TO MAKE PORK SAFE TO EAT.

Efforts of the Government in the Way of Annihilating Trichinosis.

INSIDE POINTS ON AMERICAN HOGS.

Official Investigation at the Stockyards Conducted by Scientists for the Benefit of the Government and the People.

American hogs are not held in the best of Tavor in foreign countries. Two or three years ago some Germans ate heartily of the animal, and when they died a day or two later the coroner said that the hog was unwell when he was killed, and that it was dangerous for the rest of the people of the empire to eat the imported meat. Thus the reichstag, with old Windthorst in his seat, urged war against the American hog and by speech and resolution finally succeeded in closing the ports of the empire to the food product. The hoisting of the bars before the great American animal naturally caused great consternation in this country, and for months and months the newspapers were filled with distribes against the German par-liament and the kaiser for their hostile atti-

But the United States is going to defend its hog. An act was passed at the last session of congress providing for the examination of domestic pork and an appropriation of $200,000 was made for the purpose. And then, too, just to make the thing thorough and leave no opening for attack, two eminent German microscopists were chosen by Secre-tary of Agriculture Rush to assist in the ex-These men are Dr. E. Balzar and F. W. Bernard of Berlin.

This is the way the work is done: Old bre'r hog comes a grunting and a squealing to his butcher. He wears a number, and after death an expert, with a big knife in his right hand, cuts off a piece of the diaphragm and a chunk of the rump, or loin muscle, and places them in a tin box corresponding in number with the tag on the carcass. These specimens are then sent to the laboratory, where a portion of the meat is macerated and clamped between the stout glasses of a micros crope. The examiner squints into the instru-ment for trichina spiralis, and, finding none, fills out a blank report to that effect, which is afterward approved and the carcass cut up for the people of the whole world. But if the examiner, bending atten-tively over his mirroscope, had found the presence of triching or any trace of them in the meat the hog would have been destroyed there and then.

The entozoon known as trichina spiralis is the larva of what is classed by bearder men who read books as a marmato de hel minth. The male is usually one-eighteenth of an inch long. The female grows to the length of one-eighth of an inch. Little is known of their origin, but it is probable that if the hog kept himself clean, or if the fellow who has him in charge paid any attention to his sanitary condition the beast would not be troubled with trichina spiralis. Filth and neglect give birth to this pest just as sewer gas starts diphtheria and makes men stop paying their rent. Rats have trichina. They have lots of them and some of the scientific men who were at the stock yards yesterday said that the infection of hogs can be traced to rats which they have devoured.

There is a great deal about the explanation of these microscopists as to the origination and life of this entozoon which can scarcely be comprehended by a man unless he knows all about hogs. Triching are almost always found in the pupa state encysted in a calcare ous envelope and quite dormant. In this condition the entozoa are practically innox-ious to the hog and may remain so far any length of time. But when the defected meat is taken into the numan stomach the gastric juices dissolve the cystic envelope and the flesh in which they are em-bedded and the parasites instantly begin a troublesome migration to the large muscle of the victim. During their march they do such things as pierce the walls of the stomach and alimentary tract, and claw at the mesen tery with its lymphatic network and the tissues of the abdominal cavity. If they travel upward they must pierce the muscular diaphragm and here they have the offensive habit of taking up their abode, walking out now and then to take a bite at a man's heart or lung. If the entozon persists in going on a downward path they roost in the great sar torial muscles or other muscular masses of the lower abdominal region and of the lower limbs. From the moment the eutozoa enter the humon body they have but one thing in mind, and that is to get a good place and there reconstruct their cysts. Then they begin to propagate with fearful rapidity. The poor man, if he bes man, suffers terriffic pain. He becomes feverish. Inflammation a Kack the elementary tract and now and then peritonitis sets in. This complication s quite likely to cause death. Thus it will be seen that the parasite is a bad thing to carry around in the human system.

More Assessors' Blunders. The board of equalization of taxes was in session last evening from 7 o'clock until 9 in the county commissioners rooms. The board will continue these nightly sessions until all the complaints of property owners have been heard. There were a large number of kickers present last night and some of them had good reason for the kick they registered. The largest number of complaints were from the First and Fifth wards, where many inconsistencies in the assessment seem to exist. In looking over the assessments in the Fifth ward the commissioners discovered that the Esmond hotel block had been assessed at $2,100. Last year it was assessed at $10,000. $2,100. When this advertisement first appeared in the Fremont paper THE BEE asked its agent there for an explanation knowing that THE BEE circulates five times more dailies in Fremont than any other Omaha paper. The agents reply was entirely satisfactory. More unsold World-Herald's had accumulated in seven months than there were of BEES in four years. Here it is:

FREMONT, Neb., March 14, 1891—BEE Publishing company.— In answer to your favor in regard to the advertisement in the Fremont Tribune. I did have the ad inserted. The packages of old papers I am advertising contain fully as many World-Heraids. Journals and Chicago papers as BEES. As to unsold BEES in the last two months I can say that they have not averaged over six or seven copies per day. Allow me to say that since the World-Heraid changed agents here in July, 1890, their present agent has accumulated as many unsold copies of that paper as I have accumulated of BEES, Journals and Chicago papers in four years. I have to pay for all the BEES I receive and am naturally very careful not to order any more than I can dispose of. Respectfully.

TENNIS AND TALK.

