NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Little Informal Consultation Between Citizens and Railroad Officials.

NO UNION DEPOT IN SIGHT AS YET.

Some Plain Talk in a Quiet Way on the Topic Develops Very Little Hope for Friends of the Project.

A meeting was called last evening in the board of trade rooms for the purpose of consulting with a number of officials of the Kansas City, St. Joseph & Council Bluffs railway company, who were in the city on a tour of inspection. It was at once surmised that the call had something to do with the union depot question, and the room was accordingly filled with citizens. President Hart of the board of trade called the meeting to order and stated the object. The officials had not wanted to meet a large number of the citizens in a formal way, they simply wanted to look around quietly and see what sort of people Council Bluffs were.

The following officials of the Kansas City road were present: W. C. Brown, general manager, St. Joseph; S. E. Crance, general superintendent, St. Joseph; Howard Elliott, general freight agent, St. Louis; J. S. Bartle, assistant general freight agent, St. Joseph; A. C. Daves, general passenger and freight agent, St. Louis; G. M. Hehl, general agent, St. Joseph; O. M. W. Hedens, chief surgeon, St. Joseph.

W. H. M. Tusey and F. W. Wright, as members of the depot committee, recalled the trials and tribulations that had been through in the vain attempt to make the railroad believe that Council Bluffs really wanted a union depot and did not intend to take no for an answer. They referred to the fact that there had arisen a division among the people, a part having given up the idea of ever having a union depot and tried to induce the companies to build new local depots as the next best thing. There were very much opposed to this move. To be sure, it looked very dubious, but with the eye of faith they could look ahead and see, somewhere in the dim future, that union depot in all the glory of brick and mortar.

Mayor Macrae did not have anything particular to say about the union depot, but he called the attention of the railway officials to the fact that their bridges over Indian creek were all too low and they had caused the overflow of the bottoms a number of times lately after heavy rains.

M. F. Kofler stated that Council Bluffs people were very modest. This natural modesty had interfered with the progress of the city from the very first, and it had amounted almost to a mania in the matter of the union depot. The members of the committee had never struck him as being particularly modest themselves, and yet it was painfully evident that the depot matter had not been pushed by them with as much energy as it might have been. Omaha, St. Joseph, and any other city that might be mentioned, did not put any restriction on any talk about hard times, but to Council Bluffs the excuse had answered as well as any could have done.

Le. Schugart thought Council Bluffs had given the railroads everything they had ever asked for, and in return had gotten absolutely nothing. There was no use in mincing matters, the city wanted that depot. The depots that are now in use are a disgrace to the city, and it would be a good thing for the city if someone had touched a match to the Burlington depot ten years ago and burned it.

This was getting a little rough, and W. C. Brown hastened to say a word in behalf of his company. He said that he knew that plans for a new local depot would probably be built in a short time. In reply to a question he stated that in all probability the erection of a local depot would mean the non-erection of the union depot.

It was thought best that in order to preserve peace around all should adjourn to the Grand hotel, where a banquet had been prepared for the guests. It was a late hour before the partakers of the feast, about the number of five, were separated by the fact that they did not separate they felt at peace with each other and all the world, even if it was a little rough, and they were very much satisfied with the evening's consultation.

It Always Happens.

The telegram which was received day before yesterday announcing the victory of the Council Bluffs hose team No. 5 at the firemen's tournament in Cedar Rapids, was received with a great deal of good feeling by the people of the city. Yesterday another telegram was received which rather put the above mentioned good feeling to flight, and substituted for it large, angry looking gobs of indignation. The telegram stated in effect that a protest had been filed by the unsuccessful competitors in the 300 yard straight-away race, against the awarding of the first prize to the Blue team, and leaving on the fact that Lozier, Ross, Hough, Pepper and Whitney are all professional foot-racers and calling attention to the provisions of the constitution of the state association forbidding professionals from taking any part in the tournament.

A protest was filed by Charles Nicholson of the Bluffs team claiming that there was hardly a team at the tournament of which one or more of the members were not professionals. The matter was taken under advisement by the board of control and yesterday morning it was decided to rule out the Bluffs team. It was thought that the same action would probably be taken with regard to the other companies which are running professionals as amateurs.

Proceedings to be Dropped.

Charles C. Dickinson, the young man who has spent the last two days in the city jail on the charge of seduction, was brought before Judge McGee yesterday morning for a preliminary examination. Dickinson waived examination, and was bonded over to await the action of the grand jury, his bond being fixed at $500. In default of the bond he was sent back to jail.

The girl's father has asserted his willingness for the youthful transgressors to marry and the girl has also been willing, but Dickinson was obstinate. Yesterday he changed his mind and consented to have the suit tried. A license was issued by the clerk of the county court, but the wedding did not take place. It is possible, however, that the parties will be married in a day or two, and that the proceedings against Dickinson will be dropped.

WIFE NOT LIABLE.

