broached the first thing, Colonel W. M. Scott, president of the Blue Grass Palace association of Creston, and President Mitchell of the Blue Grass eague having come to the Bluffs to use their affuence with the farmers of Poltawattamie ounty to get them back into the association.

Both the gentlemen spoke very warmly of the benefits that would accrue to the county and the city by going back into the association, but after they had finished it was evidon't that the farmers and others who were present were far from convinced that the only way in which they would ever hope to get along was by joining the league.

Colonel D. B. Dalley then arose and proented an invitation that had been prepared n his office and signed by the president of the Council Bluffs Driving Park association, J. T. Stewart. The invitation was substantially as follows:

To the Gardeners' and Fruit Growers' Association of Pottawattanie County: The Council Bluifs Driving Park and Fulir association respectfully states that it is its purpose to revive the old time agricultural fair in connection with the other attractions at its future annual meetings, and to this end the Gardeners' and Fruit Growers' association of this county, together with all agricultural societies are cordinally invited to exhibit the products of their respective labors and enterprises at the coming September meeting of the Driving Park and Fair association. The officers and managers of the latter association hereby preffer to the Gardeners' and Fruit Growers' and Il kindred agricultural associations every facility needful to mutually advance the best interests of both associations and to form within ourselves an organization that may be permanent and profitable.

The subject was then declared open for The subject was then declared open for discussion, and the opportunity was taken advantage of very generously. Mr. Stewart stated that in his opinion it was time that Council Bluffs began to pay some attention to her own a Tairs, and he did not see how it could be better done than by considering just such enterprises as the one which had been suggested to the association. He called to mind that in former times Council Bluffs had and that in former times council Births had had a county fair that had been unexcelled by any in the state, but that for some reason or other it had been allowed to die out. The Driving Park association now proposes to re-vive it and make it a permanent affair, and with the assistance of the farmers and fruit growers, he saw no reason why the old time success should not be realized. Colonel Dailey also spoke in favor of the en-terprise. He stated that for miles east of the city Pottawattamie county consisted of one mmense garden, and he did not believe there was a single county in the state that could furnish the material for an exhibit of its products in this line such as Pottawattamie ould furnish.

Other speakers followed, and to all appear ances the opinion of almost every one present was in favor of reviving the county fair. President Stewart of the Driving Park association then extended an invitation to the ride with him on the motor line to the driving park for the purpose of looking over the ground and seeing what arrangements would have to be made before the fair could be held. A special motor train was sent for and in a short time about twenty representa tives were on their way to the park. Before they went, however, they appointed a com-mittee of six, consisting of J. C. Raymond, James Rainbow, S. Underwood, J. W. Templeton, L. A. Casper and Eugene Hupfel, to conter with another committee to be ap-pointed by the Driving Park association with reference to the invitation which had been extended to the farmers to engage n the fair enterprise with them. Another meeting of the association will be seld next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at which time another ride will be taken to the driving park on invitation of Mr. Stewart clock the farmers will convene in the court house and will hear reports from the ommittees, including the one which was apointed to consider the advisability of joining the Blue Grass league.

An Important Decision.

A decree was handed down yesterday norning by Judge McGee in the case of Fred Cline against the Northwestern railway. which setties, so far as the superior court is concerned, the question as to whether or not it is necessary for railway companies to build fences along their lines inside city imits. The suit was brought in the first place to collect damages for the killing of a orse which fell through a culvert on the Northwestern inside the limits of Council Bluffs. The ground upon which the plaintiff based his claim for limits damages was a statute which was passed at the last session of the Iowa legislature a little over a year ago providing that all railway companies in the state should fence their lines on both sides. He held that this statute these on both sides. He held that this statute was applicable to that part of the railway lines inside of the city limits as well as to the lines outside, and that the provision for catle guards at highway crossings applied a well to the crossings of streets as to the cross-ings of county roads. The decision of the court was in favor of the defendant, the deision being that the statute was not applicade to railway lines inside of corporate municipal limits. As the decision is one of the first under statute, it has an interest greater than f there were more precients for the de-ision. The supreme court has nover passed on the statute.

At Madame Recaimer's.

The salon of Madame Recamier was not, in any sense philosophical or political, but after the cruei persecution of La Harpe, the banishment of Madame de Stael, and the similar misfortunes of other friends, her sympathles were too strong for her diplomacy, and it gradually fell into the ranks of the opposition writes Amelia Gere in the Century. It was well known that the emperor regarded all who went there as his enemies, and this young and innocent woman was destined to feel the tull bitterness of his displeasure. We cannot trace here the incidents of her varied career, the misfortunes of a father to whom she was a ministering angel, and the loss of her husband's fortune and her own the years of wandering and exile, the second period of brief but illusive prosperity, and the swift reverses which lead to her final retreat She was at the height of her fame in the early days of the restoration, when her salor revived its old brilliancy, and was the cente in which all parties met on neutral ground Her intimate relations with those in power gave it a strong political influence, but this was never a marked feature, as it was mainly personal

But the position in which one is most in clined to recall Madame Recamier is in the convent of Abbaye-aux-Bois, where divested of fortune and living m the simplest manner, she preserved for nearly thirty years the fading traditions of the old salons. Through all the changes which tried her fortitude and revealed the latent heroism of her character she seems to have kept her sweet serenity unbroken, bending to the passing storms with the grace of a facile nature, but hever murmuring at the inevitable. One may fine n this flexible strength and gentleness of temper a clue to the subtle fascination which held the devoted friendship of so many gift ed men and women, long after the fresh charm of youth was gone.
