average crop. More acres of corn, oats and wheat have been put in this year than last; every available acro seems to have been put in some kind of a crop. Much more new land has been broken up this year than usual, and much of this has been put in crops. It is too early to predict what the corn crop will be, but wheat and outs are pretty well matured and it seems as though nothing but a cyclone or hall storm could prevent us from harvesting one of the largest crops of small grain that we have ever rulied. Corn is more backward than last year owing to the wet cold weather sluce planting, but the ground was in very favorplanting, but the ground was in very favorable condition for planting, so a good stand was obtained, which is the first requirement of a good crop. See no good reasons for thinking we will have less than an average crop of corn. Collections seem to be fairly good for this season of the year. Farmers are in good spirits and business men are hopeful of the future. The crops in this county at the present time are in fair condition, and if nothing happens out of the ordinary line will be up to the average. Some corn at present is quite backward and weedy, but if good weather continues a week or ten days will be all cleaned out and all right. More will be all cleaned out and all right. More wheat, oats and other small grains have been sown than common, and at present is looking well. The principal crop in this county is corn, but this year the farmers are raising more small grain than herecofore. Collec-tions have been very good during this year, and up to date there has been few failures among the merchantile houses, and at present they feel quite encouraged, expecting a ent they feel quite encouraged, excecting a good trade during fail and winter months. Acreage is about the same this year as last. Increased acreage of small grain, oats, wheat, rye and barley. Good crops last year and good prospects for all crops this year. It has been quite wet, but with seasonable weather from now on will have the largest crop ever raised in this county. Collections slow. Trade generally is good, farmers and merchants both in good condition. merchants both in good condition.

Saline County.

The small grains, wheat, oats and flax, are in splended condition and above the average. The growth of straw is very rank and if we have many more rain storms a great portion will go down. Corn is backward and from the outlook now will not be much more than half a crop on account of the cold, wet weather soon after the planting. And the weeds are in advance of the corn. Listed corn is in very poor condition and a large percentage will not amount to anything. Collections are poor. Business prospects are good, as are also future prospects. The acre-age of small grain is much larger than last year and is looking extremely fine and almost ready to harvest, and is the finest crop we have ever had. Corn is a little backward, but is doing well. We have had an abund-ance of rain for all crops. Collections usu-ally good. Trade good, considering the time of year. Future prospects for merchants and farmers Al. Corn is the leading crop in this county, which was a light yield last year. There was an usually large accesses. year and is looking extremely fine and almost year. There was an unusually large acreage of flax and onts this year. The flax is re-placed with fall wheat. Think the acreage of corn is about one-tenth less than last year. This year the acreage stands first, corn; second, winter wheat; third, oats, with a small acreage of barley and flax. All crops are now in fine condition. The most of the corn is clean and growing rapidly. Winter wheat harvest will commence in a few days, but unless the rains should cease at once there will be much trouble and ioss in harvesting on account of the soft condition of the ground. The yield will be large if it can be properly gathered. The same is true of oats and bar-ley. The farmers of this county were never in better condition financially. The only drawback now in sight is the indications of continued rains. This county will from the present outlook be in line with her staple products, in the 100 notch and everybody

Sarpy County.

Principle crop is corn, which is 10 to 15 per cent greater than last year. Less wheat than last year, oats about the same. Small grain generally in good condition. Corn is backward. Wet weather prevents farmers from working it properly. Vegetables are doing well. Collections fair and future prospects for farmers and merchants fair.

Sioux County.

Prospects for all kinds of crops are better than they have ever been before since the settlement of the county in 1885. The crop promises enormous returns. Principal crops are small grain. Acreage about 100 per cent of last year, Collections rather slow, Future prospects excellent.

Sherman County.

All small grain, of which there is a large amount. Some is looking better than ever before. Corn is a good stand, but rather backward, and the continued wet weather is preventing the farmers from giving it the attention it should have.

Corn and oats principal crops. This year corn perhaps 10 per cent less. Increase in fall wheat and small grain 60 per cent, making an increase in acreage of all crops Eight per cent in the county. Prospects for small grain best in history of county. First class. Perhaps a small per cent of corn is now somewhat injured by excessive rainfail. Most of corn, especially where planted [not listed is clean and growing finely. Fruit abundant. Grass never better. * Merchants are hopeful. Collections slow. If rains do not interfere with harvest, prospects for trade are better than for many years.