Decision by the Supreme Court on the Subject of Woman's Rights.

A decision has been rendered by Chief Justice Beck of the supreme court of Iowa in the case of N. Scarr against W. F. McMenamy and Mrs. Sarah McMenamy, which settles the question how far the property of a wife is liable for the debts contracted by her husband.

The suit was commenced in the superior court of this city two years ago last winter, the plaintiff asking judgment against McMenamy and his wife for $25, due on a lease of a piece of residence property, and an attachment on a land mortgage on the personal property of the wife which was used on the premises during the time when the rent became delinquent.

Mrs. McMenamy alleged in her answer that she never entered into any contract with Scarr; that she lived on the premises for a time with her husband, but that she was not there when she lived there all her life. The attorney for the plaintiff demurred to the answer on the ground that the wife was liable for the debt contracted by her husband, and the defendant appealed to the supreme court.

In coming to the case Chief Justice Beck states that clearly the wife is not liable on the lease for so made none, but, if at all, from the fact that she was the wife of the lessor, and used the wife's property as a home for the family, the rent thus becoming a family expense. Her liability, as created by the statute, is not limited to the family, for debts contracted for the property, or, if for rent, for the home occupied by the family. A case in point is cited in which a man contracted for two years to furnish the last six tons of which he refused to allow to be delivered. It was held in that case that the wife's property was liable for the rent, but had not been used for the family, and hence could not be considered a family expense. The justice concludes that no liability arises against the wife for the rent of a house which was never used by the family. The decision of the superior court is reversed, and the case thrown out of court.

A Mystery Clock.

Anything out of the way of the ordinary will attract attention. In the busy streets of Council Bluffs as quickly as in any place in the world, M. Wollman, the well known jeweler at 338 Broadway, has given the curious public an opportunity to test their ingenuity in endeavoring to fathom the mystery of a mysterious clock which he has recently purchased and placed in one of his show windows. So far the most profound and persistent have utterly failed to discover the influence that controls the unique time-piece, and he accurately record the hours and minutes. A short time ago Mr. Wollman made an electric clock that attracted the attention of Council Bluffs but in trade and expert circles all over the country. The mystery clock is far ahead of the electric apparatus in uniqueness and incomprehensibility. In appearance it somewhat resembles the colored globe which is used in the time-piece.

Jo es Murder Case.

The Jones murder-insanity case was on trial again yesterday before Judge Deemer. Dr. P. S. Thomas was on the stand in the morning and a good share of the afternoon. He testified that he thought Jones was sane at the time he was shot, but in his opinion the best place for him would be some farm, where he could be alone and could have his liberty. The cross-examination by Attorneys Organ and Myer was like that of Wednesday, in being nicely prepared with references to hallucinations, stuporous insanity, progressive dementia, and other equally wonderful things.

At the close of Dr. Thomas' testimony several witnesses were put on the stand to testify that they had talked with Jones and had found him in most respects very much like other men. In every case, however, it was developed on cross-examination that these witnesses had nothing to do with Jones anywhere from four to fourteen years. Some testimony will be brought in this morning by the attorney for the defense. In rebuttal, after which the case will be submitted to the jury.

RITTY SHUT OUT.

Race Scene Went on But She Wasn't in It—Other Mishaps.

When preparing for the great race scene at the opera house last night two of the thoroughbred race horses had been taken up in safety, but when "Kitty" the handsome bay mare was placed in the elevator, and when near the stage, the ropes broke letting the mare and her rider fall. Five or six feet below the street entrance the safety catches got in their work and stopped the lift, with a sudden jerk, throwing the mare off her feet, barely missing her rider. The accident did not injure either party. An announcement was made to the audience that on account of the accident only two horses could appear in the race.

When the revival began to roar "Kitty" showed signs of uneasiness, and it was feared that she would fall from the elevator in her excitement. Fortunately, the ropes did not break, and the nervous little mare was raised to the floor by the aid of a block and tackle. Upon examination it was found that the horse was injured beyond a few bruises. This is the third accident that Kitty's rider has had recently, and he considers himself fortunate that he is not injured. W. Berkstresser was horseward bound last night and when near the corner of Sixteenth and Davenport streets was seized with a fit and fell. He was taken to the hospital, but was not otherwise injured.

The patrol wagon was called and conveyed Berkstresser to his home, at the corner of Thirtieth street and Capitol avenue. The sick man is subject to these spells and a doctor will be liable for the debts contracted by her husband.

The wheat is better than they do with a hundred miles of the Missouri river. Judge Burk said that the crop was higher than any other year, and that the yield was very good and heading out. Never have such quantities of grass been seen before in western Nebraska. Many of the western crops have been completely discouraged last fall and winter are feeling all right again, and some who left the country are preparing to go back.

Twenty-six numbers were on the list of dances and nearly all of the crowd stayed until the last dance. It was an enjoyable night and netted a neat sum for Sergeant Johnson.
