WHAT THE PRESS SAYS OF IT.

Editorial Comment on the New Orleans Grand Jury's Report.

THE DOCUMENT THOROUGHLY DISCUSSED.

Fruitful Theme for Discussion at the State Department in Washington, But No Surprise is Expressed.

New Outeans, La., May 6.-The States says: "The report of the grand jury brings to light a number of startling facts, all more or less directly concerning the assassination of the late superintendent of police of this city, the miscarriage of justice in the prosecution of the murderers and the subsequent lynching of the latter in the parish prison. Naturally the grand jury could indict no one, or no number of those concerned in this business. The people did it, and no grand jury could devise a way to indict 'the people.'

The Times-Democrat says: "The grand fury has given the proper return in the parish prison lynching, a return that will meet with the approval of the entire people, not of New Orleans alone, but of the country. The case had, indeed, been tried by the press before the bar of public opinion and a verdiet of not guirty, a finding of "well done," had long since been returned as to the men whose acts suppressed the Mafia and gave a warning to the criminals of Europe that they would find no welcome in this country."

The Picayune: "We accept the declaration of the mability of the grand jury to get information as to the participants in the storming of the parish prison. Doubtless there was a large sympathy with the perpetrators of the acts after they were committed, but sympathy after the fact is not guilt and not participation. The grand jury could not find the guilty parties. That is plain enough. Any insinuation that the 'entire people of the city and parish are responsible ought not to proceed from the grand jury, which was acting under onth."

MILWAUNEE, Wis., May 6 .- The Sentinel says: "The presentation makes a case of strong circumstantini evidence that the talesmen were approached by friends and agents of the accused Italians, and the common conclusion will be that some of the jurors were bribed. The character of O'Malloy, who was employed by the Italians, is snown to be very bad, and if jurors were not bribed it was not his fault. But the report of the grand jury ought to have relieved pub-lic curiosity outside of New Orleans if some conclusive evidence as to the connection of the Italians with the murder of Chief Hennessey had been given."

New York, May 6.—On the New Orleans grand jury's report the Post says: "This is not a legal document. It is an apology for an act of direct revolutionary violence committed by the entire population of a large of the committed by the entire population of a large. city and expressed in the inhated rhetoric in which manifestoes are usually couched. It is a confession by a competent authority that the machinery of crimical justice has com-pletely broken down in the state of Louisiana and that crimes of any magnitude have to be punished by a revolutionary tribunal. It holds out no promise of a better or more regular administration of local justice, but it throws some light on the working of the jury system in New Orleans, which the peo-ple of other cities, and particularly those of New York, will do well to read, mark, learn and inwardly discert and inwardly digest, for, as we remarked when the news of the tragedy first came, we are traveling fast along the shameful path which has ended in New Orleans in the erection of mob government as a desperate

The Mail and Express says: "If the his-The Mail and Express says: "If the history of New Orieans since the war and up to March 14 last had been entirely unfamiliar to the people of this country the voluminous and rhetorical report presented by the grand jury of that city, justifying the enforcement of lynch law on that memorable occasion, might be regarded with more favor than can be accorded by the loval and law aphiling sit. be accorded by the loyal and law-abiding cit-lzens of this country. Moreover, it has been due to the lack of municipal patriotism and to the neglect and unwillingness of New Orteats omeiais to enforce the laws for the pro-tection of lives and the preservation of the peace, that such a formidable gang of assas-sins as the Mafia should have been permitted to grow in power to take effectual part in local politics and to become a terror to thou-sands of people. The Sicilian Maila found in New Orleans a conveniel and homeilize field is to enforce the laws for the pro New Orleans a congenial and homelike field for their operations. In a city where white men of any position have been allowed to commit murder with impunity, whenever the Edminal immigrants from Sicily felt encour-aged to resume the homicidal careers for which they had to leave their native land."

