best of it, and looked a dead sure winner, but he swerved, struck the fence and then made a leap over it, tumbling down and rolling completely over his jockey, Littlefield. His Highness (3 to 1) then came through and in a pretty finish won by a head from Victory, who was a head before Nomad. Time: 1:08. Littlefield was not badly hurt.

Third race, for three-year-olds, purse $1,000, mile and three-sixteenths: Port Chester (even) in a whipping finish won by a length and a half from Headlum, who was two lengths before Tammany. Time: 2:02 1-5.

Seventh race, purse $1,000, one mile and a sixteenth on the turf: Atlantic led from the start and lasted long enough to win by a length from Watterson, who beat Kingstock three lengths for the place. Time: 1:49 2-5.

BARDSLEY'S STEALINGS.

Report of Expert Accountants Regarding the School Fund.

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—The report of the expert accountants, showing in detail what ex-City Treasurer Bardsley did with the $445,000 that he embezzled from the school fund, was submitted to Mayor Stuart yesterday and by him forwarded to the council investigating committee. The report says:

First, as to the item of $200,000 for the school year ending June 30, 1890. On May 1, 1890, Bardsley's account with the Keystone bank kept in his individual name appeared to be overdrawn $15,926. May 31, 1890, Mr. Bardsley deposited in the bank a check from the school fund, the balance of the appropriation of $25,428, thus cancelling his overdraft and giving him a balance of $9,502. Against this balance of $9,051.60 and other moneys subsequently deposited by him he drew checks amounting to $12,274.91, thus exhausting all of the school appropriation fund which had been deposited by him.

Second, as to the item of $420,000 on account of the school appropriation for the school year ending June 30, 1891, Mr. Bardsley appears to have received for the above amount a check on the Farmers and Mechanics bank for $20,000; check on the People's bank, $45,000; check on the Fourth Street National bank, $150,000; total, $420,000. The first stated amount, $20,000, was deposited January 3, 1891, by John Bardsley in the Third National bank to the credit of his private account and was used by him to repay $20,000 which he had taken on December 23, 1890, from moneys belonging to the highway account.

As to the second above mentioned amount of $250,000 the above check for $250,000 was deposited on January 5, 1891, to the credit of John Bardsley in the People's bank. Against the amount so deposited the stubs of his check book show that the checks were drawn for the purpose indicated as follows: Check 8, dated January 12, 1891, state treasurer's account of tax on personal property, $50,000; check 9, dated January 29, 1891, loaned to G. B. H. $15,000; check 10, dated February 26, 1891, "to pay the state," $10,000; check 12, dated March 25, 1891, "for the state," $50,000; check 13, dated March 25, 1891, "for the state," $50,000; total, $250,000. As to the third mentioned amount of $150,000, in lieu of the above check the Fourth Street National bank issued to the order of John Bardsley, treasurer, certificates of deposit 226, 227 and 228 for $50,000 each.

Certificates 227 and 228, amounting to $100,000, appear to have been deposited in the Farmers and Mechanics National bank to the credit of the commonwealth, being endorsed "for deposit credit of commonwealth, H. Boyer, treasurer."

Certificate 226, for $50,000, appears to have been cashed by Mr. Bardsley as a partial payment of a loan of $100,000 made to him December 31, 1890, by the Third National bank, said loan being secured to the bank by the collateral note of Robert Glendenning & Co. and certain shares of stock of the Metropolitan traction company of New York.

The law department of the city is on the track of some of Bardsley's stealings. City Solicitor Warwick has learned of $100,000 which Bardsley has in one of the banks of the city. This is in the shape of 750 shares of Chicago West Side railway stock, now in the possession of the Farmers and Mechanics National bank. City Solicitor Warwick filed a bill of equity this morning to recover the stock, which, it is alleged, was purchased with the taxpayers' money.

RAILWAY EMPLOYES.

Resignation of the Switchmen Not Brought Up for Discussion.

CHICAGO, June 16.—The supreme council of the Federated Railway Employes convened here today. The switchmen's representatives appeared in the council only after a special committee had been sent for them. Their resignation was not brought up for discussion, but will probably occupy one of tomorrow's sessions. Messrs. McConnell, Morrissey and Dobbs were appointed a committee to revise the constitution. The application for membership by the Brotherhood of Station Men was presented by a delegation headed by President Miller of the state railroad commission of Kansas. The order embraces but 500 men, but many of the council feel that it is strong enough to deserve encouragement. The application will probably be acted upon tomorrow.

