FOOLING WITH A BUZZ SAW.

President Ezeta of Salvador May Re Asked for an Explanation.

BRAVERY OF AN AMERICAN CAPTAIN.

He Would Not Allow Passengers to Be Taken from His Vessel and Delivered Over to Probable Murder.

(Copyright 1801 by the Western Associated Press.) SAN JOSE DE GUATEMALA, Aug. 18.—The ncident which occurred at the port of La Libertad, in the republic of Salvador, ten days ago, bore some resemblance to the Barrundia affair, which happened on the steamer Acapulco in San Jose de Guatemala during the late war between Salvador and Guatemala. One of the parties concerned in this case, however, was an American citizen, and the result might have been the same as in the Barrundia affair had it not been for the prompt and decisive action of the captain of | an American steamship.

The Pacific Mail Steamship company's steamer City of Panama, which runs between Panama and Acapulco, Mex., stopped at Coronto, Nicaraugua, August 5, on her regular northbound trip, and among the passengers whom she took on there were Patrick Brennan, an American citizen residing in Salvador, and four native Salvadorians, all former officers of that government. These men had incurred the displeasure of Presidon't Ezeta and were regarded by him as revolutionists.

The steamer reached La Libertad August s, there she was boarded by officers acting under the direction of President Eseta who demanded of Captain F .- P. Wnite, commander of the City of Panama, the surrender of Brennan and his four companions.

Captain White refused to comply with this demand and the officers returned to shore and reported the result of their visit to the commandant of the port.

The commandant immediately went to the steamer with a boat load of armed men and informed Captain White that the latter could consider himself under his orders as he had come to take possession of the steamer and to arrest the men. Captain White's indignation was aroused at once and without waiting to discuss the matter at all he told the commandant that if he did not leave the steamer immediately he would throw him overboard. The commandant evidently perceived that Captain White was disposed to carry out his threat, for he withdrew from the steamer without any further discussion. A short time before the steamer sailed from La Libertad Captain White was informed that President Ezeta had been notified of the occurrence on the City of Panama and that he had gore with a large armed force to Acajulta, the next port in Salvador was to a ston the city of Panama and that be had gore with a large armed force to Acajulta, the next port in Salvador Bellwood third, Time: 1:452-3. La Libertad Captain White was informed at which the steamer was to stop. The captain's information was to the effect that Ezeta intended to await the arrival of the steamer at Acajulta and to take off the refugees at all hazards. Captain White accordingly determined not to go to Acajulta and as there was no other port in Salvador at which the steamer was sceduled to stop, he proceeded to San Jose De Guate-mala, arriving August 11. Captain White and Mr. Brennan went at once to the city of Guatemala and laid the facts of the case before United States Minister Pacheco. The men whom President Ezeta desired to capture are now on Guatemaia territory and Ezeta has requested the authorities of Guatemala to surrender them. The exact details of the charges made against the wen by President Ezeta are not known here. Brennan has resided in Salvador for some time and is a railroad contractor. He is said to be a man of means and of some prominence in the country. During the late war with Guatemala his business operations were in-terrupted, and, it is said, that at President Ezeta's request he accepted a commission in the army of Salvador onlisted his radroad employes in the service and was instrumental in winning one or more battles in which he was engaged. At the close of the war he re turned from the military service, and when a revolution was threatened in Salvador some me later, it is said that Exeta again desired Brennan to enter his service and enlist his railroad employes. Brennan declined to do so, and it is supposed that in this way he Incurred Ezeta's displeasure. The four Salvadorians whom Ezeta wished to sieze were Don Ayola, who claims to have been legally elected president of Salvador, but who has been deprived of office; General L. Letona, commander in chief of the Salvadorian army in 1885, but who has been it exile for the past five years; General L Hernandez, a wealthy exile, and Colonel M Rivas, of the Salvadorian army, a nephew of General Rivas who was executed by Ezeta's orders for the part which he took in the late

