Fell Thirty Feet. When the day men went to work at about 5 o'clock vesterday morning at Geise's brewery on Upper Broadway, they were somewhat startled at finding James Wild, one of the night men, lying on the hard concrete floor of the basement of the malt house dis-abled from the effects of a fall which he had had from the third story of the building, a distance of about thirty fee. Wild was taken to St. Bernard's hospital The physician pronounced the man's back broken by the fall and said the chances for his recovery were very slim. The entire lower part of his body was paralyzed, but the man still seemed unusually strong. He lay on his face on the bed and talked with the ap-parent case of a well man. He stated that he had been working about the third story the mait house, when he con-ded to go down stairs. As he had been working only about ten days, he was not very familiar with the building, and he mistook the hatchway through which the malt is raised to the top story, for the stair-way. He stepped out, and was at once pre-cipitated to the oottom of the shaft, where he lay in an almost stunned condition from 3 o'clock until 5, when he was found by the rescuing party. He is a single man, and came here from Omana, where he was formerly employed in Metz' brewery. He

A Warm Reception. Mrs. E. L. Cook, who lives near the corner of avenue E and Oakland avenue, has made a name for herself as one of the pluckiest Women in Council Bluffs. At an early hour yesterday morning she was awakened by the sound of someone trying to get in at her window. Instead of fainting away, as many would have done, she gave one scream at which the window fell shu with a bang and the would-be burglar took to his beels in dismay. Mrs. Cook then arose from her bed, went to the front door, and fired three shots from a revolver in the direction of the rapidly retreating footsteps Some of the neighbors were aroused by firing, and came to the rescue, but when they arrived Mrs. Cook was mistress of the situa-

THE OMAHA BEE. NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Something of a Setback Given the City Authorities by the Court-

ENJOINED FROM TAKING SALOON FINES.

Disorderly House Ordinance Illegal, and Connivance at Saloon Keeping an Overt Act on the Part of the Authorities.

A decision was rendered yesterday in the case of L. M. Turner against Rink & Schultz at al. This is one of the injunction suits that was commenced several months ago to enjoin the keeping of a saloon by Rink & Schultz, and the collecting of what is known as the 'menthly fine," which has been levied by the city against all saloonkeepers ever since the passage of the prohibitory law. There have been injunction suits by the dozen brought in years past, and the novelty of uch proceedings has worn completely off. It the present suit, however, as in all that were brought by Turner, there is one point which has never yet been decided in any similar case, and that is the request whether city officials are subject to an injunction restraining them from collecting the monthly fine. This new feature has caused an interest in the case which surpasses that feit by the public in almost any case that has been tried in the district court in the past twenty vears.

Judge Thornell rendered the decision After making some general statements as to the facts that have been brought to his judicial knowledge during the trial of the case, he says as follows:

As to defendant Cary, the evidence falls to show he had anything to do with the inditers relied upon to charge the defendant officers. The application for an injunction against him is refused.

The evidence shows that some months prior The evidence shows that some months prior to the connected manner of this action the mayor informed the marshul and clerk that the monthly fine for keeping a disorderly house should be fixed at $50, that generally the amount collected was $51.10. The evidence shows that saloons were classed as disorderly houses; that the deputy marshul notified proprietors every thirty days to come and pay this fine. Those notified waived arrest paid the line to the clerk and continued business. The deputy who notified the parties received histractions from the marshul. He says he notified Kink & Schultz eight of ten those, and I think it is shown that they paid.

He says he notified Kink & Schultz eight or ten thee, and I think it is shown that they paid.

The evidence of the mayor, marshal and clerk shows it was a monthly fine and the sectors were notified monthly. The receipts for payments are in evidence. They aconowiced receipt of 52,0 forfeiture for January, and the clerk said this was the form used.

This action is brought under section 1543, lowacode. That section after providing that any building or erection in which any kind of intoxicating liquors are manufactured for sale, or said, or kept for sale in richation of haw, is a nuisance, and the keeper shall be deemed rully of a nuisance.

In this state every person who voluntarily assists in or encoural estite commission of any offence is guilty as a principal and immediate offender.

any otherse is guilty as a principal and induced the offender.

Section fool of code provides "All peace officers shall see that the provisions of this chapter are faithfully executed," and it directs how such officers shall proceed. Sheriff, constable, and marshall and policemen of incorporated towns are peace officers. The mayor of cities like Council Bluffs appoints the police and he is the head of the force.

The question arises whether the defendant officers, by imposing and colle that the fine in question assist in or encourage the continuance of the nuisance, are thereby subject to be coloined.