Railway Telegraphers.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 16.—The railway telegraphers met again at 10 o'clock this morning. The first business was the reading of the annual reports of the grand officers. The report of the grand chief telegrapher shows that there has been great activity among the organizers, the membership being increased very materially. The secretary's report showed a membership of 10,000 in good standing, while the treasury is in excellent condition. The balance of the morning session was taken up by the appointment of the regular committees, to which was referred the accumulated business on the secretary's table.

Interstate Commission at Topeka.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 16.—The interstate commerce commission arrived here last night from Denver and today heard the complaint of the Lincoln creamery, which claims discrimination on the part of the railroads. The commission will hold a session in Kansas City tomorrow.

More Bodies Removed.

BALE, June 16.—The lower one of the two railroad cars suspended over the broken bridge near Moenchenstein, where the terrible accident of an excursion train took place on Sunday last, was lifted today and more dead bodies were found. This carriage was resting on the bed of the river not far from where the two railroad engines were heaped. The exact number of dead and wounded is not yet accurately known.

STOPPED BY THE RAIN GOD.

Jupiter Pluvius Robs Omaha of Another Chance to Win a Game.

POSITIONS FOR THE PLAY TODAY.

Minneapolis Wins a Hard Game—Wall from New York—Dad Clarke Released—Other Baseball Talk.

Jupiter Pluvius, the young man who pulls the string to the celestial bath-tub, has been getting in his work with most exasperating persistency during the past fortnight. He is probably endeavoring to convince the citizens of this terrestial sphere that what they most need is water, and while his efforts in a measure are appreciated, there is a growing feeling among the oldest inhabitants that he is getting a trifle fresh. Even the agriculturalist, for whom it is always too wet or too dry, have begun to croak, and the base ball people—well, they are all but disparing.

Out of fourteen games scheduled for the past three weeks Omaha has managed to get off four, and one of these Jupe tried to nip, for he gave the string a jerk right in the middle of the game. Yesterday when the whole town was hanging by the ears over the prospect of at last being able to witness a conflict the aqueus god again got in his diabolical work. All morning the clouds hung off, and everybody hoped the afternoon would be fair, but just as the Lambs and the Cowboys were changing togs to go to the ground Pluv got a hammer-lock on the string and pulled away as if he intended to wash us off the earth. Of course the game had to be postponed. This afternoon, however, providence permitting, the game will be played.

So far Kansas City and Omaha have played but two games and Omaha has won them both, and this afternoon she will endeavor to make it three straight.

Jimmy Manning said last night that he would bet a hat big enough to fit Dave Rowe that the Blues would win. He says they are stronger than they have been any time this season and intend to move right up to the front. King Elmer will be in the box and the Lambs know what that means. The baseball public, owing to the long period of hard luck which has attended the club in the way of getting games off, will appreciate the necessity of giving them a rousing crowd this afternoon. The two teams will be as follows:

Omaha.	Positions.	Kansas City.
Shannon	Second	Manning
Donnelly	Third	Carpenter
McCauley	First	Sharres
Walsh	Short	Pickett
Halligan	Right	Hoover

GIANTS IN BAD SHAPE.

A Number of the Players Crippled and Unable to Play.

NEW YORK, June 16.—The New York team is badly crippled and it may not be able to hold its own until the players who are disabled come around again. The present condition of affairs is very unfortunate, and everybody has hopes for the best. About three weeks ago the statement was made that Buck Ewing might be unable to play for the whole season. Everybody laughed and some said Buck was playing a big bluff, and could catch just as well as not if he wanted to. Buck's arm is worse than ever.

How his arm got in such bad shape has all along been a mystery. It seems, however, that in the early part of the season, when the thermometer was low and the weather damp, he tried to snap a ball without getting himself into position. In this way he strained the muscles. The average catcher, being afraid of a strain, never throws a ball to a base unless he is standing solidly on his feet. If a pitcher sends in a very wide "in" ball, wider than the catcher is expecting, nine chances out of ten the player on first base can get to second, providing he has started to run. The reason is that the catcher is thrown off his feet considerably, and he will not take the risks of being laid up for a season by snapping the ball down to second base very hard. It was by snapping the ball in this way that Ewing strained his arm. He has been advised to take a rest for a week and not to lift his arm at all. In that way it is thought that the strain may work away.

