BOTH GIVEN THEIR LIBERTY.

Mrs. Sheedy and Monday McFarland Found Not Gu Ity.

VERDICT WAS REC IVED WITH CHEERS.

Some Hisses, However, Were Mingled with the Shouts-The Court in an Uproar for a Few Minutes.

Lixcoln, Neb., May 29. - (Special Telegram to THE BEE. |- At 3:25 this afternoon the jury in the great Sheedy murder case filed into the court room and it was then known that they had agreed upon a verdict.

All day an eager crowd of people had been in waiting expecting a verdict and they were not disappointed. The scaled document containing the fates of Mrs. Sheedy and Monday McFarland were handed to Mr. Sizer, and as he opened it the result was awaited breath-

The clerk then read the papers through and announced the verdict for both, "Not

A wild cheer went up at this and it was some time before the court could resume its operation.

A number of hisses were mingled with the cheers.

Mrs. Sheedy's sisters grasped her hands and cried for joy, while Monday McFarland showed more emotion than he has displayed throughout the trial.

The judge then asked the jurymen one by one if this was their verdict and each responded in the affirmative. The judge then declared that Monday McFarland and Mrs. Sheedy were released from custody. The two were immediately surrounded by their friends and tendered something of an or-

The verdict was as follows: "We, the jury, duly impanelled and sworn In the cause of the State versus Mary Sheedy and Monday McFarland, find the defendants not guily as they stand charged in the infor-Joun Robertson, Foreman."

Three of the jurors were seen immediately afterward and they said that all but two were in favor of acquitting both defendants, and those two were Robertson and Cadwallader. The major portion of the morning was spent in reading the instructions of the judge, and in the discussion over them the two dissenting jurymen were won over to the majority. Robertson was seen and he said:

"There was no evidence to convict the woman, and if she escaped the darkey should also. Outside of the confessions of McFarland there was nothing to convict. The judge instructed us not to consider the confession so far as it affected Mrs. Sheedy, consequently as there was scarcely any other evidence against her we had to acquit her, according to our oaths. The judge further instructed us that unless we could believe beyond a reasonable doubt that the confession had not been extorted from Monday McFarland through threats or promises that we must bring in an acquittal. So whatever our suspicions might have been, we had to act according to instructions. Until vesterday I had suspicions that Mrs. Sheedy was guilty, but when that hair was produced I began to believe that there was a plot against the woman. I don't believe now that even the hair alleged to have been taken from her body is that kind of hair."

The acquittal of Mrs. Sheedy was expected by most citizens who have watched the trial but the acquittal of the negro was a surprise. It is generally conceded by many persons who have been seen that the negro should be acquitted since Mrs. Sheedy, the alleged instigator of the crime, was freed. The jurymen give as their reason for acquitting the regro the fact that the confession was the stumbling block. They were not convinced that the confession was obtained rightfully, and consequently they could not convict the negro, because the other evidence was not sufficient to convict. For the same reason they could not convict Mrs. Sheedy.

Mrs. Sheedy is stopping with her uncle, Colonel Biggerstaff at Fourteenth and P streets.

It is needless to say that Messrs. Strode, Stearns, Billingsley, Woodward and Philpot, who have championed the defense, are de tighted. Detective Pinneo and Crowe also

Mrs. Sheedy will leave in a day or two for lows to visit her mother.

Monday McFartand was seen this evening and he declared that he was confident all the time of acquittal. He asserted that as far as he knew Mrs. Sheedy she was a pure woman. When asked about the confession, he said: "Supposing that the officers should tell you that a mob was after you and you could take your choice of confessing who had prompted the crime or be hung in fifteen minutes, what would you do?"

Monday showed a great fluency and readi ness in talking. This was the first time that a reporter has bad a chance to talk with him since his arrest. Monday says he will go to White Cloud, Kan., to visit his mother in a w days. Mr. Strode, the attorney for Mrs. Sheedy, is to get a $12,500 fee for his services, first was to receive $15,000, but Coloner of Boise City strongly opposed such a fee and $2,500 was lopped off.

PATTERNED AFTER M'KIBBEN.

Arrest of an ex-Union Pacific Official Charged with Embezzlement.

