Since that time the old man has showed many signs of insanity It was found that he was not insane, and he was ordered taken back home. Hansen's nelplessness, the commissioners think, is due to the effects of a stroke of paralysis which he had some time ago.

LIVELY SKIRMISH.

Carrigg and Scheffler Have a Blow

Out in a Cigar Store. A fight took place yesterday afternoon in the back room of the Fountain cigar store between Dan Carrigg and John Scheffler. It was not exactly according to Marquis of Queensbury rules, and professional sports might not have considered it a first class example of athletic skill, but at the same time it pleased the spectators and seemed to be highly interesting to the parties who took the star parts. Scheffler was seated at the table in the back room playing cards with several other Carrigg entered, and from the start it was evident that there was no love lost be tween them.

"I've a notion to smash your law," was the greeting given by Scheffler.
"Well, here's my jaw," was the reply.
One invitation was all that was needed, and Scheffler fell to. Several pile driver blows descended on Carrigg's jaw before he had time to withdraw it from range, and a number fell accidently on his eyes and other parts of his face. Where Carrigg was all this time is not known, but it was evident he was not in it.

The proprietor of the store came to the rescue at last, and notified the combatants that he did not want any fighting there, and the fight ceased. Carrigg left the store with both eyes blacked and nearly closed, while the rest of his face was padly bruised and

From all accounts it is thought the fight was the result of the raid that was made on the "Office" on Wednesday afternoon. A lot of gamblers' tools were confiscated, some of which, it is said, belonged to Scheffler. Carrigg was the one who first gave information to the police that a game was in progress and Scheffler accordingly blames him for the loss of his property. There were no arrests made.

A fakir came along yesterday afternoon and pitched his tent in Council Bluffs. What his errand was no one knew, but every one was content to await c syclopments. He gathered a large crowd at the corner of Main street and Broadway and commenced operations by performing several sleight of hand tricks. After he had swallowed a butcher knife, displayed the antics of a tame India rubber snake and performed other weird things he got down to business and brought out a little black valise containing a number of brassy looking watches and chains, together with ome jewelry of a more or less golden appear-

He offered a chain for $10 and promised to throw in one of his imitation gold watches and a dollar bill in money. While talking he displayed the bill in a carcless way to the audience and allowed them to see that it was not a one, but a twenty. This was too good an offer to be lost, and he succeeded in getting rid of half a dozen watches in the course of an hour, the purchasers, of course, finding out, when too late, that the man had been sharper than too late, that the man had been sharper than they and had not given them $20 for $10.

About this time it became noised abroad that Ovide Vien had gotten a warrant out for the arrest of the fakir on a charge of swindling by sleight of hand tricks. In some way or other the fakir himself heard that he was to be made a martyr to his own generos-ity, and he lost no time in getting down from his perch and making tracks for the city limits. The warrant had been issued from Jus-tice Swearingen's court and placed in the hands of Constable Nicholson, but it was too late, and the fakir got away.

School of Silence and Signs.

The board of trustees of the institution for the deaf and dumb met yesterday. It was the most important session of the year, as it involved the approval of the financial rereports and the election of teachers. The entire business was so speedily trans-acted as to indicate very clearly that unusual harmony and success is attending the present management of the affairs of the institution. The financial showings were so clearly set forth as to be easily inspected and they proved very satisfactory. The election passed off with equal smoothness, the old corps being retain and no changes made even insularies. Itappears from the promptness and harmony of the proceedings that the trustees are pretty well satisfied with the management of the institu

The school year will close June 10. The examinations are now in progress, and arrangements are being made for befitting exercises on the closing day. There will be this year no graduating class, it being deemed better to hold the higher class one year longer, thus raising the standard of the school, and giving to graduates a broader and more efficient educational course than heretofore. There will be interesting exercises, however, on the closing day, and a fine display of art work and the products of the in-dustrial department, logother with an educational exhibit.

Afrangements are made for the proper ob-servation of Decoration day. Appropriate exercises and instructive addresses will be nat in the chapel, that the pupils may gain the full import of the teachings of the day. The graves in the conetcry connected with the institution will be decorated with becoming ceremonies. Dr. Brooks' Chances.

NEW YORK, May 28 .- The Sun says: Twenty-two of the fifty-two Episcopal dioceses in the country have practically voted for or against the consecration of Bishop-Elect Brooks. Of these sixteen dioceses have given their consent and six have withheld it. Dr. Brooks requires at least eleven more in his favor before the necessary majority will be obtained. Dr. Brooks' friends are confident that he cannot fall to win, but it is not an ab-solute certainty yet that he will get the nec-essary vote. Several standing committees in yestern and southern dioceses have met since Dr. Brooks' election was announced, but they have not taken up the question of his consecration. Several dioceses were heard from yesterday and all but one of them voted for consent. The Churchman of this week has several letters from clergymen championing Dr. Brooks, One writes that Dr. Brooks' presence at the installation of Lyman Abbott and his union service with a Unitariac minis-ter, simply indicates the preacher's ardent love for his own church.