Now, neither knowle jee that a crime is being committed nor mental assent in its commis-sion will alone make one a party to the offense unless he does some act to assist in or en-courage the offense or unless interference upon his part is a duty and his non-interference is designed by him and operates upon his part is a duty and his non-interference is designed by him and operates as an encouragement to or protection of the offender. But where he has undertaken to perform the duties of an office or station and the duties so assumed impose upon him the affirmative to interfere and he refrains designedly and thereby encourages the continuance of the offense, or if he commands or advises, or assists others in doing acts which must necessarily encourage or incite to its commission, he becomes liable. * * The fine in question was monthly. It was so imposed as to be receipted for. No one contemplated when the salconkeeper was notified and paid that he would go out of the unlawful business. It was for that month only. It was not imposed as a punishment for past offenses, and to deter the offender from future violations. It contemplated future violations, and fixed terms and conditions beforehand by which the same might continue. It is true the evidence fails to show any such agreement, but officers and salconists knew the fine could not be collected by law; that payment of it would not legally bar the officer from arresting and punishing the offender. The manner in which it was imposed surgested a monthly repetition of the offense. The evidence does not show any effort to suppress the business. The requiarity of the fine indicated an understanding that it should continue.

minity of the une indicated an understanding that it should continue.

The fine, in fact, was a license, which implied agreement and obligation on the part of officers that if paid, the business wou do not be suppressed; an obligation of non-interference in direct violation of their duty. The persons imposing the fine are officers of the law for the suppression of uniawful business. The marshals and police are peace officers and the latter are appointed by the mayor, thus is he clothed with authority. A direction from him would close every drinking piace in the city. The law says to him and appointees, this should be done. But he levies a license monthly and the marshal and clerk collects it. In the place of law he interposes a regulation of his own. It is without sanction and cannot be enforced, but it is obeyed, for the authority commanding it can annihilate the business and this regulation implies some sort of right to continue and bayment of the license or fine is in consideration of the right. Who will say the mayor and appointees and marshal collecting the fine, are not in fairness bound to respect the obligation they have imposed? They could not justly collect the fine and then suppress the business of the man who pays, a weighty assurance to the offender that if he obeys the regulation his business will not be suppressed, imparting to him a sense of security and encouraging his offense. If he could enter such an agreement with every peace officer be could be assured freedom from punishment.

* In my indement, when the mayor imposed and the marshal and clerk collected the fine in question, all of the parties to the transaction understood if the parties to the transaction of the courts are the same as the celek of the district court; that so long as the collection of the superior and police courts. His duties in those courts are the same as the clerk of the district court; that so long as the collection of the court and receipted for it. He was a necessary party to the transaction, and when he received an ng that it should continue. The fine, in fact, was a license, which im-

Mrs. Bresce Insane. Months ago it was decided that Mrs. Bresce of Missouri Valley was insane, and she was taken in charge to be sent to an asylum. The officers have not been able to get her there yet. For some time past she and her husband have been occupying rooms in the Merriam block in Council Bluffs and the retains her freedom despite official orders to the contrary. When the county board first decided her to be insane she appealed to the district court. She also sought to get released on a writ of habeas corpus brought before Judge Carson. Judge Carson decided that she was insane and that she should be sent to an asylum. Judge Wakefield dismissed the appeal in his court because Judge Dundy had already decided the question. Then she appealed to the su-preme court. Its decision was rendered the other day affirming the decision of Judge Still she is not even on her way to the asylum, much less is she inside. She does not intend to go if she can help it and she has succeeded pretty well so far in helping it. What will she do? She hasn't decided, except that she will do something, if

Rev. T. J. Mackay Resigns. Council Bluffs is to lose the popular rector of St. Paul's church. Rev. T. J. Mackay has received a call for All Saint's church in Omaha and has decided to accept it. He will enter upon his new work July 1. The call comes as a surprise, to Mr. Mackay. He has been rector of St. Paul's for nearly nine years, and has been wonderfully success-ful—not only has been, but is for his popularity and strength are steadily increas-. Were it possible to retain him longer the east side of the river, it would be done Why does he go! asked for his reasons yesterday, but declined to make public his reasons. He said he had none but the kindliest feelings for Council Bluffs, and for St. Paul's, and while he regretted to make the change one of the consoling features was the fact that he would continue to be so near his Council Bluffs friends. He denied that there was any salary increase which had served as a pressure to bring about the change. From all that can be gathered it appears that the chief cruse which induced Mr. Mackay to to accept the call is a desire to get such rest and relief as comes from at least a change of burden from one shoulder to the other. The parish he leaves was never in so prosperous a condition, and yet the deds upon time and strength are many, and in some respects peculiar, as they are in every field. It will be a shift of loads fo Mr. Mackay and is about the only rest which man of his activity can be induced to take The prediction is made that in Omaha he will, as he has already in Council Bluffs, speedly secure a strong hold not only on those of his own church but on the communi-ty at large. News.

BEATRICE, Neb., May 26 .- | Special Telegram to THE BEE. |- The tenth annual meeting of the Nebraska Pharmaceutical association convened at the auditorium at 3:30 this afternoon with representatives present from all quarters of the state. The proceedings were opened by a brief address by President C. J. Dunbash of Lincoln, introducing Hop. George A. Murphy, city attorney, who welcomed the visitors on behalf of the city in the absence of Mayor Fogg. Mr. E. Shultz delivered the address of welcome on behalf of the local druggists. James Reed of Nebraska City responded in a neat and witty address, after which the association proceeded to the formal routine business of the meeting which was concluded by the annual address of President C. J. Daubach of Lincoln.