DESVER, Colo, May 29 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE. | - A sensation was created here this morning when it became known that ex-Manager Khodes, who has had charge of the stone department of the Union Pacific for a number of years, was under arrest on the charge of embezzling over $5,000 of money belonging to the road. In general railroad circles, where Rhodes was so well known, and particularly among his friends, the news of his arrest was a profound surprise and many would not believe the rumor until the indisputable facts were made known. These facts were dealt out sparingly and those interested studiously avoided teliing newspapermen anything.

About one month ago the manner in which the Union Pacific was running its stone busi-ness at Akins and Stout, in Larimer county, became so obnoxious that the company de-cided to leave the quarries. This decision must 'have proved a shock to Manager Rhodes, who had charge of the department, if all the charges against him are true. At any rate, General Superintendent Duncan leased the quarries to Greenlee & Son of Colorado Springs. They took charge on May 1, and Division Engineer Asaton was ecame so obnoxious that the company de ent up to make the transfer and to see that verything was properly invoiced. He spent a couple of days at Akins and then reported to General Superintent Duncan that the les-sees were in full control and everything was found to be all right, Up to this time Mr. Rhodes' books had been examined, and and they, perhaps the genial superintendent would not have been in such a serene mood. According to the story Rhodes had apparently hade a correct return every month, for all he stone received. He had his office and orns of assistants with the other headquar corps of assistants with the other headquar ters of the road in the second story of the union depot. Every month he made a statement of the busicess done, receipts, disbursements, etc. This was sent to the auditor, and was always passed.

However, it is alleged that there was a peculiarity about these statements, and that was in the number of outstanding accounts.

These represented the alleged indebtedness of a number of contractors and builders The next month many of these names would not appear on the sheet, but, it is said, there would be the usual full crop of outstanding would be the usual full crop of outstanding accounts charged to other people. This excited no suspicion except as to the stability of some of the firms which had gotten stone. Manager Rhodes enjoyed such an excellent reputation for honesty and faithfulness to the interests of the road that never the slightest shadow, certainly nothing like a $5,000 defatcation, ever appeared to trouble the high officials.

Pretty soon, according to the allegations of Pretty soon, according to the allegations of the story, some of the Union Pacific officials began to smell a mouse. Somebody, whose name was included in the list of outstanding accounts, called and exhibited a re-ceipt for the cash he had paid Mr. Rhodes. Next day General Superintendent Durcan had a notice inserted in the daily papers that Mr. Rhodes was no longer in the employ of the Union Pacific road and that company would not be responsible for any debts that he contracted. This excited some comment, for railroads do not generally advertise the resignation of any employe.

ertise the resignation of any employe, In duc time the accounts of the stone de-partment had been audited, and as Mr. Rhodes had explained one or two discrep-inces they balanced to a penny. The side of ances they balanced to a penny. The side of the books on which he received credit, it is said, was filled with outstanding accounts By and by a collector was sent out to collec em, and right hero the trouble for Mr Rhodes is said to have begun. It is reported that the collector found in nearly every case that the soun had been paid to Manager Ruodes In a short time the exact amount of the all rount leged defalcation was known and a demand was unde on Rhodes for the money, arse he did not have it. The Union Pacific company at once notified the insurance and guaranty company of the alleged shortage and asked them to put up enough money to balance the books. company having insured Rhodes, had but one thing to do, and that was to agree to pay, and following that came a rush message to Keith's detective agency asking that a watchful eye be kept on Mr. Rhodes. The name of this guaranty company no one will tell, but Judge Waybright is their attorney, and when he learned all the facts he thought it a good idea to cage Mr. Rhodes. Ac-cordingly he went before Justice Palmer and swore out a warrant for Rhodes arrest. A detective served it in twenty minutes and Rhodes for the first time realized that he had getten into serious trouble. Mr Rhodes did not want to go to jail and he ound he had to give a whopping big bond. The detectives were good-natured fellows and agreed to walk around with him in the day and keep him in a close room at night This is the life he is supposed to be leading now. Although it is said he is out on bon. ustice Palmer has no bond. In fact, he on't know Rhodes has been under arrest ince Monday.

