A Pleasant Garden Party by the Metropolitan Club-Where Some of the Notables Will Seek

She was a Summer Girl at Crete. Not the Crete of the Phoenicians, where St. Paul labored and preached, nor the island in the Mediterranean over which Minos, the legislator, ruled before the historical period began, but the nineteenth century Crete, which is famed in our own goodly commonwealth as the site of its oldest Chautauqua.

Not at all an unusual thing to find such a being at the Chautauqua, for the Summer Girl is gregarious and she is to be observed wherever man exists, especially in the conters of civilization. She is like the poppies and the clover, a product of the season of genial warmth and is usually found to be as dainty and as pretty as the flowers which she

She hated restraint, for it was summer, and somehow or other people are becoming recalcitrant more and more to restraint as the world grows older. Boys rebel against school, babes against the nursery, children against "home rule," and it would seem sometimes the masses of mankind in the world are against restraints and limitations of every sort.

There are of course bounds for the general good that will ever have to be preserved while the world lasts, but this Summer Girl rebelled against remaining in the metropolis on the Fourth and longed to be out with nature and learn from the kind old mother the truths which Agassiz had read to him from the story book of the ages. She wanted the pleasant shades and the breezy spots along the Blue and her persistence, as is usual with summer girls, was rewarded.

This young Hellenic goddess was a vision of pure delight, and ideal fin de siecle maidreception at the home of the bride's mother, 225 Twenty-fifth street. They were the recipients of many elegant and costly presents. At 4:20 they left over the Burlington line for Chicago. They will make an extended tour of the east, visiting Canada, Boston, New York, Washington and Richmond, and will return about September I. Upon their en. "Standing with rejuctant feet Where the brook and river meet Womanhood and childhood sweet." The hair suggestive of frost-touched chest-nuts, tinged with gold, while her eyes were a deep gray with a blueness blending in them that reminded you of the fathomiess depths of old ocean. The peachy expression of her face told a story of simple living, and when you looked at her you heard the sound of ac-cordeons coming up from far away gates on summer nights, softened but sugary.

With the tents of the Cretans for a background, with the trees to give color to the scene, this summer girl looked quite belfrylike as she stood upon the banks of the Blue and watched the rowboats and the rowers

"To the haven under the hill." She was in her element. Life held out huge jewel-studded caskets containing Pleas-ure, Beauty, Happiness, Perpetual youth, and her eyes spoke in a mute but expressive language of joys past all accounting, of a heart that sang in multitudinous diapasons, the initiably of the universe.

Later, tired of watching the procession of boats go by, she joined the rowers, and as she half reclined on the cushioned seat, she reminded one of Venus laying on the heaving bosom of the sea. It was a sweet picture, was this Summer Girl and the Hero who pulled the ear, going "downward with the

Then came a moment of intensest excite-ment. The beat caught in the rushing water of the vapids, became almost unmanageable and try as he would the boatman could not re-assure the maiden that the danger was over, the rapids far behind. She had had a pressure from the "crooked, inviting lingers" of the water and cared no more to be "rocked in billowy drowse," and the male companion of the Summer Girl was compelled to land this Sopphic ode which but a moment before had stepped from the mystery of imagination to the full biazonry of life.

Then, perched high above the treacherous river, upon the portion of an old house that had been washed to the water's edge by the flood of June, she watched this modern Hercules breast the rapids possibly to show to this bright vision what head and strength could do when wisely directed.

In such a contest brain could not help but win, and having beached the boat just beyond the wrecked building, it was an easy matter to induce the Summer Girl to again try by ride upon the Biue, while the sun, just out of bed, is chasing the night's sun, just out of bed, is chasing the night's deep shadows away. Lighter, brighter, more silvery blue grows the eastern sky, while the twinkling stars have paled before the master light, and one by one they fado away. The valley of the Blue stretches away to the horizon's rim, a drowsy land, thrilled by a summer hand. And through it all runs a silver hand its torinous windings all runs a silver band, its tortuous windings marking the course of the river.

Brighter and brighter day draws on. The suffusion of gold makes way for glowing crimson, stronger and stronger does the Great Hand tone the color scheme until we behold the empyrean mantling with fiery tints, while the western sky taxes on the ruddy glow of the sunset. Here Nature, rising from her slumber, shakes off the letu-argy that bound her over night and stands radiant in her beauty, saluting the king of day.

And having recovered from the shock of the rapids, Ariadne took her seat again in the stern of the little craft and wentupward into the soft matin light, while earth, air and sky chanted rondeaus to her presence,

September will bring about a number of weddings in the exclusive circles of Omahs society, that of Miss Leola Carter and Mr Newt Barkalow promising to be particularly elaborate. The ceremony is to occur at Trin-ity cathedral September 16 at 8 o'clock and will be followed by a very large reception at the Carter residence on West Farnam street. The full vested choir will participate in the ceremony, that being the present intention. There will be a number of bridesmaids and Mr. Barkalow will have a number of gentle men friends to represent him.

