PECULIAR SALE OF THE OMAHA BRANCH.

The Howells Say Mr. Jewett Acted Without Authority-Situation at Atchison and Chicago-Assets and 1 labilities.

Yesterday, Mr. Chaffee was corrailed in a corner at the Omaha National bank and asked about the alleged sale of the Howell Lumber company's plant to him by Mr. H. N. Jewett. He replied that it was a bonafide, out and out sale to bim; that be had purchased the yards here and the transfer had no connection whatever with the failure of S. R. Howell. Beyond this he was not disposed to be communicative, and would not even state when the sale was consummated, stating that the paper on file in the office of the clerk of the district court would afford all needed information

Mr. Chaffee said that Mr. Jewett had just left him, but would be back in the course of a half an hour, but would be too busy to talk abous the matter for several bours.

Mr. H. N. Jewett was intercepted on the sidewalk in front of the bank, and found time to say that the local yards were not included in the assignment, and would not be mixed up in the wild scramble of the cred-

"The yard here was sold to Mr. Chaffee," he said, "and he paid for it. He took posses sion at 7:20 o'clock Monday morning." "Then the sale must have been consummated some time before!"

"Well, you needn't tell it to good church people, but we worked from Surday neon 9 o'clock that night taking an account of stock and getting things in shape. I can't tell what the liabilities or assets of the com-pany are at this time."

A visit to the commercial and mercantile agencies revealed the fact that the great Howell lumber interests have been somewhat involved for some time. In February S. R. Howell was operating twenty-one yards in in this state, besides a number in Kansas and

During the past sixty days seventeen yards in this state have either been sold outright or negotiations for sales very nearly closed. Of the financial status of Mr. Howell, who was practically the owner of all the yards operated under the various firm names in the different states, the sworn in the different states, the sworn statement made to Bradstreet's agency January I, 1891, may give a very correct idea. It was as follows: Assets, $2,442,975.11, county yards in Nebraska, $204,000; Howell, Jewett & Co.'s yards at Atchison and branches. $533,000; Howell Lumber company, Oma-ha, $174,000; stock in Chicago, $661,000; ac-counts, $391,000; bills receivable, $120,000; Intilities, $646,000.

"This showing," said Mr. W. O. Taylor, iocal manager for Bradstreet's, "showed a net surplus of about $1,700,000. It also showed that they carried over $500,000 on their books and that was undoubtedly what swamped them.

"Although they have sold several yards during the past sixty days they have not reduced their liabilities to any great extent while their assets have been very much reduced. The liabilities will probably reach three-quarters of a million, and I very much doubt if Mr. Howell will have anything left after all accounts are settled."
When asked about the alleged sale to Chaffee, Mr. Taylor expressed doubts as to its genuineness.

"How could Chaffee buy it?" he inquired. "How could Howell have owed nim any such amount! It looks more like a transfer of some kind in connection with the failure When the bank attached everything in Chi-cago, they undoubtedly saw at once that the attachment would not hold good in Nebraska. where all assignments must be to the sheriff of the county. It may be that they at once transferred a part of their claims to Mr. Chaffee and took his personal notes for the same in order to have the nill of sale exe-cide whether or not this was not done for the purpose os beating other creditors. The bank's side of the story was obtained from Mr. E. M. Ashcraft, a Chicago attorney, who arrived here Tuesday to look after the terests of the bank.

"S. R. Howell is the largest lumber dealer In the country," said Mr. Ashcraft, "and has had unlimited credit. At times the bank has carried him for as much as $1,000,000. He has yards all over the west, including one in Omaha, of which he was sole owner. The bank now has a chattel mortgage on all his property in Illinois and Nebraska, and has now foreclosed on that mortgage, leaving the property in the other states for the other creditors. The foreclosure came because the bank was unwilling to carry him any longer That's about all there is to it. I suppose the liabilities will reach $1,000,000, while the assets are perhaps double that amount, I be-lieve Mr. Howell will have $1,000,000 left after everything is settled up, although I do not yet know just how the figures will look."