It is understood that Rhodes will claim that he was authorized to spend whatever money is missing, but the story sounds rather ishy. But little could be learned regarding his habits, but it is intimated that he spent the $5,000 trying to chase some tigers out of their lairs.

The extreme west ern part of the state had less than an inch. and the northeastern corner only a little over an inch. The number of rainy days, and of clear and cloudy days, was nearly normal. There have been but two seasons since 1878 that a greater amount of rain fell than this

GROSVENOR TALKED TOO MUCH

Opinions May Be All Right, but it is Impolitic to Express Them.

CONCERNING IMMIGRATION QUESTIONS.

His Language Considered Too Strong by Secretary Foster - Young Men Anxious to Lecome Society Soldiers.

WASHINGTON BUREAU THE BEE, 513 FOURTHENTH STREET, WASHINGTON, D. C., May 29. It is likely that Secretary Foster will take some official notice of the interview with General Grosvenor of Ohio, reported in these dispatches night before last. A few days ago the secretary announced General Grosvenor as chairman of the commission which is about to go to Europe and inquire into the sources of the vast immigration which comes into this country, but at the outset the chairman appears to have put his foot into it. In the interview alluded to he used strong language against the volume of immigrants which come to this country and some of their tendencies. He spoke particularly of Wisconsin where, he said, foreigners had possession of the state and controlled its political and social institutions and wanted to control the schools. This interview was published in Wasnington and reached the ears of Secretary Foster. While he may have views similar to those expressed by General Grosvenor, he considers it very impolitic to make such sweeping criticism of the foreign element under the circumstances. One man said to the secretary today: "It was just such sentiments as those expressed by General Grosvenor which made the party ose one senator in Wisconsin and another in Illinois last year." Whether this is true or not, Secretary Foster thinks General Grosvenor made a serious mistake in talking too much on a subject in which he was officially concerned. The secretary wants it dis-tinctly understood that he does not endorse deneral Grosvenor's views, and that he considers them indiscreet at this time. WANT TO BE SOLDIERS.

A Charleston Officer Describes the Meeting with the Esmeralda.

NEW YORK, May 29.-The following lette was received by the Herald vesterday from one of the officers on board the steamer Charleston: "Acapulco, Mex., May 10,-We were lying at San Francisco in readiness to go to sea for target practice and to test the mounts and fittings of our two eight-inch guns recently installed at Mare Island, when we received orders on Friday evening, May 8, to search for the Chilian steamer Itata and to capture her if possible. About eight boars after the receipt of our orders we were steaming down the coast of California, scanning al bays and possible anchorages and circling all outlying Islands. We touched at San Pedro on Sunday evening, where we found the United States steamer Omaha and also the schooner Robert and Minnie, suspected o supplying arms and supplies to the Itata. We left at early daylight and steamed at good speed down the coast, keeping a bright look-out for the Itata. Last night we encountered a steamer showing two lights, one above the other, but lying dead in the water and ap-parently on the lookout for us. She turned a search light on us and we then, suspecting that she was the Esmeralda, cleared the shir for action and prepared for business in case the Itata should also be at hand. We ex-pected to have to fight her, and we meant to be ready. We did not see her, however, and steamed for this port, where we thought she might be replenishing her coal preparatory to laving her course for Chili. She was n ere, and we were greatly disappointed hav-ng traveled so far to catch her. About two hours after our arrival the Esmeralda came steaming slowly into port, evidently almost out of coal. As we had all the coal lighters, she was compelled to wait until we filled ou ornkers before she could coal up.

"Both vessels are of the same general de-sign, but she carries two ten-inch guns and six six-inch guns, against our two eight-inch and six six-inch. The secondary battery o rapid fire and machine guns does not diffe materially from our own. The Charleston has, perhaps, somewhat the advantage in the matter of guns and is certainly in the best ondition, as the Esmeralda's bottom appears o be very foul, which must affect her speed In action, at close quarters, her loss of speed might not interfere to any material extent with her turning, etc., but of course we should have the bees of her. This place is very hot and uncomfortable and we shall be glad to get out, even with the prospect of a worm engagement before us.'

Not Officially Informed.

