Strong and Pointed Resolutions Adopted by the Methodist.

THEY DENOUNCE THE SALOON IN POLITICS.

Governor Boles and the Democrats Given a Body Blow by the Preachers-What They Think Right.

Just before the Methodists of the Council Bluffs district conference adjourned yesterday the following resolutions were read and inanimously adopted:

unanimously adopted:

The great conflict rages with a flerceness litheric unequaled. The temperance question can no longer be relegated morely to the realin of morals. The salcon has entered politics, and as a rigantic combination seeks complete control of every department of government. The United States has been disgraced before the civilized world by the reform of the senate to ratify the Brussels treaty for the suppression of slavery and the liquor traffic in Africa; also by the prostitution of the state department to service submission to the distation of the rum power in the use of the consulor service for the extension of the liquor traffic in Mexico and the Central and South American Republics.

Remarkable Cures of Two Nebraskans Suffering with Rheumatism. Hor Spaines, S. D., July 2 .- (Special to THE BEE. |-A large number of Nebraskans are here enjoying themselves and receiving the benefits of the healing waters of Hot Springs. A number of remarkable cures have been accomplished, among them two cases of rheumatism in most aggravated form. James B. Thomas of Gordon, Neb., was a terrible suf-ferer from imflamatory rheumatism. He came to Hot Springs June 10 and could only with the greatest difficulty get about on crutches. He is now able to go everywhere, up hill and down, without the ald of crutch or cane and is entirely free from pain. The only effects of rheumatism which he now experiences is that he is not as strong as formerly, but he is gaining strength every day.

Another remarkable cure is that of Isaac

Another remarkable cure is that of isage B. Traver of Central City, Neb. Last Sep-tember Mr. Traver met with an accident which nearly cost him his life. The Omaha papers gave a full account of it at the time, He partially recovered from the mjury when rheumatism set in so severely that he could neither move hand nor foot. After employ-ing the most skillful physicians without avail he came to Hot Springs, arriving May 21. When he arrived here he was nearly helpwhen he arrived here he was hearly help-less and could only with great difficulty get about on crutches. He at once commenced to bathe in and drink the waters of the Mionekanta not spring and in one week's time he threw away his crutches and today is entirely cured of rheumatism and free from pain. The waters of this spring had a marvelous effect in his case. He says:
"I have observed many others here who have come on crutches and gone away cured or nearly so during the five weeks I have been here. I do not think the virtues of the waters of the Dakota hot springs are sufficiently well known to the world. I think they ought to be better advertised, so that more people who are suffering with rheumatism might enjoy their healing effects. I leave Hot Springs today for Desdwood to visit my brother, after which I expect to return to Central City to renew my old time customs of wrestling, running and boxing with the boys, and shall not hesitate to take a turn with any of them,"

The camp is a half a mile from the city on the fair grounds. The crowd that came in from the country and neighboring towns was surprisingly large, considering the unusually busy time of the season. The band, followed by a large crowd, marched to the depot to meet Paul Vandervoort, who, of course, arrived. He Stands a Cross-Examination of Four Hours' Duration. CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 2 .- Special Tele gram to THE BEE. |-The testimony in the Filleprown murder trial is all in tonight, Fillebrown himself occupied the stand for over five hours, four of which were devoted to cross-examination. His story was to the effect that he and Foulks had been close friends, although his family didn't like his chum. On the morning of the killing they arose earlier than usual. As shey were baching together, Fillebrown started to wash the dishes after breakfast. The conversation turned on women. Foulks thought that none of them were invincible. Fillebrown made a somewhat sarcastic response. Foulks then said that even Fillebrown's sister ould be overcome and that she had actually been. Fillebrown said he was a blanked liar. With that Foulks struck him, knocked him down and pounded him. Foulks then left the room to enter the boiler room. Fille-brown was insensible for a few minutes, He was obliged to go out in the same way as his room mate. Noticing his revolver as he went out he picked it up fearing Foulks might carry out his threat of pounding him with a buggy bar. When he reached the spot buggy bar. When he reached the spot where Foulks was, the latter dropped the shovel as though to start toward him and Filleprown shot him twice. The weakest part of the testimony was in re-lation to the subsequent flight, but taken as a whole the witness stood the cross-examina tion very well. He Writes a Letter About the Plate Printers' Troubles at Washington.

SECRETARY FOSTER'S ACTION CRITICISED.

Head of the Treasury! Department Charged with Miking False Statements-Present Status of the Case.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2 .- General Master Workman Powderly of the Knights of Labor has prepared the following statement relative to the controversy over the re-employment of the plate printers dropped from the rolls of the bureau of printing and engraving at Washington: "Tp to this moment I have not said a word publicly, but I feel that the statements charged to the secretary of the treasury merit recognition and denial since they are entirely and unqualifiedly false. He has stated, so it is alleged-and it has not been denied-that the plate printers' trouble was not the subject of discussion at the meeting held at Mausfield between Senator Sherman, Major McKinley and hinself. That matter was discussed at Mansfield and settlement advised and I hold the proofs over the signature of Major Mc Kinley himself. On his return to Washington the secretary of the treasury wired the general worthy foreman of this order, Mr. Cavanagh, to come to Washington, that the matter could be settled. The general worthy foreman complied with the request and on June 10 had a moment's interview with the secretary of the treasury, who without discussing the merits of tha case named 2 p. m. of that day as the time when he would meet our committee. At that hour Messrs. Devlin and Cavanagh called at the treasury department, saw Mr. Foster and concluded an agreement to restore the discharged men to their places. He even went so far as to write a letter to one, asking them to advise him whether he wished to be re-employed. That letter embodied the agreement entered into. It is written in his own hand over his own signature. We hold that letter as proof of what we say. Mr. Delvin made the memorandum of the terms on which the agreement was based and on the strength of which he wrote the letter. The terms are as follows: That the seven men who have been dropped from the rolls in the plate printing department shall be restored to their former places or places of equal im-portance and pay, and that they shall be treated with the same fairness and consideration as other plate printers by the chief and his other assistants; that four of them shall be restored in ten days and the balance within two weeks from this date.

