ONE OF THOSE FUNNY THINGS.

Singular Course Pursued in Choosing Furniture for the City Hall.

OMAHA BIDDERS QUIETLY IGNORED.

Bait Spread by Foreign Houses with a View to Capturing a Fat Contract—Food for Thought.

There are some things connected with the city council and the manner in which that body conducts city business that surpasses anything that has ever occurred here.

Time and again stories have been repeated upon the streets that members have hoodled and taken bribes from contractors and other parties who have been interested in contracts, or wanted jobs put through according to the most approved style.

Some two months ago the council decided to advertise for bids for furnishing the new city hall with furniture. Bids were published in due form and a short time thereafter agents for the Ketchum Furniture company of Toledo, O., and the Andrews Furniture company of Chicago appeared upon the scene.

These gentlemen were "mail fellows, well met," and soon made friends by the score. They established themselves in the city and met in the city, and in their rooms entertained like kings.

One night at a regular meeting of the proposals were opened for the inspection of the council. They were not intelligible, and consequently the council was obliged to instruct the bidders to re-submit them.

Why All This Was Thus. One night at a regular meeting of the proposals were opened for the inspection of the council. They were not intelligible, and consequently the council was obliged to instruct the bidders to re-submit them.

It is common street talk that in this matter the councilmen have been bought and sold like sheep, and that a small number of men acted for an outside furniture company.

Mr. Davis consulted with his colleagues and it was decided to take the fellow's money as soon as the council was called together, and the matter was closed.

It has been an open secret for many days that the furniture company had deposited the sum of $4,000 in one of the Council Bluffs banks. It has also been a fact that the money was for the purpose of bribing the councilmen.