Washington, May 29,-The state department has not been officially informed of any intention on the part of the Chillan insurgents to bombard Valparaiso, as reported from Paris. There is no disposition on the part of this government, so far as can be learned, to "intervene" in the Chillan con test, for the meaning of this term in diplo matic language is siding with one faction or the other. If the insurgents should attempt to bombard the city it is more that probable that foreign ministers would enter an energetic protest, based on the fact that the foreign interests in that city are larger than the native Chilian interest. In view of this large interest it may be that the protest. If disregarded, may be enforced by foreign fleets in Chillian waters, but their action would go no further than necessary to protect the lives and prop-erty of foreign subjects,

BARDSLEY ARRAIGNED.

Preliminary Trial of Philadelphia's Embezzling Treasurer. PHILADELPHIA, May 29. John Bardsley, city treasurer of Philadelphia, was arraigned in court today to answer to the triple charge of misappropriating $39,000 of city money, the embezziement of $40,000 and up-wards of state funds, and perjury in violat-ing his oath of office by loaning city money out at interest. The district attorney said the books of the treasurer's office showed a balance in the Keystone bank of $600,000, while in fact there was only $400,000 there. In the cash drawer of the treasurer's desk were checks on the Keystone for $200,000. These Bardson the Keystone for $200,000. These Bards-ley took to Bank Examiner Drew and asked to have placed to his credit in the Keystone. A similar state of affairs was shown in re-gard to money belonging to the city. After several other witnesses were called District Attorney Graham said that he now asked that the prisoner be held on the specific charge of misappropriating $30,000. Mr. Graham said that although he did not intend to try to prove that the money went into Mr.

Bardsley's pocket, still it was clearly a con-version to his own use.

Mr. Alexander, counsel for Mr. Bardsley, contended that it had not been shown that his client had converted the money to his

Magistrate Peele decided that the case had been proven and said he would fix the amount of bail later. Mr. Graham next took up the charge of the embezzlement of Lawrence Brown, accountant, testified that in the past three years Bardsley had collected taxes for the state amounting to $4,402,887. This was deposited in a number of banks, but the Keystone bank was not among them. Mr. Graham said he proposed to prove that Bardsiev had loaned the state funds out at interest to a number of banks and bankers, among which were Drexel & Co. and the Keystone bank. Mr. Graham said that it was clear that Bardsley had withdrawn the state funds from other banks and deposited them in the Keystone to re-ceive the interest. Counsel for Mr. Bardsley said that it was true that his client had deposited $945,000 of state money in the Keystone bank, taken due bills for them, received interest on them and when the bank failed lost his money as any other depositor would have done. Mr. Graham asked if Mr. Bardsley was willing to make his statement himself and was told that

Mr. Bardsley arose from his chair, tottered to the witness stand and in a trembling voice said: "I add that all my counsel has said is true. I did put the money in the Keystone bank and will have to take what he inw gives me. I got as high as 4 per cent interest for the money. I deposited the money and took due bills for it, as is done every day, and when the bank failed I lost the I paid it either to President Mursh. Cashier Hayes or Assistant Cashier Law-rence." In answer to the questions whether he received interest from any other banks, Mr. Bardsley said that he did, but only men-tioned the Spring Garden. District Attorney Granam attempted to get his to tell what other banks paid him interest, but did not succeed.

Edward T. Stolesberry, a member of the firm of Drexel & Co., was called and testified that Bardsley came to this firm and asked what interests they would pay on de-posits. He was told 3 per cent interest on four checks of $5,000 each that he deposited here at different times.

Mr. Alexander said that at this stage of the case he did not proposed that any one else should be incriminated. But after it had been testified that Mr. Bardsley kept a per-sonal account in the Seventh National, the Manufacturers National, the Chestnut Street National, the People's National and the Farmers and Mechanics National. Mr. Alexander held a consultation with his client and decided that he should tell the names of the banks that paid him interest. Mr. Bard-sley again took the stand and said that he had been paid interest by the above nar with the exception of the Farmers and Me-At this point the district attorney rested At this point the district attorney rested his case and said that as he was unable to prove today the charge of perjury, he asked that it be continued until June 12. Bair was fixed at $10,000 on the charge of misapproprintion of city funds, $15,000 on the charge of embezzling state funds and $5,000 on the charge of perjury. It is not expected that Mr. Bardsley will be able to obtain bail. After the hearing Mr. Bardsley was taken into the magistrate's private office. His coun-sel notified Chief Detective Wood that he did not expect to secure bail, and arrangements were at once made to take him dow to prison. After an interview with his coun-sel Mr. Bardsley was placed in a carriage and taken to Moyamensing prison.

