court yesterday asking for a divorce from his wife, Mrs. L. J. Rowland, on the grounds of abuse and habitual drunkenness.
She asks for the custody of their five children, who are between the ages of four and fourteen years.Harold Madsen commenced a suit in district court yesterday against Marden Madsen and the other heirs of his deceased father, Marden Madsen, for partition of land.
The suit was filed in the district court at Council Bluffs, Iowa.A dance was given last evening in the pavilion in Fairmount park last evening by a number of the young men of the city. About seventy invitations were issued, and most of them were accepted. The park band furnished excellent music for the dancing, and a very pleasant time was had by all who were present.The challenge which was extended to the Council Bluffs rifle club by Fred Fuller of Omaha, for a shooting contest, was accepted yesterday, and the contest will take place on Wednesday, July 23, at Manawa rifle friends of the family were present, many of whom followed the remains to the cemetery.

There were many beautiful floral offerings sent in by the sorrowing friends. Several members of the Young Men's Christian association acted as pallbearers.The insane man who was captured last week and gave his name as "Bill," has been identified as W. J. Bell by a name marked on his clothes. It is believed that he came from Kansas, as he has spoken a number of times of Atchison and Topeka. The superintendent of the insane asylum of Kansas has been written to to find out whether he can throw any light on the subject. In the meantime Bell is confined in St. Bernard's hospital for safe keeping.The work that took place last Saturday afternoon at Steller's saloon, near the corner of Broadway and Fifteenth street, was held in police court yesterday. A. Brown, Walter Harrison, Gillman and Bert Polard were tried on the charge of disturbing the peace, and a number of witnesses were called in to testify as to what took place.
The testimony was very conflicting, but at the close Brown was discharged and the other three were fined $10 each.The members of St. Paul's African Methodist and Rev. F. J. Peterson, presiding elder of the Iowa district, and Hon. J. Bonizer of this city. The programme will be inter-persed with vocal and instrumental music.Price Gibson was in police court yesterday morning on a charge of maintaining a disorderly house on North Main street. He pleaded guilty to the accusation, whereupon Judge Metcalf delivered him a lecture. He then said he would give him a lecture on this time, but if he ever came up for a like offence he would not be so lenient with him. He then taxed up a fine of $4.00 against him, which was paid. Little Mills was fined $20.00 for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. William Walters $24.00 for disturbing the peace, and Thomas Kelly $10.00 for drunkenness.P. E. Swanson brought to the Bee office yesterday a peculiar sort of animal whose identity is so far unknown. It was discovered by J. C. Adams on the shore of one of the lakes near Crescent, taking a nap. When it saw Adams it started to waddle into the water, but was captured by him and taken home. It has a head very much like a cat fish, but without the spines or the horns belonging to the species. It has gills like any ordinary fish, but it also has four legs which seem to shut it out of the fishy tribe. When placed in water it commenced to swim around, using its legs as fins.

NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Sunshine Brings Joy to the Hearts of the Chautauquans.

WHERE CHRIST TAUGHT THE PEOPLE.

Mrs. Von Finkelstein Talks Glowingly of Palestine and Its Inhabitants—Pictures Truly and Warmly Drawn.The burst of sunshine yesterday morning brought joy to the hearts of the chautauquans, not only those who are living on the grounds and realizing all the phases of a summer's outing, but to the multitudes of others who have been kept away by the steady down pour of rain. The result was that the attendance yesterday was much larger than on any previous day.The programme in the morning was very interesting, particularly the lecture of Dr.
Vincent on the life, character and works of America's greatest poet, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, which was given at 11 o'clock and occupying the time of the Chautauquans until noon.In the afternoon the attendance was much larger, and the immense amphitheater was comfortably filled at 2 o'clock, when Prof.
Byron King, who has charge of the elocution classes, revealed anew the many beauties of Shakespeare hidden from common eyes in the portrayal of the scenes connected with the murder and burial of Caesar.The evening of the afternoon, however, was the lecture of Lydia Von Finkelstein under the somewhat broad caption, "Ecco Homo, or from Bethlehem to Calvary." The lecture carried the audience by storm. It was a portrayal in the most vivid and realistic manner of the life and customs of the common people in the time of Christ, and their habits and customs today, for the lecturer explained the passing of the centuries have wrought no changes in the manners and habits of the people in the agricultural and pastoral districts of Palestine.
The lady was born and partially raised in the native costume of a rich farmer's wife, and by the costumes of her assistants she gave a striking idea of how the other classes look and live. The object of her lecture was to show that the bible is a living book, and that many of the parables and expressions in the new testament were taken from customs and habits that are unchanged today. Her lecture was a masterpiece of word painting, and the bright bits of real life introduced were brilliant and effective illustrations, appealing with the same simple and convincing force to the minds of the common laborer and the astute theologian. There was not a second when the attention of all was not enchain-ed and the hour passed too swiftly even for the diligent. The lecture concluded the lady's engagement with the Chautauquans for the present year, and she was warmly and ad-miringly welcomed by her assistants and addressed to the audience in the effusive and demonstrative manner of the east.There were many beautiful floral offerings sent in by the sorrowing friends. Several
