NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Pair of Desperate Highwaymen Caught and Lodged in Jail.

THEIR LAST WORK WAS ON BROADWAY.

They Assaulted and Robbed J. W. Sawyer Not Far from the City's Heart-Record of the Pair.

James Onick, alias James Osborne, was arrested yesterday morning at an early hour by Officers Burke and Peters charged with being implicated in the highway robbery that took place Tuesday night, and was mentioned in yesterday's BEF. The officers saw a man on Lower Broaday that answered the description of the guilty party and they at once went for him. Quirk got wind of their approach and started to run. The officers followed, and an exciting chase ensued through back yards and over fences, until finally the disappeared in a field of man sunflowers. Before disappearing he managed to throw away his revolver, but it was picked up and taken in charge by one of the policemen. The fugitive was at last found hiding in the weeds, and was taken to the police station, where he was booked with highway robbery and carrying concealed weapons. None of the stolen property was found in his possession.

J. W. Sawyer, the man who was held up, appeared at the office of the city cierk yes terday morning and filed an information against Quirk and his pal, Grant, who was arrested Tuesday night, charging them with highway robbery. He said that he was riding down Broadway when the robbery occurred. The first suspicion he had was when he was in the vicinity of the North-western depot, when he heard the sound of some one clambering into the rear end of his wagon. He looked around and a large hole confronted his gazo, the other end of it being nnected with a revolver in the hands of one of two men that were in the wagon. The hole looked to him as big as an ordinary dishpan, and it did not take him many minutes to ask what they wanted and to give it to They went through his pockets took a watch and chain, he valued at about $28, a which knife, and several small articles. As soon as the robbers had gone, he hunted for a police-man to tell his tale of woe to, and the result was the capture of Grant, whose real name is Kane, inside of half an hour after the deed was committed. Kane is one of the smoothest rascals in this section of the country. He was in the emplay of one of the largest implement houses in the city about seven years ago. He spent a year and a half in the penitentiary at Fort Madison for playing a confidence game of some kind at Missouri Vadey, and he had no oner done his time than he was rearrested sooner done his time than he was rearrested for highway robbery and spent another four years in the penitentiary. He now bids fair to go over the road again.

Quirk is no better, he also having been in the pentitentiary. There is another member of the gang who is now in the city jail on a charge of vagrancy, that being the only charge which the authorities so far can prove assist him. He came is Frank Rommant. against him. His name is Frank Bommarito, alias Frank Murray, who was caught several years ago while burglarizing the residence of E. B. Bowman on Second avenue. He was tried in the district court and seut to the penitentiary for four years, which sentence he has just completed. He is very reticent. All the efforts of the officials to pump him as to the affairs of himself and his two partners have been so far fruitless. He is in for a term of seven days, and it is hoped that by the end of that time something more serious may be proved against him.

All three of the men are desperadoes of the worst class, their accomplishments being equally striking when it comes to holding up pedestrians, picking pockets or breaking into houses. They have been in Council Bluffs about the days and in that they have they have about ten days and in that time they have been implicated in something less than a dozen crimes that are known of, including the confidence games that have been worked so repeatedly and so safely at the transfer. were taken to the county fall and wil be given a hearing this morning in police court.

St. Paul's New Rector.

Rev. E. J. Babcock has accepted the call to St. Paul's church, in Council Bluffs. The announcement of the fact in his home papers at Canandaigua, N. Y., calls forth many kindiy expressions, showing the high esteem in which he is held there. Mr. Babcock is about forty years of age, and he has a wife and one child. Other interesting facts concerning the new rector are to be learned from the following taken from the Repository Messenger of recent date:

The first of this week it became known that

The first of this week it became known that Rev. E. J. Babcock, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, in this village, had accented an unsoleted and unexpected invitation to become rector of St. Paul's church at Council Bluffs, Ia., a large and prosperous parish, at a salary of £000 a year. The news caused genuine regret, not only among Mr. Babcock's own people, but in all other denominations and classes; for by his genial manners, earnestness and manly qualities he had won universal respect.

