MUST PAY FOR THE PAVING.

Judge McGee Renders an Important Decision Against the M. tor Company. An important decree was handed down yesterday afternoon by Judge McGee, in the case of Maria Jackson against the Omaha & Council Bluffs bridge company. The case is important, not because of the amount involved, but because of its being a test case, others. The suit was brought to compel the motor company to pay about $150 for paying between the company's tracks in front of the plaintiff's property. The attorneys for the defense combatted the claim on the ground that the road had been built under the old charter of 1866, in which there was no provision for the paving between the tracks. They also claimed that the company was operating under the new charter of 1886 in which there is such a provisian.

The attorneys for Mrs. Jackson claimed that the company must run under one charter or the other, and could not pick out a section of one and a section of the other as they saw

In making his decree yesterday Judge McGee stated that there was one thing in connection with the case that showed to him, at least, that the company had built its line under the charter of 1886. He pointed out the fact that the charter of 1886 granted the company the right to build a branch to any depot then standing or that might be erected thereafter. The company had built a road to Fairmount park which was not a depot and that was conclusive evidence that the new charter, and not the old, was the one under which the road had been built. He therefore held that the company was hable for the cost of the

NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Horrible State of Affairs Brought Out by Coroner Waterman-

FEARFUL DEATH OF OLD MRS. WHITE.

Surrounded by Indeser bable Fifth and Squalor-Beaten by Her Son and His Wife-investigation Coming.

Mrs. Esther White died last Wednesday night at the residence of her son, William J. White, 1618 South Eighth street. The funeral was to have occurred yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and the body would have been buried in the usual manner had not strange stories been circulated at a late hour Thursday night by the neighbors. These stories, being brought to the ear of the coroner, put a stop to the proceedings, and the investigation that followed brought to light a norrible state of affairs. William J. White, the son of the dead woman, is a well known character about the Bluffs. He is known as the "charm doctor," and his peculiar method of medical treatment consists of the local application of saliva. Several years ago he was married, and ever since that time, according to the stories of the neighbors, there has been blood on the moon. His wife had no use for the mother-in-law and vice versa. Coroner Waterman made a visit to the house yesterday for the purpose of looking around. He found the house in a fairly orderly condition, until he asked to be shown the room which had been occupied by Mrs. White. On opening the door a horrible stench greeted him. The bed on which the woman had rested during her last illness, was one mass of filth. The rest of the room was filled with rubbish that exhaled a nauseating odor. Vermin were everywhere, and in all the different varieties that are known to the naturalist. In the middle of the room stood a chair, on which were two bottles. One was empty, while the other contained about two teaspoonfuls of am-

In answer to the questions of the coroner, White said that he had not called a physi-cian to attend to his mother, as she would not allow him to. He was very willing to consult a physician, but he would not do so against her wishes. He stated that the clothing on the bed had, not been changed since last summer. This too, was on account of the old lady's opposi-

In reply to questions as to her death he said that he had come upstairs on Thursday and had found her drinking out of the ammonia bottle that stood on the chair. He had at once taken the bottle away from her. He was unable to give much light on the subject of the death itself.

the death itself.

On going to the neighbors Coroner Waterman found enough rumors floating around to warrant him in holding an inquest. Some of the neighbors said that old Mrs. White had been left during the past winter without enough to eat, and to wear, and that at night she often slept without enough clotning to keep her warm. They said that on one occasion her hands had been badly frozen during the pight. Some of them claimed that they had night. Some of them claimed that they had known of White and his wife whipping the old lady in a brutal fashion. When asked about this, young Mrs. White replied:

"Well, I never hit her so as to hurt her."
The body of the dead woman was covered with big black and blue spots, which had evidently been caused by blows of some sort, but White said that his mother had been so weak that when she tried to walk about the room her limbs would often give way, and she would fall to the floor. He thought perhaps the spots might have been caused in this way.

Coroner Waterman said he thought that if the old lady had not died of neglect, it was only because some merciful disease crept in and took her off before the neglect had had a fair chance to get in its work. He empanelled a jury, consisting of O. H. Lucas, W. H. Rotinson and C. Wes-ley. The jury went to the residence and heard the testimony of the man and the woman, after which it adjourned, to meet again this morning and resume the taking of Coroner Waterman intended to consult County Attorney Organ, but that gentleman was out of the city, so that it can not be said just what further steps will be taken. It is probable, however, that no informations will be filed until the jury has finished its labors and has rendered a verdict.

