

TOO SLEEPY TO PLAY BALL.

Omaha and Kansas City Find the Heat Provocative of Semnabulism.

OF COURSE THE HOME TEAM WON.

Lack of a Pitcher Destroyed Omaha's Chance to Win-Play Jimmy Manning's Play Spoiled
by Pickett.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 15.—(Special Telegram to The Bee.)—Kansas City defeated Omaha today by a score of 6 to 4. The game was very close, but the boys of the home team were too sleepy to play well. The heat was intense, so intense, in fact, that Omaha did not feel sufficiently energetic to kick on Knight's decisions.

Every half hour the crowd would wake up to applaud something, then go to sleep again.
There was one very funny point in the game. There were three men on base in the eighth inning when Coleman hit the ball over in Manning's territory. The manager grew "foxy" and let it fall to make a double play.
He did it nicely. The ground was wet and the ball stuck.
Manning threw to Pickett, who had his hands full of double plays, but lost his head.
Traffrey struck to second base like a leech and Miller swung corners up at first.
Pickett walked to second base and put his foot on the base. He was out, but he claimed a double play. Knight said no, and in less than a minute eighteen ball-players were dancing about him. It was a very funny thing, but Knight was right, as a matter of course. The moment Pickett touched second base with the ball, Miller was out and Traffrey was no longer forced.

It took about five minutes to straighten out the tangle. Omaha made its first run in the third.
Traffrey started off with a safe hit and took second on a wild pitch. McClelland made a single and Smith, who had been out, was scored, but McClelland was caught at home, trying to get in on Plannagan's hit to Stearns and Dungan went out at first.

In the sixth Dungan scored on his base on balls and singles by Fields and Walsh.
In the eighth Coleman scored, taking first on a fielder's choice. Pickett and Smith scored, but Pickett was caught at home, trying to get in on Plannagan's hit to Stearns and Dungan went out at first.

In the ninth Coleman started off with a hit, but Dungan forced him out at second.

BRIEF BUT BLOODY BATTLE.

Jack Wilkes Defeated Harry Gilmore in One Round's Fighting.

CANADIAN CLEANLY OVER MATCHED.

His Head Cut, His Body Bruised and His Neck Smashed—Racing in the M. d. at Morris Park.

The Jack Wilkes-Harry Gilmore fight came off at Blum's hall, South Omaha last night in the presence of several hundred spectators.

It took Wilkes, much to the surprise of the bulk of the crowd, exactly four minutes to beat the Canadian into a state of somnolence.

Wilkes was equipped by Jack Davis and Pat O'Hearn, while Gilmore was looked after by Tommy White.

Captain James Ferguson of Kansas City was the referee and filled the position with much credit.

The men entered the ring at fifteen minutes of 10, and ten minutes later time was called. When the two men faced each other the disparity in their weight and size was not so great as one would have supposed.

Wilkes had the advantage of height and reach, as well as of speed, and was in great fighting fit. He was in the ring in preparation under Davis' fostering care.
Gilmore was a trifle hazy, yet in fine condition.

The first round was a walk around, the two men standing guardedly, with the evident purpose of testing each other's strength. But two loads were made, one by each, and both falling short.

At the call of time for the second round, Davis said to Jack as he left his chair,
"Go get him."

And Jack did not get him.
After four seconds of frantic jabbing, Gilmore caught Wilkes a stinging right-hand over the left eye, abrasing the skin and causing the cheekbone to exude.

First blood for the Canadian. But that was all but for the next second, as if he had been slashed with a razor. A perpendicular gash an inch long in the exact center of the forehead was the result, and from this the blood gushed copiously, besmearing Gilmore's face and chest in a frightful way. Then Wilkes placed his left foot and solidly in Gilmore's wind, and again his right made a vicious sweep and landing on the vulnerable portion of Harry's neck he went down like a log.

The regulation ten seconds were told off, and Gilmore was out. His seconds then hastily carried him to his chair, and by frequent dashes of cold water he was refreshed.

It was a quick fight, but a good one, and this morning Wilkes is the possessor of about $500 which Harry Gilmore confidently expected to tote back to Chicago.