Mr. Babcock came here in 1885 and for six and a half years has rendered very efficient service both as rector and in looking after the temporal affairs of the cnurch, a large debt on the church property having been extinguished and the parish finances put in better condition than in many years. Mr. and Mrs. Babcock are very highly regarded socially and their departure will be keenly regretted on that account. Mr. Babcock will close his work here the middle of September and begin at Council Bluffs October 1. The people of St. John's will not be able to easily fill his place.

Insurance Law.

Attorney General Stone rendered an im portant decision yesterday with relation to the cancellation of policies of fire insurance at the request of the holders. The opinion was in reply to a question propounded by J. Lyons, auditor of state. The original statute by which the mutual fire insurance companies were to be governed, provided that any note deposited with the company might be relinquished or cancelled on the payment by the giver of his share of the esses and expenses of the company during the term. The auditor was authorized to refuse to permit any mutual fire insurance company to do business in Iowa unless it should provide in its policies for a cancella tion of the policy at the request of the insured, on equitable terms.

A law passed in 1880, however, has changed the system by providing that the insurance company may issue written notice to the insured when his premium falls due, stating at the same time the amount required to pay what is known as the customary "short rates," including the expense of taking the risk up to the time the policy will be suspended under the terms of the notice. The "short rates" consist in a proportion of the premium which decreases in a considerably iess ratio than the time, so that the insured has to pay more than half as much for an insurance of one year as for two. This, according to the opinion of the attorney general, is inconsistent with the provisions of the statute first referred to, and must be con-sidered the law of the land. That particular feature of insurance law is considerably to

Reunion at Oakland. A large delegation of Council Bluffs Grand Army men went to Oakland, this county, Tuesday evening for the purpose of attending the meeting of delegates from other posts in the county to arrenge for a reunion of Pottawattamic veterans. The citizens of the thrifty little village entertained the crowd right royally and threw open their largest hall and their doors to them. Judge Hub-bard of Council Bluffs was chosen chairman, and the order of business called for short ad-dresses from Hubbard, Colonel Dalley, Dye and others. At the conclusion of the discus-sion a motion was had to hold a reunion at some point to be determined, in the eastern part of the county. Another to select the place prevalled, and the Oakland people came forward with hearty assurances that the old soldiers would be well cared for there, and their invitation was accepted. The town council was in session, and when the infor-mation was conveyed to them that Oakland had been selected, Mayor Hartwell appeared and assured the delegates that the people would do everything in their power to make

Only in Name. When Attorney Askwith some days ago ventilated his private opinion of Judge Mc-Gee, he made a mistake. He thought court wasn't in session. It was, though, and the judge brought the impetuous attorney up with a round turn. Explanations that the remarks were to have only a semi-official effect were of no avail, and the court insisted that his outraged dignity could only be repaired through the visitation of condign punishment on the derelict lawyer. So Ask-with was solemnly hauled before the bar of the supreme court and adjudged to be in contempt of its dignity and personal function, and was condemned among other things to pass twenty-four consecutive hours in close onfinement in Pottawattamie county jail.

Right here is where the rab comes in. It has now transpired that Sheriff Jimmy O'Neill, in view of the coming campaign and with more bowels of compassion than the angered court - realizing the effect of consigning on one so delicately nurtured as Attorney Askwith to the awful penalty of a day and night in the loathsome dungeon beneath castle moat, where green slime cozed from the walls, and horrid creeping things dragged their clammy lengths across the floor; where the darkness was never broken, and the fetid air was still, save when disturbed by the clauk of manneles moved by fettered limbs, or torn by the maniacal shrick of some unfortunate whom confinement had reft of reason—shrank from imposing such dire punishment, and instead simply turned the pris-oner over to the wife of Attorney Askwith with instructions that she keep one eye on him for twerty-four hours.

In the meantime the dignity of the superior court gazed at itself with complacent satisfaction, knowing that in Askwith would be found a warning to all hotheads to control their tongues. A delegation of friends of the nearcerated attorney visited the jail and proessed to condole and cheer the suffering orisoner. One enterprising reporter even interviewed Colonel Askwith, asking him prisoner. his idea of interior decorations as applied to rotary jalls and describing minutery the sur-roundings and appearance of the attorney behind the bars.

