THE OMAHA BEE. NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS,

OFFICE: - NO. 12 PEARL STREET. | School Opens Today and with It Comes a Change in Books.

SOME FEATURES OF THE NEW SYSTEM.

Why the School Board Decided to Try the State Law-Objections to the Pian -- Dealers' Intentions.

The opening of the public schools today and the change in the text books is the beginning of an experimental period which promises to be attended by many vexations and appoyances for the school board, teachers, parents and scholars.

The school board has sought to cheapen the expenses of the scholars by taking advantage of the state law regard to text books. By this new arrangement the taxpayers furnish the necessary money for buying the school books and the scholars are supplied at actual cost, instead of paying dealers a profit as heretofore. By this scheme it is claimed that there will be a great saving to scholars. Aircady are heard many mutterings. There have been numerous changes in the text books adopted, so that parents, who have to buy new books for their children complain of this. Such complaint always attend any radical change n text books. The board justifies these charges, however, by the claim that school books grow antiquated very rapidly in this age of lightning progress. The geography of a few years ago, is scarcely recognizable today; and the same is true in other branches. The board has also secured a system of exchange, so that old books may be applied in the payment of new ones.

Other complaints arise, doubtless, from misunderstandings of the requirements, and it will be some days before the advantages and disadvantages of the new scheme can be determined fully.

It is claimed that the new state law is really designed for country school districts, and that while it may work well there, it is not practical for the independent school districts of cities. In the country districts there are lew books, and there is practically no competition among local dealers for often the trade is in the power of one storekeeper to control. In the cities where there are numerous book stores, and where druggists, dry goods deal ers and others frequently make school sup plies a mere leader, regardless of cost, com-petition prevents any undue price being The fact that the law forbids any compensation for the distribution of the books and supplies indicates that it was not intended to apply to cities. The president of the board is the real custodian and distributor, and he can get no pay for his trouble. In Council Bluffs, for instance, it is im-practical for President Wells, with his private business, to attend personally to the dis-tribution of these books and the making of sales and keening of accounts. It is, theresales and keeping of accounts. It is, therefore, arranged that one book dealer, in the central part of the city, shall attend to it for him without pay. The book dealer consents to this for the benefit he hopes to get from the advertising. The children coming to his store for books will naturally get other supplies there.

This causes complaint. Other dealers do not like to lose their trade, and they ac not not like to lose their trade, and they do not seem willing to submit. Some have stocks on band which they must sell at cost or eise keep. Some have decided to sell at less than cost rather than lose their trade. They can buy just as cheap as the school board buys. and if they sell for a few cents less than cost they claim that it will be better than to let their trade go, for with the loss of their school book trade they fear they will lose other trade. The prediction is made that this may result in the school board having a stock on hand, and the public money there tied up. Of course none but the offi-cial custodian can take old books in ex-change, so a certain portion of the trade must necessily go there in spite of other dealers.

Complaint is also made because only one custodian is appointed. President Wells ustifies this on the ground that he cannot afford to give time to watching over and checking up several deputy custodians. On the other hand it is urged that for the con-venience of the children there be several such distributing points, for several will have to go several niles to buy their books. Some urge that the principal of each school building should be a custodian and keep such books as are needed.

Some little friction is threatened because of the necessary cash system. Under no cir-cumstances can a parent got the needed books without cash in hand no matter how glit-edged may be his credit.

There are numerous such varieties of complaint. Time alone will demonstrate the practicability of the new scheme, and will doubtless teach both the officials and the patrons of the schools many new features.

The opening week, however, promises to make the air full of grunts and grouns.

BIG GAME FOR A LAD.

A Council Bluffs School Boy Helps Kill a Big Bear. Harry Lindsey, son of Z. T. Lindsey of Omaha, and who has spent much time with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Swan in Council Bluffs, bids fair to gain a reputation as a nimrod. Harry is at present visiting relativos in Wyoming and has just been on a round-up and on a hunt. One of the incidents would prove an exciting experience in the life of any boy. It is well told in Harry's own words in a private letter to his grandparents: "Uncle John and I got up before daylight to try and kill a deer, as we were out of fresh meat. The sage chickens have all been killed off by the stage crivers, who sell them in Rawlins. Weil, what do you think we killed! Why, a full grown black bear, which weighed about 500 pounds. We were coming home completely disgusted with hunting, as we had been hunting for a week and hadn't killed a deer, when all at once I heard some-thing snort in a big berry patch, and then heard John yell "bear," and after him we went. At first he tried to run away from us, but after we had shot him once or twice, he got on the fight, and from that on he followed John trying to catch him. John was in front of him, while I was at the side, and both of us shooting every time we got a chance, but I can't shoot very accurate on the run, especially when I have a scured horse. I guess John can't either, for he ran about a mile and a half perfectly a scure of the state of th fore we killed him. I shot him twice. Once when he took after me I shot him in the neck, and once in the shoulder. John hit him three or four times, but the bear nearly got him once. It was within four feet of him, and going pretty fast too. Just then John shot him and down he went, to get up no more, for John got off his horse and shot him through the head, the ball going into his brain. I had a 44 Winchester repeater. and John a 45 Marlin. I tell you it was sport. It took Uncie Jimmy, (an old trapper who stays here), John and I about four hours to skin and dress him and bring him home. Uncle Jimmy says he was about as big as black bears get to be."

