

WANT TO WORK TWELVE HOURS

Smelter Employees Demand That Hours of Labor.

BACK TO THE TWO SHIFTS SYSTEM.

The Men, After Mature Deliberation, Decide Against Shorter Hours and Reduced Pay—Settled Without Any Difficulty.

The vicinity of the smelting works presented an animated appearance at 7 o'clock yesterday morning, the time set for the men in the roasters and blast furnaces and the pot haulers to vote upon the eight hour question.

All the men employed at these places on both shifts were assembled about the time the men's office at the south end of the works, prepared to vote on the proposition.

It was a very orderly crowd and no demonstrations of any kind were made. The men stood about in groups discussing current topics and the question at issue seemed to be passed over as though it was virtually settled and no question for argument.

Neither Bacon nor Welch were present nor were there any indications of any riotous feeling.

Sergeant Graves and a detail of police were on hand, but their services were not required.

Each workman had been provided with a circular letter explaining the terms offered for the eight-hour and the twelve-hour shift with a ballot in favor of eight hours and another in favor of twelve hours.

Every man had also been furnished an ordinary brown envelope large enough to contain the ballots and they had been instructed to put a ballot in the envelope and seal it up so that the vote might be secret.

Full instructions as to the manner of conducting the election had been furnished by President Barton, and there was no chance for a misunderstanding.

It was provided that three judges and two clerks should have charge of the election. It was also provided that the company's timekeeper, E. E. Ward, should act as one of the clerks on account of his familiarity with the names and numbers of the men.

At 6:30 o'clock the men were all assembled about the gates, the night shift having quit work at 6 o'clock and the day shift being ready to go to work at 7.

Secretary Nash stepped to the door of the office and told the men to select three judges and a clerk. The men selected as judges were Joseph Berg, William Paus and Joseph Schenurr. Mark Boatman was chosen as clerk.

The ballot-box was then delivered to the judges. It was made of quarter-inch wood and was about ten inches square and twelve inches high. The top was of wood of the same thickness and had a slot in the center for the depositing of the ballots.

This box was then thoroughly examined by the judges and the top securely screwed on by them.

The balloting then commenced. The men entered to vote walked through the narrow passageway in the timekeeper's office and handed one of the judges a sealed ballot, at the same time giving his name and number.

The latter were recorded by the clerks and the ballot returned to the box. At the time of the strike there were 300 men employed in the roasters and hauling pits.

Since the settlement nearly all of these men have been taken back, but in order to avoid any dissatisfaction of the men who had been employed in those departments were allowed to vote, whether they are employed at present or not.

When the voting was concluded the box was sealed and the cover was then removed. The ballots were counted and compared with the tally sheets. They corresponded and it appeared that out of the possible 200 there had been 184 votes cast, showing a very full vote.

The canvases were then opened and the ballots counted. The result was as follows:

For eight hours..... 184
For twelve hours..... 16

Total..... 200
The judges certified the result of the vote and returned the box, ballots, tally sheets, etc., to Mr. Barton. They then resumed their work, spreading the news among the men where it caused very general satisfaction, few complaints being heard.

This action settles the question of hours to the satisfaction of all concerned and the men will work in twelve-hour shifts, with no double shifts, and twenty-four hours lay-off every two weeks.

In conversation with President Barton after the question of hours had been fully settled a point was developed which had not been made public.

Instead of working twelve hours out of each twenty-four as has been claimed, the men only work ten hours each day. The day shift goes to work at 7 a. m. and quits at 12 noon, when they have an hour's rest. They resume work at 1 o'clock and work until 6, when they go home. The night shift goes to work at 7 p. m. and works until midnight, when they have an hour's rest. They resume work and work until 6 a. m. Thus each shift works only ten hours in each twenty-four hours.

By calling in some of the more proficient roasters and closing down the roasting furnaces on Sunday the cupolas are kept running all the time, and the cupola men, roasters and pot haulers, are given twenty-four hours of rest every two weeks.

Under the new order of things the men in the blast furnaces are paid $3.40 per day with no lay-off. Under the old order of things the men were paid $2.25 per day with four days' lay-off each month at half pay.

In other words, men in the blast furnace who receive $2.25 per day with no lay-off, work twenty-eight days each month and receive $77.30; formerly they worked twenty-four days and received $61 per month.

The men have been working at $2 per day by the new arrangement, but the figures do not bear them out.

Mr. Barton states that the claim that the men in the cupolas are skilled mechanics is not correct. A common laborer with ordinary common sense, he says, can easily become expert at the job, and the men who receive nearly double the wages paid smelter men will be discharged in a few days.