The New York's in-field is all broken up. Glasscock has been home for nearly a week now. Whistler, who was playing short in his absence, left for St. Louis on Saturday, being informed that his father had just died. This necessitated a change-around of the whole in-field. Catcher Clark was to play third base, Richardson short and Bassett second. Buckley is the only catcher left and he must catch every game until either Glasscock or Whistler return. His arm is also strained and his hands are badly swollen. Sharrott's loss will be felt greatly. He will not be able to pitch for many weeks yet. He dislocated his shoulder in sliding to a base on Thursday last. John Ewing has a "lump" on his pitching arm and will be unable to pitch for some time, and that leaves Rusie, Keefe and Welch as pitchers. If anything happens to one of them the New Yorks will have to do the greatest kind of hustling to win.

WAIT TILL BUCK GETS WELL.

NEW YORK, June 16.—The Giants won their fourth straight game from the Chicagos at the Polo grounds today. The Chicagos were shut out, making but three hits off Rusie, two of them being the veriest scratches. A wild throw by Dahlen was the only blunder of the game. Score:

New York	2	0	2	0	0	1	3	0	0	0—5

Hits: New York, 8; Chicago, 3. Errors: Chicago, 1. Batteries: Rusie and Buckley; Luby and Kittridge. Earned runs: New York, 3.

TRIED AN AMATEUR.

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—Gormley, a left-handed pitcher from Tamaqua, Pa., was given a trial by the Phillies today and did fairly well. His support was bad, however, and the Cleveland team won its fourth straight game. Score:

Philadelphia	0	0	0	0	0	3	0	0	0	0—3
Cleveland	3	0	2	0	3	0	0	0	1	—8

Hits: Philadelphia, 6; Cleveland, 10. Errors: Philadelphia, 4; Cleveland, 4. Batteries: Gormley, Brown and Gray; Young and Zimmer. Earned runs: Cleveland, 3.

PITTSBURG IS EASY.

BOSTON, Mass., June 16.—It was another one-sided game today, devoid of interest, save to see how badly the Pittsburgs could be beaten. Clarkson used his slow ball principally, but in only one inning were there two hits made off him, and the solitary run of the visitors was a gift by Tucker. Score:

Boston	1	0	0	4	0	3	0	2	0	—10

Hits: Boston, 12; Pittsburg, 4. Errors: Boston, 2; Pittsburg, 5. Batteries: Clarkson, Lake and Bennett; Baldwin and Mack. Earned runs: Boston, 5.

CINCINNATI'S COSTLY ERRORS.

NEW YORK, June 16.—The Bridegrooms won rather easily today at Brooklyn. Rain stopped the game at the end of the seventh inning. The errors made by the Cincinnatis were costly. Score:

Brooklyn	0	3	1	0	1	0	1			1—6
Cincinnati	0	0	0	1	0	0	2			—3

Cincinnati Takes One from St. Louis Without Effort.

CINCINNATI, O., June 16.—Neal's poor work in the second gave Cincinnati three runs, giving the home club a good lead early, which its heavy hitting in the seventh and eighth inning increased materially. McCarty and Kelly did excellent work. Score:

BOSTON HAD NO TROUBLE.

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—The game originally scheduled for June 12 between the Boston and Athletic clubs was played today instead, and was won with ridiculous ease by the visitors. Score:

Athletics	0	0	0	0	2	0	0	0	2	0—4

RAYMOND ALREADY A FEATURE.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 16.—Louisville was unable to bat Knell today, while every misplay made by Louisville cost a run. Weaver was injured in the seventh inning. Fielding on both sides was neat and sharp. The features were Knell's pitching and Raymond's batting and fielding. Score:

Columbus	0	0	0	1	0	1	1	0	0	—3

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Both nines batted very light today, but Baltimore was assisted to win by bunching hits when they were needed. Score:

Baltimore	0	1	0	0	0	1	1	0	*	—3

At Liberty Tomorrow Noon.

The Omaha management at a meeting yesterday morning unanimously resolved upon the release of Dad Clarke, said release to take effect Thursday noon, June 18. In the meantime if a trade can be effected, it will be done, but as Cushman refused to swap Davies for Clarke the prospects are that he will go unconditionally.

The probabilities now are that Clarke will be traded for Beecher, the hard hitting outfielder of the Washington American association. If the trade is made Beecher will take Harry Twitchell's place in left field, and Larry will be kept strictly for box work. Beecher wants to come to Omaha and Washington wants Clarke, and if all parties interested in the deal consent, it will be consummated today.