Neumayr's hotel on Broadway at the foot of Park avenue was raided last evening for gamblers by Officers Murphy, Wageck, and Weir. though the nature of the business was to a certain extent a mystery.

Last evening the above named officers entered the hotel from front and back doors simultaneously, and eve men were bagged in the act of "shootin" craps," at five cents a shot. They were taken to the police station, where they gave the names of Tom Hunter, Joseph Dougs, John Lovelace, Frank Alien, and James Dilkes. Each of them had several dollars in his pocket, with the excepseveral dollars in his pocket, with the exception of Dilkes, who had been acting as "capper" for the outfit and was consequently "broke," Several greennorns who had been beaten out of their nickles stood around the door outside, but as there was no evidence against them they were not taken in charge by the

The whole outfit was connected with Burk's show, which has been exhibiting in the western part of the city for several days past. The show finished up its business here on Saturday and this morning will go to Omaha. Before leaving, however, they had to have one final grab at the Bluffs verdants and that one grab proved to be one too many. Immediately after the arrest a large delegation of show people came to the station and evinces an ardent desire to get their unfortu-nate brothers out on bonds. They were informed that the charge against the men was gambling, and that being a state case their bonds could not be fixed until this morning. They left the station after making a pitcous request that the affair be kept out of the papers, as they were afraid if it were pubshed their business might be injured. One of the parties who was arrested was a member of the band and another was the ticket agent. "The City Directory" is a maker of records. Manager John Russell is not content with setting the pace for all farce comedy organizations, but occasionally branches out as a record maker in other fields. The intest feat in that line was the bringing of "The City Directory" company from Denver to Omana on a special train and making the fastest run that has ever been accomplished between those two cities. The company played in Denver Saturday night, left after the performance and arrived in Omaha at 4:30 yesterday afternoon. The annihilation of space was at the phenomenal rate of sixty miles an hour for a large porrate of sixty miles an hour for a large por-tion of the distance, and even the experienced rainmen evinced some trepidation at the musual speed, but Russell was firm in his usistence that Omaha should be reached on ime and he had his way. The only seriou Schoolcraft turned so pale that he had to use a double amount of burnt cork in blacking up last night. Tonight Russell's comedians will give a special performance at Boyd's New Theatre in henor of Labor day. The prices will be moderate. There will be almost 300 seats in the balcony at the low

Thomas W. Keene's Chicago eagagement at McVicker's theater was a remarkable suc-cess in every particular. Chicago's astute cess in every particular. Chicago's astute newspaper critics who have hitherto been lukewarm in their treatment of Mr. Keene's art, praised him with liberal warmth. The extent of the business done is epitomized i a telegram received by Mr. Boyd yesterday. Its wording was: "Mr. Keene closed just night with the banner house in McVicker's theater and a record of five out of six nights to standing room only. How is that for the Mr. Keene's repertoire at the his week will be as follows: legitimate!" Mr. Reche's repertoire at the new Boyd this week will be as follows: Thursday evening. "Richelieu;" Friday evening, "Louis XI;" Saturday matinee, "The Merchant of Venice;" Saturday night, "Richard III." Regular prices will prevail. egitimate!" Will O. Wheeler, manager of the Patti

Rosa company, is in the city and announces the engagement of Omaha's favorite comedienne to open at Bovd's new theater next Sunday night. An interesting feature of her appearance here will be the production of the new play "Dolly Varden," written by Mr. Charles T. Vincent. This play received its premier in Council Bluffs last Saturday and achieved an emphatic success in the freely expressed judgement of a large audience. Some changes in the personnel of Miss Rosa's company are noted. Mr. Will Mandeville, late principal comedian of "The Little Ty coon," and Mr. Joe Canthorn are recent ad ditions. As for Miss Rosa herself she is the same charming Patti as of yore and her weicome by her Omaha admirers will evidence the regard in which she is held.

The annual appearance of "The City Directory" is always welcom a with pleasure. But this year its appearance was heraiden with a great flourish of trumpets. Omahans were expected to get thearwives into the astonishing mood; they were told that in the line of farce comedy unusual things were about to transpire, that former efforts were to be eclipsed, and that the theatrical firmament was to shive resplendent under a galaxy of well known stars in new constella

Fifteen hundred and some offd people who had the good fortune to be at Boyd's theater last night were not disappointed. From first to last in all its features, jointly and sev-erally. "The City Directory" emphasized its claims to being one of the best, if not the best, farce comedies en tour. It has been entirely re-written; the situa-tions have been made much more legitimate and the introduction of Swetnam, Daly and Schoolcraft has added immensurably to its popularity. John Russell, who has yet to score a failure, has in this clever farce a winner for years to come.

Whether Swetnam's versatility, Daly s grotesqueness, or Schoolcraft's unctousness deserves the greatest praise, is a matter very difficult to decide. Together they are an Omens and Coincidences. "Do I believe in omens? Well, I don't cnow. I certainly believe in coincidences. An acquaintance of mine who was interested in getting up a statue to a famous man came to my house to look at a picture and a plaster bust I hap-pened to have. After he had gone I picked up the book I had been reading and had nearly finished. You can be lieve I was astonished when I came to its closing words: 'What is fame?' A wretched pictore and a worse bust.