"Mr. Devlin's first proposition was that all the discharged men should be restored to their former places within ten days, but in order to conciliate the secretary he prepared the foregoing and it was approved by Mr. Foster, secretary of the treasury, and Mr. Meredith, chief of the bureau of engraving and printing. It was said by Meredith that the agreement could be carried out without the displacement of any man in the depart-

"These deliberations were concluded, and those present congratulated themselves upon the happy termination of the difficulty when a committee of plate printers was called into the secretary's chamber by Mr. Meredith. The card which announced their arrival bore this inscription: 'A delegation from the Gompers' federation of labor desires to be heard before an agreement is arrived at with the Knights of Labor.'

"These men had been called away from their machines at 11 o'ciock that day just as sooh as it became known that Mr. Cavanagh sooh as it became known that Mr. Cavanagh had arranged with the secretary of the treasury for an interview. They were drilled by Mr. Meredith as to their speeches, conduct, etc., while deliberating with the secretary, but the instructions were not complete, for Mr. Meredith forgot to tell them the name of the organization they were supposed to represent and they gave the name of an association that does not and never did exist.

"After a short interview with this committoe the secretary turned to Mr. Devlin and snatching some papers from his hand said: If there is to be a fight with these organizations I don't know but what I had better fight yours.' To that Mr. Devlin replied: If it is to be a fight I guess we can do a little of that ourselves.'

"Dr. Devlin then called his attention to the "Dr. Deviin then called his attention to the fact that he had concluded an agreement to settle the matter; that in that agreement no man, whether Knight of Labor or member of the federation, was to be discriminated against ou misplaced. The secretary of the easury stated that he would have to send or Mr. Gompers before he could arrive at a full understanding of the case. The advisers of Mr. Foster have influenced him to so act as to give the controversy such a coloring as to create the impression that it is a struggle between labor organizations. Such is not the case. We have no fight, quarrel or dispute with any labor organization and this contest will not be so regarded by the general officers of the Knights of Labor. Mr. Foster has an undoubted right to consult with Mr. Gompers if he pleases, but the fact still remains that none of the men involved long to any organization but the Knights

Recognition Day at Beatrice-Pro

ceedings of the Central. BEATRICE, Nob., July 2 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE. |- The statement published in THE BEE of July 1 in regard to free admission of soldiers to the grounds of the Beatrice Chautauqua assembly on the Fourth of July was unauthorized. The management have incurred great expense in preparing the grounds and providing the programme, and are under heavy financial obligations. They would be glad to extend free admission to the soldiers if they were able, but they are not.

This was recognition day at the Beatrice Chautauqua, in preparation for which the tabernacle was handsomely decorated, the triumphant arches through which the class and graduates passed being hidden from sight by flowers.

The morning classes were all well attended, the young travelers' class having a review of the work done thus far. The nor-mal class had the subject of "The Year of The 11 o'clock lecture was delivered by

The 11 o'clock lecture was delivered by Dr. E. L. Eaten on the subject of "The Birth and Death of Worlds."

The afternoon, until 4 o'clock, was occupied in the recognition and graduation exercises. The address was by Prof. John C. Free man, who distributed the diplomas. The graduates were Nellie E. Pamel of Centralia Kan, and Mrs. James Hostetter of traita, Kan., and Mrs. James Hostetter of Shelton, Neb. At the 4 o'clock ministers' institute meetng a paper was read by Thomas K. Hunter of Nebraska City.

The afternoon exercises at Willard hall was a paper by Mrs. Angie F. Neuman of Lincoln on prison work and a discussion of the same. This evening's programme was a concert by the Swedish quartette, recita-tions by Prof. Carnes, concluding with a fine display of fireworks.

FREMONT, Neb., July 2.—(Special to THE BRE.)—The Fremont Chautauqua did get a little wet last week, but being good material and fast colors it has only come out the brighter for the washing. Everything is lively and stirring, and everybody is wishing he session were a month longer at least.

Prof. French is here, whereat we all re-joice. His illustrated lecture on "Wit and Wisdom of the Crayon," was one of the grandest discourses ever listened to by an admiring audience. Instructive and humorous, it held the attention of every listener to the last. Leon H. Vincent lectured first upon "Hawthorne." Dr. Patton delivered an excellent lecture last evening on "A Tramp in Greece." The doctor illustrated his lecture with calcium light views which were very fine. Many Grecian points of interest were shown and described singly and collectively, which made the fecture both entertaining and instructive. Leon H. Vincent delivered his second lecture this morning, his subject this time being "Emerson." A great deal has been expected from Mr. Vincent and it is safe to say that he is up to grade and a few points ahead.

This is the great Chautauqua day. The tents and auditorium are beautifully decorated for the occasion. The recognition exercises took place in the auditorium this afterneon. The motto of the 1801 Olympians, "So Run That Ye May Obtain," hung over the platform, giving a very pretty fect. A long green arch extended behi the suditorium, at the end of which ap-peared the golden calf. The whole effect was unique and graceful. The interesting graduation exercises were listened to by a large and appreciative audience.