News for Contract Breakers.

President Krauthoff is in receipt of a letter from President Kramer of the American association, notifying him that there is no occasion for any worry over the report of players from this association jumping to the American.

"In the event of any of your men," proceeded Mr. Kramer, "jumping to the American through the machinations of any of our club managers or their agents, they will be promptly returned, and should be summarily dealt with by you."

They're Not Hogs.

SIDNEY, Neb., June 16.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—The Sidneys and Redingtons played here today, the score standing 45 to 5 in favor of the Sidneys at the end of the seventh inning, when the Redingtons got disgusted and quit.

North Loup Conquered.

ST. PAUL, Neb., June 16.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—One of the nicest games of ball ever played in our city was witnessed by our sport loving people today. The score was: North Loup, 12; St. Paul, 11.

Few Turns of the Crank.

Omaha is keeping the wires hot in her search for a new pitcher.

Talk about hard luck—Omaha only has eleven postponed games so far.

Lovett has pitched in fourteen games this year and has not made one fielding error.

Old Moxie Hengle made two singles and a homer in Saturday's game against St. Paul.

George Strief, who was appointed on the staff to succeed Collins, will umpire here today.

It cost Jimmie McAllcer $50 to express the opinion that Jack McQuade was rotten at Brooklyn.

There will be two kings in the game this afternoon, King Elmer Smith and King Elmer Foster.

There is a letter at the sporting department of THE BEE for the manager of the Crane ball club.

Twitchell's two games in Denver were great ones, and if put regularly in the box he would assuredly accomplish great things.

Norman Baker's dexter tin is still in a tumorous condition. He thinks, however, that he will be able to go in the box in a few days.

Times-Star: "Dad" Clarke, the Omaha pitcher who was flirting with the association, has been suspended by that club for funny business.

This is the way Alfred Cratty looks at it: Let the American association acknowledge that its guerilla warfare has been a failure and come in out of the rain.

New York World: There has been a great boom in baseball this spring and more attention has been paid to it than there has been before during the past ten years.

Pittsburg has switched Charley Reilly from third base to short stop and restored "Calliope" Miller to his old place at third. Reilly made a couple of errors yesterday.

The Columbus, O., Elks have followed up the expulsion of John L. Sullivan by giving Charley Reilly a kibosh. If Reilly feels like carrying the matter up it's dollars to dimes his expulsion will not hold good.

The League race is the grandest ever fought since the organization of the pioneer body. Eight clubs today find 220 points a blanket big enough to cover them all. Cincinnati, in eighth place, is only 83 points behind the Bostons, who are fourth, a margin represented by three games and a half! In the Western association the clubs are bunched between 335 points.

Minneapolis Times: Out of all that exhibition of fireworks yesterday Laroque never got a hit. He only got to first once, and that was through being hit by a pitched ball. Once he fouled out, twice he struck out, and once he went out from pitcher to first. It would seem as though Louisville knew its business when it released Laroque for not being able to hit the ball.

"They make it a part of their religion down in St. Louis to jump on all umpires and grind them in the dust," is the way Leonard Washburne puts it. That's about correct. Poor old Bob Ferguson is invariably pictured as a horse thief every time St. Louis loses and Bob umpires. After one of those recent games with Boston it was intimated that if Mr. Ferguson had his deserts the crows would be picking away at his wishbone.

Minneapolis Times: It is plain to be seen that Ward will not do as a second baseman. He has dropped into pretty swift company, and were it not for his batting and base running would be absolutely worthless. He made several errors yesterday that would have shamed an amateur. Whenever he makes a mistake he does not seem to be able to recover himself, or to even make an attempt to rectify it. He simply stands and stares stupidly at the ball. For gracious sake! Put him out in the field and let Hengle go back to second.

An Ode to Uncle Anson.

New York Sun: The steer is in the stock yards, and the pig is in the pen, the strength of ten; the smoke from the tugs and chimneys is blacker than darkest Styx, and the mighty Mister Anson's men are beaten.

10 to 6.

The men folks of Chicago are all o'er sad to eat, the maidens of Chicago weep as full of woe as feet; the lamps of Culture sputter unfed of oil or wicks, for Mister Anson's canned meat braves are Mr. Buck Ewing's meat, by the pleasing and satisfactory score of 9 to 6.