Reformed Episcopal Conneil. A propo sition to amend the constitution as to repre-sentation in the general council was referred back to the committee on canons without instructions.

BURLINGTON EARNINGS.

Better Showing for April Than Any Month This Year.

CHICAGO, May 28 .- The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy makes a better showing in its statement of earnings for the month of April than for any previous month this year. This was of course to be expected, but as a matter of fact the improvement is not so marked as had been anticipated by some of the friends of the Burlington, the greatest achievement being in cutting down operating expenses sufficiently to make the net earnings compare favorably with those of a year ago. A decrease in gross earnings as compared with the correst inding period last year is $257,416, but there is a saving in operating expenses and fixed charges of $345,180, which enables the company to show an increase in net earnings of $87,690. The revenue from freight traffic fell away to nearly the full amount of the saving in expenses, but passenger earnings on the other hand show large and gratifying gains. For the four months ending April 30 there has been a decrease in gross earnings of $1,625,690, leaving a deficit in net earnings of $1.24,750. The Burlington people expect to show large gains in their earnings from this time forward and are confident that the results of the last half of the year will make up for the loss for the first tew months

The story is not credited. The claim of the West Shore, the Canadian Pacific and the Souline that they were entitled to this differential was recently referred to the presidents of the Trunk Line. association and they subsequently referred it to Chairman Goddard for arbitration. So far as known Mr. Goddard has not given his decision in the case, and western managers are not ready to believe that he would authorize such prohibitive discrimination against the Charage roads as a 23 cent differroads as a 23-cent differ against the Chicago roads as a 23-cent differ-ential would amount to. Decided Against the Road. KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 28 .- The jury in the case of J. M. Seawell & Co. against the Kansas City, Fort Scott & Memphis road for discrimination this evening brought in a verdict against the road, awarding the coal company $30 damages on each of 150 allegations of discrimination and overcharge The coal company claimed that the road bauled coal from Carbon Center, Mo., to Kansas City for other companies, notably the Keith & Perry company, in which the Mem-phis is said to be interested, cheaper than it made the same haul for the Scawall. The suit was brought in the state court. The railroad claimed that the state court did have jurisdiction, inasmuch as a part of the haul was made through the state of Kansas, and it will take an appeal.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Limited Mail" reached Boyd's opera house last night on time. Its arrival was witnessed by a large and appreciative audi-

The piece is a well conceived melodrama with a series of exciting and thrilling situations. It deals with railroads and railroad people. It contains station agents with secrets, telegraphers, tramps, section men and train wreckers. There are talking wires, speaking keys, good initiations of real live engines, palatial Pullmans, railway post-office cars and brilliant, almost blind-ing, flashes of the electrical fluid.

There are tracks, handcars, culverts, saw-mils and tunnels and all of them, more or less, enter into the diabolical scheme of the villains to accomplish their helish designs. Mr. Vance, the author, has certainly utilized the railroad on the stage as it has never been utilized before. rie has the making of an excellent play, one which will greatly ex ceed in interest and coherency that which he now presents. So far as it goes, the "Limited Mail" furnishes an evening of both entertainment and instruction. It is marred, however, by some inconsistencies. For aistance, the tramp slugs a conductor with a coupling iron at the close of the first act and in the second is allowed to roam around as if he were almost a friend of the family. The story in the first and second acts is needlessly broken by several specialties, creating the impression that the piece itself is secondary to the work of the specialists. The performers are in the main good. Miss Grace Sherwood made a sweet "manipulator of the wires" and sang with effect. Master Harry Blaney did some remarkable work as an "ambitious aid," which but faintly ex-presses his usefulness. Lew Bloom made an excellent tramp and Joseph St. Coyne a most entertaining section hand. The attention to the detail of railroad and scenic features was in excess of anything ever seen here, even to the singing of the wires, and the consequence was that the piece scored a great hit.

It is the amount that people save, not so much what they earn, that eventually makes them rich. In buying a household necessity like a refrigerator it is well to consider something else than the first cost in determining its economy. The Guerosey Household defrigerator is as handsome as a piece of parlor furniture and costs less than any other first-class article, and stands at the head as an economizer of len, giving the lowest cold air temperature. All the packing is mineral wool, the best non-conductor of heat and moisture known. All parts can be taken out and cleaned, investigate the Guerosey Household before buying.
