The floor of the church and pews are literally covered with pipes and stops and bits of mechanism that will become a part of the great instrument when in position. The organ is a large, two manual instrument with a compass of 61 notes for the great organ and 27 notes for the pedals. The stops for the great organ are: Open diapason, 8 feet; oren diapason, 18 feet; viola di ganda, 8 feet; dulcissimo, 8 feet; Hohl flute, 8 feet; flute harmonic, 4 feet; octave, 4 feet; octave, 4 feet; octave quinte, 2% feet; super-octave, 2 feet; octave quinte, 2% feet; super-octave, feet; mixture, 3 ranks, and trumpet, 8 feet. The outside finish is quartered red oak, which will harmonize beautifully with the interior finish of the edifice. The front is ornamented with many handsome designs. A striking feature of the decoration is the working into the wood of numerous pilasters in the shape of ornamental pipes, thus forming, together with the speaking pipes, almost a solid front of handsomely illuminated pipes rising out of the beautiful oak case of the inrising out of the beautiful oak case of the in-strument. The end facades are also made very ornamental by the exposure of the large diapason pipes beauti-fully illumfnated. The instrument has 35 large ripes exposed to view and 25 small ones. In quality and capacity of tone it is said to be equal to the best that is made for church purposes. With the exception of the patent French air chest it is said to be very much like the Roosevelt organ. There are over 80,000 pieces in the instrument, and it cost about $6,000.

Mr. Thos. J. Quinlan, an expert organ mechanic and builder of Boston, Mass., is superintending the putting up of the in-strument. He is assisted by Mr. Gibson and Mr. Marsball of Omaha, both of whom are ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Yasterday when the sale of seats open ed for the engagement of "A Texas Steer," which takes place at the Boyd this afternoon and evening, the lobby of the Boyd was crowded with people anxious to get tickets for the great comedy, and by noon the advance sale amounted to more than $500. The buying was principally for the night performance, so that before 11 o'clock nearly all the preferred scats were gone. However, there are an abundance of good seats for the matinee performance, and those who are disappointed in getting their choice of sittings for the night performance can be suited at the matinee. The present indications are that a large audience will witness the matinee and that long before the curtain rises the sign "Standing room only" will be disapposed. siga "Standing room only" will be displayed at the box-office window.

Two performances of Duncan B. Harrison's sensational drama, "Honest Hearts and Williag Hands," will be given at the Boyd on Saturday next by a competent company, headed by the world's champion, John L. Sullivan. Since John L. has left the prize ring and turned actor, he has proven humself a greater attraction than ever. Scats will be put on sale Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

SOUTH OMAHA PAVING BONDS.

Reasons for Not Voting for the Issue Given by a Citizen.

LAST YEAR'S CONTROVERSY RECALLED.

An Opportunity Sinned Away by Twenty-Fourth Street People-Other Arguments Against the Measure Advanced.

"No one who is at all acquainted with the city will question for a moment the need of paving many of the streets, and particularly Twenty-fourth street or some other street leading direct to Omaha," said a careful business man and a well-to-do property owner, "but there is a limit to buying even good or necessary things, and I fear that we are at that limit. Until I have more information you can set me down as being against the bonds. In the first place, when the county commissioners voted $20,000 to pay the city's expense of paving Twenty-fourth street, the property holders could not agree on any paving material, and by their cussed ness or the bungling course of the city council, or both, all the funds necessary to pay the city's share were refused. Now, as adjacent Twenty-fourth street property will alone be benefited, I think it should pay the cost, and as the blekering course of these people prevented the city from getting the money from the county, I say let them pay the bill. In the language of the American boy, 'It is their funeral now; let them pay the expenses.

"Again, this is not such a terrible hardship on the property holders as at first would seem. The street railway company will be compelled to pay about two-lifths of the cost or pave at least two-lifths of the street. This will be much more than the cost of alleys and "What interest the citizens of Brown park, Albright, the Third and Fourth wards, and the whole of the eastern part of the city south of J street can have in this paving that would cause them to saddle bonds on them-selves, is more than I can see. Scarcely a citizen, except property holders along Twenty-fourth street, will be benefited, while every other one will be taxed for years to pay for benefits to these property holders, and to pay for their pig-headed course in not accepting the money from the county.