But all this is dispelled. It now remains be seen if the dignity of the court will be satisfied with de jure imprisonment, or whether in will rise and demand the de facto Fell in the Water.

A little boy in kilt skirts met with an experience yesterday afternoon while playing in Bayliss park that robbed life of most of its pleasure for the time being, and will probably serve as a lesson to him for the future. He was leaning over the edge of the fountain basin, paddling with his hands in the water, when he suddenly lost his balance and fell in. Fortunately his mother was there and succeeded after considerable trouble, with the assistance of the park policeman, in fishing her unlucky offspring out, with his pockets and himself filled with water from the Missouri river. He was considerably frightened by his encounter, but not very badly hurt, and the last that was seen of him he was strutting down the street, very wet, but very proud of being the cause of so much trouble.

The National Convention.

Council Bluffs Nonpareil. The Minneapolis Tribune is trying to bolster up the chances of that city for the next national republican convention. It is trying hard. In doing so it fails to stick to the truth. In a long editorial it has this to say: Omaha and Council Bluffs combined still lack 5,000 of the population of Minneapolis. All of their halls together will hold but few more than the great Minneapolis exposition auditorium. In 1805 Omaha will be large auditorium. In 1839 Omaha will be large enough to meet the roquirements. After the Mississippl comes the Missouri, and after Minneapolis comes Omaha, in the natural course of westward progress. Minneapolis in 1862 and Omaha in 1896 is the appropriate

So far as the population is concerned, Minneapolis does not exceed Council Bluffs and Omaha by 5,000, or anything like it. On the contrary, it is not so large. In spite of the desperate attempt to pad the census Minneapolis cou d muster only 164,738 people. The census of 1890, which is a barefaced fraud so far as Council Bluffs is concered, gave this city 21,474, and Omaha 140,452, or 161,922 in ail. Notwithstanding the emphatic protest of the people of this city, at the injustice of the thing, Council Bluffs was unable to securs a re-count, and the record stands, showing about one-haif the actual population, when the census returns were made. The

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria, When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria, When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria, When she had Children, she gave them Castoric, most careful estimates, based on the school census and the vote, and recently by the city directory, give Council Bluffs about 40,000 people, making the popula-tion of the two cities 180,000, an excess of 15,000 over Minnenpolis. The Minneapolis exposition building is inconveniently sit-uated in regard to the hotels and the busi-ness center. It has to be reached by cross-ing the bridges over the river by which the city is split in the middle. For convenient access it is not so well located as the exposition or coliseum buildings in Omaha are to Council Binffs. From Council Bluffs a ride of thirty minutes on the finest electric mater line in the world will place the visitor within 500 leet of the exposition building, and immediately in front of the Omaha theaters, hotels and mercantile houses and in close connection with the coliseum building. In Council Bluffs this line touches the Grand, the Ogden, the Hotel Gordon, the Pacific and other establishments. Another motor line partially finished, and which can be completed within a few weeks from the present time, will give the visitor a beautiful ride through an attractive part of Council Bluffs, through the great manufacturing in-dustries of the East Omaha land company, landing the passenger equally distant from the Exposition and Coliseum buildings in Omaha. It is absurd to say Omaha cannot entertain the convention. Either of these two great halls can easily seat from ten thou-sand to fifteen thousand people. Her hotels can accommodate a vast crowd. Council Binfs with her splendid hotals, one of which is the finest between Chicago and San Francisco, will take care of at least ten thousand guests, and the well known hospitality of the people of this city is an ample guarantee for the pleasure and comfort of that many more. Minneapolis omplacently refers to the transmississippl states, and reminds Omaha that she ought to follow the lead of that city by getting the convention in 1896. The Nonparoit does not know how Omaha feels, but as the eastern half of the joint metropolis of the Missouri valley, Council Bluffs will follow the lead of no city. She will take the lead. As to the transmississippi states to be benefited by holding the convention at Minneapolis, Iowa is the only republican state, and she has declared in favor of Omaha as the proper place to receive the official recognition of the republican party at its next quadrennial gath-

