

EXPERT MEDICAL TESTIMONY.

Opinions of Doctors as to the Cause of Shedy's Death.

SYMPTOMS OF MORPHINE POISONING.

Concussion of the Brain May Also Have Been the Cause—The Evidence in the Case.

LINCOLN, Neb., May 19.—[Special to THE BEE.]—The day has been devoted entirely to the hearing of expert testimony in the Shedy murder case.

The examination of Dr. Everett... The doctor helped dress Shedy's wounds the night he was injured, was called in the next morning at 4 o'clock, participated in the consultation a few hours later, helped at the coroner's inquest, and a little over three weeks ago helped to dig up the body again, and had made a careful examination of the skull.

Dr. Gannett, who was on the witness stand yesterday, was put on again today. He testified mainly concerning the effects of morphine poisoning. He declared that ordinarily a toxic dose of morphine showed its effects in from thirty to forty minutes.

At this juncture Strode seized a small book in his hand, and walking up to the witness held it in his face. He then asked: "What book is that?" pointing to the volume.

"It is labeled 'Taylor on Poisons,'" was the reply. Opening the book, Strode said: "Just read these lines."

The witness read: "The effects of morphine poisoning are noticeable within from fifteen to thirty minutes."

"Now," said Strode, "haven't you read an authority which says that the effects of morphine poisoning are noticeable within from fifteen to thirty minutes?"

Lambertson objected that such was not a fair and proper manner of making an examination. "Object," said he, "to the witness, and you are educating the witness." The judge sustained the objection. Strode then asked the witness: "Do you not know that you cite that says that it requires from thirty to forty minutes for a toxic dose of morphine to make itself manifest?"

The witness stated that he believed he had gotten the idea from a table of statistics published in a certain medical work. This work was lying on a table near where the attorneys were sitting. Strode seized it, and demanded: "Now show me where it says that it takes from thirty to forty minutes for a toxic dose of morphine to take effect. Just point it out."

The witness took the book, but after looking through it for a few minutes, he said he could not find anything. Whereupon Strode remarked: "Then you were mistaken, weren't you?"

The witness admitted that he was as far as the authority for the same was concerned. The witness was then again asked what the effects of a toxic dose of morphine were before the effects would be noticeable. He replied: "In from twenty to fifty minutes, judging from my own experience."

"Are you in the habit of administering poisonous doses of morphine to patients?" asked Strode. "You speak of your own experience."

Lambertson objected to this question as an insult and the objection was sustained. The witness then was asked concerning his experience with patients who had been poisoned by morphine. He related one instance in that he had administered morphine to a patient who was suffering from the same as those manifested by John Shedy. Witness had also had several other patients suffering from the same.

Attorney Strode, counsel for Mrs. Shedy, then asked: "The symptoms in concussion of the brain, compression of the brain, or morphine poisoning may be the same, may they not?"

"Yes, sir," was the reply. "Can not death result from concussion of the brain, or compression of the brain, or morphine poisoning at the same time?"

"It might," was the reply. "Such a blow as sufficient to cause death, but I do not think that in this case it did. There was some extraneous cause, but I do not know what it was." Strode then asked: "Did you not see a fracture of the skull?"

"No," was the reply. "Did you not see a fracture of the skull?" Strode then asked: "Did you not see a fracture of the skull?"

"No," was the reply. "Did you not see a fracture of the skull?" Strode then asked: "Did you not see a fracture of the skull?"

"No," was the reply. "Did you not see a fracture of the skull?" Strode then asked: "Did you not see a fracture of the skull?"

"No," was the reply. "Did you not see a fracture of the skull?" Strode then asked: "Did you not see a fracture of the skull?"

"No," was the reply. "Did you not see a fracture of the skull?" Strode then asked: "Did you not see a fracture of the skull?"

"No," was the reply. "Did you not see a fracture of the skull?" Strode then asked: "Did you not see a fracture of the skull?"

"No," was the reply. "Did you not see a fracture of the skull?" Strode then asked: "Did you not see a fracture of the skull?"

"No," was the reply. "Did you not see a fracture of the skull?" Strode then asked: "Did you not see a fracture of the skull?"

IGNATIUS HAD A SCHEME.