Buckley, O'Rourke and Richardson fell on 'em with a swoop; Gore, Tiernan, Buckley and Whistler assisted 'em to soup; the ball-compelling Roger put in his longest licks, and Rusie sent the ball in with a lunge and a crafty loop; with the gratifying result of 9 to 6.

No beer can clear Cook county's throat wherein this sorrow sticks: "Oh, make a coffin in New York, and make it 9x6 ft!"

Send Up a Box.

OMAHA, June 16.—To the Sporting Editor of THE BEE: Please publish in tomorrow morning's paper after the ball game the answer to this question. In a double game of high five A is 51 and B is 44. B bids ten and pitches the trump. A plays high which makes him 52, but B also makes 52 by making 13 and it being B's bid, I contend that B wins if A did play high. If you will settle this call around and I have a Havana or Key West.

Ans.—A wins.

NOTED CROOK CAPTURED.

Joe Conley Caught in the Act of Cracking a Safe.

NEWCASTLE, Wyo., June 16.—[Special to THE BEE.]—One of the most noted all-around crooks in the country was arrested here in the act of burglarizing the safe in the general store of Kilpatrick Brothers & Collins. He gave his name as Joe Conley, but was recognized by the sheriff of Wasson county as the man who in 1889 shot Policeman Ginby of Grand Island in a bold attempt to steal a lock from the vault door of the new bank then in the course of erection at that place. He was very desirous of obtaining it as it was one of the Yale safe and lock company's latest and most complicated pieces of work. A piece of machinery was in his possession for pulling the dial stem out of the lock, thereby gaining easy access to the lock which is soon opened with a wire or steel knitting needle, one of which he had. He is dangerous man and had he not fell over a box of canned goods Sheriff Jim Reener of this place would have ceased to exist as Conley tried to lull him with a dangerous looking Colt's forty-five revolver.

John Delaney of the Missouri Pacific secret service is well acquainted with Conley's history. He is an old time pal of Paddy Woods and Jimmy Powers, two noted Chicago crooks now doing time in Columbus, O., for safe cracking at Zanesville. He is himself an old time jail bird and has done time in Colorado for safe burglary and in Illinois for having in his possession burglars tools. Detective Delaney had him once but he got away from him on a hung jury only to be sent later to Jefferson City, Mo., for a two-year's sentence which he served. He is about twenty-three years old and hails from New York or Brooklyn. His chances are good for five years as the law is very severe with men of his stripe in this state.

A Priest's Narrow Escape.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., June 16.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—News has just been received here from Lander of the narrow escape of the aged, Rev. Father Ponzghone of St. Stephen's Indian mission in Fremont county. The Wind river is much swollen from recent heavy rains and before he reached the middle of the stream in an attempt to cross it his wagon was capsized. The horses after a hard struggle reached the opposite bank in safety but the priest was left to the mercy of the swift current. Some Arapahoe Indians witnessed the accident and without a moment's loss of time plunged into the racing stream and after a very hard fight succeeded in landing the aged priest who, left to his own assertions, would inevitably have been drowned.

VILLAGE BURNING UP.

The Town of Casselman, Canada, Enveloped in Flames.

OTTAWA, ONT., June 16.—Passengers on the Canada Atlantic train which passed through Casselman last night report the town burning up. They say great piles of lumber and stacks of tan bark, with nearly every house and store in the village were on fire. Women and children were frantically rushing toward the woods with what little they could carry. There is no possibility of ascertaining whether there was loss of life, but the destruction of property must have been immense. The population of the town is about one thousand.

The fire destroyed the sawmills of the Casselman lumber company, six houses and an immense pile of lumber and stables in connection with the mills. The total loss is $115,000 and the total insurance $70,000.

GOT A FRIGHTFUL BEATING.

Jake Kilrain the Recipient of Another Terribly Artistic Pummeling.

SOUNDED OUTSIDE THE CLUB ROOM.

Slavin's Blows on Jake's Ribs Rang Through the Streets of Hoboken—Details of a Disgusting Fight.

NEW YORK, June 16.—The long discussed and much looked forward to boxing match between Jake Kilrain of Baltimore and Frank Slavin of Australia for a $10,000 purse offered by the Granite association, took place tonight at the club house of the association on Grand street, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, Hoboken, N. J.