Kingston Found Little Difficulty in

Beating Van Buren. CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 31.-Kingston is himself again. In the match race with Van Buren at Garfield park today for a purse of $3,000 the great horse simply played with the little blaze-faced wonder and passed under the wire in a common canter three lengths to the good. Twelve thousand people were on the grounds when the race was called The day was raw and wraps and overcoats were to be seen everywhere. The book-ies fared well on the results, as Kingston was held at prohibitive edds, I to 5 being the shortest price against him at any time, while Van Buren, at 4 to 1, was nibbled at by small betters. There was much cheering and band clapping when the two horses paraded before the grand stand. Hamilton was astride Kingston, while Ted Sloane had the mount on Van Baren. There was no delay at the post and the two horses bounded away on even terms. Sieane tried hard to send Van Buren to the front, but the black boy from the east would not have it that way. Kingston clung to Van Buren's neck around the turn and the pan raced like a team for half a mile, where Kingston showed in front, "Yan Buren is beaten," shouted the crowd and so it proved Hamilton took a strong wrap on the crack, and running the stretch Kingston passed the judges' stand three lengths before Van Buren. The distance was a mile and a sixteenth, and the time was 1:50%. The track was good. On Wednesday Kingston will be pitted against Marion C, Verge distributed by the pitted by the pitt d'Or and others at a mile and an eighth, and as the above horses are in the pink of dition a great race may be expected. other races resulted as follows:

CHATS WITH SOME OF THE VISITORS.

What They Say About Omaha and the Meeting-Reception Given by the Ladies Last Night at the Murray.

The delegates to the engineers' convention began to roll in in carnest on the morning trains yesterday, and at noon about a fourth of 300 delegates who are expected to be present had arrived. It is intended to have the names of the new arrivals inscribed at once on the register in the office of general committee, room 18, Murray hotel, but in the confusion attendant on the opening day, this very desirable regulation was not strictly complied with and comparatively few names have thus far been enrolled as yet.

The visitors did not neglect to inscribe their autographs on the hotel registers, however, and several of the newly arrived ones were found at the following nostelries: Murray-J. J. lilingworth and wife, Utica,

The members of the local committee are the busiest men in the city today, perfecting arrangements, looking after the comfort of the delegates, and attending to the thousand and one little details that are as necessary to the success of the convention as a whole.

R. J. Smith of San Francisco, past president and present doorkeeper of the National association, is armed with a lot of photo-graphic views of the city by the Golden Gate, which he exhibits between times, while wrestling with his first impression of Mis-souri river water. The first shock was surprising, but better acquaintance promises P. G. Monroe, whose abilities in the progressive handshaking line would be invaluable on a presidential tour, does the honors at headquarters, and as soon as a better un derstanding with the police officials is arrived at will be prepared to offer his services as cicerone free gratis.

President Illingworth and Secretary Car-ley were among the arrivals of the morning, and at once entered upon the dis-charge of the duties of their respective offi-

CHAIN WITH VISITORS.

What Some of the People in Attendance Have to Say. Mr. A. Barton, one or the Cleveland delegates, prought with him a sample electric pull for manimate target traps, and will leave it in the city. Arrangements are being made to have one of these pulls furnished for the shooting tournament to be neld here in a few weeks. Mr. Barton is superintend-ent of the McClellan Cartrage company, and has direct charge of the leading department. He is something of a sportsman himself, and is in position to know something of the merits and demerits of the various powders. a subject in which devotees of the gun are necessarily much interested. He is a Wood powder man, and says that it is a big success. The work of loading for the target shooting way to preparations for field sport. Mr. Barton has a fund of information that would iceply interest the guaners. Mr. John Fehrenbatch is a Cincinnati dele-gate, and has not been in Omaha before for

of the spring and summer has now given twenty years.

"I wouldn't know the place," he declared last evening. "Nothing looks familiar. The pest botel then was a two-story frame struc-ture, and I sought out the best hotels today to note the difference. The contrast is al-most beyond comprehension. Then there was only a population of 16,000, and today there are 140,000 people here. It dazes me, l'here is nothing that looks familiar. Omaha is bound to be a big city some day. It may not be in three years, and perhaps not in five, but before people realize it Omaha will have 500,000 inhabitants. The class of buildings that has been erected is something truly re markable. It must have taken plack for nen to bave made such mammoth investments. These great business palaces are monuments to their sagacity and foresight, but it took genuine pluck, just the same, to do it. There is no stone here, but plenty has been secured for these great walls. t must have cost lots of money to bring it here. Omaha people have displayed wonder-ful energy, and it is bound to tell even more in the future than it has in the past."