Minnesota's Cipher Statesman Causes a Sensation at the Cincinnati Conference.

NIPPED IN THE BUD BY THE CHAIRMAN.

Several States Favor the Third Party Plan—Weaver Makes Himself Heard—Committee on Platform Appointed.

CINCINNATI, O., May 19.—The opening day of the national conference was blessed with mild temperature. The morning hours were occupied by the state delegations perusing their organization. A feature that has attracted some attention this morning is the apparent apathy of the delegates from that section being few in number.

Wide interest attached to the presence among the delegates of an unusually large number of prominent labor men, particularly Knights of Labor leaders. It is rumored that the knights are in active alliance with the southern delegates and others to prevent the convention organizing a third party at this time. General Weaver, who is a member of the board, was interviewed by the Associated Press representative today, just before the convention was called to order.

"It is not true that either myself or the other general officers or members of the order have any plan or scheme in our minds for anything to do with this party," said Weaver. "I am not here as a delegate to the convention, but to attend the meeting of the general executive body of the order, which is being called to meet here today."

"The various state delegations are in favor of the immediate organization of a third party and of government land direct sale. At interest in the order is about 2 per cent per annum. Almost to a man they declared themselves regardless of what action is taken at the national conference, as long as it does not interfere with the state ticket in the field in Ohio."

The delegates from Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Louisiana and Louisiana also favor a third party. Of those who opposed the formation of a third party, the most prominent were from Iowa, Nebraska and Nebraska. A prominent member of the committee on resolutions is General J. B. Weaver of Iowa and John Steed of Ohio.

While the state delegations are in session the Illinois men to the number of 100 met and elected A. J. Steed, chairman of the delegation and H. C. Steed, vice chairman. Colonel S. F. Norton of Iowa, exhibited the Illinois member of the national committee.

The inspiring strain of the "Star Spangled Banner" from the great organ the delegates took the places assigned them. Delegates from Iowa, Nebraska and Nebraska, who were the most prominent in the national committee, were the national members of the national committee.

At exactly 2 p. m. a conference delegate advanced to the front of the stage and accompanied by the great organ, led the audience in singing, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

At the conclusion of the song Rev. D. T. McGowan of Indiana invoked the divine blessing. The delegates repeated with him the Lord's prayer.

Charles E. Cunningham of Arkansas was introduced as temporary chairman, the formalities of the opening being passed with. An alliance song to the tune of "John Brown's Body" was the next feature of the proceedings.

W. H. Robbe of Iowa and G. F. Washburn of Massachusetts were made assistant secretaries. The first real excitement in the convention was caused by no less a person than Ignatius Donnelly of Minnesota. He did it with a speech which was a real masterpiece of oratory.

WEARY OF POLITICAL ABUSE.

General Belief That Pension Commissioner Raim Will Resign.

CANDIDATES ANXIOUS TO SUCCEED HIM.

Quarantine Established Against Canadian Stock—Cattle Shipment Regulations—Alliance News at Washington—Patents Granted.

WASHINGTON BUREAU THE BEE, 319 FOURTH STREET, WASHINGTON, D. C., May 19.

Up to this evening Pension Commissioner Raim has not called upon the president and the impression is that he is waiting to see Secretary Noble, who will retire from St. Louis within a day or two, and that both the secretary and the commissioner will confer with the president relative to the latter's resignation. It is generally believed that the commissioner will resign his political and personal enemies. The general has told his friends that he first wanted to talk the matter over fully with Secretary Noble, explaining everything, so that he himself would be blameless, and then if the president would permit him to remain in the office the resignation would be promptly at his disposal. Otherwise the resignation would not be tendered. General Raim simply wants to do what is best for the country and the administration. He is frank and fair and his many constituents and his friends fully appreciate his position.

While the Indians have good reason to believe that the commissioner will go to his death there is a heavy among a number of prominent men residing at this state capital to become General Raim's successor. The name of ex-Governor Leavelle of Pennsylvania is again mentioned. General Weaver is also mentioned. The fact that Secretary Noble dropped into town yesterday and had a conference with the president has led to the belief that the latter is considering the resignation of the Pennsylvania ex-governor. Deputy Commissioner of Pensions is also mentioned. The best informed are certain that the president will bring one of his Indian friends to the pension commission.