Reaching the Granite club house from Hoboken ferry this evening was not an easy job. The rain which cut off New York and its neighborhood between 6 and 8 o'clock, left a number of small lakes about the club house and many of the early birds who reached the Granite headquarters did so at the expense of a thorough soaking in mud and water up to the middle leg or at least over their shoes. The club house presents a picture of rough isolation planted in the midst apparently of several more or less vacant lots. It is a structure of unplaned wood, having an amphitheater interior, with the stereotyped 24x24 feet ring. Out in the wilds of the wildest west such a building would be laughed at. The ring was the best looking thing besides the audience inside the club house. It was well built, the poles were nicely painted and padded with red baise and it was carpeted with a tightly stretched covering of canvas painted a reddish color. The accommodations for the press were as crude as those provided for the gentlemen who represented the $10 tickets. The $10 people had seats on pine boards sloping up to the right and left of the interior while the $20 people had light wooden chairs.

By 9:40 p. m. there was not 300 people inside the club house. After that, however, matters began to assume a more lively aspect.

Fans were sold at a good price and the gallery began to shed their coats. In a word the only point which can be cited in favor of the club house is that it was well lighted. Two large electric lights swung near each end of the ring and four others similar lights were hung in each corner of the building.

Among the prominent sporting men who were at the ring side at an early hour were "Macon," Fred Stevenson, "Charley" Johnson, "Bob" Turnbull, Ned Mallahan, Tom Gould, Dan Murphy, Jere Dunn, Denny Gallagher.

Jere Dunn, the referee, was the first of the leading lights of the contest to reach the club house. The seconds of Slavin, Charley Mitchell and Ed Stoddard, accompanied by "their man," and Billy Muldoon and Mike Cleary, escorting their principal, were also in the building in good time.

Those who came early in the hope of witnessing some preliminary boxing upon the part of some of the lesser lights of the ring were disappointed, as no such appetizer was provided by the management. At 9:50 p. m. the club house was half filled and the air reeked with tobacco smoke and humidity in spite of the fact that the sixteen big windows in the roof were open. It was claimed that the building was capable of holding 2,000 people and 1,500 tickets were said to have been sold before the doors were opened.

At 10:30, the hour fixed for calling the men to the ring, the club house was only half filled and there was no signs of beginning the battle. By 10:45 the audience began to become impatient and signify its feeling by stamping, whistling and shouting, but still there were no signs of the principals.

Around the ring side there was practically no betting, though a bluff challenge bet of $500 even he "don't stop Kilrain" was shouted across the ring and found no takers. The audience grew more and more impatient. At 11 p. m. the audience had become tumultuous. Jere Dunn, the referee, emerged from the dressing room portion of the building at 11:05 and he entered the ring at 11:10. Slavin, in blue tights and yellow leather boots and otherwise stripped to the buff, entered the ring at 11:12 with Mitchell, and Kilrain, with blue trunks on and bare legs and bust, followed immediately afterwards. Both men looked sunburned and fit for anything.

"Honest" John Kelly was timekeeper. Muldoon and McCarty and Dan Murphy of Boston were Kilrain's seconds and Slavin was attended to by Charley Mitchell, Ed Goddard and "Pony" Moore. The gloves were four-ounce red leather mittens of the finest padding.

Slavin and Kilrain shook hands in the center of the ring at exactly 11:22 p. m., and then again withdrew to their corners. Time was called a moment or so later and the contest went forward thus:

Round 1—Slavin immediately assumed the offensive with a rush, and for a minute or so neither man struck a blow. Then Kilrain led with his right and Slavin countered neatly; a clinch followed, during which Slavin commenced a terrible right-handed pounding of Kilrain's ribs just below the heart and he may be said to have repeated those tactics until Jake was at his mercy. Kilrain, though weakened by this sledge hammer rib roasting, made a grand rally and gave Slavin right and left more than he took in return, cheered by the audience, which was evidently in favor of the Baltimorean. Clinch upon clinch followed, Jake seeming to get somewhat the best of long range fighting when the men were separated by the referee. Finally Kilrain got in a good rib roaster on the Australian, and the round ended in favor of Kilrain in spite of the jamming he had received.

Round 2—Slavin was first on deck and as lively as a fighting chicken. The round had hardly commenced when the men clinched and the Australian again pounded away at half-arm range, reaching Kilrain's sore place under the heart at least half a dozen times. Again Kilrain rallied and gave Slavin all he could do for a moment or so, then another clinch followed