An Attorney Has an Escapade with Judge McGee.

A. W. Askwith of the law firm of Wright & Baldwin was summoned before Judge McGeee yesterday morning to answer to a charge of contempt of court. The charge arose from a little occurrence which took place in the superior court on Thursday af-

Quite a number of attorneys and others were present when court convened this after-noon. They evidently felt considerable interest in the outcome of the battle which was set in the outcome of the outcome which was being waged between one of their number and the court. After a few matters of minor importance had been disposed of, the contempt matter was called up. George F. Wright and John N. Baldwin were on the field to look after Askwith's interests.

Mr. Baldwin handed Judge McGee a paper which contained Askwith's statement, The udge read it over and then gave his statement of the case. He said that if a court was to allow attorneys to challenge it to come our into the back alley to settle disputes, the court might as well be abolished entirely, and the back-alley style of settlement be adopted n the first place. Mr. Baluwin claimed that the court had no right to impose the fine, as the court had not been in session at the time of the oc-currence. Judge McGee was not moved by the attorney for the defense, and be ordered that Askwith be confined in the county july for one day. Attorney Baldwin asked that time be given him is which to file a bill of exceptions, and also that he have time in which to prepare writ of certiorari. His request was granted.

Youthful Burglars. As a gentleman was passing the cigar store of T. D. King & Co. last evening at about H o'clock, he noticed a couple of boys inside the store. Having a suspicion that all was not right he went to a telephone and not fied the police. In a few minutes the patrol wagon was on its way to the place, and when it returned it contained a small boy thirteen years of ago. He gave his name as Fred Hansen, and said he was the son of the janitor of the Eighth street school. Another boy had been implicated in the burglacy with him, but had escaped when the officer made the raid. name of the boy who escaped was Frank James, who lives at the corner of Avenue E and Tenth street. Young James is the son of L. C. James, who is now serving a two years' term in the penitentiary for bigamy, having been convicted at the last term of the district court. Hausen has been employed in district court. Hausen has been employed in the cigar store until within the past week, when he was laid off on account of lack of work. He did not attempt to elude punishment by denying the crime, but said he broke in to get some cigarettes to smoke. The James boys will probably be arrested this morning, and Judge McGee will have a chance to send a pair of unlucky boys to the reform school.

A Victory for the Railroads. FORT DODGE, Ia., May 22.- Special Telegram to THE BEE. |-Judge Stevens in the district court today rendered an important decision concerning the title of the Mason City & Fort Dodge railway to its right of way between this city and Belmond. The right of way was originally granted to another company which let it lie unused for several years and finally sold it to the Mason City & Fort Dodge company. A number of the property holders claimed that the use of the right of way was practically abandoned and brought suit to compet the present company to remove its tracks. The test case was decided in favor of the company, but an appeal will be taken to the supreme court. Judge Young of St. Paul and J. F. Duncombe of Fort Dodge conducted the defense.

Chicago Air Ship. Aerial navigation has been agitated for hundreds of years, and in proportion to the time, talent and money which has been devoted to it, less has actually been accomplished than with almost any other scientific or mechanical problem to which serious and earnest attention has been directed. It is quite natural that the utmost curiosity should be aroused when an inventor declares that he has at last overcome all obstacles, and has constructed a ship that will successfully navigate the air at a speed of 100 miles per hour, and at all times be under the absolute control of the operator.

These are the claims made for the Chicago air ship that will be exhibited next Sunday at the fair grounds, when Prof. King will make a number of ascensions previous to his sail to Chicago, which is announced to take place at 4:30 in the afternoon.