Thomas County.

Principal crop planted last year corn; a third more corn planted this year than last. Wheat and barley and rye are extensively cultivated this year, while comparatively none of either of these was cultivated last year. Corn is a little backward owing to wet, cool weather, but promises at least an average yield. A bountiful yield of all other grains is assured. Collections are very slow Merchants are selling for cash only and trade dull, but the bountiful crop pros-pects will soon stimulate trade and improve

Valley County.

Corn, wheat and oats, acreage larger this year than last; more diversified than last year. Crops consist of corn, wheat, oats, rye and barley. Well diversified. Prospects were never as good for small grain of all kinds. Rye and barley are changing color. Wheat and oats are heading out. Corn is a good stand, but a little foul on account of rains, which have prevented cultivating. Weather fine at present, and if it stays favorable corn will be an immense crop. Failure of corn last year caused by drouth and hot winds. No failure of any crops this year, and prospects for all crops excellent. Collections slow at present. Merchants seem to be doing a fair business at present, with excellent prospects for fall trade.

Wayne County. Princpal crop always corn, Acreage 125 per cent. Condition to per cent. In many instances not very good stand. Still nothing to prevent a good crop, and such is the prospects. Wheat acreage, 125 per cent. Condition is good, unless the present wet weather continues too long. Oats acreage, 125 per cent, same as reported for wheat. Wheat and oats much better prospects than at this time last year. Corn about the same. Acreage of each relatively about as heretofore, Increased acreage is from more land being put under cultivation. A large amount of flax sown, and the prospects excellent. Collections are very good more land. iections are very good, money reasonably plenty and prospects for all classes very fa-vorable. Land is readily salable at strong

Washington County. The principal crop last year was corn. The acreage is about the same for corn, but more wheat, oats and millet were sown. Judge the amount of small grain and millet about onefourth greater this year than last. There is no failure and the prospects for a large yield have never been surpassed at this season of the year. Collections are slow as to present payments, but prompt as to promise after harvest. The present condition of trade is favorable, while the prospects of merchants and farmers have not appeared so promising for years. The acreage is about the same as last year. We have a big crop of straw, whent, oats, barley and rye, but the weather is too wet and grain is commencing to rust and blight. Corn is two weeks or ten days behind last year, and a good deal of it is under water on bottom land. Condition of trade is protty fair for the time of year, and it de-pends on the crop as to what the future will

Wheeler County. Prospects are good here for crops of all kinds unless it is corn, and that is all right if we don't get too early a frost. Corn is mostly rather small now for the time of the year, caused by the late opening of spring and by dry weather about the time the crop was planted. For three weeks past we have had an abundance of rain. Corn was the principle crop last year and think acreage about the same this year. There is more rye and oats sown this year, it is thought. Last year corn was of poor quality because of fry weather at the time it should have been filling. Collections are very slow here, but prospects are good for both merchants and farmers.

Webster County.

Acreage in corn say about 50 to 60 per cent, in wheat say 25 to 30 per cent, oats 10 to 20 per cert, balance barley, rye and vegetables. To date small grain is simply immense. Corn is backward in some places, especially the listed corn along Salt creek between Ashland and Lincoln. The same applies in a lesser degree to the level country about Friend, Exeter, Fairmont, Inland and Hastings, but wherever the ground is a trifle rolling, has fair natural arainage, it is doing weil generally. If not doing well it is the weil generally. If not doing well it is the farmer's fault. The present indications are that the Nebraska small grain crop will be immense and that in business the state will equal and is likely to exceed any former

The main crop last year in this county was hay, some oats and corn, but the severe drouth put the grain crop very short. There has been more grain of all sorts put in this season and farmers are feeling encouraged. The late rains have hurt some grain on flat iand. Trade is better than it was some time tack. Everything is looking up now. This is mostly a grazing county. There are several thousand cattle in this part of the country. They are the main staple here.

York County.