Mr. Fred Irland of Detroit, the stenographer who is to officially report the congrapher who is to obscious report the con-vention for the Stationary Engineer, is one of the official stenographers of the national house of representatives. He was appointed to that important position four years ago, when but 27 years of age, and is the youngest man ever given the appointment. He enjoys the reputation of being the best stenographer n the country. In a five minute contest he took 242 words per minute, while his Chicago competitor took 252 words per minute. Speed and accuracy were both to be considered, and in point of accuracy Mr. Icland's work was so much superior that the judges declared the match a tie and the contestants livided first and second money. Mr. Irland is a very modest, unassuming gentleman and can scarcely be provailed upon to talk of his own abilities. In single minute contests he has reached as high as 300 words per minure but this information had to be secured from another than the stenographer himself. Sev-eral years ago Mr. Irland was city editor of the Detroit News, but for the past four years he has devoted his efforts to furnishing official matter for the Congressional Record He is a most interesting and entertaining talker, and always finds an attentive audience when he speaks of the doings on the floor of the house of representatives.

"It is lively work reporting the doings of that body," he said last evening. "It is distinctively a business body, and less deliberate and dignified than the senate. It is a cosmopolitan crowd, where all sec-tional ideas meet on a common level. There are five official stenographers, and the reporting is done from the floor. It takes rapid waiking and often times running to get a position where one can hear. It is necessary to know not only every member by sight, but by voice as well, for there is seldom time to look around. When an exciting debate is going on, and perhaps 125 men are crowded around the two principal disputants, the stenographer is in the middle of the crowd with his book jammed against his bedy and a half dozen men crowding on each eibow, while he takes everything that is said. A member behind him interrupts with a question, and the voice is all that he has by which to identify the owner. If twenty members are talking at once it is all the same, and it takes rapid work. The average in the house is 155 to 160

work. The average in the house is 155 to 160 words per minute, which is a higher average than is known anywhere else. They have to talk fast and right to the point. A member rarely has over fifteen minutes and oftener out five, and the question is put and decided. This is on miscellaneous days, when non-political days are up for consideration. The stenographer takes until he has enough notes to make a column of the Record, when notes to make a column of the Record, when notes to make a column of the Record, when he is relieved. It may be only five minutes, and it may be fifteen, and he at once goes down and dictates and revises his matter, and in half an hour it is back in the hands of the member for correction or in the government printing office. There is no delay about

"When political questions are on, it is different and the departes go on for ten days at a time. That is comparatively easy work. Sometimes the house sits for twenty or forty hours without a recess, and the stenographers have to stay by it. "On miscellaneous days it is hard to keep track of proceedings. A stenographer may go out with notes on a bill for irrigating the arid wastes, and when he comes back he will hear something about a lighthouse on Lake Superior. The next time it will be a bridge over the Tennessee. It is something really wonderful when one considers that it takes over $1,000,000 a day including Sundays, to run this government, exclusive of attending to the soldiers and the many old claims that have to be paid. The house of representatives is a great educational institution, and a person can learn more there in a few montsh of the different sections of the country than he could in any other way in a lifetime."

SOCIAL PLEASURES.

How the Ladies Managed to Make an Evening Delightful. Several hours of the evening were deveted o a reception in the Murray hotel pariors. It was an informal affair, and gave the visitors a pleasant opportunity to renew old acpasintances and make many new ones. The Musical Union orchestra furnished rythmic harmony and added much

o the pleasure of the evening. The reception committee consisted of Mrs. J. W. B. Austin, Mrs. James Anderson, Mrs. J. W. Matthews, Mrs. J. M. Mutlen, Miss Lillie Matthews, Mrs. W. Bennett, Mrs. Belkunp and Mrs. C. E. Palmer. There were also prosent Miss Mullen, Miss Minnio

Matthews, Miss Mamie Wollenhaupt, Miss Boehner and Miss Bailey. Boehner and Miss Bailey.

Among the visiting ladies were noticed: Mrs. J. J. Illingworth, Utica, N. Y.; Mrs. Febrenbatch, Cincinnati, O.; Mrs. Harry Knowiton and Miss Mamle Knowiton, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Milo Walbridge, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Milo Walbridge, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. E. D. Bateman, Cincinnati, O.; Mrs. R. O. Smith, New York; Mrs. E. E. Dicey, Mrs. W. H. Gormao, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. William Powell, Cleveland, O.; Mrs. T. A. Dille, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. M. D. Nagle, New York; Miss Kate Green, Lincoin; Mrs. John Vande-

Miss Kate Green, Lincoln; Mrs. John Vande-velde, Cleveland.

The hundred or more delegates who were on hand divided the evening between the social gathering in the parlors and quietly obbying below stairs with reference to the ocution of the next convention. The three sities prominently in the field are Buffalo, Cieve, and and Atlanta, and the latter city seems to have the call. She has but one representative here, but she has the hearty support of several other southern cities. The convention has never been held south of St. Louis, and this fact, together with a lively but good natured context between Cleveland and Buffalo it is believed will give Atlanta a big advantage when the question comes up for final decision.