To have an idea of what the air ship is like all that is necessary is to imagine a large eigar floating in the air supporting a small boot. The sustaining portion of the ship is sixty feet long and about thirty feet in diam eter, tapering to a sharp point at each end and has a capacity of about fifteen thousand cubic feet of gas. Ordinary coal gas has a lifting power of about thirty-five pounds to each 1,000 feet while hydrogen gas has double that power. Hydrogen gas will be used Sunday to inflate the buoyancy chamber, and it will be generated with a portable gas machine at the place of inflation, water, sulphuric acid, zinc and iron filings and a few other chemicals being all that is re-quired. Attached to the lifting part of the ship is a wicker basket or car eight feet long by four feet wide. On each side of the bas-ket are large wings or fans, capable of being enlarged or made smaller, and lowered or raised to any angle or position by simply manipulating two bandle bars.

These fans or wings control the steering of the air ship and exert the same influence upon it that a rudder does upon a steamship in front of the car is located what is style a wind divider, built upon such a plan ery little resistance is offered to the air during a flight through space,

At the rear of the car is situated the At the rear of the car is situated the propeller, made of papier mache. This is operated by a dynamo of two-horse power located in the forward part of the car. The dynamo also drives the balance wheel, a queer looking arrangement fastened on the bottom of the basket. This wheel resembles a hollow corkscrew partially flattened out. By it the operator is enabled to lower or raise his ship to suit his own pleasure and take advantage of the favorable air currents. This is the most important piece of machinery about the whole thing.

TO HELP ON THE HOME RULE MOVEMENT.

Resolutions Adopted Calling on Parnell and Mc arthy to Send Funds for the Relief of the Evicted Ienants.

New York, May 22 .- Dr. Joseph F. Fox, the Irish member of parliament who has been in this country for some time past, lately returned to this city from an extended tour of the United States and Canada during which he had conferences with the leading Irish-Americans in the different cities as to the practicability of putting some new life into the home rule movement here. As a result of his investigations, he invited a number of gentlemen to meet him in conference at the Hoffman house yesterday afternoon. In response to his invitation the following gentlemen met yesterday noon in the parlor is which so many meetings of the Irish parliamentary fund associations have been held Eugene Kelly, Colonet William L. The body organized by electing Colone William L. Brown of New York as chairman and Major Byrne secretary. The object of the meeting having been briefly explained the following resolution was presented to the committee on the parliamentary fund by Judge Morgan and J. J. O'Brien and was ananimously adepted:

unanimously adepted:

Having, in view of the present deplorable condition of the evicted tonantry of Ireland, who relying upon the promises of support and protection that had been held out to them by its leaders in the "pian of campaign" for months past, have for principle and country suffered hunger, want and eviction, which sufferings are now doubly aggravated by the apparent indifference of the leaders in this condition by the stoppages of moneys and supplies and by the withholding of funds which should be applied to save such tenantry from further and greater physical distress and starvation; now the executive committee of the parliamentary fund association, under whose auspices a portion of the money now on deposit in Paris was collected, desire us to present their views at the meeting called in this city of representatives of other organizations of the United States in meeting assembled, unanimously.

Resolved, That annet from any political tions of the United States in meeting assembled, unanimously.

Resolved, That apart from any political question upon which the Irish members of parliament are divided, and apart from any consideration of the purposes for which the money was originally subscribed, this committee is convinced that in the present its first and paramount duty is to relieve the distress of the evicted tenantry of Ireland and that it requests, urges and demands that Mr Justin McCarthy and James Stewart Parnell should appropriate all the money now on deposit in Parls to relieve the distressed tenantry and from time to time release such as may be necessary for that purpose until the entire fund is exhausted.

essary for that purpose until the entire fund is exhausted.

Resolved, That we ask and beseech the representatives of the Irish organizations in America to co-operate with us, so that the present great suffering of those who have borne and still are bearing the brunt of the battle shall be immediately reseased.

Resolved, That these resolutions be read and urged for adoption by the representatives of the Irish societies in America at the meeting called in this city.

Economical : efrigerators. Economical: efrigerators.

It is the amount that people save, not so much what they earn, that eventually makes them rich. In buying a household necessity like a refrigerator it is well to consider something else than the first cost in determining its economy. The Guernsey Household Refrigerator is as handsome as a piece of purior furniture and costs less than any other first-class article, and stants at the head as no economizer of les, giving the lowest cold air temperature. All the packing is mineral wook the best non-conductor of heat and moisture known. All parts can be taken out and cleaned. Investigate the Guernsey Household before buying.