Crop prospects best known for years. Corn outs, flax and wheat principal crops. The acreage is 5 per cent larger than that of 1890. Crops are more diversified, their having been considerable wheat sown, also many farmers are experimenting for the first time with sugar beets. Prospects for all average crops are excellent. Collections are good, considering the circumstances of the failure of the 1890 crops. Trade is light, but is being done on a sound basis. Prospects of merchants and farmers good.

will cure all cases of dysentery, relieving the griping pain and restoring the bowels to healthy action. THE NATION'S BACKBONE.

Grandeur and Peasty of the Continental Divide.

Extending north from Long's Peak in Colorado, the front range or continental divide comprises a chain of stupendous peaks reaching into the clouds, and covered even in summer with great ields of snow and ice, says Frederic Funston in St. Nicholas. This range, cut up by gorges and chasms thousands of feet in depth, which reach into it from the valleys on both sides, presents view of rugged grandeur excelled by none i the Rocky Mountain region. Many hav compared them favorably with the world famed glories of the Aips and Caucasus Below "timber line," which in thi region is at about eleven thousand feet elevation, the sides of th mountains are covered with a dens growth of spruce, which gives way in th lower valleys to the yellow-pine an quaking-ash. These grand forests hav never been ravaged by fires nor marred by the woodman's ax; and in thei gloomy depths the mule-deer, mountain ion, and cinnamon-bear roam undisturbed by fear of man.

Above the timber-line the mountains rise from two to three thousand feet more-in some places gentle slopes covered with huge granite boulders, and in others cliffs and crags rising almost sheer for hundreds of feet. Here and there are masses of hard packed snow, while in a she tered spot on the south side of some cliff grow tiny a pine flowers and dwarf grasses-the food of the wary big-horn sheep, which still frequent this range in considerable numbers. Comparatively few persons have explored these, the grandest of all the Rockies. Distance from railroads and the total absence of the precious metals have left the range uninhabited, the nearest settlers being the scattered ranchmen in Estes Park. Great peaks 13,000 feet in height have never been scaled, dark chasms and gorges are yet unexplored, and mountains higher than Mount Katahdin piled upon Mount Washington have never been deemed worthy of a name.

A Bret Harte Story from Real Life.

It was a tender-hearted American who saved the murdered Severa Cisneros from burial in a pauper's grave. When he visited the undertaker's where lay the bodies of murderer and murdered he was perceptibly under the influence of liquor.

'Say, pard," said he to Carl Schussel "that gal died afore she wanted to, didn't she?"

"And that feller there murdered her?

"So it is said." "And ye'r giving him a big burial?"
"His friends are."
"Ye'r say the gal's got to go to the potter's field?"

"I am afraid so." "Where's her mother?"

"She has none." "But she had one one't, and she's got to have a square deal and be buried right. Here's $20 to get her somethin' to wear what's fit to be planted in. Here's $20 to get a better coffin with. and here's $10 for a broken wheel of flowers. Let's not have it said that old Frisco gives the murderer a bigger send-off than that poor girl what he killed. Good-by, old pard,

A very peculiar story is told by the neighbors near the spot. They claim that many years ago the locality was a part of an Indian reservation.

A man by the name of Belknap frequently dreamed that there was a crock in the Indian cemetery containing immense treasures, and that if he was there at the hour when graveyards yawned he could secure it. These dreams were repeated so often that they had a strong effect, and he went there with pick and shovel, according to instructions, but he failed to turn around three times when he found the crock, as the dream directed. He stooped to pick it up, but was stunned by a flash of lightning and the crock disappeared. Since that time the spot has been haunted by a mysterious light.

De Witt's Little Early Risers for the Liver A TALE OF TWO COASTS.

Wedded in Earnest in San Francisco. Among the passengers for Portland says the San Francisco Chronicle, who left this city on the steamer Oregon were Mr. and Mrs. Morris Curran. You might nave seen them standing on the upper deck had you been at the dock when the Oregon steamed out into the bay. She a small, dark-haired, dark-eyed woman of less than thirty; he a portly, well-dressed man of less than forty.