John Bacon and John Welch have discharged themselves and are not employees of the smelter company. The former worked five shifts after the recent settlement and then left. He did not show up to work for five days, and his place was filled. The latter, a smelter man, had been discharged a man who failed to show up for work for two days in succession, but the work was relaxed in Bacon's case.

John Welch has been keeping company with Bacon and failed to come to work for three days in succession. He was considered discharged.

FIRST DAY OF THE FAIR.

Indications Promising for a Week of Fine Sport—The Races.

Yesterday was the opening day of the Douglas County Agricultural Exposition and races, and judging from the bustle and activity on the grounds, it will be a fine success.

Exhibitors have been pouring into the grounds all morning, and the usual rush in effecting preliminary arrangements is noticeable upon all sides.

The display of fat and thoroughbred stock, poultry and fancy birds is unusually large, while that of the farm and garden is unsurpassed. The show in agricultural machinery and implements is also large and interesting, while the fine art hall is a magnificent bazaar of all that is unique, ingenious and beautiful.

Big turnout are inevitable, as the weather promises to be exceptionally fine and the prospect of a country fair is just over the prospect of a week's festivities.

The races, which are really the leading feature of all fairs, will be of uncommon interest. The number of entries is very large, and many of the best known flyers of the west are included in the number.

At 11 o'clock the first race, a famous trainer and driver, has charge of John D. Creighton's string of "cracks." One of the beauties is Evangeline, a 3-year-old, which went in a sensational race at Independence, Ia., last week at Independence, Ia., she made a half mile in 1:09 1/2, the fastest 3-year-old race ever recorded in this country.

Another race, a 2-year-old, was won by a colt named "Dietrich," first dam Red Wilkes. Mary Mae is another crack, a 4-year-old with a record of 2:35. She was sired by Lamps, by George Wilkes, first dam by Lexington Chief. Clara D is a 3-year-old with a record of 2:41. She is a promising mare who has shown a mile in 2:41.

She was sired by Belmont, first dam by Cuyler. Buncie, Jr., a bay gelding with a record of 2:19, was trained by Buncie. He was working on the track this morning, showing excellent speed and condition.

Wilkes, a bay stallion, is by Idle Wilkes, dam by Tom Hall, and has a record of 2:27. Mattie Hix who is entered in the 2-36 class trotting race with a guaranteed purse of $1,000, is a five-year-old with a record of 2:25. She is by Aldana Membrino and a full sister of Geneva S., record 2:18, and Quinine S., record 2:25, dam Ella Hopkins.

There are a large number of other flyers in the stables, but will assist in making this the greatest racing season ever given in Omaha.

The track and stables were full of life and activity at an early hour yesterday. Trainers and "swipes" were busy getting their horses out to the track and rubbing them down afterwards. Owners stood about the track watching in and comparing horses and making comments.

The Butler combination which is booked to give novel races during the week will provide some unique and amusing racing. One of the races is an umbrella race. This is run as follows: Each jockey leads his horse to the starting line, and then he takes it, lights a cigar, raises his umbrella, then mounts and starts off. To win he must not only come under the wheel, but must not burn his cigar at least half an inch and keep it alight and must prevent his umbrella from turning inside out.

Other features of the combination races are chariot races with four thoroughbred horses abreast and high jumping hurdle races.

In the poultry and pet stock hall the Omaha Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock association has a large number of birds on exhibition. Meliora & Chicks have a notable lot of game fowls, also have Balmors & Thomases, such as brown reds, Black Sumatras, game bantams and pit fowls. There are pigeons galore, yellow, silver and blue, and also blue and blue fawns, black African owls, white and black Jacobins, and mottled, yellow and black tumblers, a veritable boy's paradise.

In the exhibit of harness racing, a panoply of the battle of Gettysburg, and the never-touched-in-gentleman who sticks his head through a slit in a piece of canvas as a target for the bullets of the spectators.

There is an unusual amount of enthusiasm exhibited by everyone connected with the fair, and from present indications, the beautiful weather looks as if the attendance would be larger than for years past.

What It Costs Must be carefully considered by the great majority of men in buying even necessities of life. Hood's Sarsaparilla commends itself with special force to the great middle class, because it combines positive economy with great medicinal power. It is the only medicine of which can truly be said "100 doses out of a bottle," and a bottle taken according to directions will average to last a month.

