

THEY BUNCOED THE TOWN.

Omaha Citizens Neatly and Completely Swindled by the Chicago Air Ship.

WORSE THAN THREE CARD MONTE.

Five Thousand Quarters Spent to See a Wedding That Didn't Connect—Story of a Sunday Afternoon.

There are more suckers to the square inch in Omaha than in any other city in the country.

It doesn't believe it, it is because you were sick yesterday afternoon and couldn't get out to the driving park.

Just think! Five thousand people in this civilized, Christian city, skinned out of 25 cents apiece on a beautiful Sabbath afternoon and nothing to show for their white ally. Nothing but experience.

We don't care so much about our money, as if the other fellows did get it, but the added insult to injury by skipping out of town with it. That's what makes us weep.

Well, experience is a good thing, and with Dr. Duryea's practice in the morning and that practical illustration of the other side of life at the driving park in the afternoon, it wasn't such a bad day after all.

Of course you've heard about the air ship—the great Chicago air ship. Well, that was the same we went up against and we hit it. Oh so hard. Yes, it was the self-same, identical invention that didn't ascend in St. Joe and was attacked by impatient creditors who, when the box was opened, found only a wagon load and a half of sawdust. You read about it in the telegraph columns of this Bee.

So did the rest of us, but we went out to see it just the same.

We saw that very same box, long, narrow, azure complexioned, but nobody else will ever see it. We deliberately touched a Omaha carriage to drive to Chicago, and the planet Mars at sundown.

If we had only had Mr. Bush and Mr. Dodd to have thrown on top of it. Five thousand mortals would have danced and danced their funeral pyre in ghoulish fire. They missed a grand opportunity, and it's millions to millions now that they won't have even a cent to show for it when they finally get ready to shuffle off.

As is well known, the city has been swindled by the Chicago air ship. It is a lithograph setting forth the fact that at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon the great air ship would ascend from the driving park, carrying with it a beautiful woman, and that at a height of 1,000 feet from terra firma Judge Healey would pronounce the words that would unite in the holy bonds of matrimony John D. Duryea and Miss Luella Eugenie Carlisle. The ship would then descend and after taking on board a couple of press representatives the daring aeronaut would proceed to Chicago, and a precisely 4 o'clock one part of the program was carried out. The aeronaut left Omaha at 4 o'clock on the Chicago horse-back. His partner and the gate receipts "was as wild as I."

As early as 1 o'clock the tide of travel began to flow toward the driving park. People went afoot, on horseback and in carriages, while every north bound motor train on either the cable, Hanson park or South Omaha line was crowded to overflowing. Everybody wanted to see the air ship and they gave up their silver quarters as though the gatekeepers ticket sellers had held a gun at their heads and ordered them to fork over. They swarmed in through the gates and mounted on a pair of horses and rode a half mile handicap pony race that was fairly interesting until the quarter pole was reached.

The females then returned and entered their steeds down past the grand stand. One of them continued around the track to the quarter pole and then returned to the grand stand, and another wheeled her horse and came flying back past the stand. At the gate she tried to pull off the track, and making a short turn, went around the back of the grand stand, and coming in a partly filled cask of water in the cellar of her father's house. At the bottom of the cask lay her little doll which she had probably been playing with on a box alongside the cask when she lost her balance, fell into the water and was drowned.

On a house in which Harto lives and carries on business is almost entirely destroyed by fire three weeks ago. Harto's loss was heavy. For more than a year he has been unfortunate. His wife died a year ago, leaving five children, of whom Carrie was the youngest. There has been much sickness, too, in his family, and the destruction of his business added to his trouble.

Recently the insurance was adjusted and the money was ready to be paid. Carrie did not receive the money until she was nearly dead with grief. She was assisted by her mother and the three youngest of his children, and they themselves in their own yard and also in the adjoining one separated by a small fence. She returned to her home on Friday afternoon they returned to the yard to play. Carrie selected a corner of the yard for herself, which she amused herself with. She returned to her room in the basement of the house. No one saw her go down.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon Harto called his children into the house. Carrie did not answer. He searched for her but failed to find her. Neighbors assisted him, but when dusk came he had obtained no tidings of her. He made another search of the house and it was not until several times that he was able to hunt through the cellar. He passed the cask and repeated it several times, but never thought of looking inside.

The crowd gathered about the disappearance of the police and a general alarm was sent out. All night long he waited in the hope that the police would call at his house, bringing news of her. He was doomed to disappointment, however, and at 3 o'clock yesterday morning he searched the house again. He found the money in the cellar. He had failed to look inside of it. He tried to sleep, but his nervous condition precluded it.

At daylight he left the house again to look for his wife. He returned to his room and told his eldest daughter, aged twenty-one years, that he would be absent for a few days. He said that he would be absent for a few days. He said that he would be absent for a few days. He said that he would be absent for a few days.

What he saw almost paralyzed him. A pair of tiny feet protruded about six inches over the surface of the water. He caught hold of them and drew the body of the missing child out of the cask. He carried it upstairs, and after laying it on the bed fell senseless to the floor.

The neighbors soon learned that Carrie had been found. When it became known that she was drowned there was much sympathy expressed. The money in the cask was notified and also Coroner Ludsay.

JAY GOULD'S LATEST MOVE

New Feature of the Union Pacific and Rock Island Controversy.

GUARDING AGAINST AN INVASION.

In Memory of the Dead Heroes—Weekly Weather and Crop Bulletin—Pointers on a Hanging—State News.

BEAVER, Neb., May 24.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—Quite a number in railroad circles was roused here and along the line of the Union Pacific to Omaha today by an order from Union Pacific headquarters to guard all approaches to their tracks against an invasion from the Rock Island. Every available engine from the round house was brought out and quickly placed over connection points accessible to the Rock Island and strict guard was still being kept over there notwithstanding there is not, nor has there been, a Rock Island engine in sight. A visit at the Rock Island headquarters elicited inquiries as to the probable cause of such action. Everything was extremely quiet with them and all hands expressed surprise over the move of the Union Pacific. One of the latter's officials stated they had information that the Rock Island intended a repetition of their move of the night of January 4, when a train was rashed onto the Union Pacific main line and remained there for several days, continuing to ask for running orders, which were refused, adding force to the statement that Gould intended abrogating the already well known Rock Island-Union Pacific contract.

It was stated Saturday that the matter was being looked up in connection with the final settlement, and as it is also known that President Cable has left Chicago for the west the Union Pacific officials are thought to be preparing for the worst. Nothing, not contained in the language of the "Hull" case, nor in any of the other cases, has made any move calling for such demonstration from the Union Pacific.

REV. BROWN'S DISCOURSE

A Sermon Calculated to Evoke Much Discussion in Religious Circles.

NEW YORK, May 24.—[Rev. Dr. Heber Newton of All Souls' church, preached a sermon this morning which is calculated to evoke much discussion in religious circles. His text was "Hold fast to the form of sacred words." The reverend gentleman said in substance: "It has been said of the Nicene creed that it was fit only to be sung. On the other hand, it would be hard to set the Westminster confession to rest. The creed is the amplification of the apostles' creed. Scarcely a doctrine which is in dispute in the churches round about us can furnish a proper ground for dispute in our country church. The only affirmation in the Nicene creed is the large, elastic declaration, 'I believe in one Catholic and apostolic church.' It cannot be said that Catholicism was ruled out by the Nicene creed.