High School Class of '91 Winds Up Its Exercises Auspiciously. The Young Men's Christian association

tennis court, Harney and Twenty-fourth streets, was all bustle and activity vesterday morning at 10:30. The High school tennis tournament was on, and all the friends and admirers of the contestants were out in full Full three hundred enthusiastic spectators witnessed the games and were most liberal with their applause. Referee W. C. Taylor called the game promptly at 10:45. In the first set Miss Birdie Adams, '91, and Brower McCague were pitted against Miss Margaret Cook, '91, and Francis Barker, '91. Miss Adams and Mr. McCague won by 8-6. Miss McKell, '92, and Arthur Carter, '92, won from Miss Cora McCandlish, '92, and won from Miss Cora McCandlish, '92, and Scott Brown, '92; score, 6-2.

Miss Edith Schwartz and Bert Butler outplayed Miss Ada Stone, '93, and Lynn Chaffee, '93, to the tune of 6-1.
Miss Julia Schwartz, '91, and Howard Parmalee, '91, went down before Miss Belle Morrow, '94, and R. Allee, '93; score, 6-4.
In the play-off the contest narrowed down to Miss Birdie Adams, '91, and Brower McCague against Henry Osgood, '94, and Miss Emma Osgood, '93. The Osgoods won after a close and exciting contest by 6-3. close and exciting contest by 6-3.

The games showed that the pupils were expert manipulators of the racket. The team work of Miss Adams and B. McCarue was frequently applauded. In individual playing Francis Baker, '91, excelled among the gentlemen, and Miss M. Cook was undoubtedly the star lady player. Messrs. W. C. Carter (Harvard '14), H. Butler and A. Cooley acted as unpress. as umpires.

The class of '91 has every reason to be proud of its record on the campus. Class Day Exercises.

At 2:30 the class of '91 and its numerous riends assembled on the shady tawn in front of the school to listen to the farewell class exercises. President W. C. Taylor made an excellent address, summarizing the work done by the class on the campus and in he school room.

Miss Baker humorousiy told the story of the class, as freshmen and sophomores, and was followed by Miss Rice, who continued the recital of its marvellous deeds as aspiring juniors and dignified seniors.

The assembly then adjourned to the southeast corner of the grounds where President Taylor planted a small maple tree in honor of his class, after which Kollin Smith pronounced the tree oration, in which he prophesied the future greatness of his classmates.

Miss Marie Parker read a very witty class ooem, and Brower McCague played the pater amilias for the nonce and administrated words of good advice to the lower classes. Miss Agnes Wink charmingly read the class prophecy and if the class of '91 fuifill half her redictions its way through life will be a eritable "primrose path of dalliance."
All joined hands and sang the ever ancient ever new "Auld Lang Syne," and the class exercises of '91 were eneded.

CHICAGO OFFICE OF THE BEE, ! CHICAGO, June 23. The Irish envoys and members of parlia nent, J. J. O'Kelly, William Redmond, John O'Conner and Henry Harrison, are said to have abandoned the purpose of going any farther west in the interest of Parneil owing to the discouraging lack of enthusiasm with which they have met. John P. Sutton, secretary of the national league, has been in Chicago since Saturday. He left this morning for New York. Speaking of the mission of the envoys and the attitude of the league, he said:

"Personally I favor Parnell, His alleged immorality leaves him with a character snow white compared with many prominent statesmen of England. Still the Irishmen of America do not feel like contributing their money to carry on a war for or against Irishmen in Ireland. The trouble is that there is a three-cornered fight going on. There is war between the Parnellites and anti-Parnellifes and there are Roman politicians who wish the support of England in the coming congress of powers. I believe that the mass of Irishmen in this country and in the old world are with Parnell, but the policy of the league is neutrality and no offi-cial endorsement of either side will be made." MADAGASCAR'S GOLD MINES.

A. Richardo, a wealthy Frenchman who for ten years has lived in Madagascar, is in this city after a long tour though the mining regions of the west. His visit to America is one of great importance to the little island. Ten years ago the French company which operated the comparatively little known gold mines of Madagascar became bankrupt. M. Rienardo represented the company, and succeeded after much negotiation in securing from the queen of Madagascar very valuable concessions. Today he practically controls the gold mines in Madagascar and his visit to the United States is for the purpose of studying American mining methods and regions of the west. His visit to America studying American mining methods and machinery. On his return to the island the gold mines will be rapidly developed on a scale that will, he thinks, bring about great commercial changes. He will be able to accomplish this at comparatively little cost, as he says labor is paid at the rate of 8 cents a day, and is a drug on the market. While in this country Mr. Richardo has visited all the most important mines.

Several unimportant witnesses were called and then Fritz Hornberg was put on the stand to teil his story.

The witness said he was unloading kegs from a wagon. He saw the decassed being put out of the tap room and as he reached the sidewalk one of the kegs thrown by the witness struck Mr. Folay.

Hornberg said that Foley cursed him and called him a number of vile names as he staggered about on the walk. Finally Hornberg could stand it no longer, and removing one of the stakes from the side of the wagon so that he could get down, he slapped Foley and he fell. Witness denied using the stake as a weapon. When the wagon was unloaded it was driven around to the rear. Then the driver saw that Foley still lay upon the walk, and calling another man to help him, started to help the injured man to his feet.