Grand Entry Into Omaha. On and after July 30, 1891, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company will run all of its trains in and out of the union depot, Omaha. No more annoyance caused by transferring and switching at Council Bluffs. Solid vestibled trains, consisting of new Palace sleeping cars, fine parlor chair cars, elegant coaches, and the finest dining cars in the world, all heated by steam and lighted throughout by electric light. The new evening express with "electric lights" in every berth, now leaves Omaha daily at 8:20 p. m. in time for all eastern connections. Secure tickets and sleeping car berths at 1501 Farnam street, Barber block, Omaha, Neb. J. E. PRESTON, F. A. NASH, C. Pass. Agt., Gen. Agt.

The prospects for the coming Omaha fair are bright and promising. The former fair held in Omaha. The entries so far are largely in excess of any former year. The managers have every assurance that all races will be well filled and of superior horse. The stock, agricultural and floral departments will be the best ever shown. Do not fail to attend. Commencing August 31 and continuing five days. Address all communications to John Bauer, secretary, Omaha, Neb.

CHURCH HOUSES PLOWING.

He Declares That He Will Not Be in the Political Field.

Church Howe, the New York county farmer, arrived in the city from the east Sunday night and left for his farm near Auburn yesterday morning.

To a representative of The Bee Mr. Howe repeated his little joke about being out of politics, and his ignorance he professed regarding the status and prospects of the independent party in Nebraska was really remarkable.

"I have been in the east for a month," said Mr. Howe, "and have not kept track of matters in Nebraska at all. I want to Detroit to the Grand Army reunion and am just returning home. I am in a hurry to get back as it is time for fall plowing. I got hold of an Omaha paper occasionally while I was away and gained a little knowledge of what was going on, but I am not posted on the situation."

Mr. Howe refused to express any opinion on the coming election and professed ignorance of the political situation in Nebraska. He showed a lively interest and a full knowledge of the situation in this political district, and declared very emphatically that the independent party had made a great mistake in the making-up of their ticket.

"I see they have left Deane of the ticket," said he, "that is surprising. Deane is the strongest anti-corporation man on the bench in the state. He has always been known to be opposed to corporations and is the strongest enemy the railroads have. I can't understand what they were thinking about dropping him. It is a great mistake."

"Then there is Wadley. He was at one time a railroad attorney, but that was a long time ago and he has shown by his rulings and opinions that he is not in sympathy with corporations."

To a question about the condition of the money market Mr. Howe replied that any change in the situation depended on the coming elections.

"The recent decisions of several judges in Kansas on money questions has made the eastern capitalists very cautious," said Mr. Howe. "It will take some time to counteract the impressions created by those decisions. People in the east are not so sure of their money now. While it does not follow that the same conditions exist in this state, yet they are fearful that such conditions may develop here if any time they will have to do everything to correct that impression."

"Would not the election of candidates nominated by the independent party have a tendency to strengthen that fear rather than dispel it?"

"Not necessarily," replied Mr. Howe. "We must show them that they have no reason to fear such a state of affairs by electing men of established reputation who are known to be good men. Nebraska is going to elect the biggest crops the country ever saw," he declared abruptly, "and the state is on the eve of a prosperous year. I must get to my fall plowing and soon get home. I am interested in nothing now except agriculture."

SCHOOL BOARD ECONOMY. Superintendent Fitzpatrick Sees a Chance to Cut School Expenses.

In all probability there will be some radical changes made in the classification of some of the Omaha schools soon after the fall term opens. Superintendent Fitzpatrick has been looking the situation over, and is thoroughly convinced that there are too many seventh and eighth grade rooms in the Omaha schools, and that the number of pupils taught in those grades.

In several of the schools there are seventh and eighth grades, that have but from three to seven pupils in a class. This, the superintendent believes, is all wrong, and if these classes in two or more schools are eliminated, he will save the expense in many instances of one teacher, or from $1,000 to $1,200 per year, and the pupils will get along just as well or better.

The superintendent holds that pupils will do better, as a rule, in first classed classes than in very small classes, and that the elimination of these grades into fewer classes will make it necessary for some of the students to walk farther than they are required to do at present.

"It would be money in the pocket of the city to pay the care of some of these pupils," said the superintendent, "and the common sense of the board, rather than to continue the present method of instructing small classes in schools that might just as well be consolidated. There are a few schools, however, where the classification is very bad and to continue the present arrangement is the roughest kind of extravagance."

This consolidation, if carried out, will, it is likely to meet with the opposition of some of the principals, for it will cut down their salaries by reducing the number of rooms in the schools over which they preside. The salaries of the principals are fixed by the number of rooms in the schools they have in charge and it is altogether probable that this effort to lap off $10 from their salaries will meet with determined opposition on the part of the principals and their friends.