The meeting of the association was preceded in the morning by the meeting of the state board of pharmacy, at which about twenty applicants for druggist permits were examined. The examining board will not be prepared to submit the list of successful apolicants before tomorrow morning. This evening the visiting druggists were handsomely entertained at the Beatrice club rooms by that organization. Tomorrow's programme will consist in the morning of ap-plications and election of new members: reports of officers and committees and a lecture on sugar beet culture by Prof. Nicholson. The afternoon will be devoted to music, games and sport at the Chautauqua grounds, concluding with a steamboat excursion on the Blue in the evening.

Feigning Insanity

KEARNEY, Neb., May 26 - Special Telegram to THE BEE. | - Mrs. Helen Basve, the woman arrested on the charge of murdering her child, which was found in the canal last week, was given a preliminary trial today. She waived examination and was bound over to the district court without ball. Since her arrest Sunday morning she has been spending her time quietly in jail, sometimes feigning insanity. It is generally conceded that the woman is not same and testimony at her trial may possibly send her to the asylum. The case against her is clear and the insanity dodge will be her only means of escaping se-vere punishment for her awful crime.

He vetoed the ordinance providing for holding a special election on June 30 to vote upon the question of issuing $150,000 of paving and sewer bonds.

He gave numerous reasons for his acts stating that a new election could not be held without a new and complete registration that as the law provides for a new registra-tion only in the fall, it is doubtful if one made now would be legal; that it is doubtful if the bonds could be sold; that it is also doubtful if the necessary two-thirds majority would vote for bonds; that the cost would not be less than ₹28,000, 15 per cent of the proposed issue of bonds. He also stated that there are now contracts of last year that smount to $173,000, and that it would be better to complete these before incurring any additional indebtedness.

The comptroller was called upon to state the funds on hand for improvements. He knew that some contracts are not completed, but knew nothing about any money to make new improvements, The veto was sustained, Donnelly, Elsas-ser, Modsen and President Lowry being the only ones of the fifteen members who went against the mayor's judgment. The mayor vetoed the ordinance providing for the widening of Dorcas street from Sixt street to Grandview. He urged that there is some doubt about Dorcas street hav-

Protective association. The afternoon session of the Butchers' National Protective association was called to order by President Peters and the auditing committee, consisting of W. J. Hawkins of St. Louis John Dunkle of Wheeling and John Moulties of St. Louis was appointed. A telegram was read from the Austin, Tex., association asking that the annual meeting be held in that city, and the question of establishing an insurance and death benefit organization in connection with the general organization was laid over. The policy committee reported and recommended that hereafter there should be allowed ane delegate for every ten members in-atead of one for every twenty members, as it now stands. A motion to adopt the committee's suggestion was lost. The committee also suggested that the question of establishing distributing districts for two and dressed stock should be discussed. Mr. A. D. Gardner, of Dallas, Tex., opened the discussion SPECIFICS. and made quite a lengthy address, in which he said that the question was one of vital im-portance not only to the associations but to the consumer also. The stockmen of the west roe looking to the association to bein them as gsainst the Chicago monopolistic combine. This monoply forces up prices and comes into active competition with every butcher. The speaker advocated that the association adopt measures whereby they can buy their stock direct from the western fields. Mr. Gardner was interrupted, as the time for adjournment had arrived, and he will finish his address at tomorrow's session. Sucker Wants His Money Back. Curcago, May 26.-Ex-United States Senator D. M. Sabin of Minnesota sat in Judge Gresham's court this morning with an amused smile on his face as he listened to Lawyer Flower's statement of the alleged facts in a big suit against Mr. Sabin begun by H. H. Porter, a Minnesota railroad man. The suit is to recover $100,000. Several years ago Mr. Sabin was a member of the firm of Seymour, Sabin & Co., manufacturers of railroad cars. The business was extensive, but the firm decided to enlarge its plant and invited additional capital to join with them to form the Northwestern manufacturing and car company, with a capital of some-thing like $3,000,000. On the representation of Senator Sabin Mr. Porter invested $100, 000, and he claims the habilities of the old concern were not honestly represented to him. He found, he alloges, that the indebtedness was nearly the amount of the capital stock, and thus his $100,000 proved a very poor investment.

Economical Pefrigerators. Economical Fefrigerators.

It is the amount that people save not so much what they earn, that e-entually makes them rich. In buying a household necessity like a refrigerator it is well to consider something else than the first cost in determining its economy. The Guernsey Household Refrigerator is as handsome as a piece of parior furniture and costs less than any other first-class article, and stands at the head as an economizer of ice, giving the lowest cold air temperature. All the packing is mineral wool, the best non-conductor of heat and moisture known. All parts can be taken out and cleaned, investigate the Guernsey Household before buying.