DRESS REFORM AT CHAUTAUQUA. The Parker Crusade is Getting There

in Great Shape. CHAUTAUOUA, N. Y., Aug. 12,-"The dress reform crusade will uitimately be narrowed to two articles instead of four," said a woman here yesterday who is one of the reformers. "These two will be the tights and the dress. The days of the fourteen articles of woman's apparel, just lige the thirty-nine articles in the religious creeds, are numbered, and we are on the threshold of a revival of classic simplicity in matters of clothing. It will be the dress for the woman, and not the woman for the dress." This little speech but mildly reflects the rominence and potency of the new movement. Conspicuous reformers arrive at Chautauqua nearly every day, and even Dr. J. M. Buckley, the little wide awake editor of the Methodist Christian Advocate is prim ing himself for a double leaded editorial fa-voring the reform. Helen Potter, the well known impersonator, came up from New York to get the latest news on the subject, and Mrs. Frank Parker, the leader, is simply deluged with inquiries.

Previous movements toward better dress have failed, the reformers say, because they were not comprehensive enough. The first movement aimed only at comfort and utility the second was guided by those interested in improving the health of women, both ignor-ing or failing to provide for the element of beauty. The present 'Parker crusade' includes all these and comprehends even a study of the priciples of deisarte. It means something more than the mere putting off of corsets. It means nothing less than that the beauty line from the armpit to the ankle ist be appreciated and insisted upon, and the effect of physical proportion is obscured if not accompanied by grace of motion. The beauty of the lines of the female form must

To show how the leaven of the new movement is working at Chautauqua, it is only necessary to say, and this on the authority of the dress reformers themselves, that the young women are making sweeping changes in their wardrobe and that the old style under garments may be had for a song. The younger element are quite enthusiastic over the reform, for the spirit of athletic sports is fairly rampant here and the girls compete splendidly with the boys in rowing, racing, riding, fencing, club swinging, bleyeling tennis, shooting, bathing, in fact, every out door sport. The new style dress frees the young women from many conventional cus-toms and gives them greater play of the muscles. Henco it is that the reformers are counting converts by the hundreds at Chau-tauqua. The southern girls here are the most enthusiastic on the subject. Whether or not it is because the hot weather in their section has taught them to welcome any movement that discards superfluous stay and skirts, it is certain that the young women from Tennessee, Georgia and the Carolinas spending the summer here look upon the abolition of stays with a decidedly more favor than did their forefathers on the abolition of slavery.

Mrs. Parker has slipped away for a short rest. Before leaving she said: "The neverusade means something more than an em broidered bathing suit, as Kate Field intimates. It means something infinitely better Dr. Mary Walker's unwomanly trousers or Efizabeth Cady Stanton's ugly ruffied bloomers. Neither has it any sympathy with Ella Wheeler Wilcox's nightgown, which is a suggestion of the bedchamber. Our climate s pot suited to this Mother Hubbard costume. Then, too, in the evolution of dress you must take into consideration the preju-dices of women. The dresses must be apart from the nightgown. Mrs. Wilcox's idea ignores the principles of beauty. If you want beauty you must follow the outlines of the figure. The trouble with Mrs. Jenness Miller's dress is that the waist line, which is only one-third of the body, is lowered too much. She would put on a boy's vest and a boyish, high stiff collar. The upper part of such a figure would look like a sophomore in college, and the lower part like a peanut girl Mary Seymour's idea is too nondescript to notice. Such a skirt, reaching down to i point near the ankle, with a boy's jacket vest and tie, would be out of the question. There is no unity in the custom. The knicker-bocker notion is entirely too radical a de-parture and is the mere imitation of a boy. The masculine figure is essentially different from the female, and what would suit a man from the point of comfort would not suit a In the tailor-made costume th woman. woman. In the tailor-made costume the figure of the girl is cut in two in the middle. The triangular effect is ugly and stiff. We believe we are on the track of the right system and shall adhere to our present plan until we can discover a better one. Dundy County Afriance Disagree. OTTAWS, Out., Aug. 12.-Before the com mittee on privileges and elections today the cross-examination of Sir Hector Langevin ook place. Counsel was quite unable to shake his main statement of yesterday in any material respect, but he admitted that he himself had received from John Rochester, ex-member of parliament for Russell, $300 on the testimony and that Rochester had sub-scribed another $200 to the fund. He also admitted that in permission of altera tions of the tenders of Peause & Gallagher tions of the tenders of Peause & Gallagher and Larkin, Connelly & Co., some preference had been shown the latter firm. He could remember no other case in which these alterations had been made after the tend had been opened. LeMond of Montreal, although he admitted that to secure its influence he had given it larges some of many ence he had given it large sums of money corroborated Thomas B. McGreevy's state ment that the conversations were all in th matter of the indebtedness of Larkin, Con-nelly & Co. to the Union bank, of which Thomas B. McGreevy was a member.