"What about the sale to Chaffee!" What can there be to it? It is a transfer of some kind arranged and carried out by Mr. Jewett without the knowledge or con-sent of Mr. Howell, the real owner of the property. As to its object I cannot say, but it will certainly amount to nothing." Mr. Ashcraft is assisted here by Mr. E. M. Bartlett, the bank's Omaha attorney.
Said Mr. Bartlett: "We hold the property on a chattel mortgage, and the question which the court will be called upon to decide is whether or not that mortgage had anything in it to make it an assignment. If so, the bank has no security. If so, the bank has no security. We took the mortgage to protect ourselves on our own claim and not as assignee for the benefit of all creditors. If the court holds that it is an assignment, we are placed on a level with other creditors to get what we

Mr. Jewett said he could not explain the failure, but intimated that a brother of Mr. S. R. Howell had something to do with it. In refuting the theory that Chaffee was an agent of the Chicago bank, Mr. Bartiett said, "We have replevined the stock and everything else connected with the yards here, and we certainly would not do that if we were a party to the saie. All there is to it, Jewett had no business to make any such Howell Collapse. Archison, Kan., July 15 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE. |-W. R. Smith, G. W. Howell's attorney, who with Mr. Howell returned from Chicago this morning, says the failure of Howell. Jewett & Co. carries with it both Spooner R. Howell of Chicago and George W. R. Howell of Atchison, although the latter is not a partner in the firm.

Mr. Smith says the failure was hastened by the action of Herbert N. Jewett in selling the Omaha plant to C. L. Chaffee on Monday He says neither S. R. Howell nor George W. Howell knew of the transaction until after it

The real cause of the failure was the loss by the firm of Howell, Jewett & Co. of $400,000 by the failure of J. H. Bemis and his lumber company of Jeffersonville, Tex. It was to save this claim that Mr. Howell and Mr. Smith, went to Texas in such great haste last week. The mortgages and bills of sale to the First national bank of Chicago, covers real estate in Omaha and lumber and real estate in Chicago, Atchison, Louisiana and Texas, and are to secure a direct liability of $200,000 and contingent liabilities, consisting mostly of endorsed paper of much more than that sum.

George W. Howeil was manager of Howell, Jewett's interests at Atchison and in the south. He also had a business of his own which he conducted as Howell Brothers. He had an office here, his yards being in weatern Kansas. His business was independent of his heart-hors's but still related. independent of his brother's, but still related and the failure of one invokes the other.

G. W. Howell also mortgaged all his possessions yesterday, but Mr. Smith does not state the names of those preferred creditors. Mr. Smith estimates the assets of the two Howells at $3,000,000. He has no idea of the extent of the liabilities. An Atchison law firm this afternoon re-eived by telegraph claims amounting to over $400,000 against Howell, Jewett & Co. and Howeil Brothers. They are from nearly every northern state east of the Mississippi river, and some are from as far south as Vicksburg and Memphis. They are nearly all from small country banks. A Utica bank has $70,000 worth. Another bank has $80,000. cialins are all notes or acceptances. most of them being the paper of Howell, Jewett & Co. Besides these claims the same firm has received numerous inquiries, and the mails for the next day or two will be loaded with more claims. It is expected that the holders of this unsecured paper will come to Atchison and hold a meeting to agree on a plan of action. Local bankers familiar with the business of the Howells estimate that the unsecured liabilities will aggregate $1,500,000, and that the secured will swell the