They were bride and groom, on their way to Portland to spend the honey-moon. Twice before she had been married; once before he had called her wife. Theirs is a strange story. Ten years go they were wed, but this is their first oneymoon. Both were born and raised in New York city. Ten years ago on board a dancing barge in New York har-bor they met for the first time. It was a picnic. Young Curran was gay with youthfulness and wine.
"I want a wife," he said after the

"And I want freedom from stern parents," said she. "How better to secure it than by taking a husband? I'll-a-

"Come, don't hesitate; here's a man who will splice ut." And spliced they were then and there, both looking upon the matter as a huge joke. The maiden's father, who had been anchored in the wine room before, came into the cabin just as the ceremony was con-cluded. John Murray—for that was his name—was dumfounded, for he recognized in the half-tipsy individual who had unthinkingly tied the knot an old political henchman, a man fully qualified to officiate. It was a legal marriage. An uprear, a fight ensued. But broken noses and torn garments do not annul marriages. The divorce court did, however, and that very shortly, the criminal lawyer, Charles Spencer, being employed by the irate father.

Ten years later the bride of a moment found herself a widow in San Francisco, with two children and an aged father to care for, For a while they lived on Tehama street, then they moved to Brannan street, near Seventh. For two years they had been on the golden coas, but their life was anything but golden, for poverty had found John Murray in his old age. Her name was Mrs. Murray Driscoll, and she signed it in full to the little note she wrote to the agent of a certain building here, asking that she might be appointed janitress.

The same portly, well dressed man that accompanied her to Portland yes-terday called on her the next day. The little widow colored with pleasure; surely she should have the place now. "You are a widow, I believe, Mrs. Driscoll?" was the first business ques-

"My husband died three years ago," "You are from New York?" "Yes, sir. We knew better times there, sir. "Were you ever married before?"

"Why, no-yes-that is-why, you see -" and she hesitated as the recollection of her girlish prank came bace to her. Then gathering courage: "You see, it was only a joke, sir. I was married once before to a young man named Morris Curran, but—" "I am that young scapegrace's older a scene. Their courtship was brief, and now they are off on their honeymoon. DeWitt's Little Early Risers; best little self," said the agent, and then there was

pills for dyspepsia, sour stomach, bad breath. A Profitable Trick.

There are tricks in all trades but ours, says the Detroit Free Press. Here is a trick that is played every day during the season on Americans in London. It the season on Americans in London. nearly always works, simple as it is. A gentleman from Rochester, N. Y., who is well known in that city, bought a pair of gloves on Oxford street the other day, gave the man a sovereign, and took-as Americans very generally do-his change without counting it, shoveling it off the counter into his pockets. He was walking down Oxford street when a breathless person overtook him and tapped him on the shoulder.

"I beg you pardon, sir, but I'm very sorry we gave you a shilling too much

"Did you?" said the American pulling out a handful of change from his pocket and looking at it hopelessly. "Yes, sir, I'm very sorry sir, but you see, sir, it will be taken out of my wages and I don't get any too much. We don't in this country, sir. Won't you come back, sir, and I'll explain how it hap-it's all right?" said the salesman. "Oh, not at all." "I am very much obliged to you, sir," said the clerk, bringing his forefinger up to his bare head. That shilling and many others like it went into the clerk's pocket.

De Witt's Little Early Risers. Best little pill ever made. Cure constipation every time. None equal. Use them now. Tricks of the Memory.

"Celebrated authors sometimes forget their own work," said an eminent physician the other day. "This is usually one of the effects of disease or old age. As Walter Scott grew old he became a vic tim to this kind of forgetfulness. Freread to him he would ask who was the author. 'Ivanhoe' was dictated during a painful illness and published before its author had quit his bed. When Scott had become convalescent he had no recollection of the story. Toward Linne found great pleasure in reading his own works. Forgetful that he was himself the author, he would frequently exclaim as he read: 'Beautiful!' 'Magnificent!' 'I wish I had written that!' Macaulay, the historian, had a friend whose memory had once been exceeding-ly strong. Old age made it exceedingly If anything brilliant was said or read to him in the evening he would imagine the next morning that the bril liant ideas heard the night before were his own. It was his custom to write them out and show them to his friends quently when one of his own poems was