Mr. Barkalow, after the ceremony, wil take up his residence in this city, instead of in Denver, as believed heretofore, and a pretty house on Douglas street is to be built for the bride and groom by Mr. Carter, the president of the American loan and trust

A Summer Fete.

Thursday evening a jolly party of ladies and gentlemen took a special train from the Webster street depot for Ruzer's park, where a summer fete was given under the auspices of the Metropolitan club. Dancing was indulged in, the night being just suited for waltzing. Lunchoon was served during the evening, the guests enjoying the occasion hugely. A pleasant incident in connection with the event was the debut of Miss Minnie obman, who has just graduated from the Sacred Heart academy, The guests present wore: Mr. and Mrs. M. The city of Berlin last year furnished 25,827 children of the poor with a summering by placing 7,271 in vacation colonies, 2,893 in summer homes with famlies, 7,603 in the city fresh air hospitals. 6,241 in watering places and 1,819 on the seashore. The total amount expended for this purpose was 1,32,850 marks, or about $258,000. Besides this a number of small associations did considerable work in the same line. Fresh air-funds or the benefit of poor children exist in ninety-four German cities and are maintained by 116 different associations. EARNEST AND ENTHUSIASTIC.

Salvation Army Workers and Their Method of Reaching Sinners.

SUMMER PLANS OF QUAHA MINISTERS.

Where the Pastors Will Rest from Their Year's Labors - Banquet of the Presbyterian Associaion-Church Notices.

"Now let us pray," said Captain A. W Heald of the Salvation army last Thursday evening just after the soldiers of the garrison who were out for the evening march, had finshed a stirring song with drum and tambourine accompaniment.

The soldiers all knelt in a circle around Captain Heald as he raised his voice in an earnest and fervid prayer for the sinners of Omaha. A very large crowd had been attracted, as usual, about the spot where the open air services were being observed near the corner of Chicago and Sixteenth, many being drawn there simply through curiosity or a desire to ridicule the army and others for the sincere purpose of hearing what the speakers had to say. An instant before Captain Heal I finished his supplication a smooth looking young man, who smoked a cigarette, threw a new deck of cards, securely held together by means of a rubber band over the heads of the crowd into the circle of kneeling soldiers. The parcel fell immediately in front of Captain Heald and under the glare of the electric light it was easy to see the nature of the goods surrounded by the clastic band,

"Amen," said the captain, closing his prayer, and then without rising from his mees he seized the pack of cards and taking off the rubber band he deliberately, and with apparent delight, tore the cards into bits, shouting: "Praise the Lord! Hallelujah! The devil will not use this pack of cards again. Amen."
The captain then arose and the soldiers proceeded to the headquarters singing to the "br-r-r-at-tat," of the tamberine and "dump-dump-dump" of the bass drum. Everyone who has paid any attention to the Salvation Army in Omaha can readily see that the organization is growing quite re markably. Another noticeable feature is that as the army increases in numbers the enthusiasm seems to increase. There is a meeting every night at the headquarters on Chicago street near Seventeenth in the old Methodist church and the house is usually well fitled. Last Thursday night Captain Heald threw the meeting wide open. It was what he calls a "free-for-all," and nearly everybody in the house had something to say. Between the short testi-monies that were offered the soldiers sang and pounded the drum and shook the tainbourines in a very enthusiastic manner.

"Now somebody else come to the front,"
Captain Heald would say when the singing

"I am happy tonight," Said one young man rising in the middle of the house. "I have thrown the Chinese medicine away and am trusting in the Lord." "You have done what?" asked Captain

"I have thrown away the Chinese medi-cine," repeated the young man a little louder. "Amen! Thank the Lord!! shouted one of the cadets back in the corner. "Now throw your sins away and you will be all right. Throwing the medicine away will not save you, my brother. Throw your sins away with the Chinese medicine and you will be all right." Then the garrison sang "Feliew Jesus" and the speaking continued.
In a conversation with THE BEE after the meeting Captain Heald said: 'I am going to ask Mayor Cushing to give us the privilege of having a public bonfire of vicious and trashy literature some day soon in one of the principal streets in the heart of the city. We have a wagon load of the trash and fighre. She also manufactures the most superior cosmetic and toilet articles on the market. Consultation free. Recreating Ministers.

This is the season when the nervous and nental forces of professional men call for reaxation and respite from the constant strain of "endless toil and endeavor," and the min isters of Omaha who can possibly get away from their regular work of the pastorate ar preparing to go, or have gone, to take a few weeks vacation. Some simply shift the field of labor and take up the work of preaching in another city for a few weeks. thus bringing about that rest which comes of changed surroundings and newness of situation. Others fling down the pen, lay aside manuscript and hie themselves to those haunts where nature seems to make love to itself and rustic beauty finds its home

Following is a partial list of the Omaha ministers and what they intend to do during the summer:

The district and state conventions of the Epworth League meet this week at Kearney. This will be a very interesting gathering for Methodists and the enterprising capital of Buffalo county is making preparations to extend the usual Nebraska hospitality by entertaining the delegates to the meeting. The convention begins on Thursday.