People There Believe the Firm Will Pay in Full. Cutcago, July 15 .- | Special Telegram to THE BEE. |-The property of the Howell umber company in this city, situated at Thirty-fifth and Iron streets, was taken posession of this morning by the First National bank of Chicago under a chattel mortgage for $200,000. President Gage of the First National says this practically covers all the lumber company's liabilities to the bank. Spooner R. Howell, head of the firm, was seen last night but refused to be interviewed. This morning he acknowledged—that the firm had gone to the wall. "The suspension, said he, "is only a temporary one, however. Our assets will more than meet the liabilities and we shall soon be on our feet again," The failure was caused, he said, by continued drafts on the firm here by branches at Atohison and Omaha President Gage of the First National bank, speaking of the matter today, said: "While Howell had an almost unlimited amount of credit personally in the bank, we found it necessary to foreclose yesterday in order to protect the bank. Mr. Howell's brother was oing at such a rate as to scare every bank In this city. It was rumored that other creditors were about to swoop down upon them and we had to take this step to save

The local attorney for the firm said : "The trouble has been brought about by George Howell, who managed the firm's affairs in south. He made breaks of huge proportions which the local end had to see through. As a result, it overdrew its accounts and finally the latter threatened to foreclose. The First National got there first. The firm will pay its liabilities and resume business at once. President Howell said: "It will take several days to size up the situation. I cannot even say whether the firms' affairs are in very bad condition. The trouble is all in the western branch of the business. Everything has been going on nicely and the books will show that we were making money, but while we have been making it we have been paying it out until the pressure was too great. Mr. Howell said that other claims against

Some months ago Mr. Howell, as president of the company, was indicted by the federal grand jury for a violation of the interstate commerce law. The charge was that the company or its agents had bribed the weighmasters of various roads to certify to false weight on shipments of lumber, and many rumors were given publicity in connection therewith, one alleged to have suffered from these alleged false weights, had forced the company to pay large sums in damage to, the aggregate being put as high as $250,000. "To form even an approximate estimate of present assets and liabilities," said the man-ager of the mercantile agency this morning, "would be impossible, and it is probable the firm does not know. It will take some time to figure up all outstanding obligations and paper due to the firm. Unless, however, the statement made last March was false or there has been some gross mismanagement within the past ninety days, there is every reason to believe that all creditors will be paid in full."

STEWART'S FOURTH OF JULY AFFAIR.

Secretary Nat Brown After the President with a Vengeance-What the Trouble Came Up About.

The directors of the Union Driving Park association were in session Tuesday afternoon and yesterday at the office of Wright & Baldwin in Council Biuffs. Nat Brown of this city, secretary of the association, was in attendance and he put in the time telling the president, John T. Stewart, what he thought of him. It seems that Stewart took the profits of the June meeting, some $700 or $800, during the absence of Mr. Brown, and built a stockade inside the park fence to prevent people from getting in. This aroused the secretary's wrath, and he expressed his ideas with startling force and originality.

"I made a success of my meeting in June. and we cleared money for the first time in the history of the park," he declared. "Now I come home to find you have blown it all in to suit your fool ideas. What did you build to surt your fool ideas. What did you build that fence for, anyway! I would nate to live in a town where I was afraid 3,000 people would go under the fence. If a man steats in what of it! He wouldn't pay in anyway. You tried to run a meeting of your own in July and made a dismal fail-ure of it, and you will again before I will have any more to do with it. Your hoggish ideas have always prevented making a paying institution out of the park, and I want no nore of it under this management." Stewart took a drink of water and hemmed and hawed a while, and finally said he didn't see the need of a new committee, as "he and Nat" could run the concern. Nat, however, promptly told him that he would have no more to do with him, and would do no more for the association as long as Stewart was at the head of it. After making sure that he was fully understood, he took his nat off the peg and walked He was still chafing under the collar when he reached home, and declared that he would see to it that none of the stock subscribed on this side of the river is paid in until there is this side of the river is paid in until there is a change in the management.

"If John T. Stewart runs the park," said Mr. Brown, "he will run it alone, for he won't get a cent of Omaha money into it. He can squander his own stuff out he can't have ours. If the motor company wants to let him run things all well and good for our money ain't in the all well and good, for our money ain't in the The more Mr. Brown talked the madder he got, and finally he let the cat out of the bag.