Indians May Make Trouble. CHAMBERLAIN, S. D., Aug. 12.-There promises to be considerable trouble when the government begins to pay the Sioux In fians for lands ceded to the United States one and one-half years ago. In all there has een about eleven million acres that the Sioux relinquished to the government and in payment therefor the Indians are to receive various goods, such as plows, harrows, cows, horses and wagons. The Indians are not pleased at the prospect of receiving this sort of pay for the lands, and there is certain to be a protest made against paying them in goods that are of no use to a majority of the

She Got the Jewels.

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 12.-Last Friday Marie Belses of this city sent to a prominent ewelry store asking that a diamond neckace be sent her for inspection. The wine had been drugged. When he recovered the woman and diamonds were gone. She was traced to Omaha, from which place she left Monday night for Chicago.

Matt Quay's Indignant Denial. Philadelphia, Ang. 12.-Senator Quay ar rived here this evening and very emphatcally denied a story telegraphed from Wash ington to the effect that under certain circumstances he would favor refusing to seat Calvin S. Brice in the United States senate on the ground that he was not a citizen of Ohio. "I have not the slightest hesitation in saying," he added, "that I shall vote to seat Mr. Brice. If the democrats of Ohio want a New Yorker to represent them, I am satis-

THE CHICAGO GIRL An Accurate Measure of Her Charming Appetite.

It was Sunday, and the crowd on the covered pier at Fischer's Garden was arge and cosmopolitan, says the Chicago limes. The men predominated, though there were quite a number of married women with their husbands and children, who sat around in family parties and sipped their foaming lager and munched schwartz brod and schweitzer heese in true Teutonic recreation style There were also young women who probably work all week in somebody kitchen or somebody else's shop dili gently enjoying their day out with their best young man, who furnished the means for cheap and mild dissipation at cents per glass. Into the crowd at the tables on the pier came two other women, or girls, for they were young. Both were very pretty—one a tall, full-figured blonde in a stylish black costume and Spanish heeled Oxfork ties; the other a petite blonde, whose airy lavender attice with its ribbons and furbelows to match was rather too diaphanous and delicate in appearance, considering the stiff breeze of the cold lake. They found a table and seated themselves alone, despite the fact that half hundred pairs of masculine eyes were coking with a longing air for a glance of invitation to share the table, and half hundred mustaches received half a hundred caressing twists the while Then the waiter came and the brunette ordered-a quart bottle of beer. It was quickly placed in equal proportions beeath the black silk and the light layender corsages. Then they ordered another quart and some cheese and bread, which went the way of the first bottle in short order. Then they called the waiter again and ordered two plates of ice cream, which topped off the eer and the bread and the cheese. Two glasses of Rhine wine went down the two pretty rounded throats as a elimax to the whole, and then the two sweet young things argued with the waiter about the check, paid it, didn't tip him, and gathering up their parifols, purses and handkerchiefs flitted gayly away while an elderly-looking man of an austere cast of countenance who had watched the destruction from the next table muttered to himself, and these were his words:

"Well, I'll be ——! And yet American women wonder why they have head-aches, and why they lose their digestions and complexions."