During the time which Bardsley spent at the city hall this morning prior to the hearcharge of two detectives. He was very much dejected and was not inclined at first to talk about the serious charges which have been preferred against him. He subse quently suid that his position was hard to bear, and then turning suddenly to the offi-cers, remarked: "I tell you, gentlemen, I have been in b-1 for the past six months. I thought that things would come out all right, but they did not and I am glad that the thing is ended. President Marsh's action is a great disappointment to me. He should have been more courageous and remained in town, but he has proven himself a coward by running .way. I never had a thought about going away, but will remain where I am and accept whatever punishment the law place-

London, May 29 .- A measure of such importance as the Behring sea bill is rarely read the first time in the house of commons without the ministers affording the house fuller particulars than they vouchsafed today regarding its provisions. The members listened with strained attention to Mr. Smith, expecting to loarn the terms of the agreement with the Washington government, and great was their disappointment when he stopped short after uttering the formal request for permission to bring in a bill to enable the queen, by an order in council, to make a special provision to prohibit the catching of scats in Behring sea by her maesty's subjects during a period named in the Questions put to the ministers in the lobby elicited nothing beyond the statement that they are awaiting the final response from Washington. Mr. Smith has not only veuchsafed the assurance that the arrangement already secured harmonizes the action of the British government, but that of the Americans.

Other ministerial members expressed themselves as certain that the measure will meet with no adverse criticism, either in the house or in the country, and that it will lead to a permanent settlement of the dispute.
Though the period of prohibition is understood to be one year, the clastic nature of an order in council will empower the govern-ment to make a further extension. So many nembers were discussing the situation in the obbies and in the smoking room that the house could not proceed with business, and it was counted out earls in the evening.

Although Lord Salisbury told the house of lords tonight that the French government would accept the suspension of the Newfoundland bill, uneasiness prevails in the foreign office regarding M. Ministerialists do not consider the Newfoundland difficulty by any means settled, though they admit that the dispute between the home government and the colony is for a the house of commons was now pledged to support any future legislation necessary to carry out the treaty obligations, but he added as to the immediate result of the proceeding with reserve, as he did not know how the

The Parnellites hear that their chief will wed Mrs. O'Shea before the registrar about the middle of June. It is not true that her daughters will remain with her. Captain O'Shea controls the family. His son Gerald is about to be gazetted to a commission in the army. Captain O'Shea does not in the meantime prevent intercourse between the mother and the daughters. They reside only three miles apart at Brighton, and the captain permits the daughters to visit their mother fre quently, but after her marriage is effected all relations will cease.

Mr. Gladstone's suggestions towards remedying the persocation of the Russian Jews strongly disappoint the community. His letter on the subject shows that the Russian Jews' committee has already taken the exact course he suggested. At a meeting of the Chovevei the speakers declared that facts were known which justified the action of the European governments, that a crisis had been reached and time was precious. Lord Rothschild has presented a memorial to Lord Salisbury asking the British govern-ment to initiate concerted action by the powers to assist a wholesale emigration of Jews to Palestine. The Rothschilds, the Goldsmiths and the leading Jews of England concur in the opinion that the settlement of the Jews in Palestine is the best plan. They aim to obtain European recognition of a great wave of emigration as necessary to the olution of the Jewish problem.

Baron Hirsen, though having schemes of his own, supports the English plans to op-erate through diplomatic channels. Lord Salisbury, leaving the usual official channel, is reported as writing directly to the heads of the European governments commending to their consideration the Roths hilds memerial. The appointment of Mr. McCormick as representative in England of the Columbian exhibition greatly satisfies the friends of the Chicago fair here, who have hitherto been working in the dark.

Mr. Gladstone is obliged to stay at Hawarden for another fortnight, his recent liness having left traces in his lungs and a bad cough. MISSOURIAND AANSAN FARMERS They Meet to Form an Interstate In-