The Herald says: "That is the the fieraid says: "That is the verdict of the grand jusy, which speaks for the people of New Orleans. It will be the verdict of the American people and of the civilized world wherever the facts are known. It is no time to sermonize about mob violence. An uprising of the people is not an outbreak of a mob. It is idle to moralize about law and justice taking their usual course. Safety of the community is the highest law, and when statutes and courts fail that higher law reigns. The Mafia, instead of the community, is now terrorized. The lives of law-abiding citizens are safer there. Justice has been vindicated by the people. The disease called for the cure. The end justifies the

It is to be deplored, of course, that any combination of events, in America should render it necessary for a judicial body to condone a lynching, but the report of the New Orleans grand jury proves quite conclusively that such a condition of affairs exists in that city and it is a plain proposition that the slaving of the Hennessy proposition that the slaving of the Hennessy ussassins was not only justifiable but that it was the only means of redress under the cir-

The Republican says: "After a thorough investigation, lasting several weeks, the grand jury at New Orleans has come to the sclusion that the mob which summarily scuted the members of the Mafia in the inty jail deserved commendation rather than censure and declined to find any indict-ments, although the identity of the persons who led the movement was well known. The general opinion in New Orleans is that the action of the mob was not only justifiable, but necessary in order to check the spirit of assassination among the civilian residents of that zity, and that this view is probably correct. It is not likely that similar action will be needed for a like cause in the near future."

THE NEW ORLEANS VERDICT.

It Causes Much Discussion at the State

Department.

WASHINGTON, May 6 .- The report of the New Orleans grand jury upon the killing of the Italians was a fruitful thome for discus-ment of state today. It may be said that the finding of the grand jury excited no surprise, for some such conclusion of the case was expected. The atempt to palliate the infraction of the law by off-setting the alleged attempts at jury fixing are deprecated at the department, but there

s a well defined opinion on the whole that

The report of the grand jury will, it is ex-pected, reach Secretary Blaine in the course of time and figure in the official correspondence between the United States and Italy. There is reason to believe that in some de-tails it differs from the report made to the department of justice by District Attorney Grant and notably in the matter of the nationality of the victims. The grand jury's report found eight of them naturalized Amer-

can citizens and that one declared his inten tion to become naturalized. District Attorney

Grant, it is believed, found one of the vic-tims of Italian nationality, but he was an escaped convict, and that another's nationality was so doubtful as to make it unsafe to hazzard an opinion, so, at any rate, the Italian complaint will be narrowed down to at least two persons, one of them being an escaped convict. Although the United States last named nation has invariably, through comity, recognized our naturalized citizens as free from amenability to their native government. When the case of these two victims was considered the question imme-diately arose whether treaty stipulations setween the two governments as soon as the Italian government is ready to fail reasonably into the usual diplomatic method of treating a subject respecting which they took issue with another nation. Unless it appears clearly that the treaty has been violated the Italian case falls to the ground, and leading diplomatic minds of the state department maintain that this fact cannot be made to appear.

It is learned that Porter our minister at Rome, applied to the department of state for leave of absence before the New Orleans affair happened. He has been constantly on duty since March, 1889, more than two years. Moreover the sickly season is approaching in Rome, so that it is entirely probable his request will be granted.

Attorney General Miller said he read the report of the grand jury, but declined abso-lutely to express any opinion regarding it or to discuss it in any way.

Secretary Foster, when asked his opinion on the report, said he really had not time to read it, and therefore was not in a position to Oran S. Bourke of that precinct yesterday and asked if the Mafia had a foothold in Brooklyn. Detective Bourke has been in that precinct for years and is as intimately acquainted with the doings of the Italians as any American can be. He said: "Certainly the Mafia exists in Brooklyn.

At the time of the New Orleans trials, previ-ous to the lynching, a number of Italians in the precinct brought to the station house let ters they had received ordering them to put up some money, in some cases as high as $200, and to have it in a certain place at a certain time. Why, that shoe black yonder paid in $10."