The only radical cure for rheumatism is to eliminate from the blood the acid that causes the disease. This is done by the persevering use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Persist until cured. The process may be slow, but the result is sure.

DROWNED IN A PAUL. Strange Death of Joseph Valk's Infant Son.

Charles Valk, infant son of Joseph Valk, an Austrian, living on Fourth street near the city hall, met with a strange death Saturday morning by drowning in a water bucket.

About 5:30 Saturday morning his mother went to the stable to milk the cow, leaving the infant sitting near a large bucket half filled with water. During her absence the child fell into the water and was drowned.

On her return the mother was horrified to find the infant legs protruding from the bucket. Owing to the ignorance of the parents, neither the police or coroner were notified of the death until this afternoon.

FIGHTING OVER FREIGHT.

The Rock Island and Union Pacific May Again Lock Horns.

There is a prospect that the Rock Island and the Union Pacific will again cross swords, this time on a question of freight. The Missouri Pacific also involved in the controversy which has arisen.

The latter road has been turning a great deal of freight over to the Rock Island for shipment east, but under the old arrangement of freight was handled by the Union Pacific and loaded across the bridge to Council Bluffs and there turned over to the Rock Island.

The Rock Island notified the Missouri Pacific last week that freight consigned to it must be turned over to it on this side of the river and not turned over to the Union Pacific to haul across the bridge, as heretofore.

The Missouri Pacific replied that under its arrangement with the Union Pacific the request of the Rock Island could not be complied with and it would continue to turn the freight over to the Union Pacific for the Rock Island.

The Rock Island notified the Missouri Pacific that it would not receive any freight so consigned. Consequently the agents of the Missouri Pacific have been notified to accept freight consigned to the Rock Island at Omaha.

There is a neat question involved in this matter. If the position taken by the Rock Island is sustained it will cut off several dollars from the revenues of the Union Pacific. It is estimated that the bridge charges on the Missouri Pacific have averaged $15,000 per annum. As an offset to this the Union Pacific has had the expense of handling the freight on the Rock Island.

The Milwaukee road is in about the same position but it is not so anxious to have that side of the river, whereas the Rock Island refuses to receive it except on this side.

CASH IS WANTED. What Secretary Hodgins Says of the Big Advertising Train.

Secretary Hodgins of the Nebraska State Business Men's association is having a awful time with the over-prosperous business men of the state over the arrangement of the details for the advertising train which it is proposed to run through the east this fall in Nebraska's interests.

When the plan was at first proposed it was a question as to whether or not the funds and proper amount of interest in the movement could be secured. That is all past and now a question as to the management of the exhibits which the various counties in state will send up. It is practically assured that sixty of the eighty-seven counties in the state will be represented in the excursion and each county in the list is now wanting to know how many cars it can load. It will be a difficult matter for Mr. Hodgins to convince these ambitious counties that each county can have but about five feet of space in the two product cars, but that's what it amounts to.

The exhibit will be in the first place for Nebraska and will be arranged by an artist of experience, so that the separate products of the state will be represented in the most prominent and effective manner. The special advertising for each county must be looked after by the county's representatives, who will accompany the excursion.

It is now September 1, and Secretary Hodgins urges upon the business men and farmers of the state the necessity of getting their money in shape at once and placing it in the hands of H. J. Lee of Fremont, treasurer of the state association. The details of the arrangement for the exhibits can be commenced.

There will be a meeting of the advisory board of the state association at the agricultural hall on Wednesday, September 3, at 11 o'clock, when the details of the trip will be fully arranged.

FAMILY SKELETONS. Several of Them on Exhibition for Police Court Spectator.

Several family skeletons were exhibited in the police court yesterday morning for the amusement and delectation of a crowded house. The greater part of the forenoon was occupied with the case of Mrs. W. Gibbs of 1911 South Twelfth street, charged with using obscene language to her husband, Mrs. Alice Mills, the prominent figure of a church several of recent date.

There is a large hole ten or fifteen feet deep behind the Gibbs domicile on Twelfth street, caused by a washout, and about two months ago one of her boys fell in it, injuring himself severely and causing the wife mother to open a washout, and the result was the benefit of the laundry, Mrs. Mills, who thereupon proceeded to horsewhip her. Nothing further was done by Mrs. Mills at the time. Since then, however, William Gibbs, brother-in-law of the defendant, has closed the defendant out because of inability to pay for furniture brought in by the defendant. Mrs. Mills is now seeking to get back at him by the charge of obscenity against his sister. The fight is now on, and a right merry one it is. The case will be continued today.