The convention opens at 9 o'clock this morning. The ladies will also hold an open session at that hour, and at 10 o'clock the entire party will visit the smelting works. The delegates will be in session during the afternoon, but the ladies will visit Lake Manawa and arrangements have been made to take in the theaters during the evening. Comedy and opera are the bills at the Farnam Street and the Grand, and the ladies will follow the dictates of their own sweet wills and take their choice. A large number of the delegates will not arrive until this morning, and a few are not expected until tonight. The convention will be the largest ever held by the association, as the attendance has increased each year since its organization. There were 125 delegates at New York last year, and it is ex-pected that Omaha will be favored with the presence of fully 300 of the engineers. KILLED BY THE CARS.

Fatal Accident at the St Paul Depot Last Evening. An accident which proved fatal occurred at the Chicago, St. Paul & Minneapolis depot about 6:15 o'clock last evening. A young man named Watesman was struck by a train, knocked down, badly bruised and suffered a fracture of the skull. The left side of the unfortunate man's head was considerably crushed. As soon as possible Dr. Keogh was called and the patrol wagon sent for. The injured man was taken to St. Joseph's hospital in an uncencious condition and continued in that state until about 10 o'clock when he died. Coroner Harrigan was sent for and viewed the body. The remains will be removed to Burket's this morning and an inquest will probably be held this afternoon.

UP TO SNUFF. Tricks of a tog Catcher That Has Got

Him Into Trouble. John Mansfield, a 16-year-old boy working for Count Pulaski, is rapidly learning the tricks of the trade. A day or so ago he wandered along by Mrs. Orr's house on Lake street and roped in the family yellow dog. A protest was filed right then and there by the female members of the family. Mansfield finally agreed to give the dog up for $1. This was paid and a receipt taken. The bit of paper will be used as evidence against Mansfield on a charge of unlawfully obtaining money About two years ago young Mansfield's rother was arrested and sent to the reform school for snatching pocketbooks on the

No Quorum. The Douglas county democratic central committee is composed of thirty-three members. Fifteen of these members met in the Derby pool rooms last night, where they were called to order by T. H. Daily. A man from the unorganized territory moved that reporters be excluded. Pat Ford objected. He did not think the democrats should hide their lights under a bushel.

About this time it was discovered that there was not a quorum, and a motion to adourn was entertained. The committee will make an attempt to hold a meeting at 2 o'clock Saturday Witerconsideration. It is not unlikely that as a consideration. It is not unlikely that as a consequince sooner or later, a commissioned officer of the army may be detailed for the purpose of aiding in the instruction of the National guards. Such a detail is now made for the several state militia encampments, but it has little if any beneficial effects. The officer so detailed can only port to the inspector general the result of his inquiry and observation Under these heads he must toll everything regard ing the men which in any way relates to their condition as soldiers and their avail-

their condition as soldiers and their availability in the event of being called on for duty. The report imposes a heavy task upon the officer detailed. It is of benefit, however, only to the inspector general.

The officer detailed to do this inspection this year is Captain A. W. Corliss of the Eighth infantry. A more commendable selection could not be made. He is a model soldier a courtly employees and the six and dier, a courtly gentleman and the air and bearing of a man whom nature intended for the profession of arms.

Adjutant General Cole, however, was not Adjutant General Cole, however, was not satisfied to have him here as an inspector for the army only and accordingly appointed him assistant inspector general of the Nebraska National guard. As such Captain Carliss will point out to the officers and men a number of things which ought to be corrected to conform strictly to military requirements. His suggestions will be choerfully received by both officers and fully received by both officers and men and will no doubt be of value to the command. As a Rule,

It is best not to attempt to remedy costiveness by the use of saline or drastle purga-tives. When a cathartic medicine is needed, the most pro and beneficial is Ayer's Pills. The effect is to restore the regular action of the bowels, without weakening them. Being sugar-coated, these Pills retain their medicinal virtues for a long time, and are easy to take,

"I can recommend Ayer's Pills above all others, having long proved their value as a cathartic for myself and family."-J. T. Hess, Leithsville, Pa. "In 1858, by the advice of a friend. I began tne use of Ayer's Pills as a remedy for bil lousness, constipation, high fevers, and colds. They served me better than anything I had previously tried, and I have used them in attacks of that sort ever since."— H. W. Hersh, Judsonia, Ark.