"When it comes to using the association to further his own personal schemes Stewart is going altogether too far," and the irate secre-tary brought his fist down with a great deal of emphasis.

"Didn't the association get as much benefit as he did out of the losing Fourth of July venture!" "Well, I guess not. He made use of the association to collect an old personal debt, and not only that, but his trick will be the means of losing the association lots of friends among the horsemen. You see, he and old Butcher had a horse trade years ago, and Butch has owed him $50 ever since. He saw a good chance to collect the old debt, and what did he do but guarantee Butch $100 of the association's money and half the gate receipts to come here and give his chariot races and other specialties at the park on the Fourth. Of course, it was then the easiest thing in the world to hold out the $50, and old Butch went away madder'n a wet hen. He will tell the horsemen at every track he visits how he was done up here by this association, and it can't help but hurt us a good deal.

"The association isn't to blame for it, but will have to suffer for it just the same. I have had enough of it, and there are other folks on both sides of the river who feel just we have concluded that it is cheaper to pull out now that it would be later. The situa-tion resolves itself into simply this: The park will not pay without Omaha rush and patronage, and that will be withheld as long as John T. Stewart is at the head of it. If the motor company wants us in, it will have to dump him out. I won't make another move for the association as long as things are as at present. If it wasn't for the other stockholders, who are friends of mine, I would stop all the advertising and notify the horsemen that the fall meeting was off and give Stewart an opportunity to try his hand again with some of his old acquaintances." Mr. Brown then escorted his perturbed feelings to one side and communed with himself.

The little episode among the members of the association has occasioned considerable stir, and old scores are being raked up with a vengeance. It is intimated that affairs have reached such a stage that a change in the management of not only the association but of the motor company as well is imperative. Stewart's course has never been popular, even among the other directors of the com-pany, and it seems that matters have only been waiting for some one to start the ball rolling. This Brown has now done in a very

There is also talk of a pretty little expose that will soon follow. It is alleged that when the time came for placing insurance on the bridge, rolling stock and plant of the motor company, one of the heavy stockholders who nas a well known penchant for having things his own way, went to a certain insurance agent and said: "Give me half and you can write the insurance." The commiss amounted to about $1,000, and this same agent wrote the policies and the aforesaid director dropped $500 in his own pocket as the result of his enterprising interview. This and other things bid fair to shortly make certain people look suspiciously at other people ere many moons have waxed and

A Correspondent Scores the American Book Trust.

OMAHA, Neb., July 15.-To the Editor of THE BEE: I was gratified to see a paragraph in THE BEE this morning in reference to the American book publishing company. I happen to know something about the methods of this gigantic book trust; how it manipulates legislatures, school boards, principals and teachers. There are but few houses in the country strong enough to withstand the underhand competition of this book trust, and hence all the smaller concerns have been forced to the wall. In this way the Ameri can company has secured a monopoly in the sale of text-books and supplies, and its methods have become so obnoxious that many states have appealed to their legis-latures for protection against it. Agents of the trust attend every legislature in the United States where adverse legislation to their interests threatens and seek by fair means and foul to smother any bill whose object is to interfere with their monopoly. The American with their monopoly. The American company had a lobby at the last session of the Nebraska legislature, and I am told that their chief manipulator was a man who is now a candidate for the superintendency of the Omaha public schools. I am also told that he paid a salary to a certain member of the Omaha school beard who is known to have spent most of his time at Lincoln during the fast session in the interest of the souliess book trust. If this is true it is capable of proof, and the members of the Omaha school board should demand the facts before supporting a man who is backed by a company whose motives are solely mercenary, devoid of the slightest regard for the efficiency of our schools.

In my opinion it is the duty of the Omahi board of education to warn the American book trust to keep its polluted hands off the school elections in this city. It is an outrage upon this community that such an outfi should be tolerated one moment, and I am confident the people will rise up and resent it. I want to see a cuitured, upright, dignified gentleman at the head of our public schools—not a paid lobbyist. CITIZEN.
