He taok part the the contest held last Wednesday, winning third money in a ten single tarket contest. His record was five out of ten. There were in the neighborhood of 200 sportsmen present from all parts of the state.

The board of health has instructed the city marshal to notify the owners of property in pathe vicinity of Washington avenue and Seventh street, Ninth street and Ninth avenue, and Muin street and Tweitth avenue, to fill up the vacant lots where stagnant pools have been accumulating for some time past. The filling is to be commenced within five days and finished at once. The marshal is also instructed to abate all other nuisances that may be found in any part of the city likely to result in the breeding of disease.

County Clork Campbell was called out o his downy bed at 6:30 o'clock yester-day morning by a loud rapping at his chamber door. On going to the door he found a gentleman who wanted a marriage license and wanted it bad. He was fitted out with the article desired. after which he and his bride went to the residence of Rev. T. J. The Broadway theater was a scene of britliancy last evening. All day long the members of the graduating class wavered be-tween hope and foar as the rain descended in torrents. Along toward evening, however, the clouds broke away and the rain ceased falling. In the evening the crowds began to seek the opera house and long before the hour for the commencement of the programme every seat in the house was occupied and the aisles, both in the parquet and the balcony, were full.

When the curtain rose, the first glimpse caused a round of applause to go up from every corner of the room. One of the most artistic pieces of decorating ever done in the city was to be seen on the stage. The graduates, clad in commencement garb, were seated in a semi-circle around the stage, while back of them were ranged the teachers of the high school and the board of education. On either side of the stage stood a clump of tropical plants, while the center and the rear of the stage was a mass of flowers of every

The programme was opened by a selection by Dalbey's orchestra, after which Rev. Stephen Pheips offered prayer. A duet was then rendered in a very taking manuer, entitled "I Cannot Sing That Song Tonight," by the Misses Gleuson and Jackson, after which William R. Tyndale, the saiutatorian of the class, came forward and welcomed the audience in a finely prepared speech. Hon.

John N. Baidwin was then introduced as the orator of the occasion.

His address consisted in a brief outline of the history of education, and the part it had played in the world's history. He then pro-ceeded to point out one or two defects in the system of education which is followed out in system of education which is followed out in this country, "While education has de-veloped with startling rapidity," he said, "still, as a fabric, the superstructure is with-out finish and in many places without symmetry. The necessity for reform is un-doubtedly appreciated by educators. It is not a fact that unhappiness rests like a brooding spirit over those who had some-thing of an education but not prometly thing of an education, but not properly directed, and who have returned to their former walks in life, because the education they have received only created in them a de-sire for a profession 1 The difficulty about the matter is that a little knowledge becomes a dancement thing 12 a dangerous thing." Miss Lilian M. Jackson then favored the audience with a vocal solo, entitled "The Mother's Dream," a remarkably beautiful composition, sung with great feeling, after which Miss Elsie P. Honn stepped to the front with the valedictory. It showed much careful preparation, and was different from a great many valed ctories in taking a common sense view of the occasion rather than a sen imental one.

timental one. The class song was then sung, the words to which were composed by Rev. G. W. Crofts especially for the occasion, and adapted to the tune "Auld Lang Syne." The members of the class were then grouped upon the stage and presented with their dipiomas by President Wells of the board of education. Another selection, by the orchestra area was in the city yesterday looking for a man named E. E. Sayres, who is wanted in Glenwood on a charge of assault with intent to kill. Savres lives near Island park with his father, and is generally regarded as being somewhat quarrelsome. About a month ago he had a fight with his father, in which he he had a fight with his father, in which he pulled a gun on them both and threatened to send them to the happy hunting grounds. He was disarmed and fiel to the woods. About a week ago he returned home and was forgiven, but he could not remain peaceable. A day or two ago another row occurred and this time Sayres was successful. He ran his father, his brother and all the hired men off the place and ensconced himself as ruler of the ancestral halls. From home he was tracked to this city, and vesterday afternoon he was to this city, and vesterday afternoon he was arrested in Mergen's store on Lower Main street by Marshall Templeton. Chautauqua Notes.

The management of the Council Bluffs and Omana Chautauque assembly vesterday effected changes which will increase the attractions of the musical features of the enterment. Instead of having the Rogers band, the contract with that organization has been cancelled and one made with the Jowa state band of Iowa City. The latter band, under the leadership of Prof. Phinny, has gained a reputation in the west fully equal to that possessed by the Rogers' band in the east. Preparations are proceeding well in other departments. Despite the rain the grounds are in good condition, and numerous improve-ments will be noted this season. Among the new cottages being built are two by T. O. Gleason and W. B. Walker.

Appreciated his Good Qualities.

Yesterday was the last day of the March term of district court. Almost the entire day was occupied by Judge Desmor in reading the docket, dismissing old cases, hearing motions for new trials, and other specia business. The only thing that disturbed the even tenor of things was a little affair that happened just after the had assembled for the openjury ing of the afternoon session of court. Judge Deemer was presented by Mr. G. L. Jacobs with a gold headed cane, in behalf of the other members of the jury, as a testimonial to his honesty, impartiality, and uniform courtesy, and the esteem which these qualis had won for him in the nearts of the ju ymen.

Judge Deemor was taken completely by surprise, and it was with difficulty that he could find words to express his appreciation of the compliment bestowed upon him by the jurymen, but he made a neat speech, in which he complimented the jury upon the way in which it had performed its duties