"But more than this governs me. The city now has a bonded indebtedness of nearly $300,000, practically all the law allows on the present assessment. To add to that there is a deficit at the present time of some $200,0 or $25,000, with almost every fund expansived. 'In my opinion the citizens cannot afford assume another obligation and I am opposed to voting 'yes' on the bonds,"

FOR TWENTY YEARS. George Francis Train's Remarkable

Memory of a Face. Chief Seavey has received a Japanese cane from George Francis Train as a souvenir. The cane is marked "I sen," and accompanied the noted globe-trotter around the world in sixty days.

The chief relates an incident in connection with his acquaintance with Mr. Train that demonstrates the latter's wonderful memory

"In 1868," said the chief, "I was running as cierk on a steamer on the St. Croix river. One day George Francis Train and his private secretary came on board and stepped up to the counter to purchase tickets. The secretary made the purchase, and Mr. Train waited near by until the deal was completed, after which he walked away. I did not speak to him and did not see him again until he was here in Omaha about three years ago. I met him then at the corner of Fourteenth and Farnam and some one introduced me. Train looked at me a moment and then said,
'Why, I know that man, I saw him on a steamer on the St. Croix river twenty years ago.' So far as I know, he had not seen me in all those years, but he recognized me almost instantly. I thought it an instance of the most remarkable memory of faces that had ever come to my notice. That was at the the most remarkation memory of faces that had ever come to my notice. That was at the time there was a fight against me and the council didn't pay me any salary for about nine months. Train asked what I was getting and some one replied that I was receiving $150 a month. This man Hascall was there and he spoke up and said, 'He nin't getting a d—d cent.' Train thought that was altogether wrong and said that he would see that the matter was straightened. see that the matter was straightened, and I should get a good salary. This souvenir that he sent me was left with one of the officers at the depot."

The erratic tourist announced when he left the city last Friday that he proposed to come back and make a few changes as soon as he had time. He inquired what pay the ser geants of police were receiving and was told $85 a month. "That isn't enough," he declared. "They ought to get $100 the same as they do in New York. They must shave it, too, and if they are not getting it when I come back here there'il be h—I to pay. What do you think of that Bemis!" and he at once towed Mr. Bemis over into a corner of the depot and protested leng, loud and earnestly because Omaha is behind New York in the salary paid police sergeants.

SUPPRESSING THE DAIRIES.

Extent and Intent of the Latest Council Legislation.

"The ordinance introduced in the conneil last night, to remove all dairies outside the city limits, will not affect the board of health," stated City Physician Gapen yesterday in reply to a question. "Under the amended charter the board of health is given authority over all territory within three miles of the city limits and if any of the dair ries remove beyond that limit the board has the power to compel them to submit to an examination of their dairies or be refused a license. There are about thirty dairies within he city limits."

"Under the present ordinance all milk "Under the present ordinance all milk dealers who keep more than two cows must pay a license fee of $10 per annum. There are several inaccuracies in the ordinance which will have to be corrected before it can be enforced. For instance, it prescribes certain duties for inspectors but makes no provision for their appointment. There are several other defects which will be remedied by an ordinance now rending in the council several other defects which will be remedied by an ordinance now pending in the council. "The board has appointed a committee, of which I am the chairman and the chief of police and Councilman Blumer are the other members. This committee is now preparing a set of rules for the government of the board which will be submitted in about two weeks. Our idea is to have the rules as com-plete as possible, so as to cover all cases. After they have been approved by the board they will be submitted to the council for ap-proval and will then become operative. "The ordinances and rules of the board will then be enforced to the letter; it will not be then be enforced to the letter; it will not be a question of personal feeling with me, but a question of cuty. I am here to enforce the law and I roppose to do it."

SHIRTS RETAILED

It is a well known fact that we never mark goods up. When we advertise anything at a price, that's the price so long as the goods last. We don't sell anything cheap for a day or two, or three, and then raise on the price after that. That may be all right from one point of view, but not from ours. We sometimes advertise an article for say three days,; we do this as we think that that time will see them all gone. Should any remain on the fourth day you're welcome to them at the same price, but that seldom occurs. About a month ago we put in stock a large quantity of unlaundried