The national convention of Baptish young people held at Chicago last week was highly satisfactory to those who attended. The Baptish church has undoubtedly made a very popular move in the organization of the young people and the leading workers anticipated a rapid and personnel appropriate the convention of the popular and the leading workers anticipated a rapid and personnel appropriate the convention of the popular transition of and permanent growth of the new organization. Nebraska furnished her full share of the speakers. Mr. M. G. McLeod of Omaha, Rev. L. W. Terry of Lincoln, Rev. H. C. Woods of Lincoln and others made able adiresses and took an active part in the pro-

The young people of the Plymouth Con-The young people of the Plymouth Congregational church neld a very enjoyable book carnival last Thursday night in the parlors of the church. The young ladies and gentlemen represented, by their costumes and by action, various books of famous authors, and the quotations from well known authors formed a very interesting part of the conversation. The carnival closed with-refreshments suitable to the occasion. with-refreshments suitable to the occasion. On Tuesday evening of this week the Presbyterians of Omaha will hold a grand banquet at the Millard hotel. The occasion will be a sort of love feast for the Presby-terians of the city and also as a recognition of Dr. Hamlin of Washington, D. C., dent Harrison's pastor, who will Presi-Omaha and will make the principal address of the evening. The banquet will be a magnificent affair in every respect. It is ex-pected that there will be fully three hundred adies and gentlemen present.

Greek and Latin. The census bureau will soon issue a bulletin on the membership of the Roman Catholic church in the United States. It will show that the church has 6,250,000 com municants over fifteen years of age. This minimum limit of age to fifteen years will be achered to in the statistics of other churches

Bishon Westcott, who, according to the ondon Telegraph, is "generally regarded as the greatest living theologian in the church of England," recently gave his opinion to a private correspondent about theater-going. "The universal instinct toward dramatic representations," he says, "appears to me to show that, like music and art, they answer to a natural and a right desire.'

By the last census of Ireland it is shown that the Roman Catholics number 3,549,745— a decrease of 411,146 during the last ten years. The Protestant Episcopalians number 500,830, a decrease of 38,744. The Presbyterians number 446,687, a decrease of 24,047. The Methodists number 56,235, an increase of 6,396. It thus appears that all of these denominations are losing except the Methodists. The loss is no doubt owing to emigration to this and other countries.

An eastern preacher recently delivered a sermon in which he found serious fault with his fellow dergymen who relaxed their ef-forts in the summer. He announced that he would only redouble his work. The sermons would be longer, and class meetings and lec-tures would be held every evening of the week. It is a significant fact that by Wed-nesday night his congregation had raised a ourse to send the too ambitious clergyman to Europe for three months.

FORTUNES MAY AWAIT YOU. If They Do, The Bee Bureau of Claims Will Tell You of It. The government, deeply sensible of the great good that was performed by the federal army in perserving the union, has gratefully decreed that none of its defenders or their dependents shall want for anything in their sickness and old age. This decree has gone forth in the media of pension laws which unhappily for thousands of people, are not understood. As a consequence, there are thousands of soldiers today in this country, suffering perhaps for the necessaries of 1110 simply because they do not know what the country has done to care for and render them comfortable.

THE BEE IS aware of this fact and has mer and established THE BEE BUREAU or Chains. By this means, poses to secure for every ust what he or she is entitled to from the government.

In addition to claims for pensions, those for a variety of other causes will be pressed, and from the effects of losses occasioned by these claims hundreds are suffering in this part of the country.

If you have suffered from the destruction of property by Indians The BEE BUREAU OF

CLAIMS will undertake to have you reimbursed. If you wish to obtain a patent on an invention of your own, THE BEE BUREAU OF CLAIMS will procure it for you.

If you have land claims in which there is justice THE BER BUREAU OF CLAIMS WIll Secure it for you.

If you have cases regarding mines, pro-emptions and homesteads THE BEE BUREAU OF CLAIMS will prosecute them before the general land office, department of the interior and the supreme court. There are thousands yet entitled to pen-

Wolf Skin Rugs. Wolf skin rugs are obtained by so cruel a process that the knowledge of it would destroy their beauty for sensitive souls. The Eskimo hunter puts a chunk of fat on a sharpened flint and fastens it to a wooden stake planted in the ground. In licking off the fat the wolf cuts his tongue, and, maddened by the taste of blood, continues to lick the sharp stone. Other wolves, attracted by the smell of blood, gather around and struggle for a place near the flint. In their fury they urn upon each other, and the end of the fight is like the historic tragedy of the Kitkenny cats-there are no survivors. All the hunter has to do is to remove the skins and re-bait his savage trap.