Detective Sergeant Dan Daly of the fifcenth precinct, an officer of many years' experience along the water front in the Italian section of the city, said: "Of course the Matia exists here. I was handed one of the letters demanding money. It was sent to a man not far from here, directing him to tell his brother-in-law to put up $200, and it was decorated with ferocicus pictures of death heads and crossbones and other pleasant looking emblems affected by the Mafia."

Judge Wakeman of the appellate court reversed a judgment in favor of the commission firm of Foss, Strong & Co. Wm. School Rooms are Either Overcrowded or Poorly Filled.

The question of putting a larger number of pupils into each room in the Omaha schools and thereby avoiding the employment of additional teachers has been discussed a good deal by the board of 'education during the past six montus. Prof. Jaffice and a few members of the board have beld that the rooms in many instances were already too much crowded. It is generally held by members of the board that the teachers cannot handle to advantage more than from thirtyfive to forty-five pupils in a single room. The board requested Superintendent James

HAVE DISCOVERED A LEPER.

New York Peddler Suffering from the Terrible Disease.

ALRRMING TENEMENT HOUSE CASE.

Health Officers Reticent as to the Location of the Infested House-Its Existence is Admitted.

New York, May 6 .- Dr. Alonzo Blauvalt oclieves that he has discovered an slarming case of leprosy in a big tenement in the lower part of Oliver street. He reported the case to the board of health yesterday and Dr. Edson, chief of the bureau of contagious diseases, at once took the matter in hand and started out a couple of his assistants on a tour of investigation. Dr. Edson refused to reveal the exact place where the "leper" was found and says he will not make all the facts in the case public until he has completed the investigation which he intends to make as thorough as possible, it was ascertained, however, that the patient is a Greek peddler who came to this country from Mexico only six weeks ago. He was sick when he came here, but managed to keep on his feet until ast Saturday, making his daily visits through the crowded tenements in the district in which he sold his goods.

Leprosy, so say the doctors, is not a contagious disease, but it is possible to spread its germs when precaution is not taken. The last case which came to the notice of the health authorities of this city was about six months ago when a man named Emanuel Garts was discovered in a house on West Twenty-eighth street. He was found to be in a shocking condition, and after his isola-tion on the island the usual drooping or fall-ing off of the hip joints was noticed in his case. Great scales covered his body and face. He underwent great suffering and died after a long illness. The case attracted considerable attention in the medical world. He was removed to Yucatan before he died in opes that the climate would benefit him The present case is said by Dr. Biauvalt to be a noticeable one. He will watch over the case just now and an expert will examine the patient in a day or two. The Greek has icen isolated, and although Dr. Edson says the disease is not contagious he has taken the precaution to have the Greek's quarters joint agency scheme proposed by Gould is a great thing," remarked General Passenger Agent Francis of the Burlington yesterday. "Take a joint ticket office in this city, for instance. The various roads having city ticket offices here are paying in the neighborhood of $2,000 per month for office rent alone. This would be done away with under the proposed scheme, resulting in a saving of about $25,000 per year to the roads interested. Besides that, it would result in cutting off the employes in the different offices, which would effect a saving of another $25,000.

GOULD'S GREAT SCHEME.

His Joint Office Arrangement and How it Would Work.

"In the freight offices there would be large saving also. A change would not cut much figure in this city, as there are not many solicitors or contracting agents, and they would be about the only ones affected; they would be about the only ones affected; but in the larger cities, where many of the roads have large offices and a number of employes, there would be a marked reduction in expenses. All the offices would be consolidated and a single staff of solicitors do the business of all the roads. Such a scheme in practical operation would result in a saying practical operation would result in a saving of $1,000,000 to the railroads.
"That is the bright side of the case," continued Mr. Francis. "I do not think the millenium in railroad affairs has come yet, and I do not believe the proposed scheme will be put in operation right away. There are many difficulties in the way of its successful working. There would be a strong temptation for an agent to divert traffic in temptation for an agent to divert traine in a certain direction, and it would be pretty difficult to detect him. There are numerous other difficulties in the way, and I think it will be some time before we will see joint agencies in full blast."
